Canada In Conference

The annual report of the Department of External Affairs for 1950 shows that the Canadian Government was represented at a total of 168 conferences and meetings. Of these 21 were conferences of the United Nations and its main organs, for instance the Ad Hoc Committee on Statelessness and Related Problems (ECOSOC) held in New York; 46 were sessions of the United Nations specialized agencies, for instance the 110th session of the Government Body of the International Labour Office which met in Mysore, India, and the "Second Caribbean Region Air Navigation meeting and the Caribbean South American-South Atlantic Special Frequency Meeting," which was held last April in Havana, Cuba. Inter-governmental organizations convened 61 of the meetings, for instance that of the Commonwealth Foreign Ministers held in Colombo, Ceylon, the North Atlantic Military Committee which met at The Hague, Holland and the North Atlantic Council which met in London.

* * *

The existence, work and achievement of some of the conferences are widely known (for instance the Fifth Session of the General Council of UNESCO held in Florence), but there were lesser conferences which no doubt resulted in much good for Canada and the world at large. As we cast our eye down the list we note these: Meeting of Ad Hoc Sub-Committee of Expert Committee on Statistics of WHO held in Paris; Committee of FAO on Infestation Control and Safe Grain Storage which met at San Jose, Costa Rica; the Committee of Experts of UNESCO re: Universal Copyright Union, which met at Washington last October; International Convention for the Suppression of Forged Monies, held at The Hague in June (a Canadian R.C.M.P. officer attended); the Annual Meeting of International Whaling Commisison at Oslo in July; the Executive Committee of the International Institute of Refrigeration, which met in Paris in November.

Of the 168 conferences attended, 103 were held in Europe, of which 28 were in Geneva, 21 in Paris and 17 in London. Conferences convened in the Western Hemisphere numbered 55, of which 16 were held in New York, 16 in Washington, four in Montreal and three in Ottawa. Ten of the conferences attended by Canada were held in Asia and Australia, compared with only two in 1949. This is an indication of the growing interest Canada is taking in the South-East.

* * *

All these 168 conferences were attended by at least one Canadian representative with his staff; the delegations to some were quite impressive, because of both their size and the noted Canadians heading them. We suppose that the good that results from such international conferences far outweighs the cost (the Annual Report of the Department of External Affairs does not indicate the total cost, including travel). We are sure that many of the banquets must have been as delightful as the sessions were ardent.

* * *

We should like to have been checking our hat at the conference for the Suppression of Forged Monies, and, for a lark, to have dined with the delegates to the meeting on Herring Technology at Bergen, Norway, or with the experts attending the Fifth Session of the International Tin Study Group in Paris last March. Six Canadian representatives (with staffs) attended that study group, most of them from our embassies in Europe. (O, Paris in the Spring!). Only two Canadians represented the Government at the Seventh Session of the Rubber Study Group held two months later in Brussels.

* * *

One function of these numerous conferences which the Department's Report does not mention is to give numerous civil servants of high and low degree the refreshment of a trip abroad. We dare say it is no holiday for them, and perhaps so many of them go so frequently that they think a jaunt to Paris or London quite dull, and envy fellow-clerks who may go as far as India, all expenses paid, of course. Right now, we would not object to a nice little conference only as far away as Washington. Washington in March is quite pleasant, we hear.

Conferences to which Canada is invited to send representatives are now so numerous that an International Conferences Section of the Department of External Affairs was established at the beginning of 1950 to sift the grain from the chaff. Perhaps the Department and its staff began to feel that there can be too much of a good thing.

Canadian Troops To Europe

Europe is the cradle of democracy and the chief achievement and repository of our civilization. In cherishing our civilization against the forces that would destroy it, therefore, Europe must be considered the chief citadel. It is at the same time and for the same reasons, the chief target of the destroyers. Prime Minister St. Laurent's intention to ask Parliament to authorize the sending of ground and air forces to Europe, in the command of General Eisenhower, is logical to the present international facts and should win unanimous approval of Parliament.

Important as the war in Korea may be in the global effort to contain Communism and defend the western democracies it is an appendix, a chapter of the main work. Canadians will be happier in their military commitments to Europe than they are in the contribution to the war in Korea because Canadian soldiers are not foreign to Europe, because Canada's chief trans-oceanic concern is eastward across the Atlantic rather than west across the Pacific, and because Europe is more important to the defence of Canadian democracy and the salvation of western civilization than Korea, China or the whole of the Orient.

Water Sports In Peterborough

It is a disappointment that the enlargement and remodelling of the sewage disposal plant will not be completed until the summer at earliest. The East City conduits are laid, but they are not connected yet with the main sewers across the lake because the sewage disposal plant could not handle the extra intake. Therefore raw sewage is still being dumped into Little Lake and the lake will be unfit for swimming and boating this summer.

It is a pity that this year, when aquatic sports in the Kawartha district are expected to be more extensive than ever, the very hub—the Otonabee and its widening at Little Lake in the heart of the city—will itself see none of them. Next August the International Dinghy championships, the chief dinghy meet in Canada, will be held at Clear Lake, and sixty or seventy craft with their crews from many parts of Canada and beyond will be in the district for this great sporting event. But there will be no sails in the sunset over Little Lake, not this summer. We patiently look forward to the day when its waters will be clear and clean, a limpid idyll in Kawartha Arcadia.

Kawartha Importance

Last year people in Peterborough, Lindsay, Port Hope, Cobourg and Oshawa and intermediate towns cashed cheques totalling 308 million dollars. That is an indication of the strong industrial and commercial activity in this Kawartha district.

Not all the cheques were pay cheques, by any manner of means, but, with average weekly earnings at $53.31 cents (December 1st figure) and this district of 215,400 population employing 4.9 of the total industrial labour force of the province, wages were a sizable part of the $308 million.

Payrolls increased and so did employment in this area; the largest percentage increase in employment in the province was in this Kawartha district.

With such a large purchasing power, increased industrial output and employment, who can doubt the increasing importance of this Kawartha-Lakeshore district in the economy of Ontario and Canada? The C.N.R. seems to doubt it; it wants to take up Peterborough's direct rail connection with Port Hope.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Narrow mindedness is often caused by wearing your halo too tight.

The crocodile, we read, can live for 90 days without eating. The crocodile is obviously in a position to laugh at the rising cost of living.

The Government will not really persuade us that this is a time of national crisis until they issue another order banning cuffs on men's trousers.

If the Chinese are really unable to pronounce the letter "r" how do they manage to denounce the U.S.A. as an aggressor?

A New Canadian, in this country three years, has been given an award by the Plastic Industry (Canada) Inc., for contributions to the industry. Now listen for the squawks from Old Canadians, who have never contributed anything to anything, and want the country kept safe for ineptitude.

An Ontario child, now six years old, has been left a small fortune by a neighbour whose will expresses a wish that the child will grow up to amount to something. The child has already made up her mind: "I want to be a mother," she has said. A very sound ambition, and we hope she makes a great success at it. We need more good mothers.

We read that the Prince Albert coat, which most of us can remember, was named for the prince who later became Edward VII, and not for the Prince Consort. And it was for this same prince that the Albert watch-chain was named—that ponderous decoration of politician's stomachs, which looked like a plated logging-chain.

Diary of March Misery

by SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

SUNDAY: Watched some children skating this morning, and reflected that children today seem to do things better and more easily than when I was a child. I recall skating with my playmates when I was a lad of nine or ten; we did most of our skating on our ankles, and fell down with dismaying frequency. We tried to distract attention from our ineptitude by shouting loudly, and making faces which we believed to be like those of the big hockey stars of the day, but no one was deceived—not even ourselves; we were frauds, and we knew it. The modern child seems also to be better at arithmetic than my generation; I clearly recall that the arithmetic lesson was the bugbear of the day; now, by some magic which defies my understanding, they do all those problems about papering rooms and sawing wood without hesitation. The modern child is a better child than I was, which pleases me, though it is a little depressing, as well.

MONDAY: Why is it that people who call me on the telephone to complain, or impart distressing news, always do so when I am eating? This is one of the great mysteries of life, and lends weight to the belief of the spiritualists that there are vast areas of understanding and experience which we have not yet probed. I am sure that the people who have bad news for me know, in some deep, half-conscious way, that they are going to set my 'phone a-ringing just as I raise some delicious morsel to my mouth. There was such a call today at noon: this evening there was another. I suppose I was lucky to have negotiated a breakfast without rushing to the 'phone . . . This evening I stood, my napkin still clutched in my hand, listening to somebody who was suffering from a sense of grievance, but whose woes were too vast to be made plain in words. At last I gathered that I was personally not responsible for his trouble, and with five minutes of closely-reasoned oratory, I half convinced him that I was powerless to set it right. I then left the telephone, before he had time to embark again upon his passion-warbled plaint, and returned to my omelet, which had grown cold and rubbery in my absence.

✧ ✧ ✧

TUESDAY: Met a man today whom I have known for many years, but who wore a strange look which, for a time, baffled me. Then I knew what was wrong; it was his hair. He must be wearing a wig, I thought. "That wig is a very good match," said I, genially. "What wig?" said he, coldly. "Do you mean to say it's not a wig?" said I. "I have been cutting my own hair," said he, "in order to combat inflation and the rise in barber's fees." "That's very enterprising of you," said I, "but oughtn't you to use scissors?" "I used scissors, of course," said he, with what I suppose he thought was icy hauteur. "What! You mean to say you didn't do that with a knife and fork?" said I. He stalked away, offended . . . Perhaps my criticism was a little severe; in reality it looked as though mice had been nibbling at it. These amateur barbers always chop off too much at a time. The secret of cutting hair is never to have more than ten hairs in the jaws of the scissors at one time. In that way a neat and pleasing effect may be obtained . . . I once knew a boy whose father cut his hair; the father lacked art in this respect, and never strove to acquire it. The boy committeed suicide two years ago at the age of forty. Retroactive shame? I have often wondered about it.

✧ ✧ ✧

WEDNESDAY: To a funeral today. Funerals at this time of year are grim affairs. I stood in the cemetery with my hat off for a considerable time, while a gale blew up my coat at the back, out of my collar and over my head, and then down the front of my coat and out at my feet. I will do as much as any man to see the dead fittingly bestowed, but at a March funeral I sometimes wonder whether I will not soon be the star attraction at one of these solemn gatherings myself . . . The clergy do not get enough credit, it seems to me, for their activities in this direction; they are expected to turn out in all kinds of weather to funerals. Occasionally I read of churches presenting their pastor with a new gown or set of vestments; perhaps a couple of suits of fleece-lined underwear would not come amiss . . . As the funeral was at a great distance from my home, it was necessary to drive over a hundred miles home after it, and as I drove, I strove to warm myself by bouncing in my seat, kicking my feet together, clapping my hands, and so forth. But it was not until I reached home and crept into a bed containing three hot-water bottles, that I dispelled the chill. I have heard of people being frozen to the marrow, but this was my first experience of it.

✧ ✧ ✧

THURSDAY: It is at this time of year that a restless discontent overtakes me. I wish that I were somebody else, doing something else, in an entirely different place. I weary of my body and its tiresome needs: I weary of my mind, and the quirks and tricks which make it such an irritating and unsatisfactory instrument. I wish that I were like Douglas Fairbanks in one of his silent films, rushing from one adventure to another, leaping, shouting, fighting, and never for an instant troubled by responsibility, thought or fear of the police. It is this winter discontent which makes Canadians so akin to the Russians and Scandinavians in temperament. We pretend to be bustling North Americans, but we are all characters out of Ibsen; a few, perhaps, are characters out of Tchekov.

✧ ✧ ✧

FRIDAY: Andre Gide, one of the greatest literary figures of our time, died a couple of weeks ago, and although I see twenty-five Canadian newspapers every day, I saw mention of the fact in only one of them. It is a curious fact of Canadian journalism that the death of one of the world's great writers cannot command an inch of type, but the death of a Canadian sports writer, or editor, or reporter is bemoaned in columns of prismatically-coloured prose, and the public is urged to rend its garments and heap ashes on its head . . . I am no student of Gide's works, but I often dip into his published "Journals"; they are full of things which strike a responsive chord in my nature. For instance: "Impossible to find in my library the books for which I have the most urgent need" (an old trouble of mine); "Certain days life has such a bad taste that one would like to be able to spit it out" (especially in March); "Indescribable torpor and langour . . . .no desire to write" (chronic in my case). A great man, Gide, but for the newspapers of Canada he appears to have lived in vain. Doubtless his memory will survive their indifference.

THE HOUSE OF TOMORROW

Letters To The Editor

BOARD'S ACTION UNWARRANTABLE

Sir: Thank you for your editorial in regard to the Summer Theatre. Prima facie the people of Peterborough are to be deprived of pleasure and entertainment because of the action of an aggressive citizen.

It is barely credible that the Board of Education has been influenced in its decision by a single individual but it is highly improbable that a majorty of residents in the immediate vicinity of the Queen Mary auditorium have joined in their selfish action.

In view of the wide spread public interest at stake in this matter the Board should he required to publicly make its case for declining the use of the auditorium and publish the name of the complainant.

The Examiner can render no better service to its public than to press persistently for a reversal of this unwarranted and arbitrary decision.

Yours very truly,
W. A. BROWN

LIKES SCENTED NEWSPAPER

Sir: I went out to get my paper today. Staying a little longer than I intended to. Before going to the Post Office I was accused of being out with another woman when I brought home your scented paper.

However, the small explanation on page 13 saved me from divorce action.

I later found that a scented paper has great possibilities. One: you do not have to look for the date on a back issue you can smell the paper out. Two: the smell can be changed each day. Say the smell of pine for the tourist edition.

Which also gives the garbage pale a lovely smell, when you use the old papers for wrapping garbage.

It also saves me money, as I do not have to buy air fresheners and deodorants for the house. As your Desert Flower has been far more effective than any commercial deodorant for killing unpleasant household odours.

I hope you keep on scenting the papers.
A PLEASANT SMELLING SUBSCRIBER

BRING REASON TO BEAR

Sir: May I join the ranks of those citizens who are expressing keen disappointment at the probability of having no Summer Theatre this year. Mr. Sadlier's players gave so much pleasure to such a large number of citizens and visitors, and gave Peterborough so much of the right kind of publicity, that to lose them is a great pity.

One can well appreciate the action of the School Board, so well expressed by Dr. Honey, and one also feels that the complainant, who by all account is a public spirited citizen, must have had some real provocation for his complaint.

However, it has been my experience that whenever people of good-will make a real effort to find a solution to a problem, that solution can be found. If there has been objectionable noise on Sundays, the scenery could probably be constructed elsewhere in movable sets. If driveways have been blocked, surely the police would cooperate in controlling parking. One feels, I hope not over-optimistically, that if the parties involved could be brought together, perhaps by someone like Mr. Robertson Davies who has done so much for the theatre in Peterborough, the matter could be adjusted to everyone's satisfaction.

Mr. Sadlier is wise not to consider the Collegiate Auditorium as the size, modernity, and chairs of the Queen Mary Auditorium did much to ensure the Summer Theatre's success.

Yours very truly,
J. L. McKEEVER

SIMPLE SOLUTION TO THEATRE PROBLEM

Sir: Your editorial and letters from Mr. Sadlier with reference to the Summer Theatre and the Queen Mary Auditorium have been read by me with much interest.

It seems to me a very simple solution to this matter would be to arrange to let the Summer Theatre have the Queen Mary Auditorium on the understanding that there be no outside Sunday activities and also with the understanding that all automobiles would be parked on the west side of the school grounds and not in front of the homes of residents in that district. There is room enough on the school grounds if the drivers came in off Albertus to accommodate three hundred cars in rows without any crowding whatever. Actually this would serve a double purpose inasmuch as the motorists would not be running the risk of having their cars damaged while parked on city streets.

It so happens that I am one of those who have thoroughly enjoyed the Summer Theatre and I express the hope that nothing will interfere with the productions at the Queen Mary Auditorium this summer.

Concerned,
THEATRE FAN

DISAPPOINTMENT TO YOUNG PETERBOROUGH

Sir: A Student's opinion of a matter such as our Summer Theatre might seem unusual, however, contact with some of the wonderful personalities that might never return to Peterborough, prompted these few views.

Peterborough audiences have been termed "difficult" by many visiting entertainers, but we subtly refer this to discrimination. In the case of Mr. Sadlier and his Company, there was great enthusiasm. Two summers of successful theatre support proves this. Isn't there something rather ridiculous about the little pin-prick attempting to be a stab in the back of a healthy two year old achievement? Perhaps we aren't noted for extremities in enthusiasm, but must the heat from Peterborough's industrial efforts vapprize the rare splashing of culture that 2,000 of us are in anticipation of, during the summer months?

Discouragement of these ventures can even be felt by the "teen-ager." It should be realized that among the young people of our city there are potential talents, and genuine interests in pursuit of the fine arts. Is our city's coldness towards the appreciation of culture going to drive these future citizens and their native abilities to the glamour and lights of more appreciative, and more distant audiences than their own friends and families?

If the complaints were truly of a serious nature, impediments to environment, or destruction of property, then there would be sufficient evidence for rightful objection; but the Queen Mary Auditorium, is situated at a considerable distance from any nearby homes, in this respect its being a nuisance is quite unlikely.

Whether we walk past the most beautiful, empty auditorium in the district this summer, grumbling about the vacancy of tax monuments; or attend with anticipation the entertainment that can be enjoyed there, should be a matter important enough to be decided upon before the opportunity passes.

Theatre in Peterborough, should not be restricted only to 46 cent matinees, where young and old alike can be exposed to popcorn, peanuts, and colour cartoons.

Thank you,
A YOUNG THEATRE-GOER

SCOTSMAN SPEAKS UP FOR CANADA

Sir: I am a Scottish emigrant, with three children and wife. I have been in Canada for three and a half years to date. I spent some $1200 bringing myself and family here. I note the letters of "Disgusted" and "Gerald Tully". The letters in both cases speak for themselves. I have no dislike for the English generally as I have been in England and worked there, but there seems to be a superiority complex over Canadians in both cases, and this is the reason for finding themselves the "odd people out" as it were. In the case of Disgusted, she left a land where, according to the government, there is every chance for a child to flourish, and came here to the "land of the free" and complains because nobody gave her a handout.

Gerald Tully, says there are free passages to Newfoundland and Australia. I tried in 1937 to 1939, to go there and was turned down because I was a married man, and again I could not even book a passage there after the war and finally came to Canada. The final passage of his letter should have been deleted; there were many dodgers in England too, and is in my opinion an insult to Canadians who lie buried on foreign shores.

It would seem Disgusted forgets that since she left prices have risen very sharply in Britain and that even with Britain's vast housing projects there are many houses and rooms to let, with proviso's; No Children, Must Buy Furniture, and Must Buy Fittings, in all cases this is "key" money or extra money over the agreed rental, and in nearly all cases fittings and furniture are worthless. It would take up to three years to rent one of these houses, unless of course one knows the "right" people. But perhaps Disgusted would be able to share with some relative in crowded conditions if she were to go back to England.

Speaking of superior craftsmanship, I have memories of jerry-built houses in Liverpool, and other Scottish and English cities where walls cracked badly, floors buckled, doors warped and were sold to the gullible public for a small down payment, and for rent also. The British product speaks for itself, but it is for export. There are many of my fellow-craftsmen in Scotland and England who were plodders and whom the experts have to carry along with them. This is the case in any country today. I have seem men of my own trade land here in Canada who, far from being experts, will not even be plodders.

Canada is suffering from birth pangs in assuming national status and while she has many shortcomings she has also much to be proud of. Our one complaint of the moment is that it costs so much for medical and hospital treatment, but I understand this will be taken care of in the fullness of time. Every man or woman, no matter what part of the world they are in, have a part to play in fitting into the communal life of the country, and people have to adapt themselves to that way of life if they are to succeed in becoming established, and that can be done only by co-operation and "digging" for onself. Canadians are naturally proud of their attainments and are anxious to win approval from the experts from over the seas and they naturally resent being criticized all the time. That fine transport service, and the North Star planes of the T.C.A. is something to be proud of. I did not find it hard to get all the information I required from people who had lived here and in the U.S.A. and did not rely on colourful posters and boastful emigration officials before setting out for Canada. I regard my $1200 as a good investment, even though I have had on occasions to seek work outside Peterborough. It will not take long for Disgusted and others to earn the fare back to Britain, something it took a good many years to do in that country.

PROUD SCOT.

ENJOYED RECITAL SERIES

Sir: For my family and myself may I express to the management of the Examiner our appreciation of the series of piano recitals which we have so much enjoyed.

The program last Monday evening was a splendid one and we were particularly enthused over the joyous Beethoven Sonata. In this number Mrs. Green displayed her marvellous command over the key board.

We trust the Examiner will be able to arrange for future recitals for the next concert season.

Very truly,
F. P. McNULTY

SATURDAY: For the first time this winter, listened to the Metropolitan Opera broadcast this afternoon; it was "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "I Pagliacci," which the ribald call "Cav and Pag," and "the ham and eggs of opera." Both pieces deal with betrayed husbands who kill the lovers of their wives. It is this violence of emotion which gives opera its attraction; in real life such problems are met, not with a quick and dramatic stroke of the dagger, but by long and boring arguments, meetings in lawyers' offices, and by complicated letters. It is only among the lower orders of society that jealousy and betrayal are matters for the shotgun; one rarely reads of anybody earning over $2,000 a year resorting to such methods to avenge his honour; between the $2,000 and the $200,000 class, marital infidelity is dealt with in the dreary, savourless manner I have already mentioned above. The rich and the poor can afford deep passions and violent actions. The great middle class, obsessed by one passion only, and that the ignoble passion for respectability, does not dare to cut loose. But it is the middle class which supports opera, squatting in the darkness of those auditoriums, wallowing vicariously in murder, seduction, and every species of musical assault and battery.

(From the Authorized Version)

All the kings of the earth shall praise thee, O Lord, when they hear the words of thy mouth....Though I walk in the midst of trouble, thou wilt revive me: thou shalt stretch forth thine hand against the wrath of mine enemies, and thy right hand shall save me.

The Lord will perfect that which concerneth me: thy mercy, O Lord, endureth for ever: forsake not the works of thine own hands. (Ps. 138: 4, 7, 8.)

Minerals In Kawarthas Attract Promoters Trapping Lags With Commerce Advance

By HOWARD PAMMETT, M.A.

As timber industry and forest fires swept over the eastern and northern townships, many settlers found mineral veins on their stony farms which might console them for the scarcity of good farming land. Poole's History 1867 mentioned the chief wealth of northeast Belmont as its iron and marble deposits, "both of which need but capital and enterprise, joined with some means of transit to the frontier, to render them richly productive." The Cobourg, Peterborough & Marmora Railway & Mining Company operated its Blairton mine and its Marmora Iron Works at a loss 1867-68, broke even 1869-70, and began showing a small profit in 1871. Ore was shipped by rail from Blairton to the Trent River, by barge to Harwood, by train to Cobourg, by ship across Lake Ontario, and by train to Pittsburgh.

MEN'S FAULTS

Women's faults are many,
Men have only two;
Everything they say,
And everything they do.

—From an Arab Proverb

100,000 tons were shipped by 1873, when depression stopped the export. Blairton in the early '70s had 700 people, of whom 300 were miners, with seven stores, four hotels, four liveries, two saloons, two bakeries, and other shops. Near Marmora townsite the company built two blast furnaces to turn out their own pig iron, five tons daily for $15 a ton. A little settlement grew up close by, with 12 dwelling-houses and several boarding-houses for workers, a sawmill and a flour mill, a post-office, and several stores. To the south the company had a quarry from which they obtained superior lithographic stone.

Lord Dufferin Visits

In the summer of 1874 Governor-General Lord Dufferin, Lady Dufferin and their party came from Cobourg as guests of the CPMRM, sailed from Harwood on the Isaac Butts to Hastings, where Reeve Tim Coughlin delivered an address, and continued on to visit the Blairton and Marmora Works, returning by the same route (to the indignation of other communities led by Peterborough and Lindsay). The Blairton mine was abandoned by 1879; before the Grand Junction and Toronto & Ottawa Railways, passing nearby, could provide more convenient transport, the rich Lake Superior iron deposits were being exploited, and in spite of sporadic efforts, the Marmora-Blairton deposits were not reopened. By 1884 Blairton's population was down to 100.

In Belmont, Galway, Chandos, Anstruther, iron-bearing rock was uncovered in many places. In Belmont and Chandos gold was found in small quantities; H. T. Strickland of Lakefield was selling stock in his project, Marmora Gold Mines Ltd. Galway just south of Kinmount had lead and plumbago, it was said. Copper was discovered in Chandos and other townships. Farther north, iron deposits were found at several places in Snowdon township, and the Snowdon Iron Mine Company was formed by Toronto speculators. In 1879-80 a six-mile railway was built to the Victoria line and $60,000 spent in getting out 1,000 tons of ore to be shipped to the United States, but it was of inferior quality and the mine was abandoned.

In 1880, Parry & Mills, two Chicago promoters, leased a part of the Snowdon property and built a smelting furnace to produce charcoal iron, spending $40,000 before they suspended operations. In Lutterworth another deposit was found and a cargo shipped from the Paxton mine, four miles by wagon to the Victoria line, en route for Cleveland. Extensive iron deposits were found in Glamorgan, Dysart and Havelock, and several other townships. None of it was of sufficiently high quality to warrant capital investment under the conditions of the 1870s-1880s; this also applied to traces of gold, silver, iron and copper in Somerville, Dalton and Laxton to the west.

Increasing amounts of Kawartha limestone and Laurentian granite were quarried, but mostly as yet for local building and not for export from the district.

Fur-Trapping

On the thousands of little lakes and streams of the Kawartha back country, trapping was excellent from Indian times. Beaver, otter, muskrat, bear, wolf, marten, mink and fox were plentiful, and it was natural that the early settlers of the northern townships should turn to trapping in winter and spring. In good years some made as much as $500 for a winter's work. Buyers came from Toronto and Peterborough to Mount Julian, Burleigh, Boycaygeon, Kinmount and Haliburton to buy the furs each spring. But lumbering and settlement quickly killed off the wild animals, and by 1878, when the Victoria Railway reached Haliburton village, the best trapping was in the northern range of townships east of Dorset, and north into Nipissing (now Algonquin Park). Some of the leading Dorset trappers were James Sawyers, Jack Archer, Jos. Mossington, Tom Salmon, Sam Vanclief, and Isaac Bice.

The few Algonquin Indians remaining in the area could not compete with white trappers, and moved north and west; as a result the Hudson Bay Company closed its posts at Orillia, Lake of Bays, etc., as soon as the fur trade turned south to Haliburton railway terminus. The trappers went north in early fall and came out again before freezeup, down the Bobcaygeon Road or down Kushog Lake by canoe, to the Haliburton fur auction in November, where eight to ten buyers would be waiting. According to A. Saunders' interesting book, "Algonquin Story" (Department of Lands & Forests), each buyer examined the furs and wrote on a paper what he offered; from these bids, the trapper would sell for the highest offer. After buying supplies, the trappers headed home to Dorset or their nearby farms, possibly to a lumber camp. In the depth of winter, between January and March, they headed north again to their traplines, coming out in spring for a bigger fur auction at Haliburton.

Wages and Prices

District wages mostly fell in this period, but as prices declined 20 to 50 per cent also, real wages were not much changed; annual wages averaged as follows: (the 1871 rate is given first, then the 1881):—

Gasworks $516, $600; Stone and marble works 400 (1871); Implement and tool factories 385, 317; Sash and door mills 375, 275; Foundries 370, 498; Flour and grist mills 350, 317; Print shops 345, 275; Tin and sheet-iron shops 335, 340; Breweries 325, 320; Cabinet and furniture shops 325, 271; Bakeries 320, 263; Tanneries 300, 351; Blacksmithies 300, 206; Boot and shoe shops 295, 297; Saddle and harness shops 295, 270; Pump factories 295, 348; Meat-packing plants 280, 136; Cooper shops 275, 200; Carpenter and joining shops 260, 183; Woollen, carding and fulling mills 225, 180; Sawmills 200, 169; Tailor shops 195, 227; Dressmaking shops 195, 108; Asheries 190, 289; Shingle and planing mills 125, 117; Brick and tile works 120, 182; Cheese factories 110, 176; Lime kilns 50, 42; Boat work, 276 (1881).

Algonquin Park Is Conservation Gem

"...For the benefit, advantage and enjoyment of the people of the Province..."

It was 57 years ago, in 1893, that these impressive words of dedication were written into Ontario annals with the passage of the Algonquin Park Act, by the Legislative Assembly of the Province of Ontario.

Today, despite passage of the years, the encroachment of civilization and the rapid yearly increase of tourist pressure, "The Park" remains a virtually unspoiled wilderness of lake, stream and fores. abounding in beauty and creatures of the wild.

The entrance to this magnificent territory is only 90 air miles from Peterborough, and an easy journey by car either through Minden (western end) or Bancroft (south-eastern end). Actually, part of the Park lies in Haliburton county.

It is a monument, preserved for all time, to the men whose wisdom and foresight more than half a century ago made it possible today for the holidayers, the artists, the fishermen and photographers to "lose" themselves in a vast unspoiled realm of Nature of almost 3,000 square miles.

Although the Park at its inception was dedicated to the people of Ontario for their own "benefit, advantage and enjoyment," each year has seen a steadily rising influx of non-residents within its boundaries.

94,930 Visitors

During a 12-month period, for instance, Department of Lands and Forests records show that a total of 43,165 permits were issued at the Park gates authorizing 94,930 persons to enter. Of these, 23,566 were non-residents representing every state in the United States and the countries of Cuba, England and Mexico. Over the years visitors from almost every corner of the globe have travelled to the Park to enjoy its fishing grounds, revel in its scenery and watch, study or photograph wild animals in their natural environment.

Credit for the establishment of the Park goes to Alexander Kirkwood who, prior to its establishment, was a clerk in the office of the Ontario Department of Crown lands, now the Department of Lands and Forests.

Through his work Kirkwood came to realize that the Algonquin area with its high hills, lakes, streams and dense forests would make a natural timber reservation, a sanctuary for wildlife and a permanent recreational area for the people of the province. Its watershed was also the source of supply for the Muskoka, Petawawa, Bonnechere and Madawaska rivers, and these could be protected.

As a result of the recommendations of Mr. Kirkwood to his commissioner, the Hon. T. B. Pardee, the machinery was put into motion that eventually resulted in Algonquin Park becoming a reality.

Saved From Extinction

At the time the area was set aside many animals such as the moose and deer were in danger of extinction and many lakes were almost depleted of fish.

Yet today in this vast tract, little more than 200 miles from Toronto, and bordering on heavily farmed and populated areas the visitor may see numerous moose feeding on the lily root, watch the white-tailed deer sporting along the roadside and catch glimpses of almost every species of wild-life native to Ontario in all sections of the Park.

That the area retains its natural wildness is not by accident, however. The Department of Lands and Forests which has the responsibility of administration and protection, and rigidly enforces the special Park regulations, must maintain a constant vigilance and control of the area.

No one, residents included, may enter the Park without a permit. No one, including residents, may fish in the Park without an angling licence. No hunting or trapping of any kind is permitted. Fire patrol is constant, and the person who is in the habit of being careless with smoking materials or camp fires would do well to avoid Algonquin Park.

Building regulations are stiff and only those lodges or campsites absolutely necessary for proper accommodation have been permitted and then by lease only.

A constant nature program is underway and includes all phases, for the Park was not set aside for the angler alone but for every nature lover of any age.

Restocking

Natural restocking has been the aim for all forms of wildlife, but each year a generous fish restocking program is carried out. A fisheries research laboratory has been established at Lake Opeongo. Fishermen in the Park are urged at all times to fill out the creel census cards available. This way a check on fishing success is obtained and by this means and other investigations research workers can tell by fact—rather than by rumour—whether the fish populations are remaining steady. A close check is maintained and certain lakes are alternately closed to fishing to ensure that the populations remain balanced.

Research also is constantly underway to protect and further wildlife. One research station is located at Lake Sasajewun. Here some 30 square miles have been reserved for the study of birds and animals in their natural environment. To maintain the area as undisturbed as possible it has been closed to the Public.

Algonquin Park has not just been preserved, it has grown. Since it was founded new land has been added until now it is almost twice its original size. Dense second growth forest has gradually healed the wounds of fire and the scars left by the old-time logger.

Truer Wilderness Today

It is, in fact, more a true wilderness today than it has been since the days when the shouts of the logger of the old "Camboose Camps" echoed down the forest aisles.

Had the Park not been established and the regulations with regard to timber cutting and hunting continually enforced the area where the Park stands would probably have been denuded and its wildlife depleted. Instead, Algonquin Park is a green gem of natural beauty set amidst the clutter of civilization and a health, pleasure and sport mecca "for the benefit, advantage and enjoyment of the people of the Province"... and their guests from other lands.

Otonabee River Swim Speed Shows In Waters of Canal

By RICHARD F. CHOATE

Reference to the records reveals that the date of the Corson-Strickland swim from Lakefield to Peterborough, which was the subject of a recent story in The Examiner, was Monday, July 17, 1905.

Informative in several important respects are the records of 45 years ago. The notation showing the comparative rates of speed as between the Otonabee River and the Canal stretches respectively is especially instructive because of the light it throws on the water conditions confronting the swimmers of the time (conditions which are pretty much the same today). Time made in the river section was much better, of course, than in the canal.

A news report of the event published at the time is reproduced below. It should not be inferred that the event was a race. It was a non-competitive workout in which the two participants, George H. Corsan and Harry T. Strickland, were trying their skill against the varying water conditions. The two men proceeded a few yards apart, with the late R. M. Roy and the present writer dawdling along nearby in the steam launch, Rob Roy. There was no "winner" or "loser" in a competitive sense.

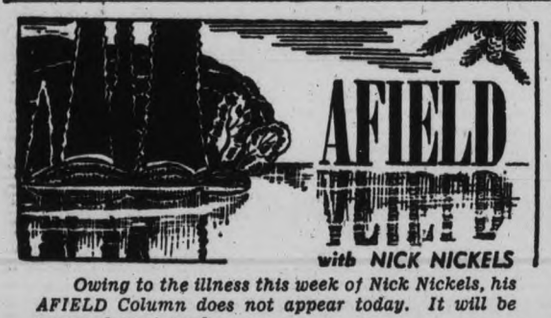
Mr. Corsan did not leave the water and go ashore at Nassau (which is some four miles above the Lift Lock, the swim goal) as one account has had it. When he had proceeded to the final reach, about a mile from the lock, he became ill and went aboard the launch. He ascribed his malaise to an over-hearty breakfast. Many times since, as he has recalled recently, he has made harder swims. He was at that time 46 years old, being Strickland's senior some 12 years.

The result was highly creditable to both men, Corsan having completed eight miles while Strickland continued for the full nine, setting a record.

Following is the despatch published in The Toronto Globe, July 18, 1905, written by the late F. R. Yokome, then The Globe's Peterborough correspondent, summarizing The Examiner's report of the preceding day:

Peterborough, July 17 (Special) —Today in the Trent Canal between Lakefield and Peterborough, a distance of over nine miles, the Canadian record for long distance swimming was established by Mr. H. T. Strickland of Toronto, but formerly of Peterborough, where he was born.

Mr. Strickland accompanied by Mr. G. H. Corsan, also of Toronto, instructor in swimming for the YMCA, left Lakefield at 8.10 this morning on the nine-mile swim to the lift lock at Peterborough, which was reached at 1.15 this afternoon, the actual time being 5 hours and 5 minutes, including 25 minutes which were occupied in passing through the five locks between this city and Lakefield. For five miles below Lakefield the route was through the Otonabee River, which forms part of the Trent Canal system, and in this five miles the best time was made. Nassau, the point at which the canal leaves the river, being reached at 10.30 a.m. When about a mile above the lift, or eight miles from the starting point, Mr. Corsan took sick and was taken into a yacht which accompanied the swimmers. During the whole distance, Mr. Strickland never touched bottom or the side of the canal, and when he came out of the water declared that he could have gone five miles farther. The event created considerable interest here, and there was an immense crowd at the lift lock to see the finish. Mr. Strickland was warmly complimented on his achievement.



A NICE BREAKFAST, LUNCHEON, OR SUPPER RELISH, FROM POTTED COLD BEEF

Having a joint of dressed beef, which cannot be consumed, proceed in the following manner: Drain the meat from gravy, pull it to pieces, and beat it in a mortar with mixed spices, and oiled fresh butter, till it resembles a stiff paste. Flavor it with anchovy, eschalot, chervil, or tarragon, dried and powdered. Put it into small potting cans, press down, and cover with plenty of clarified butter.

The more it is beaten in the mortar, the better it will be, and keep longer.

"Why did you leave your last place?" inquired a young housekeeper, about to engage a new servant. "Why, you see, ma'am," replied the applicant, "I was too good looking, and, when I opened the door, folks took me for the missus!"

Owing to the illness this week of Nick Nickels, his AFIELD Column does not appear today. It will be resumed next week.

Landscaping Site Needs Careful Plans, Right Plants

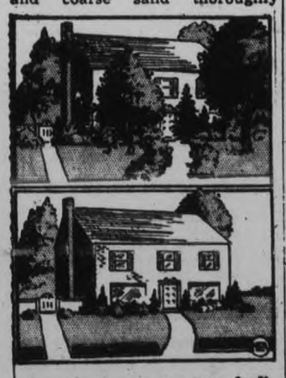
By HENRY PREE (NEA Service)

With thoughts of foundation planting in mind the home gardener should profit by the experience of the landscape architect who said, "You need not hide your entire house front with trees and shrubs, because your friends and neighbors will know it is there anyway."

Overplanting and failure to recognize that plants grow are important mistakes to avoid when making a foundation planting.

Many gardeners moving into recently constructed homes this spring are likely to have a soil problem common to all new developments. The contractor either stripped the lot of its topsoil or covered it up with the heavy clay excavation subsoil.

As a result, a soil-building program must get under way unless one can afford to purchase satisfactory topsoil. Since most available topsoil is more or less worn out, it is ofen more economical in labor and material to add manure or other organic matter plus fertilizer to your own clay soil.



A moderate amount of manure and coarse sand thoroughly worked into the soil will permit successful planting of trees and shrubs. One must be more generous with manure, however, when making preparations for the lawn and flower beds, as grass and flowers demand a well-enriched humus soil.

No plant is quite so graceful as a vine, or in many cases, so serviceable. Wisteria and clematis rank among the most beautiful flowers in cultivation, and at the same time they perform such prosaic work as covering fences and arches, shading porches and giving them privacy and disguising a builder's mistakes.

There is a catch in all this. The wrong one in the wrong place may revert to an untidy mass of foliage that will require hours of painstaking care.

It should be kept in mind, while selecting from the many attractive kinds pictured in the catalogues, that some vines can cling to a wall or a house without any additional props, while others need a wire, post or some such support.

Clinging species that attach themselves by rootlets can grow against flat surfaces without aid, so they are the ones to use on walls, fences and buildings. Twining vines that have to wind around posts or wires must be provided with something they can curl around. So must the vines that have tendrils or leafstalks for aid in climbing.

Overplanting is common fault. Remember that plants grow.

WHEN PLANTING foundation evergreens and lawn trees, be sure they don't grow up to hide the house. Lower sketch shows the better way of landscaping.

Gardening Questions

Q—We are interested in dwarf apple trees for our back yard. Please give some information. —R.G.

A—Dwarf apples, or Malling IX rootstock, planted 10 to 12 feet apart, ideal for the small garden. Early McIntosh, Milton, Cortland, Macoun, Delicious and Red Spy are all good. Plant so that the graft union is two inches above ground so the tree will remain dwarf. Stake and guy trees to prevent their blowing over when loaded with fruit. Spray regularly to control insects and disease and thus insure clean fruit. Be sure to plant a Cortland for cross-pollination.

Q—Please suggest a dozen or so easy to grow colorful perennials that will provide a maximum of bloom.—P. E.

A—The following basic dozen perennials rank high on nurserymen's lists of popular plants. Doronicum, iris, columbine, delphinium, peonies, and Oriental poppies for spring bloom; shasta daisy, gaillardia, day-lilies and phlox for mid-summer color; with chrysanthemums and asters for autumn display.

Q—How late in the spring may one apply a dormant fruit spray? —D. S.

A—Apply dormant sprays up to the time when the buds are almost ready to burst on fruits and other deciduous shrubs and trees.

NOTE ON QUESTIONS: Henry Pree is unable to answer directly individual questions from readers. However, with each column he will answer the most interesting and most frequently asked questions.

Dr. Johnson On Idleness

PERHAPS MAN is the only being that can properly be called idle.

* * * * *

TO DO NOTHING is in every man's power; we can never want an opportunity of omitting duties.

* * * * *

TIME, WITH ALL ITS CELERITY, moves slowly to him whose whole employment it is to watch its flight.

* * * * *

THE IDLER NEVER APPLAUDS his own idleness, nor does any man repent of the diligence of his youth.

* * * * *

AS PEACE IS THE END OF WAR, so to be idle is the ultimate purpose of the busy.

* * * * *

WE WOULD ALL BE IDLE if we could.

* * * * *

BUT, SIR, THE MIND MUST BE EMPLOYED, and we grow weary when idle.

That is, Sir, because, others being busy, we want company; but if we were all idle, there would be no growing weary; we should all entertain one another.

* * * * *

I HAVE RISEN EVERY MORNING since New Year's day, at about eight; when I was up, I have indeed done but little; yet it is no slight advancement to obtain for so many hours more, the consciousness of being.

Nurses Edge Out Lindsay, CGE Takes One Point Lead

Playoff basketball was featured in the girls' city league at the YWCA Friday night as the four teams in the weekly doubleheader kept their eyes on the scoreboard. The Nurses edged out the Lindsay Merchants in the first game of their two-game points-to-count series 27-21 while CGE shaded Blacks 15-14 in the first game of the other quarter-final series, two-game points-to-count. The return games will be next week.

Nurses took an early lead 3-0 in the first quarter on a basket by Anita Davis and a foul shot by Bev Pringle. Joan Plunkett and Bev Pringle with five points each, Mary Jane Collins and Anita Davis a basked each gave the Nurses a 17-7 score at the half. Marj Owen led the Merchants with five points, Isobel Green scoring the other basket.

The Merchants rallied in the third and were stronger on the quarter play to edge the Nurses 7-5 on points by Shirley Meath, Shirley Alger and Marj Owen. Anita Davis, Joan Plunkett and Pat Martyn notching the five points for Nurses. Lindsay continued to press in the fourth session and edged the Nurses again 7-5. Isobel Green, Marj Owen Shirley Meath and Shirley Alger all scored. Anita Davis had three and Bev Pringle a basket for the Nurses in the fourth.

Nurses' Anita Davis and Merchants' Marj Owen shared the scoring honors with nine points each. Bev Pringle had eight and Joan Plunkett seven for the Nurses.

Close Throughout

Although the score was close throughout in the second game, the CGE lasses managed to stay one or two points ahead. A series of foul shots by Fern Carveth, Mary Hodson and Pat Nixon combined with a basket by Nixon gave CGE a 6-5 score in the first quarter. Carol Ferguson, Rosie McInroy and Reta Naylor divided the Black's points. The teams dropped low in the scoring in the second relying chiefly on defensive play, both teams scoring only three points and making the first half end 11-8 for CGE.

The third quarter was a repetition of the second with CGE's Fern Carveth scoring a basket against Rosie McInroy's good foul shot for Blacks. The store girls had their best session in the last quarter when they outplayed and outscored the CGE'ers. Reta Naylor, Carol Ferguson and Rosie McInroy combined for five points while Barb Luther scored two foul shots for the CGE.

Fern Carveth matched the first game's scoring honors with nine points. Next in line was Reta Naylor for Blacks with seven.

Lineups:

First game—Lindsay (21) — Meath 5, Alger 3, Cullis, Copp, Robertson, Owen 9, Green 4, Hawkins, Jardine, Jordon.

Nurses (27)—Smith, Collins 2, Stackhouse, Deyell, Pringle 8, Davis 9, Plunkett 7, Jones, Martyn 1, Jex, Jaquith.

Second game—Blacks (14) — Naylor 7, Vint, Ferguson 3, McInroy 4, Metheral, McKee.

CGE (15)—Carveth 9, Hodson 1, Barry, Luther 2, Perrin, Nixon 3.

PCVS Seniors Get Title Over Whitby

Coach Bev Goulding's PCVS Garnet and Grey won the lakeshore COSA district basketball championship for the sixth straight time Friday night. As expected the PCVS quintet easily swept the championship from Whitby High by winning both games of the points-to-count series, the second in Whitby Friday night 69-27. This gave PCVS the series 141-48, the first game's score being 72-21 here a week ago.

During the past five years the COSSA championship has been won by PCVS only once. This year the Garnet and Grey will make their sixth attempt in the COSSA tournament next Saturday at Hart House.

Lanky Paul Frise came through Friday night with his best game of the season. Early in the game the PCVS cagers realized Frise, the pivot man, would have a good night and passed to him continually. Playing for all but the last two minutes Frise collected 19 points. His alternate, Al McIlraith, was absent with the flu.

Other Scorers

Al Northcott placed second for the scoring honors with 11 points while teammates Neil Thompson, Ted Evans and Don Ash, each scored nine. Whitby's top scorers were Sutherland with 10 and Moorhouse with eight.

Northcott, Thompson, Frise and Evans combined for 22 points in the first quarter as the Garnet and Grey clicked on the small court. Whitby only totalled six points at the same time. Whitby were stronger in the second quarter but the PCVS zone defence worked well also on the small floor. Whitby then tried long field attempts which were off the mark.

Whitby continued to press in the third quarter after PCVS led at the half 32-13. But again they were held off fairly well by the stiff defensive play by PCVS and only registered four baskets to PCVS' eight. The Garnet and Grey overpowered Whitby in the last quarter with seven baskets to Whitby's one, bringing the second half total for PCVS 37 points.

Lineups:

PCVS (69)—Young 5, Brown 4, Cranfield 3, Northcott 11, Thompson 9, Ash 9, Evans 9, Frise 19.

Whitby (27)—Sutherland 10, Moorhouse 8, Ward 4, Rowley 4, Levine 1, Robertson, Stott, Zalopa.

22 Nominees For 77th Kentucky Derby

By KYLE VANCE

LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 10 — (AP)—Churchill Downs today announced a list of 22 nominees for its 77th Kentucky Derby, including, as usual, all of the eligible stars of juvenile and winter racing.

The three-year-old hopefuls will line up for the big race May 5. The race will be worth $100,000 plus entry fees added by the owners.

Winter racing hasn't shown many outstanding horses that might take to the Derby's 1¼ miles, considered a rugged test for springtime three-year-olds.

Topping the current class of sophomore speedsters is Mrs. F. A. Genter's Rough 'n Tumble, winner of the recent Santa Anita Derby.

But that Kentucky-bred son of Free for All isn't by any means a standout. The nominees include such other "name" campaigners as George D. Widener's Battlefield, J. J. Colando's Uncle Miltie, Greentree stable's Big Stretch, Mrs. Nat Goldstone's Gold Capitol, Cain Hoy stable's Battle Morn and Duval A. Headley's Aunt Jinny.

Aunt Jinny is one of four fillies named for the Derby. There are 15 geldings and 103 colts on the list.

Wins Most Money

Battlefield's place of distinction on the list comes from his feat of winning $198,677 last year, the most money ever won by a two-year-old.

Uncle Miltie was top-weighted for Jamaica's experimental handicap, a system of assigning weights on the basis of what the horses did as two-year-olds.

Middleground, last year's winner, was the experimental choice.

Several prominent horsemen who have watched winter racing are on record as firmly believing that some horse not yet mentioned will develop between now and Derby day to take the big race.

One tip, though, is to watch Big Stretch, winner of three important stakes races last year. The Greentree color-bearer has been kept away from the winter tracks but is reported training well in South Carolina.

There are no Canadian-bred or Canadian-owned horses named for the 1951 Derby.

Walkerton Protest Dismissed By OHA

TORONTO, March 10—(CP)—A sub-committee of the Ontario Hockey Association Friday dismissed a protest by Walkerton against Bridgeport concerning a number of Bridgeport players who the Walkerton club alleged, were ineligible for the OHA intermediate "A" group.

The sub-committee heard the report of a private detective who investigated residential qualifications of a number of Bridgeport players.

The Bridgeport club withdrew a counter-protest concerning the eligibility of Bruce Small of the Walkerton team.

Queen Elizabeth Wins

Queen Elizabeth eliminated King Edward 3-2 in their senior School Hockey League semi-final game at the Arena. The winners now meet Queen Mary in a suden-death semi-final game at the Arena on Monday, the victor of that move into the finals.

Jim Hall had a goal and an assist, Wally Whitnell and J. Johnston getting the other goals for the winners, while C. Cameron had an assist. Both of the losers' markers were counted by D. Sutherland, one in the first frame and one in the second. It was 1-1 in the first and 2-all going into the third. Ron Ward and J. Sutherland got into a fight in a game generally free of penalties. Teams:

Queen Elizabeth — W. Harrison, Frise, G. Harrison, Lymburner ,Cameron, Willis, Tighe, Hall, Johnston, Ward, McMillan, Whitnell, Lyons.

The "Paunch Lines" took the ice as former National Hockey Leaguers battled veterans of the Vancouver Lions to a 1-1 draw at Vancouver three years ago tonight. Joe Jerwa scored for Lions and the old Montreal Maroon star Jimmy Ward got the equalizer. The benefit game had such old stars as Fred (Cyclone) Taylor, still a good stickhandler.

Picton Mayor Dies

PICTON, March 10 — (CP) — Mayor J. Clifford (Buff) Cooper, one of the promoters of the gold cup races in this Eastern Ontario town, died Friday night. He was 55 and was serving his first term as mayor. Mayor Cooper's death followed a trip to Florida in February. He had developed pleurisy during a cold spell there and then contracted pneumonia on his return here.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

None other than Whipper Billy Watson will show in his finest wrestling form here Tuesday night against his nibs Lord Athol Layton. Toronto papers have been beating the drums for some time to pit these two notable grapple exponents against each other, and lo and behold if Peterborough doesn't get the attraction. They're both fine specimens of athletic prowess, big, fast guys with lots of mat science and no ham-acting in their main bouts. It ought to please the large city and district following of the game. Rough Lee Henning meets Sonny Kurgis in the semi-windup, while George Scott faces Jack Wentworth in the prelim.

Comes an OLA notice of the annual meeting of the association in Toronto on April 14 at 1.30 in the Royal York. Amendments and bylaws must be filed by Mar. 26 and nominations for officers by April 5. The senior "A" Petes no doubt will get busy shortly and draft out any changes they'd like in the constitution and nominate a local man for one or more offices. As a full-fledged member of the senior "A" setup—with high hopes this year of really going places—the Peterborough club should take its rightful place in the governing end of the game. It is already doing its part in the playing end and in promoting minor lacrosse.

Bees Meet IOOF-ers

Puck fans won't forget the big playoff tonight at 8.30 in Civic Arena. First of the best-of-seven OHA junior "B" group finals betwixt Oshawa Bees and our Oddfellows. Sure to be a streamlined honey as both squads of hustling young hockeyists fight fiercely to grab off that first important victory. They go then to the Motor City on Monday with the third game possibly next Saturday here, though that hasn't been settled yet. With the Petes now in senior "A" playdowns for the Allan Cup, and the Eagles still in senior "B" group playoffs, it's impossible to name dates too far ahead with any accuracy. Anyway, tonight's tilt rates a hefty crowd.

Mike Rodden doesn't at all agree with the CP poll wherein the Varsity Grads of 1926-27 were rated as one of the best in Canadian hockey. Says he: "If it is factual—and it isn't—that the Grads were the greatest team produced in the last 50 years, Peterborough, London and Fort William must also have been vastly superior to the majority of other notable teams like Winnipeg Vics, the 61st Battalion, Toronto Granites, Port Arthur Bearcats, Soo Greyhounds, Kirkland Lake Blue Devils, Ottawa Senators and the 1919 Hamilton Tigers. So, let us not take too seriously the votes cast in favor of the Grads, a team that marched to the national throne under most favorable circumstances." Well, they were just a bit too good for the powerful Petes of '26, the Petes of Bailey, Ranger, Collins, McLeod, Parker, Rose, Dwyer, Cox and Bogardis.

Semi-Finals Sewed Up

The OHA senior "B" group semi-finals are all tied up again, Belleville's 10-8 win at home o'er Eagles last night making it 2-all in the best-of-five sawoffs. Fifth and deciding one is listed for here Monday night and it's do-or-die for both clubs. One will go on into group finals against Nylons while the other will hang 'em up till the work's all done next fall. 'Twas a speedy, wide-open and fairly clean playoff last e'en on Quinte ice before 1,700 noisy customers. The Redmen were flying and earned the close win, but Messrs. Andy Milne, Bill Crowley, Bert Hill and a few more of the Magee men made them step high, wide and handsome in every chukker. The fifth should be a lulu before a whopping crowd.

On the basketball front, St. Kitts open OABA semi-finals against PCVS juveniles at seven tonight in the Collegiate, with an exhibition following between Riverdale Collegiate of Toronto and the senior PCI-ers. Last night in Whitby, Bev Goulding's squad swept to a 69-27 hoop win to take the round 141-48, their sixth straight district senior crown. Paul Frise was in great form to count 19 points for the victors, with Al Northcott racking up 11. Whole team worked well. They'll be hitting into the COSSA playoffs next week at Hart House in Toronto. YW girls are rolling into loop semi-finals now, and it won't be long till the hefty cage season is tapering off rapidly as spring approacheth. Must have had at least two dozen teams operating here during the winter.

Lakeshore League Meets In Port Hope

COBOURG, March 10—President R. D. Dodge of the Lakeshore Intermediate Baseball League announced here Friday that the annual meeting will be held in Port Hope, March 29. Election of officers and appointing of the delegates to the OBA annual meeting also will be done.

Cobourg, last year's champions who went to the OBA semi-finals, have declared their intention of again entering. They have been a member of the league for 40 years. All other clubs will be back, it is believed, as the loop had the best year of its history in 1950.

Three teams from the group, Cobourg, Oshawa Juniors, and Bowmanville Roses made at least the second round of the OBA playdowns. The league will be made up of Oshawa, Bowmanville, Whitby, Port Hope, Colborne and Cobourg on the lake front and Lindsay in the north.

Long-time secretary Jim Crombie of Bowmanville has informed Dodge he will tender his resignation this year due to pressure of business.

CRU Permits Extra Blocking In 1951 Rules

WINNIPEG, March 10 (CP).—Canadian football will be opened up a little more this year, with one backfielder allowed to block 10 yards past the line of scrimmage.

The Canadian Rugby Union, in annual session here Friday, adopted on a one-year trial basis the blocking change recommended by its rules committee. The rule changes were announced on Friday night by Dave McCann of Ottawa, committee chairman. Friday's meeting was closed to the press.

Under the new ruling, one backfielder of the team in possession may block for 10 yards past the scrimmage line, provided he is outside the end man on the wing line when the ball is snapped and provided he crosses the line outside the end man.

There is no change in other blocking rules, with linemen allowed 10-yard blocking and other backfielders one yard.

Two Rule Changes

Two new rule changes also are a boon to the offensive team. The first allows the attacking side to throw a forward pass after legally recovering a blocked kick. The other says that when a forward pass is touched by an ineligible receiver, the penalty shall be the loss of a down and 15 yards. Under the old rules the attacking team lost possession of the ball.

Coaches, the press and broadcasters get a break in two rule changes aimed at officials. A weighted handkerchief, carried by all officials, will be dropped at the point of any infraction. Too, officials are asked, wherever possible, to indicate the player who commits a foul.

Other Decisions

The rules committee also decided:

1—When the defending team makes an offside pass in their own goal area, it shall be ruled as a rouge and one point, eliminating the choice by the non-offending side of taking the one point or a scrimmage as first down on the 10-yard line.

2—Clubs are asked to employ "ball boys" to clean the footballs on wet or muddy days. At least three balls a game were recommended, to be inserted into the game at the referee's discretion.

3—A ball fumbled in an offside direction into the goal area and on into touch-in-goal shall be ruled as an offside pass, calling for a loss of 10 yards to the offending team from the point of origin of the pass. The penalty shall be the loss of the ball if yards are not gained on third down before such a pass.

4—On the last minute of play in any period, timekeepers shall take a position on the playing field and close to the head linesman so that the flag is clearly visible to the referees.

5—A section on blocking from the rear of any player shall be appended to the rule on clipping, with the penalty under the same category.

Redmen Down The Eagles To Square Up Semi-Final

BELLEVILLE, March 10.—In a free-wheeling wide-open battle here last night Belleville Redmen surged back into the Senior "B" picture with a 10-8 win over the Eagles. It was the fourth game of the three-of-five series and at time of writing the venue has not been decided upon. It was presumed it will be played in Peterborough.

It was fair hockey all the way through with the Redmen showing a better defence than theretofore and meeting the high-flying Eagles in their back and fore checking.

Goals were slung high, wide and handsome. The Reds went into action early but were dumbfounded, as were 1,700 customers, when Crowley smashed the puck in the net in the first play. They were more dumbfounded when two minutes later the same player made the count 2-0 and it looked like it was a repetition of the former games when the Reds were forced to come from behind. They did, and after that it was nothing but hit-and-run, fight and fire hockey with the Eagles ending up the first period on the long end of a 3-2 score.

Took The Lead

The Reds smashed back with a concerted drive with goals from Mulvihill and Macdonald, to give them a one-goal lead. The Eagles got that one back with a fine three-way play, Hill getting the nod. Free, Jones and Macdonald potted pucks later on and Munroe doodled one in, just for fun.

The Reds smashed back with a five-goal display in the second period with the Eagles conceding the round with a pair. It was see-saw hockey in the third heat with the Eagles trailing 3-2 on the period play. Soaring back the rivals split the gate with three each. With wide-open display, it gave Referees Bill Reason and Stan Scrutton of Kingston an easy evening. They dished out some 10 penalties, all of them minors with the exception of Crowley, who got himself a misconduct when he sassed back.

Peterborough: Goal, Nicholls; defence, Burns and Montgomery; centre, D. Mortimer; wings, Crowley and Rochetta; subs, Stewart, Munroe, Greenlaw, Coombs, Hill.

Hastings Rubs Out Keene Hockeyists

HASTINGS, March 10.—A goal by Jack Crowley in overtime proved to be the winner, as Hastings went on to beat Keene 9-6 in a sudden-death game of the EPHL semi-finals played here on Wednesday night, to declare a winner to meet Lakefield or Warsaw, for the championship.

McKenty performed some spectacular antics in the Hastings net to keep Hastings in the game until the 18:00 minute mark of the third period, when, trailing 6 to 5, Petticrew picked up a loose puck at his own blue line and soloed, to tie the score and force overtime.

Crowley clinched matters in the overtime, when he sank the tie breaker on a rebound off a shot by Petticrew. Mueller added another for insurance, his second of the night. Then Stevenson aided by Greenley and West drove the last nail into Keene's coffin.

Hastings: Goal, McKenty; defence, Petticrew and Brown; centre, Crowley; wings, Oliver and Edwards; alternates, Lockhart, West, Greenley, Mueller, Stevenson, Thomas, Cobbledick.

Keene: Goal, Musgrove; defence, Houle and Shearer; centre, Hayfield; wings, G. Sellaby and L. Sellaby; alternates, Mackness, Kempt, Whalen, Davidson, Stock, Anderson, Thompson, Burns.

Nova Scotia Top Favorite

HALIFAX, March 10—(CP)—Two western provinces today held the only threat to Nova Scotia's first victory in the Canadian curling championship since 1927.

The luck of the draw sent Manitoba and British Columbia, the runner-up rinks, against Don Oyler's brilliant Kentville curlers in the final two rounds.

A loss for either would assure a Nova Scotia victory.

In Friday's three rounds the Nova Scotians rolled to three more victories and an undefeated string of eight straight.

It was more than the west could cope with, although both Manitoba and British Columbia won their ninth-round games Friday night in comparatively-easy fashion.

Each of the two contending western rinks had two losses and six wins in eight matches played.

Behind them were Ontario and Saskatchewan with 5-3 records. The other provincial titleholders trailed.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

The Ontario Travel Department Friday issued its last ski report for the season and said snow conditions this weekend will be excellent only at Fort William and Port Arthur and at Sundridge in the Parry Sound district.

It said skiing is good at Haileybury and Huntsville and fair at Kenora. Collingwood has skiing on upper bush trails. The only skiing at Flesherton and Markdale is in the bush.

There is no skiing at Barrie, Cobourg, Dagmar, Haliburton, Midland, Havelock, Orangeville, Peterborough or Toronto Summit.

The controlling owners of lowly St. Louis Browns, short on ready cash, want to borrow $600,000 to pay off debts and provide additional working capital for the club.

Bill Dewitt, president of the club, said Friday plans are to mortgage Sportsman's Park, in St. Louis and Mission Stadium, San Antonio, Tex., to secure the loan.

Ron Hurst, right winger of Toronto Marlboros in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series, was suspended Friday for four games as a result of "a deliberate attempt to injure" Bill Hagan of Barrie Flyers in a game here last Tuesday.

Action was taken by an OHA sub-committee dealing with the game penalty imposed on Hurst after Hagan was charged into the boards and suffered a concussion and a nine-stitch gash on the back of his head.

Without dissent, the New York State Senate Friday approved a bill to double the maximum prison term—from five to 10 years—for anyone trying to bribe an athlete.

The measure was introduced as an aftermath of the New York City basketball scandal, in which several college players have been arrested for throwing games.

Lightweight champion Ike Williams Friday agreed to sign for a title defence and a few hours later he was forced to postpone his non-title fight with welterweight Fitzie Pruden of St. Catharines.

The champion from Trenton, N. J., came down with a heavy cold late Friday and his 10-rounder with Pruden, scheduled for Madison Square Garden next Friday, was postponed until March 23.

Delay Decision On Richard Till Monday

By VIC MORRIS, Jr.

MONTREAL, March 10 (CP)—Things may not be as bad as they seemed for Maurice (Rocket) Richard, who must wait until Monday for the result of a hearing into a reported scuffle between him and Referee Hugh McLean.

The Richard case, as it is becoming known among the sporting fraternity, took a new twist Friday night when president Clarence Campbell of the National Hockey League announced that the decision would be delayed.

Campbell added that new testimony tends to lessen the original reports of the incident between the Canadiens' star and MacLean. But he also said the case might mean a maximum fine of $500, suspension or expulsion.

Briefly, the story leading to the closed hearing is this. Richard reported to have been incensed at McLean for what he felt was an unfair penalty, met the referee in a New York hotel lobby last Sunday. Witnesses said Richard grabbed MacLean around the neck and abused him verbally while being restrained by employees of the Montreal club.

Campbell wouldn't discuss the new evidence after the hearing. But when he said Richard's playing schedule wouldn't be interfered with until after Monday's decision, Canadiens won a distinct victory.

Rex Layne TKO's Bob Satterfield

By MURRAY ROSE.

NEW YORK, March 10 (AP)—Rugged Rex Layne has set his sights on either heavyweight champion Ezzard Charles or undefeated Rocky Marciano. No matter who he gets, don't sell him short.

The so-called "smart guys" sold him short Friday night, and they are still paying off as the result of Layne's sensational technical knockout victory over belting Bob Satterfield in 2:56 of the eighth round of a Madison Square Garden 10-rounder.

Undefeated in a year and ranked fourth in the National Boxing Association rankings, Layne, at 190½, was made the 9-to-5 underdog against the 180½-pound Chicago negro, rated one of the hardest hitters in the ring today.

He sampled some of Bob's block-busting rights, went down for eight in the first round, and then came back to wreck Satterfield with a barrage of his own right-hand wallops.

After a pulsating seventh round in which both fighters were rocked by terrific blows, Layne laid out his rival with a crackling right, and down on his back went Satterfield for nine. When he climbed groggily to his feet, Layne smashed him to the ropes with a left and right to the head and Bob was helpless. Referee Mark Conn immediately stopped the fight.

Monarchs Forge Ahead Edge Hamilton Tigers 3-1

By The Canadian Press

The old pros are still on top.

Toronto St. Michael's Monarchs, a collection of old pappy guys who could talk your ear off with accounts of their puck-chasing activities everywhere from California to Nov aScotia, forged ahead in the three-team scramble to decide the Ontario Hockey Association major group finalists Friday night when they defeated the nearly-as-experienced Hamilton Tigers 3-1.

Art Childs, probably older than the most venerable Monarch, had to be at the top of his unorthodox game to keep Monarch-driven rubber from penetrating his net with monotonous regularity.

The Junior A scramble neared the end of the regular season with little indication that the order of finish would be established before the final bell.

Windsor Spitfires tied Toronto Marlboros for second place by shading Galt Black Hawks 3-2 while the Dukes blew a 5-4 verdict to Guelph Biltmores that brought the fourth-place Bilts within a point of the two second-place clubs.

Wallop Hurricanes

St. Catharines Teepees, doomed to rise higher than their current fifth spot, consoled themselves by picking on the tail-end Waterloo Hurricanes for a 12-2 victory.

The results clinched first place for the idle Barrie Flyers, who have a six-point edge over Marlboros and Windsor with 74 points.

Behind the Marlboro-Windsor-Guelph trio, trailing Guelph by 14 points, are the Teepees with 53 points, thee more than Oshawa Generals. Stratford Kroehlers, with 45 points, and Galt with 44 are battling for seventh place. Beyond the playoff pale are St. Michael's College with 38 points and the hapless Huricanes with 15.

The Spitfires ended the schedule on a bright note after four straight losses. Bob Carruthers and Ken Wharran gave Galt a two-goal lead in the second frame, but Earl Johnson, Erwin Grosse and Bob Rawlyk came back with tallies in the third.

Gerry Theberge tied the score with less than two minutes of the Guelph-Marlboro game left and Andy Bathgate scored the winning goal 24 seconds before the gong to rob Dukes of victory. Don Keith, Herb Dickenson and Eric Prentice had scored earlier Biltmore goals while Eric Nesterenko, John Lumley, Dan Windley and Parker MacDonald counted for the losers.

5-Goal Effort

Buddy Boone was the St. Catharines sniper who stilled the Hurricanes with a tremendous five-goal effort. Frank Toyota and Jim Robertson potted two apiece while Gord Lomer, Skip Teal and Ted Power settled for singletons.

Gord Warner and Roger Maisonneuve connected for the Hurricanes, who only fired 12 shots at goalie Don Simmons all night.

In the major game, Pat Wilson, Matt Mesich and playing-coach Johnny O'Flaherty were the Monarch scorers, while Frank Liscombe tallied for Hamilton.

Bolton Gets 8-7 Edge Over Little Britain

LINDSAY, March 10. — Defenceman Ronnie Wilson fired a goal with 20 seconds remaining, to give Bolton an 8-7 edge over Little Britain in the first game of OMHA juvenile "D" quarter-finals.

Led by Harry Wallace, who turned in the hat trick, the winners built up a four-goal lead in the first period and led 6-3 at the end of the second. Ross Reid paced the Briton's third-period comeback, scoring three of the four goals.

Tommy Dwyer scored twice for Bolton, while Eric Chidley with two and Garf and Ron Teel were the losers' marksmen.

Jamieson On Way To Browns' Camp

COBOURG, March 10.—William (Weems) Jamieson, ace left-hander with the Eastern Ontario champion Cobourg Legionnaires last season, left here Friday for the St. Louis Browns' training camp in Arkansas.

Jamieson, 19, has played organized ball for the past four years. He was originally signed to a contract with Philadelphia Phillies, but was traded to the Browns. Depending on his showing at the training camp, he may return to Cobourg or go to a Browns' farm team.

Placing Religious Authority

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

The statement in Matthew 7:29 that Jesus taught the people "as one having authority, and not as the scribes," stated also in Mark 1:22, is one that will bear a great deal of thought; for it tells much, not only concerning the authority of Jesus, but concerning the basis and nature of all authority.

The fact that the people were astonished at the teaching of Jesus and accredited Him with an authority, which they did not accord the scribes, is remarkable for the contrast.

The scribes were the professedly authoritative representatives of law and religion. Jesus, so far as we know, had none of the outward accompaniments of professed authority, commonly regarded as the symbols of authority in His time and ours. He was not a "Rev." nor a "D.D." In fact, He even ordered His disciples, "Be not ye called Rabbi."

But He also said, "Call no man your father upon the earth"; which suggests the limits of interpretation that in a practical way may be put upon that passage. Jesus frequently adopted the method of extreme statement and over-emphasis in denouncing hypocrisy, sham and formalism. Professor Claude C. Douglas has dealt with this in an interesting and remarkable book, "Over-statement in the New Testament."

My friend, the late William Wye Smith, Scottish-Canadian poet, translater of the New Testament into "Braid Scots," and author of the Scottish parts of the original Standard Dictionary, once told me about meeting a member of a religious sect among whom the beard was a sort of religious symbol. His friend said to the bewhiskered poet, "I see you wear the beard. The beard is a good thing, if a man lives up to it."

It is precisely that, that may be said for all titles and professions of religious authority. Their justification is in the living up to them. But the ultimate test of all titles and professions of authority is the test of right and truth.

It was in its right and its truth that the authority of Jesus consisted. Even when He said (in contrast with what had been said by them of old time) "I say unto you" (Matthew 5:38,39), it was not a matter of defining right and truth by His personal word, and arbitrary dictatorship. It was speaking with authority because His personal word conformed to truth and right.

Search through all the New Testament records of what Jesus did and said, and this is confirmed at ever point. His authority, His power, was in the fact that He was fully in accord with the law and foundations of man and the universe.

It may be a personal opinion, but for myself I believe that our modern Christianity will never attain its full power and effect until we come to place religious authority more essentially where Jesus placed and manifested it.

Bars Go Up; City Hall Takes Shape

Peterborough's citizens now have a pretty good idea what their new city hall is going to look like when it takes over as the heart of the city's municipal life next fall.

They can see that it is a long low stately building of light grey limestone with wide, inviting front doors. They can only imagine how fine it will look when it is finished and surrounded by a wide belt of green grass.

This week the stone shell is almost completed. The front wing has its stone work done. Workers are finishing up at the rear of the east wing fronting Water St. Keeping pace with the stonemasons have been the bricklayers who have been lining the white stone shell with yellow brick.

Friday afternoon, roofers started to put the finishing touches on the flat roof. Already the building has a rough reinforced cement roof. Now the roofers are laying down blocks of cork, an inch and a half thick for insulation. The blocks are being cemented with tar and coated with tar over which tar paper is being laid and then another coat of tar and finally fine stones.

Order Developing

Inside the shell is a jungle of beams, girders, posts, half completed walls, bare metal staircases leading from half completed storeys to platform-like floors. But already there is order developing out of the jungle.

Men are bringing order to the confusion. They are working, apparently not affected by the damp penetrating cold of the building, a condition common to all buildings being constructed. They are working with cold metal, cold tiles, cold bricks, cold stone with their hands bare.

If you start at the top in the large square under the mansard roof which will be the caretaker's apartment, and walk down to the basement three floors below, you see the work at three different stages. The lower you get, the more complete is the building.

On the second floor which will house the council chambers, the committee rooms, the mayor's office and other offices, the rooms are just taking shape.

The framework of the walls is orange tile, known sometimes as fireproof brick. They are built to the ceiling on the south section, half-built in the north.

The main floor is reached from the outside by a few shallow steps up into the foyer where a map of the district will be laid, worked out in colored terrazzo flooring, 20 feet by 34 feet.

Here the general office with its 60-foot counter, and all the main city offices are already wallel off.

Basement Development

But it is in the basement where the most interesting developments have taken place. In the front wing will be the boiler room, the janitor's workshop and many other offices. Here the rooms are ready for the lathers to start work. They will arrive Monday to begin.

When they have been well started, the plasterers will be able to begin. An idea of the complete insulation of the building can be seen here. Inside the stone and the brick, cork blocks have been cemented with tar. There should be no complaining of heat or cold in the building when it is occupied.

Cells Take Shape

At the rear wing, the police department is taking shape. The six men's cells and the four women's cells have been completed. Each set of cells is in a separate block. The blocks are to be so arranged that a man will have to have three keys to get into one of the cells or out again. Each cell has an individual lock in its door. But they all have a double lock which is put on all of them at once by a lever outside the block.

Each cell will have a washing bowl and a toilet, except one. It has been designed for the violent patient with a yen to wreck things. He will have only the bars to try his strength on. The same arrangement is used in the women's block.

The police section in the basement will also house a locker room, common room and showers for the police officers. The sergeants' office, chief's office, detective's department and identification officer's department will be on the main floor directly above the cells.

The size and position of the courtroom can already be seen on the second floor just back of the front wing in the rear wing.

The whole building looks mighty interesting and there is little doubt that when the job is finished and you can come in to have a look, you'll like it.

Iron Discovery In Hastings Sparks Intensive Hunt

By ROBERT W. NEEDHAM

OTTAWA, March 10—Intensive prospecting for iron ore in all the region between Belleville and Parry Sound on Georgian Bay has been sparked by a major discovery in Hastings county.

Indeed the search for vital deposits may skirt the north and eastern fringe of Western Ontario.

To date, little attention has been paid to the discovery of the Marmora Iron Ore field, north of Belleville. This, however, is regarded officially here as one of the most remarkable stories in the history of Canadian mining; one that ultimately may have a tremendous impact on Canadian and American steel production.

Feed US Plants

The Marmora find will feed American plants, but the discovery there of vast deposits of magnetite ore has spurred the search west and north to the shores of Georgian Bay. Millions of tons of iron ore have been proved in the Marmora field, buried under 100 feet of limestone. It is expected that actual mining operations will start shortly.

The Marmora discovery came as the result of cooperation between provincial and federal government agencies.

Began in 1948

The story begins in 1948 when the Ontario deputy minister of mines and his chief geologist went to Northern New York. They made that visit in order to study the methods employed to discover and process the magnetite iron ore of the Adirondacks. There they noted certain similarities between the geology of that region and that of Hastings county in Eastern Ontario.

They decided to use the same technique employed in finding the Adirondack bodies — the airborne magnetometer. With the help of the Department of Mines and technical surveys a job of mapping 1,450 square miles was completed in April of last year.

Bethlehem Steel

Within two weeks of publication of departmental maps, representatives of Bethlehem Steel, second largest steelmaking concern in the world, had taken options on 400 acres of land, two miles east of the town of Marmora.

Since last May, this one company has completed 20 drill holes ranging from 500 to 1,900 feet in depth.

A departmental official here said the air survey work was pressed all during the winter of 1949-50 with flights extending all the way to the Georgian Bay area.

While the department here was unable to hazard an opinion as to the lifetime of the Marmora deposits, it considered them of major importance. And it asserted that the whole area, up to the Bay itself, would be prospected intensively in coming months.

Cavan Votes $2,500 To Memorial Arena

MILLBROOK, March 10 (ENS)—Cavan township taxpayers Friday voted 267 to 213 to give a grant of $2,500 to the Millbrook-Cavan Memorial Arena.

In spite of the wide controversy the question aroused throughout the township, the vote was relatively light. The grant meant an increase of 1.7 mills on the taxes of the farmers of the district.

Earlier this year the Millbrook council gave a similar grant to the arena which was opened in January.

Popular Song Writers Die

Millions Sang Their Songs

Two composers of perennially popular songs died within the last week. They were Harry Armstrong of the Bronx, New York, 71, who wrote the music of "Sweet Adeline," and Ivor Novello, of London, England, 58, whose "Keep the Home Fires Burning" became virtually a British slogan of morale in the First World War.

Millions have sung them in the last 30 to 50 years, and it likely that the Armstrong ballad will endure so long as "good fellows get together" and run over their repertoire of such numbers as "Down by the Old Mill Stream," "In the Evening by the Moonlight," "Love's Old Sweet Song," and diverse others in the same tuneful vein of sentiment and harmony.

Mr. Armstrong began as a songsmith at 17 with "My Old New England Home." Street corner solos brought rejective old shoes instead of coins, and when he left his native Somerville, Mass., for New York City in 1898 he had only $2.65 in his pocket. His first job at $2 a day was playing the piano in a Coney Island cafe. He retained faith in the melody of "My Old New England Home" but decided that lyric lacked appeal.

Charles Lawlor, who had written "The Sidewalks of New York," tried his hand at words to go with the music, and another who was called in to fix it was James J. Walker, later mayor of New York, who had attracted attention with his "Will You Love in December as You Do in May?"

In 1899, Mr. Armstrong met Gerald Husch who wrote a lyric entitled, "You're the Flower of My Heart Sweet Rosalie," but publishers were indifferent. The Rosalie was weak. One day the two young men walking down Broadway saw a sign announcing the farewell appearance of Adelina Patti, famous opera and concert singer. They substituted Adelina for Rosalie and changed Adelina to Adeline. That gave them a desired rhyming of the word Adeline with the line ending "At night dear heart for you I pine."

So, it was published by Witmark in 1903, although Julius Witmark, one of the heads of the firm objected that there was no feminine name "Adeline."

The song gathered dust two years on the shelves of the publishing house. It was finally picked up by a popular quartette the Quaker City Four and sung at the Hammerstein Theatre, and is said to have received thunderous acclaim.

Earnings long ago passed by the $2,000,000 mark. The composers sold their rights for $5,000, of which Mr. Armstrong received $1,000. In 1946 he said royalties not included in the sale netted him around $75,000, and were bringing in about $3,000 a year.

Adeline renews its echoing harmonies at convention and service club luncheons, and contributes to the expressionism of succeeding generations of tenors, most of them fumbling and of dubious pitch. But, man, how they like to climb vocally up that last line: "You're the Flowerrrr of My Heart (hold it lads) Sweet Adeline."

Back in 1914 British reservists from most of the cities and towns of Canada answered the call of the Motherland, marching off to railway stations to the singing of "Home Fires" and "Tipperary" by friends, many of them women folks. Some of the groups marched down George St. on late summer nights to take the midnight CPR for Montreal and the outgoing ships. Like Harry Armstrong, Ivor Novello was only 17 when he wrote "Keep the Home Fires Burning," but it became almost a forgotten incident of his career as a British musical comedy star.

He died at work last Monday night, collapsing from thrombosis during a 2 a.m. business talk with associates after playing the lead in his show "King's Rhapsody" at the London Palace Theatre. Only a few doors away, his latest musical play "Gay's the Word" had delighted another packed house. A press report reputes him a very rich man at his death.

Such are brief sketches of two men who wrote enduring popular songs in the first half of this century.

Wherever baritones and tenors and the odd bass foregather in casual groups on wide verandahs of summer resorts or down at the dock under an August moon, "Your fair face beams" will be invoked once more in pleasant company, and duly "rendered."

Capacity Audience Hears Famous Leslie Bell Singers

George Street United Church was filled to capacity on Friday night when the Leslie Bell Singers gave a program of choral music, sponsored by the Mark St. YPU and Mr. and Mrs. Club. The choir was applauded with the greatest enthusiasm, and although this group has visited Peterborough several times within the past five years there seems to be no doubt that they could fill any hall in the city again on Monday.

The Leslie Bell Singers are, perhaps, the most popular musical organization in Canada. Next autumn they will tour the USA, and will be representatives of Canadian music there. Let us examine some of the reasons for their popularity.

Superb Technique

They have a superb choral technique, more than adequate to anything they choose to do. Save for the usual handicap of women's choirs, by which we mean that nothing short of a reversal of the Primal Law will take their pitch lower than the E below middle C, their range is a great one. They sing exceedingly difficult arrangements of the music they choose, but the hearer is not made conscious of the difficulties. They have decided to sacrifice fullness and richness of tone to a somewhat extreme clarity, and in order to produce an effect which is orchestral rather than purely vocal, they slip hastily over their vowel sounds in order to concentrate on the "m," "n" and "ng" sounds which permit of great nasal resonance. Their pronunciations are sometimes provincial, but on the other hand they avoid the phoney, fruity pronunciations which plague such groups as, for instance, the Mendelssohn Choir.

The present reviewer heard the Bell Singers for the first time Friday night, and admired their technique almost without reservation. But choirs have resources beyond technique, nd it was in these realms of musical experience that this choir seemed less than satisfactory.

Listening to them, I was powerfully reminded of a visit I paid to the Royal National Eisteddfod of Wales in 1937. The test piece for the women's choir was Schubert's anthem, "Great Is The Lord." The first choir to sing was a ladies' choir from Ottawa; it had a perfect technique, but after it come eleven Welsh choirs, made up of farm women, women from the hills, in unfashionable frocks and with untidy hair; their technique was not always good, but they had what was better than technique; they really believed in God, and His greatness, and when they sang of these things God gave them the power to reveal something of His glory. The beautifully dressed, beautifully drilled Ottawa choir faded into insignificance.

The fault of too much of our Canadian choral music is this emotional poverty, this thinness of real musical feeling. The Bell choir misses greatness because it has put technique ahead of these qualities. It can hum, and imitate guitars, and go "tlot-tlot" like horses as much as it likes, and it can generate excitement by forcing its tempo as much as it likes, but it cannot move our hearts. Its popularity is understandable, and well-earned, but until it can reveal the glory of great music it will not be a great choir.—R.D.

PARKED CAR HIT

Harold Simmons, 543 Donegal St., reported that his car had been hit while parked on Reid St. near Parkhill Rd. and about $50 damage done to it. Another car had been parked in front of it and rolled down the incline of the street back into the Simmons car. The unknown driver then drove off. Constable George Moore-Gough investigated.

Community Fund Week Ends With $72,000; Continue To $85,000 Aim

$13,000 Short of Objective But Ahead Of Last Year; Hopes High; Women's Division Already Over Top

"This is the final dinner of the campaign drive but it is not the close of the campaign." This statement was made by Chairman Ross Dobbin when he told campaign workers that the total collected to date was $72,000—$13,000 short of the objective at the Red Cross and Community Fund Campaign dinner held at the Empress hotel Friday night.

"We have collected $3,000 more than we had at this time last year," Mr. Dobbin stated. "But we must continue the campaign with renewed vigor next week until it goes over the top."

The chairman's remarks were repeated in content by all of the four divisions chairmen except Mrs. J. P. Watts, chairman of the women's division. Mrs. Watts was able to report that the women's division had gone over the top with a total collected of $6,496.85—$1,496.00 over their objective of $5,000 and $415.20 more than the total amount collected in this division in the 1950 campaign.

In her remarks, Mrs. Watts explained that not only was this a record for the entire division, but new records had been set by the six groups in the division.

Ian McRea, chairman of the industrial division, reported a total of $34,552 for this division. He stated that he believed that the objective of $38,000 would be reached by the end of next week.

The retail division has collected $9,000. Ben Meyers, chairman of this division expressed the hope that the objective of $17,000 would be reached in this campaign. He explained that if this is accomplished it will be the first time that the retail division has ever been able to gain its objective in the history of the Peterborough community campaign drives.

Gordon S. Matthews, chairman of the special names division, reported a total of $22,500 collected. He stated that it would be doubtful if this division would be able to reach its objective, giving $24,000 as the final total expected when all the returns were in.

The dinner was sponsored by the Quaker Oats Co. Ltd.

City Requested To Define Motel Policy

Application of Mrs. Percy Edwards for permission to build a motel at the east end of Lansdowne St., west of the bridge, was referred by the town planning committee to the council Thursday night.

The committee felt that the question of the city's policy towards motels, within its own boundaries, should be determined by the council.

The committee is approving the suggestion received from the council for rezoning for retail business the property at the southeast corner of Park and Romaine Streets. Mr. Cyril H. Giroux recently requested the council for permission to build there a store to accommodate retail business.

Two New Teachers To Join PCVS Staff

The Board of Education has approved the hiring of two new PCVS teachers, and has accepted the resignation of a third.

Norman C. Smith of Kirkland Lake, now attending the Ontario College of Education, will be sheet metal teacher, at a starting salary of $3,100.

Stanley Adamson, chairman of the advisory vocational committee, told the Board that it was difficult to get a qualified teacher for sheet metal work. There are only two at OCE this year, and one of them is going to an Ottawa vocational school.

"I think we'll be getting a good man," said Mr. Adamson.

The position of sewing teacher will go either to Miss Mary McDonald, Sault Ste. Marie, at an initial salary of $3,100, or to Miss June Freeman, Owen Sound, at an initial salary of $2,800. Miss McDonald has 20 years' experience.

Miss Helen Wilson's resignation as commercial specialist was accepted by the Board. Miss Wilson taught here a year after coming from Kapuskasking. She is going to Earl Haig, Toronto.

COPS AND SCHOOLBOYS

Miss Georgina Hatherly yields second place to nobody in her admiration for the Peterborough police—as long as they act as police. As hard-hitting softball players she finds them a pestiferous crew. This information all came out by the way at the March meeting of the Board of Education. Miss Hatherly's home is 126 Park St., adjoining the northern side of King Edward schoolgrounds. In the summer fly balls from a nearby diamond land in her back garden and reckless fielders climb over her fence and injure the flowers in her garden. Miss Hatherly likes children but she likes flowers too. She says she doesn't mind the schoolchildren so much, as they are supervised by the teachers. It's 'the older and bolder" fellows playing at night who do the damage. "Yes," she says, "the police have played ball there too, and they're the worst of the lot."—DW.

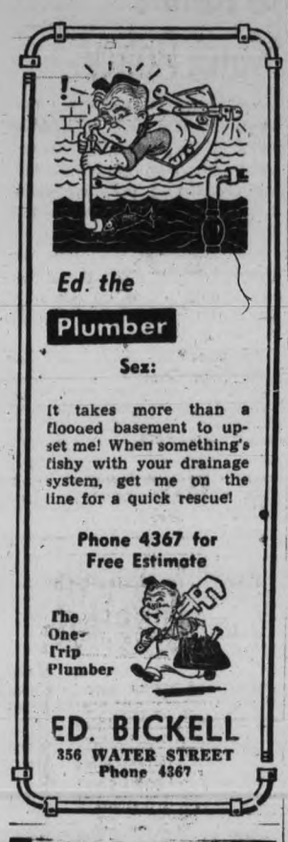
For Parents Only

The Handicapped Child

By NANCY CLEAVER

Every person has a handicap of some sort. It may be an unseen one, or it may be very noticeable. It may be a temporary setback or a permanent disability. Every normal individual who comes into the world possesses not only a gift of some kind, but also a disability, of a sort, which may be unknown to his companions. But in all probability his parents are aware of his imperfection whether it be color blindness, an allergy to various things, tone deafness, or any of the many other possible handicaps.

There are also minor, temporary handicaps arising from accident or disease such as a broken leg in a cast, an arm in a sling, or strained eyes from using them during measles. Children at an early age must often learn "to take it on the chin" in the matter of physical mishaps. But it is not these short-lived inconveniences that parents usually term "handicap," but some permanent and crippling disability.



The parents' attitude to a son's or daughter's handicap is of vital importance to the child's happiness. In "The Best Years of Our Lives," the mother's tears over the loss of her boy's hands were natural, but were also very hard for the young sailor to bear That movie gave countless people a new insight into how much a disabled person dislikes commiseration. A handicapped person wants to do everything he can for himself — and not to be pitied in the doing! If parents can look on their child's handicap without bitterness, they can help a child accept it himself. They can assist him to do all in his power to become a happy, useful citizens.

The fine example of others who succeeded against heavy odds is always an inspiration. One of the two record-breaking athletes from McGill in a recent swimming meet at Toronto took up swimming in earnest to aid in his own recovery from war wounds.

There is no one who can speak straight to the heart of a seriously handicapped person like one who has the same trouble. A blind professor, Mr. C. M. MacInnes, M.A., recently gave the address on Speech Day at Worcester College for the Blind, in England. He warned the boys not to exaggerate their blindness, nor on the other hand try to forget it. He said:

"Accept it for what it is, a great and perpetual nuisance, but I assure you it need be nothing more than that. Never trade on your handicap. If you take a job, do it well. You will find that life for you will be full and zestful and that there is much useful work for you to do. Since the strain of living is of necessity greater for you than for other people, you should always be careful to be as physically fit as you can."

Those are brave words, based on the speaker's own battle with life. They contain sound advice for any handicapped person, young or old. They can guide parents of a handicapped child in helping their youngster form a philosophy of life adequate for his needs today and tomorrow.

Cut Soap Prices

WASHINGTON, March 10 (AP) —The government Friday moved to cut soap prices and prepared to set dollar-and-cents ceiling prices on ham, pork chops, sausages and other pork products. The office of price stabilization said it also expects to issue a regulation shortly fixing ceilings on the prices of live hogs.

Demand Consent

BONN, Germany, March 10 (AP)—The West Germans Friday demanded that no decisions on their fate be taken at a four-power conference without their prior consent. This request was contained in a note to be sent to the western big three by the Bonn government.

To Try Tribesmen

LAGOS, Nigeria, March 10 (Reuters)—Nine Kalabari tribesmen were committed Friday for trial on murder charges arising from a bloody tribal clash in the Niger river delta last August in which 23 men from the rival Okrikan tribe were massacred. They were arrested for murders after the merciless stave-and-cutlass battle involving at least 200 tribesmen which arose over fishing rights in the fish-abounding creeks of the river delta.

Threaten Killings

TEHRAN, Iran, March 10 (AP) —Fadayan Islam, fanatical secret Moslem terror society, threatened Friday to kill Shah Reza Pahlevi and other government officials if the assassin of Premier Ali Razmara is not freed in three days. Leaflets bearing the threat were distributed during a demonstration by about 8,000 persons demanding nationalization of the British-owned Anglo-Iranian Oil Company.

Duchess Leaves Hospital

NEW YORK, March 10 (AP)— The Duchess of Windsor ended a 15-day stay at a hospital Friday and said she is "feeling fine." She underwent an operation of an undisclosed nature Feb. 22 at the Columbia Presbyterian Medical Centre.

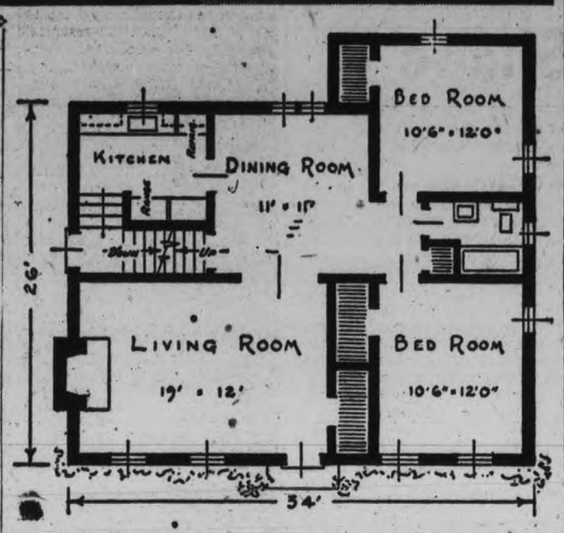
Textile Union Calls Convention

TORONTO, March 10. (CP)— The Canadian advisory council of the Textile Workers Union of America (CCL-CIO) voted Friday to call a Canadian convention to discuss the relationship of the union's Canadian section with the international.

The action followed dismissal of Canadian director Sam Baron by Emile Rieve, international president of the union.

In a statement earlier Friday, Baron charged that he had been dismissed because he had opposed an unsuccessful attempt by Rieve to get rid of executive vice-president George Baldanzi at the union's 1950 convention.

The council called the convention for March 31 and April 1 in Toronto.



Baron, whose dismissal becomes effective today, will remain an international vice-president of the TWUA.

New Subsidy Formula For Gold Mines

OTTAWA, March 10 (CP). — A new subsidy formula for gold mines was announced Friday by Finance Minister Abbott, and government officials said it will add about $3,000,000 to the 1951 aid previously decided on for the industry.

The Minister told the Commons the government has decided on a broadened formula under the emergency gold mining assistance act as an alternative to letting producers sell their gold in markets where it commands a premium over the current fixed price of $35 an ounce in United States funds.

Effect of the new formula, designed to compensate mines for rising production costs, will be to make the subsidy applicable to a greater part of the output of high-cost mines than was permitted under a formula set up last October for this year. A ceiling payment of $11.50 an ounce will be continued.

HOUSE No. 437 — Cool in the summer, warm in the winter, that's what the owner says of this pretty white house he built for himself. It's fully insulated and requires less than three tons of coal or coke during the heating season to supply the hot air furnace. There is a full-sized basement, as well as a second-floor den, in addition to the five rooms shown in the plan. The two bedrooms are nicely placed apart from the 'living' area of the house, with the bathroom separating these rooms. To insure quiet, the inside walls of the bathroom should be sound-proofed. Each bedroom has a good closet and cross ventilation. There is also a handy linen closet close to the bathroom. Some will miss the usual vestibule or front hall, but no one will criticize the well-arranged living room, which measures 12' x 19'. The fireplace is a major attraction as one enters this room. A large coat closet is close to the entrance. The kitchen is small but efficient. Exterior walls are cedar clapboards painted white. Roof is of asphalt shingles. Bethany WA Receive Gift Of $25

BETHANY, March 10 (ENS)— —Mrs. Mervin Smith of Cavan entertained the members of the Women's Auxiliary of St. Paul's Church, Bethany for their March meeting. Twelve members were present and Mrs. J. J. Hamilton presided, opening the meeting with prayers for missionary workers, the Van workers and St. Faith's bishop's messengers whom the WA help to support. Mrs. Allan Gribble read the Bible lesson, 6th chapter of St. John's Gospel.

A donation of $25 was gratefully received from Mrs. H. L. Lowe of Los Angeles, California, a sister of Dr. J. J. Hamilton. Mrs. Lowe spent her girlhood in Bethany and was a member of St. Paul's choir at that time.

Mrs. H. F. Rayson reported the activities of the Junior Auxiliary. It was decided to discontinue the junior meetings throughout the month of March on account of so much illness. They will be resumed in April.

The Dorcas secretary reported two quilts finished for the bale, and all gifts are requested to be brought to the April meeting, new articles to have price tags attached.

A number of finished articles of fancy goods for sale were brought to the meeting and more taken home for completion.

The Rev. T. S. Gault closed the meeting with prayer. Mrs. Smith and her assistants served delicious refreshments during the social hour which followed.

Six Teachers Protest Salaries, Resign

KIRKLAND LAKE, March 10 (CP)— Six teachers of the Kirkland Lake Collegiate and Vocational Institute have resigned in protest against salary schedule differences, it was learned Friday.

J. C. Tuck, secretary-treasurer of the KLCVI Board said three additional resignations had been received but they were not attributed to current dissatisfaction over salary negotiations.

Final increases in basic salaries offered by the Board were a minimum of $2,700, a maximum of $4,700 and an across-the-board increase of $300. Both teachers and the executive of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers Federation found the offer unsatisfactory.

Finds Hollywood Hasn't Changed Much Since '23

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, March 10 (AP) This week I took a trip down Nostalgia Alley and discovered that Hollywood doesn't change much with the years.

I came across a large volume called "The Blue Book of the Screen," dated 1923. By that time the star system was in full flower and the lure of the movies had captivated the whole country. It is remarkable how similar that era was to the Hollywood of today.

Of course, the stars are different. But even some of them remain. Gloria Swanson and Lewis Stone were prominent then. The book also lists Warner Baxter, Charlie Chapin, Harold Lloyd, Monte Blue, Ramon Novarro, Antonio Moreno and May McAvoy, now a busy extra player.

Similar Outlook

The book contained an editorial by producer Jesse Lasky that sounds as though it had been written today. Speaking of prospects for the film industry, he observed: "The future of GOOD pictures is assured."

"Many pictures are being made which may lack in some of the essentials, but the general tendency is toward perfection, and I am proud to say that every day sees a great advance."

Director Cecil B. De Mille was proclaiming that the movies had grown up. Ten years before, he had made a picture in seven days with 79 scenes. "Today," he announced, "I have scripts of over 500 scenes."

Will Hays, the movie czar, sounded a prophetic note. He predicted "within a few years—certainly within our own lifetime —every schoolhouse in America will have standard sets of instructional films, approved by boards of education, just as textbooks are now approved."

Extend Deadline

KINGSTON, March 10 (CP)— Owners of 39 cottages on the northern shore of Deadman's Bay an inlet of Lake Ontario, can stay until June 1. The defence department informed them that the deadline for removal of the cottages has been extended from March 15 to June 1. They must be removed because they are on crown land which will be used for extending married quarters for army personnel at Barriefield Camp.

PLAN OF ATTACK—The Communists' all-out Korean offensive is expected to follow the traditional Russian pattern —a tremendous assault on a narrow front, with possibly diversionary attacks on the extreme flanks. The main thrust is expected around Hoengsong (1), designed to smash the UN center and force the defenders back against the east (2) and west (3) coasts.

Association Asks Action On Hope Report

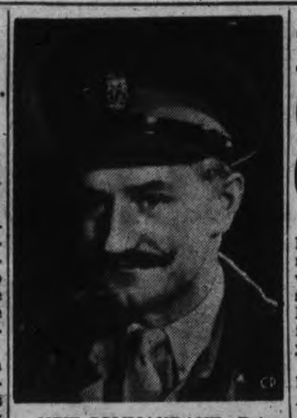
TORONTO, March 10 (CP)—The Public School Trustees Association of Ontario in a statement today called on the Ontario government to implement the main recommendations of the Hope Royal Commission on education without delay.

The statement, approved at a meeting of the association's directors and zone representatives last March 3, dealt principally with the commission's main proposal that Ontario's existing two-stage educational system of elementary and secondary schools be replaced by a three-stage plan comprising elementary and secondary schools and junior colleges.

The Hope report was issued Dec. 21 after more than five years study by a Royal Commission headed by Mr. Justice J. A. Hope of the Ontario Supreme Court. It recommended a six-grade course of study in elementary schools for children up to 12; a four-year secondary school course, and two years in junior college.

The trustees' statement said that the three-stage recommendation is "founded on the known and basic facts concerning child development."

Need Recognized



Need for such a change had long been recognized. In Ontario, it was long overdue. There was need for a distinct stage in the educational system corresponding to the period of early adolescence beginning about 11 or 12 and ending at about 16.

"This is probably the most important period of development in the whole life of the child, and it is imperative that his needs at this stage of growth be recognized and the educational system adapted to meet and satisfy them. More divisions of the erducational system we do not need, and they should be avoided, but the three stages as proposed by the commission we must have."

The trustees' statement said it is "difficult to find any justification for the claims made by separate school supporters that they are being deprived of their rights." Under the three-stage system, separate schools would be continued as part of the elementary school system and Roman Catholics would be able to participate equally with other faiths in the post-elementary educational field.

"Moreover, the financial figures given by the commission make it obvious that separate school supporters cannot adequately support a more extensive educational program than that proposed for the new elementary schools unless, as has sometimes been proposed, the public school supporters pay a substantial proportion of the cost of separate schools either locally or provincially.

"The only alternative to the commission proposals would be to countenance Roman Catholic separate secondary schools and junior colleges financed, in the main, from funds supplied by public school suporters." This seemed to have been the proposal advanced by separate school supporters in the commission's minority report.

NEW COMMANDANT—Brig. George Kitching, 40, has been appointed commandant of the Army Staff College at Kingston, Ont. Brig. Kitching was born in China, educated in England, and once was a Montreal businessman. He joined the Royal Canadian Regiment in 1939, and rose from lieutenat to acting-major-general by 1944. He leaves the post of director-general of army personnel to take his new post. He replaces Lt.-Gen. G. G. Simonds, recently appointed army chief of staff.

Shore Batteries Open Fire On HMCS Nootka

Peterborough sailors aboard the HMCS Nootka have taken part in naval actions in the Korean waters by blasting Chinese Reds' shore batteries and rescuing an English pilot. The Nootka moved into the Korean war early this year to relieve the HMCS Sioux.

Aboard the Nootka from Peterborough are: Able Seaman James A. Armstrong, son of Peter S. Armstrong, 386 Burnham St.; Able Seaman Donald L. Breadman, son of Mrs. L. Breadman, 188 Lake St.; Able Seaman Thomas J. Cullen, formerly of Peterborough; Petty Officer Robert F. Honour, son of Mrs. Alice Honour, 496 College St.

Two US Boats Along

On the Nootka's first patrol the seamen saw their first action. The ship moved up the river to Inchon with the HMCS Cayuga to investigate small boat activity there. With the Canadian ships were the American cruiser St. Paul and two destroyers.

Arriving on the scene about 11:30 a.m. the investigation was made and they stayed until 1 p.m. with no action reported. The decision was made to pass down the river and resume the patrol. To get out of the harbor the Nootka had to pass between the shore and the St. Paul.

Just as they were on the way out, they could see flashes from the shore batteries opening up on the St. Paul. The Nootka turned back to help the St. Paul and both ships opened up on the Red guns.

Two Blasts Land Near

At first the United Nations ships used only the four-inch shells but after approximately 50 rounds from each gun they moved in closer for the heavier close-range weapons. Two Red blasts landed near the Nootka, one along the side and the other passed overhead.

The shore batteries were silenced. The only Nootka casualty was one seaman who had an ear drum punctured by concussion when both guns fired at the same time.

The next action was the rescue of an English pilot whose plane had been hit by flak and he was forced to ditch his plane beside the destroyer. It took only five seconds for the plane to sink. The pilot was Lieut.-Commander John Smith from London, England.

Since then the action has been at a minimum; only a mine was blown up.

Proper Working Levels Will Eliminate Washing Aches

Many a woman who has complained about kinks in her back and who "always felt tired" has eventually found relief, not in pills and nostrums but in getting her plumber to adjust the levels of her sinks and wash tubs.

Obviously, different persons require different working levels. And, if the working levels of the various plumbing fixtures in a house are right for one person, they are wrong for another of a different height. If these surfaces are too low for a tall woman, she has to stoop uncomfortably to her work. Conversely, if they are too high for a short woman, she has to lift the dishes or clothes awkwardly and with strain. Yet, if the variation from correct height is not extreme, many persons will suffer for years without realizing what is causing the trouble.

If the existing levels are too low, get your plumber to raise them. If thy are too high, get him to lower them. But if, and this is the case in many homes, they are too low for one person who uses them and too high for another, then get the plumber to adjust them for the tall person and let the shorter person use a low step or stool when working.

Survey the Plumbing

But before you call your plumber to adjust your working levels, make a survey of your household plumbing and heating so that, if there are other adjustments needed, he can do them all at the same time and so save precious hours of skilled labor so urgently needed.

With replacements of plumbing fixtures rather difficult every householder should exercise a little extra care in helping to keep enameled plumbing fixtures in good condition.

The first rule to remember is that enameled surfaces should never be scraped or cut. Such surfaces are made of the same materials as glass, whether white or colored, and should be treated the same as though they were glass. Scratches will not only mar the surface, they will invite acids to cut deeper and eventually eat away the enameled surface itself. Always think of your enameled surfaces as you do of your teeth. One little cavity, such as caused by a scratch, chip or gouge, can lead to real trouble. The point is that the surface not the "below the surface" is resistant.

When preparing vegetables, don't shred greens, slice fruits, etc., on the enameled drainboards. Don't drag or scrape pots, pans or dishes.

Then There's the Laundry

Your home should have a modern laundry, laid out and equipped for efficiency, located and furnished for dryness, well-lighted, well-ventilated, cheerfully decorated, easy to clean and maintain, and supplied with plenty of hot, soft water. Here are a number of points to check in planning an efficient laundry room:

1. Tubs located so that waste and supply pipes are readily available.
2. Sorting tables or bins located near entrance door or chute.
3. Other equipment arranged in order of use to save steps.
4. Natural light available, and artificial light provided.
5. Plenty of electric outlets available.
6. Indoor drying or plenty of space for pulling out racks if drier is used.
7. Cabinets for mending and laundering supplies.

The laundry should be immediately accessible to drying yard, kitchen, telephone. Pieces of equipment should be placed in order of use. Minimum-essential equipment will include: two-compartment tub with swinging, water-mixing faucet and no surface or finish to rust; drying racks or lines; ironing facilities. Next in order of importance and as you can afford them will come: washer, storage cabinets, ironer, drier—and finally, toward perfection, sorting tables and bins, additional storage space, hot plate, siphon pump for emptying washer and receptacles, clock, ventilating fans, and extra tubs.

Tubs should be installed at correct height, and corners and rims should be rounded so that dirt won't accumulate and corners will not tear clothing or cause personal injury. Swinging-spout faucets with hose connections will distribute water to tubs and washer without bucket-lifting.

Robert Houle, 20, and Fernand Pouiin, 32, were sentenced to the two-year terms.

A BUST of India's great leader Mahatma Gandhi, as tall as a five-storey house, has been designed by Bombay sculptor V. P. Karmarkar as a memorial to the man who helped create the nation. Pictured here is a plaster model in miniature of the 114-feet high bust, which it is proposed to build on a site overlooking the national capital at New Delhi. The designer believes that the cost, roughly a million and a half dollars, could be recovered in time by a small charge to visitors. The designer suggested the bust should be in red sandstone, in keeping with Delhi's famed red fort and with various government buildings, but some members of the Gandhi memorial designs committee favour marble facing over reinforced concrete. The bust would contain a basement restaurant serving dried fruits, goat milk, fruit juices and other Gandhian dishes exclusively. Other floors would contain exhibitions featuring Gandhi and other Indian leaders. The fourth floor would be a viewpoint from which visitors could see India's capital "through the eyes of the Mahatma."

Australian on Global Hike Likes Canadian Friends

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—A glamorous girl with a glamorous story is working behind a lace counter in a department store here.

Native of Sydney, Australia, Enid Tibbett left home 18 months ago and in the meantime has travelled half-way round the world. She hopes to return "down under" at the end of the year and start work on a book of her adventures.

It won't be an ordinary book for her trip has been more of a celebrity's cruise than the meanderings of a girl working her way from continent to continent.

Starting off with a girl friend, she went to England. The friend became homesick and left Miss Tibbett to go on alone. A copywriter for a Sydney department store, she went to work in London on publicity for Blackpool, famous Lancashire seaside resort.

Suddenly her sign-writing job spiralled to where she became the "All This and Blackpool, Too" girl.

An artist friend painted her picture and it was used for a poster. The result was that Enid advanced from advertising writing to become Blackpool's biggest advertisement.

Blackpool's "Wendy"

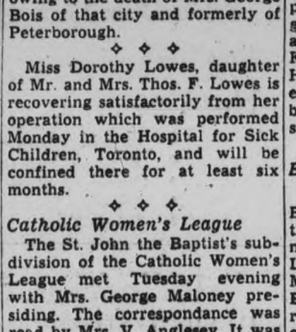
As "Wendy" of poster fame, a British newspaper said she received more fan mail than anyone else in the country. More, she received a film-test offer, a summer music hall engagement, and—an offer of marriage.

But none of these were listed in her round-the-world schedule.

Leaning over the lace counter she said confidentially, "but you see, I knew I couldn't act."

When the contract with the seaside resort was up she went to Paris and then came to Canada. After a few weeks in Montreal she arrived in Toronto and became fashion adviser to a photographic studio.

Now she is on her way home. While she is working here she is waiting for visas for a visit with friends in Chicago. From there she intends to go to Salt Lake City, then Mexico for a couple of months and back to Sydney, wind-up of a two-and-a-half-year jaunt.



Canadians, "The most hospitable people I have met so far," will have a big part in her book.

"In Canada, everybody loves his hometown," she says.

DOROTHY DIX

Like What You Have To Do Sound Guide To Happiness

It is said that the late King George took for his guiding motto in life this truism: "The secret of life is not to do what one likes to do, but try to like what one has to do."

There may have been more thrilling and romantic slogans than this, but I doubt if there ever was one that contained more good hard sense, or came nearer to comprising the whole of the law and the prophets on how to be happy. For if we like what we have, we have what we like, and that is the realization of our desires, and when we learn to take what comes in life and like it, we have acquired a philosophy that protects us from all the slings and arrows of outrageous fortune.

Dorothy Dix

I would particularly urge the members of my sex to paste these royal words of wisdom on their mirrors where they will see them every time they put on their complexions and their hats, because, somehow, women seem constitutionally unable to make the best of a bad bargain or to adjust themselves to difficult situations. Indeed, they have a talent for making mountains of trouble out of molehills of unpleasantness, of letting a single flaw in a glass ruin the whole of a beautiful view. It was a woman, you remember, who couldn't sleep because there was a crumpled rose leaf under her forty mattresses of ease.

Suffering Is Needless

In the thousands upon thousands of letters that I get from women telling me of their woes, the thing that amazes me most and that seems most tragical to me is that so much of their suffering is unnecessary. So many tears could be dried if they would only quit kicking against the pricks and try to get some fun out of life as they have to live it.

I get many letters, for instance, from women who are perfectly miserable because they have to make their husbands perfectly miserbale because they have to live in California while they want to live in New York, or their husbands' business keeps them in Chicago when they prefer New Orleans. They tell how lonely they are in a strange place; how they long for Mother and the girls and their old bridge crowd, but they never make the slightest effort to make new friends or find new interests in the place in which they live. I have known women to live ten years in a town without ever making more than a casual acquaintance, yet all about them were people who were good and kind, interesting and cultured, and who would have brought all sorts of pleasures into their lives if they had been given a chance.

Sometimes the unhappy woman is unmarried. She is engaged in some work that she enjoys doing and in which she is intensely interested. She gets a good salary. She has her own nice apartment. She has pretty clothes. She has plenty of friends and amusements. She is free to come and go as she pleases. But she feels that life is cinders, ashes and dust because she hasn't a wedding ring.

Blind To Drawbacks

She sees plenty of unhappy marriages all about her. She sees wives supporting good-for-nothing husbands; wives with drunken husbands; wives with philandering husbands, but it doesn't make her like what she has and think that she is sitting pretty on the top of the world, with her own latch key and pocketbook and no man grouching around the house.

And the wives who bewail themselves because marriage has not turned out to be the picnic they thought it was going to be and their husbands are not the romantic lovers they desire. They will admit that their husbands are good, kind and grand providers. But their husbands take them for granted and never tell them how beautiful and wonderful they are nor how they adore them. Hence these tears and also hence these divorces.

There are millions of women who might be happy who are miserable because they won't even try to like what they have. They won't realize that a husband car say it with beefsteaks just as truly as he can with orchids, and that a charge account at the best stores is more solid comfort than having poetry quoted to you. In a word, they won't try to get any happiness out of a commonplace marriage, though they would find it in peace and plenty and stability if they would only make the most of what is offered them.

And so it goes through life. None of us get just what we want, but we can all have what we like if we like what we have.

What's Right

You are saying good night to a young man with whom you have had your first date, and you hope he will ask to see you again.

WRONG: Say: "Am I going to see you again?"

RIGHT: Tell him what a good time you had, and wait for him to bring up the subject of another date.

Readers' Saturday Column by Mary Moore

QUESTION: How should canned shrimp be prepared? Is it necessary to remove the black vein that is found around the outer edge? Mrs. H. G.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: The black "vein" around the outside of a shrimp is the intestine and should be removed before serving. It is most easily done with a pointed knife. Kitchen help in large seafood restaurants are instructed to sacrifice some of the shrimp for speed, and scrape out the black portion with one deft stroke.

QUESTION: Here I am begging your help again. Would you be so kind as to tell me about measuring cups. To be truthful I never used to own one. I just used to use an ordinary kitchen cup, also an ordinary teaspoon and I had the most beautiful luck.

We bought a new cookstove (a very well-known make) and I read in the cook book which came with the stove that proper measuring implements should be used, so I proceeded to do just that, and I will never know what happened. But I have had terrible luck since.

I have blamed the stove, but have had stove checked at least a dozen times, blamed flours, baking powder, also measuring cup but can't find the trouble. Is it necessary to have a dry measuring cup—also what about spoons?

Also Miss Moore, how do you cook vegetables properly in oven? Should they be covered? When I put carrots around the roast for instance, which naturally isn't covered, they shrivel up and are hard no matter how long they are in oven.

Thank you so very much for all past help. Mrs. Marion M.

ANSWER: I will start answering your question by asking one. Can you make the good cakes that you had with the old stove and old measuring methods in the new stove? If you can by all means continue in that way.

You see the reason for using measuring spoons and cups is to keep all recipes standard. There are as many different sizes of crockery kitchen cups as there are manufacturers, and the variations in the amounts of flour used could amount to two or three ounces, which could be the difference between a light cake and one with cracks and a heavy dough.

If we are to get to the bottom of this cake trouble I will have to know what recipes you are using. Please send these to me in detail and let me know if you sift the flour, what kind you used and what kind of baking powder and shortening.

Meanwhile I will give you a standard one-egg cake that works like a charm for everybody who tries it.

Standard One-Egg Cake

One-quarter cup butter, ½ cup sugar, 1 egg, ½ cup milk, 1½ cups sifted cake flour, ½ teaspoon salt, 2½ teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon vanilla. Cream the butter for 5 minutes, then beat in the sugar for 2 minutes, then beat in the unbeaten egg for 2 minutes. Sift the sifted cake flour 3 times with the salt and baking powder and sift about one-third of it over the creamed mixture with one-third of the milk. Continue until milk and flour are stirred in, add vanilla, stir in, then pour into buttered paper-lined layer cake tins. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. about 20 minutes.

My carrots never taste right done around the roast either. I bake carrots alone or in combination with parsnips and potatoes in a tightly covered casserole, with about 3 tablespoons butter. I consider it the best method in mid-winter.

6—In Memoriams

BUCHANAN—In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Mrs. Robert C. Buchanan, who passed away March 12, 1937.
Time takes away the edge of grief,
But memory turns back every leaf.
—Ever remembered by her husband and daughters.

MOONEY—In memory of William Mooney, who pased away four years ago, March 10th.
With tears we watched him sinking,
We watched him pass away,
We tended him with loving care,
But could not make him stay.
We watched beside his bedside,
As the weary hours passed,
Oh, how our hearts were broken,
When we heard him breath his last.
—Ever remembered by his son Percy and daughter-in-law Muriel.

SHEWARD—In loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother, Mrs. Selina Sheward, who passed away March 10, 1948.
We do not need a special day
To bring you to our mind,
For the days we do not think of you
Are very hard to find.
If all the world were ours to give,
We'd give it, yes, and more,
To see the face of one we loved
Come smiling through the door.
—Ever remembered by the family.

TALLMAN—In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Flossie Tallman, who died March 10, 1943.
No one knows how much we miss you,
No one knows the bitter pain
We have suffered, since we lost you
Life has never been the same.
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweetly tender, fond and true,
There is not a day, dear mother,
That we do not think of you.
—Ever remembered by daughter, Eva and son-in-law Glenn.

TALLMAN—In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Flossie Tallman, who passed away eight years ago.
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Always tender, fond and true;
There's not a day, dear mother,
We do not think of you.
—Sadly missed by daughter Katie, son-in-law Johnnie and grandson Garry.

FOR CANADA TOO?—Canadian football fans may see something new in yard sticks and down-markers if the Canadian Rugby Union accepts the type shown by Jack Sullivan, sports editor of The Canadian Press. On a visit to the States, Sullivan spotted the new-style gadget which shows an easy-to-see target above the head of each man on the sticks; a down-marker which indicates the down to both sides of the field and is an improvement on the present squat cubical marker with numbered sides. Inspecting the yardsticks and marker at Toronto, prior to departure for the C.R.U. annual in Winnipeg, are, left to right: Dave McCann of Ottawa, Sullivan, Tom Allison of Toronto, 1950 president of C.R.U.; and Hec Crighton of Toronto, member of the rules committee.

Campbellford Boys Win 1st Game 8-5

The lads returned from South River Thursday night, where they won 8 to 5.

Industry Moves To Country Says Manager

MARMORA, March 10. (ENS)—J. A. Buchan, manager of the Bake-O-Lite plant near Belleville was guest speaker at the monthly Marmora district Chamber of Commerce dinner meeting in the Royal Hotel Thursday.

The speaker sketched the origin and growth of the industry as well as the uses of that product.

He said that the modern trend of industry is not to stay in the big centres but to move out into the country. Among many advantages to this, he said was the fact that it enabled the workmen to have a better life. There was less time taken in travelling to and from work than in the city.

They lived in healthier surroundings and were closer to the beauties of nature.

Eighty per cent of Canada was represented by the small places and it was good for these places to have a stable industry. He was introduced by C. R. Whittemore and thanked by R. G. Walsh.

At the start of the meeting President A. F. Fraser welcomed five members of the newly formed Hastings Chamber of Commerce.

Secretary R. G. Neal reported that fish applications for local waters had been completed and sent in.

The question of holding a regatta this summer was discussed. Vern Caverly of Oshawa and Glen Allan Park, chairman of last year's committee had written to the president to learn if the regatta was being considered for this year. He suggested that it be held August 4.

It was the unanimous opinion that it should be again held and Vern Caverly was appointed chairman of the committee to make arrangements for it to be held August 4.

A motion was passed that the Chamber appoint a committee of chief members of local organizations to arrange a Red Cross and Community Chest campaign.

Otonabee Playoffs

KEENE, March 10 (ENS). — In an Otonabee League semi-final doubleheader here, Keene won over Indian River by 6-5 to dispose of the Shur-Gain lads in two straight and the Hiawatha Indians eked out a 7 to 4 win in overtime over the Downers' Corners boys.

All four teams went all out before a big crowd and both games were in doubt until the final gong. Jack Nelson sank the winner for Keene after Indian River had come from behind to take the lead in the final period. In the second game Downers' Corners team scored four in the third frame to send their game into extra time. Grant Burns and Bob Heafield were the main scoring threats in this one.

Hiawatha and Downers' Corners meet in the Keene rink in their second game on Monday next at eight o'clock, the winner of this set to meet Keene in league finals.

Hastings Ousted

HASTINGS, March 10.—Further hopes of an OMHA midget "D" championship for Hastings were shattered here Friday night before a crowd of 300, when Pickering beat Hastings 3-2 to win the two games, goals to count round, by the score of 5-4. The first game played at Whitby ended in a 2-2 deadlock.

W. Dodd, Herrington, W. Fisher Montgomery, and D. Fisher were best for Hastings, with Whiter, Comport, Irish, Mashinter and Scott standing out for Pickering. Simpson led the penalty parade with three, all minors.

Brintons Win Again

CAMPBELLFORD, March 10—(ENS).—The Peterborough Brinton Carpet team took the second game of a best-of-five series from the Campbellford TVL'ers in the local arena on Friday night by the score of 5 to 3.

This makes two in a row for Brintons, and if Campbellford has any hopes of taking the series they now must do it in the next three games.

Friday's game wos a good one from the standpoint of the fans. It was fast and fairly cleanly played. Campbellford missed more than a few golden opportunities, especially in the third period, when they stormed around the Peterborough nets, but just could not put the puck in.

For $5 Fling Pie At College Students

NEW YORK, March 10 (AP)— Students and faculty members at New York University gathered on the library steps Friday and pushed pies in each other's faces.

It was the annual "pie fling day."

For $5, you could shove a juicy pie into the face of any faculty member or student that you chose as a victim.

And you could choose your weapon: chocolate, lemon meringue, banana cream, huckleberry, cherry or apple.

Said one professor, after being splattered with huckleberry: "Last year I got banana cream. I'd rather have that—it's softer."

The money goes to the student union building fund.

The annexation will take effect in 28 days but the two townships, on Toronto's northwestern outskirts, have until Jan. 1, 1952 to adjust their assets and liabilities.

Clerk John L. Julian of Toronto Gore township said an election may be required to replace three councillors who are residents of the annexed territory.

The whoop provided a climax to the latter selection. The Indian youngsters won the prize of the adjudicators who gave them 80 on each piece.

Appoint Farquhar J. MacRae Ontario County Judge

TORONTO, March 10. — Ontario's newest jurist is a husky, 48-year-old lawyer, who was born in Belfast, Ireland, but has lived most of his life in Toronto and York Township.

Appointment of Farquhar J. MacRae as judge for Ontario County was announced in Ottawa Friday. He succeeds the late Judge D. B. Coleman, whose office in Whitby, the county seat, he expects to take over in the near future.

Mr. MacRae is a familiar figure to those engaged in municipal affairs in Toronto and the surrounding municipalities. Not only is he a prominent lawyer, but he was reeve of York Township for nine years from 1937 to 1946—the most hectic period of his life, he admits.

He came to Toronto from Belfast with his parents when he was nine years old. His father, still living, is Alexander MacRae, for many years a contractor in Toronto.

Mr. MacRae was educated at Harbord Collegiate before going on to the University of Toronto, where he received his BA degree in 1924. Three years later he graduated from Osgoode Hall and was admitted to the bar.

Since then he has devoted himself to building up a flourishing practice, dealing mainly in civil cases, to raising a family of three sons and to taking part in York Township politics. He was made a King's Counsel in 1945.

When he is not working, Mr. MacRae says, he likes to put in his time curling or fishing, depending on the season.

He is a member of the Victoria Curling Club, is a Scottish Rite Mason, a member of the Law Society of Upper Canada, the Canadian Bar Association and St. Clair United Church.

He lives now at 6 Windley Ave., in York Township, but says he will probably move eventually to Whitby or some other point in Ontario County. For the time being, he will have to work overtime tidying up his practice to be able to assume his new duties as soon as possible.

Show Japanese Customs At Meet

MILLBROOK, March 10 (ENS) At the meeting of St. Andrew's Mission Band held Thursday afternoon at the home of Carol Ridge, the children put on a skit. It showed a Japanese tea party, and demonstrated other customs of that land as well. Those taking part were: Helen Wright, Lenore Ouellette, Nancy Powell and Pamela Husser.

Gail Olan lit the candles in the worship centre and Elizabeth Ann McKnight gave the scripture reading. Janet Hobbs, the president, was in the chair. The roll was called and the minutes read by Helen Ingham. Judy Hobbs gave the treasurer's report and took up the offering.

Mrs. Arnold Fallis led in prayer, and Mrs. Bert Gardner read a chapter of the study book.

The children made cardboard tops. Nancy Innis supplied and passed a treat of homemade fudge.

Say Bones So Weird Bugs All End Up At University

VANCOUVER, March 10 (AP) A rare insect? Perhaps. A strange type of mold? Maybe. A valuable mineral? Could be.

When someone is stymied by a discovery, the whatever-it-is usually winds up at the University of British Columbia.

The accompanying letter contains a stock question: What is it Or, sometimes, is it worth anything? The university takes a look.

A gardener unearths a strangely-shaped bone; a housewife finds a weird bug in the pantry; a fisherman stumbles over a curious-looking rock. The list is endless.

Anthropologist Charles E. Borden tells of the time his wife opened what she thought was a carton of groceries. She gasped. The carton contained a human skull, sent along for examination.

In most cases a fast answer can be provided; nothing to get excited about. Occasionally, however, a top-notch find is made.

Prof. D. C. Buckland, forest pathologist, says he has added a number of valuable specimens to his collection of tree blights and parasites through the efforts of curious amateurs.

Other departments have added to their collections in the same way.

Become Quizz-Masters

Even language instructors become quizz-masters and sometimes the stories have a touching ending. Take the case of a Polish immigrant, who wished to establish his professional standing in British Columbia.

One of his documents was a Latin degree certificate granted by a Polish expatriate college at the University of Edinburgh. Latin scholars translated the scroll and the man got the position he was seeking.

There are crackpots, of course, like the types who believe someone is trying to poison them and send along samples of their food for analysis, but the university says:

"As long as time and ability permit, faculty members will make their services available to the public, free of charge."

Western Missions Subject Of Talk

MILLBROOK, March 10 (ENS) Miss Ruby Walker, regional secretary for Saskatchewan of the Presbyterian Women's Missionary Society, was guest speaker at a special meeting in Grace Church on Thursday evening.

Miss Walker gave vivid pictures of work among the Chinese in the small towns of the west. She told how often there would be only one Chinese family an a community, and of how much they needed the fellowship of the church. She spoke also of what is being accomplished with Indian children in residential schools. She mentioned the work of the Presbyterian Church in Hungarian and Ukranian settlements.

Mrs. John Thompson introduced the speaker, and Mrs. W. H. Heustin moved a vote of thanks.

Miss Agnes Johnston, president of the WMS, presided. The scripture lesson was read by Mrs. G. MacKay. A vocal solo, "God Will Take Care of You" was sung by Mrs. J. R. Thompson accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Walter Patterson. Mrs. Patterson also played quiet music at the opening. After the meeting the members of the WMS served tea and cookies.

Red Resistance Collapses Along East Central Front

Large Scale Attack On Canada Unlikely-Claxton

MONTREAL, March 12. (CP)—Defence Minister Claxton said today that competent military experts do not anticipate a large scale attack on North America "by the only possible aggressor" at the outset of a new world war. "It is believed that any enemy would have either the ships or the aircraft to undertake such a job at this time," the Defence Minister told the Montreal Canadian Club in a luncheon address. Then he added: "On the other hand, we do know that Russia has a considerable number of four-engine medium bombers of the B-29 type, capable of carrying a load of about five tons one way to almost any part of North America at a speed of about 300 miles per hour. Such an aircraft is large enough to carry an atom bomb, high explosive or other weapons. It could not carry very many troops."

It was to be assumed that the Russians have the atom bomb, the minister said. Irrespective of the number they may possess, it must be assumed that in an all-out war the Russians would try to drop some on North America.

Can't Patrol Whole Country

"It is out of the question for 14,000,000 people to make a country of 3,500,000 square miles impregnable against aerial attack," said Mr. Claxton.

To deal with attack by airborne troops, Canada has an airborne brigade group of three battalions and other units, force considered sufficient "to deal with this job at the present time." The United Sates has corresponding formations.

For defence against attacking aircraft, Canada is building a network of large radar stations and air defence communications and is making two of the best fighters known "just as fast as they can be made."

"Squadrons of fighters, regular and auxiliary, are being located at crucial points, connected with the long-range eye of radar by a network of communications services," Mr. Claxton said. "Our air defence network is being completely planned, integrated and organized with that of the United States"

Mr. Claxton held out the possibility that Canada might also be subject to submarine assault To meet this, the Canadian Navy is building seaward defences.

Chinese Reds Issue Order To Get Tougher

HONG KONG, March 12 (AP) Shih Liang, Communist China's female minister of justice, has ordered her Communist courts to slam the gates of mercy on every one suspected of opposing the Peiping regime. The courts have been too soft on anti-Reds, she said.

Shih drove home her "get-tougher" orders in a long interpretation of Peiping's new code of penalties for "crimes" against the state. Details of her views have just been received in this British colony on the edge of Communist China.

Shih made it clear that the courts now can order a prisoner shot for his intentions, leaving it up to the courts what the intentions may have been. And she warned that the new laws may be retroactive.

"Where errors have been made in the past, it behooves us to review the case . . . and arrive at a new correct sentence in accordance with the new regulations," she said.

Cases Reopened

Under such an order, any case could be reopened for review at the discretion of the court.

Shih said Communist courts have been guilty of releasing a prisoner because "in the class composition he was a middle peasant," or because "there was nothing much against him," or because "he was too young or too old."

This, she said, must stop.

"Attention should be paid to the evidence in order to avoid letting off the bad elements or being misled by the enemy into persecuting the innocent."

In the detailed instructions, this was the only reference to a safeguard for innocent persons who might find themselves before a Red court on a political charge.

Canada Sends Troops In April

OTTAWA, March 12 — (CP) — Present indications are that Canada's 25th brigade will sail for Korea early in April.

Brig. Frank Fleury, chief Canadian liaison officer at Gen. MacArthur's Tokyo headquarters over plans for the movement.

He is expected to be here for some days discussing all angles of the shipment of 5,000 men from Fort Lewis, Wash., to join the Canadian battalion now serving in Korea.

The men will sail aboard American troop transports. Their equipment, part British, part American, will go about the same time.

External Affairs Minister Pearson said Friday the UN forces are being reinforced partly because of the danger of a Chinese Spring offensive.

$50,000 Fire Damages Building In Orillia

ORILLIA, March 12—(CP)—A $50,000 fire early today damaged the four-storey Cavana-Watson building, the tallest and one of the oldest in this town, in the community's worst fire in several years. The top floor was gutted and apartments, offices and stores on the other floors suffered heavy water damage.

Several families living on the third and fourth floors escaped down a fire escape. Firemen used a ladder to rescue Mrs. D. Gardener and her daughter from a third-floor window.

Mrs. Crosby Refuses Discuss Rift Story

NEW YORK, March 12—(AP)—Dixie Lee Crosby, wife of singer Bing Crosby, boarded a plane for a three-month tour of Europe and told reporters they could make their own story of her marital status.

Reporters asked her if there were any truth in recurring rumors of a rift between her and her husband.

"No comment," she said. "You can make your own story."

Pats Climb More Hills In Advance

Gain 4,000 Yards Unopposed In Weekend Drive

WEST CENTRAL SECTOR, Korea, March 12. (CP)—The Patricias had more hill climbing Saturday. They participated in a general advance in their sector averaging 4,000 yards in depth. The advance, unopposed, moved north and east of Yongdu.

The battalion occupied Mount Kalgi, 2,000 feet high, known militarily as Hill 685. It is northeast of Yongdu.

At dawn they descended the forward slope of Hill 532 which they won at bayonet point on Thursday. They followed a strong patrol led by Sgt. Milton Adolph of Calgary.

The fog-shrouded peak was invisible as A Company under Maj. Vince Lilley of Hamilton assaulted the craggy objective, followed by A Company under Maj. Jack George of Edmonton.

When it became apparent that the enemy had gone, George's men fanned westward, taking that half of the mountain while Lilley continued up the slope. A Company under Maj. George Flint of Montreal completed the operation by investing a flanking ridge.

Nab Two Prisoners

Sunday's assault yielded two Chinese prisoners, both wounded and left behind by the hastily retreating enemy, and placed in the custody of Ptes. Cyril Hoffman of North Vancouver and Tom Powell of Windsor.

A patrol under Lieut. Lorne Hurst of Grande Prairie, Alta., reconnoitred ahead of the main body today. The company led by Major George found a network of strong enemy positions laid out, but only half completed. In their hasty evacuation the enemy left some of their tools behind.

Seizure of the mountain took three hours.

During its approach the battalion crossed a swift-flowing rivulet, and the men took advantage of a halt—while company commanders conferred with Lt.-

Wed 66 Years Die Together

OWEN SOUND, March 12. —(CP).—Death came to Mr. and Mrs. Adam Brown just the way they wished. They wanted to die together.

The couple, who celebrated their 66th wedding anniversary last New Year's Day, died during the week-end within 24 hours of each other. Mr. Brown was 92; his wife 91. Death was attributed to old age.

Mrs. Brown died Saturday, her husband on Sunday. Mr. Brown, who had been unconscious the past two weeks except for a brief period last Wednesday, was unaware of his wife's death.

Both were members of pioneer families and were married here in 1885 by the Rev. A. H. Scott of Knox Presbyterian Church. Mr. Scott was the grandfather of Barbara Ann Scott, Canadian figure skating queen.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown farmed successfully in the Annan district here for many years. They later moved to Owen Sound and set up the Adam Brown and Sons Company, a feed and grain business. Mr. Brown retired several years later.

Commandos Land To Free Cathba

HANOI, Indo-China, March 12—(Reuters)—Three hundred French and Vietnamese commandos have landed on the Tongkin Gulf Island of Cathba to clear out big Vietminh Communist rebel forces, reliable French sources disclosed today.

The reports said they landed last Thursday and swept south across the rocky, cave-riddled island, where the French hold a key lighthouse. The commandos seized the village of Gialuon without a fight two hours after they landed. But rebels ambushed them when they pushed into the narrow, rocky valleys.

The operation was resumed Saturday, the sources said.

Canada And US Swapping Anti-Spy Experts In Move To Tighten Security Measures

WASHINGTON, March 12—(CP)— Canada and the United States have been swapping anti-spy experts in a move to tighten security, it was learned here Sunday.

J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, said in an interview that his agency and the RCMP have perfected a system which will leave saboteurs and espionage agents no place to hide in either country.

"Since 1943," he said, "the FBI has had a special agent permanently assigned to the RCMP headquarters in Ottawa, and the RCMP has its representative stationed at the FBI quarters in Washington."

Hoover mentioned specifically the case of Sam Carr, former secretary of the Canadian Communist Party, sought by Canadian authorities in 1946 for violation of the Official Secrets Act. Carr was located in New York by the FBI and returned to Canada to face prosecution.

In Ottawa, RCMP Commissioner S. T. Wood said Canada's co-operation with the United States on security matters "is an old story."

He said RCMP personnel have been attached to FBI headquarters since 1942 but the work hasn't been confined to handling saboteurs and espionage agents. The same RCMP personnel also hunt for international confidence men and Narcotics Act violators.

1 Dead, 8 Badly Injured In Head-On Highway Crash

KITCHENER, March 12. (CP)—William Kwasniowsky of Brantford, one of the nine persons injured in a three-vehicle highway collision late Sunday night, died in hospital here today. He suffered severe head and facial injuries and along with Jerry Rusak, 20, Brantford was the most critically injured. Rusak is suffering from multiple lacerations and possible fractured skull.

The accident involved two cars and a tractor-trailer transport on Highway No. 8, three miles east of Kitchener.

The other Brantford persons injured are: Nick Hrycycshyn, leg and shoulder fracture; George Demianiw, fractured leg; Antonio Kucewla, severe head injuries, and Jerry Warnsyskyj, scalp and facial lacerations.

The Kitchener man injured is Jerry Grubb, who suffered head injuries.

Two women passengers in the Grubb car escaped with minor injuries and a shaking up. Their names were not known to police.

Tried To Pass

The Brantford car with six occupants was travelling west toward Kitchener. The driver apparently attempted to pass the Kitchener car and collided almost head-on with a big transport truck in charge of Len Walters, of Kingsdale, who escaped injury.

Police are not certain who drove the Brantford car.

The force of the impact locked the wheels of the truck. It veered across the road to the north shoulder and jacknifed into the ditch. The 8½-ton load remained upright on the truck.

Grubb's car overturned and was hurled against a tree.

Gordon Kreuger and Jimmy Lorentz, who live at the Chipocee Ski Club, were among the first on the scene to give first aid. They said the victims in the Brantford car were jammed in like sardines.

Walters said he had no chance when the Brantford vehicle turned out to pass the smaller English type car. "It seemed to be travelling at a pretty good clip," he said.

Commission Opens Police Chief Inquiry

WELLAND, March 12 (CP)—The Welland Police Commission today opened its hearing of evidence in connection with charges against Police Chief Thomas Gee. The hearing is in camera.

The chief was suspended by the commission Feb. 26, after a report turned in by Inspector Charles Wood of the Ontario Proivncial Police covering an investigation requested by the commission.

The charges have largely to do with alleged bootlegging, the chief being accused of permitting illegal sale of liquor and accepting monies or money's worth.

The commission consists of Magistrate T. George Street, County Judge H. E. Fuller and Mayor David J. Thomas.

Committed For Trial In Baby Son's Death

OWEN SOUND, March 12 (CP) —Mrs. Joan Mary Marchello, young wife of navy veteran Steven Marchello, today was committed for trial on a charge of murdering her five-months-old baby son, Edward, at her home last Nov. 7.

She will be tried during the session of the Ontario Supreme Court opening here on March 19.

Evidence was given at previous hearings that the baby was found, apparently dead by drowning, in a partly-filled water bucket in a second-storey room of the family's home.

Big 4 Deputies Dickering Again

PARIS, March 12—(AP)—The Big Four Deputies sat down today for the second—and possibly last—week of dickering over what their foreign minister bosses ought to talk about—if such talks can be arranged.

Just how far they have progressed toward setting up an agenda is still clouded in confusion.

British delegate Ernest Davies said steps have been taken to reach an agenda by next week-end. But a spokesman for the United States Ambassador-at-Large Philip C. Jessup, said he knew of no such steps.

The French told reporters that they hope a foreign ministers' meeting can be held, even if current talks drag on for a couple of weeks more. Foreign Minister Robert Schuman said the talks "should normally lead to an easing of the tension."

The Russians refuse to say anything at all on this or any other subject. They have not held open briefings for reporters. Writers must pick up accounts of Andrei Gromyko's speeches from the other delegations or read them in dispatches of the Soviet news agency, Tass.

From the few words he got on the record Saturday — despite Davies' hurry to get away for a trip to Britain—Gromyko pretty well convinced the rest of the delegates that he would keynote today's session with a resounding "nyet"— the characteristic Russian no.

Strikers Riot In Barcelona

BARCELONA, Spain, March 12 (Reuters).—A wild crowd threw flaming gasoline-soaked rags at the city hall today as the council met while the whole city was in the grip of a strike.

An estimated 300,000 workers downed tools in a cost-of-living strike, and threw picket lines in front of offices and factories.

One woman was hurt outside the city hall.

The crowd burned a motor ambulance standing in front of the building and stopped firemen who tried to extinguish the blaze. Yelling crowds stormed the streetcars and stopped taxis to prevent passengers using them. At the city hall a curtain caught fire but was quickly extinguished.

Police later cleared the square in front of the hall.

The civil governor of Barcelona, Baeza Alegria, went at midday to confer with the military governor of the Barcelona area, Capt. Gen. Juan Sanchez.

Turn Down Chandler

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 12 (AP)—Happy Chandler was again refused a new contract as baseball commissioner today by the major-league club owners. His present seven-year contract expires April 30, 1952. The vote was nine votes for keeping Chandler, seven against. He needed 12 votes to retain his job.

Fine Richard $500, Say Fracas Small

Act Unjustifiable Campbell Says, Serve As Warning

MONTREAL, March 12. (CP) —Maurice (Rocket) Richard today was fined $500 "for conduct deemed prejudicial to the welfare of hockey." The fine was announced by Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League.

The $500 impost on the star right-winger of Montreal Canadiens was levied in connection with an incident a week ago Sunday when Richard encountered NHL Referee Hugh McLean in the lobby of a New York hotel and "roughed" him up.

The NHL president sat in judgment on the case Friday night here and heard from all of those concerned in the fracas. It had its beginnings in Montreal, March 3, when Canadiens were playing Detroit and Richard received what he thought was an undeserved match misconduct penalty which carries with it a $50 fine. McLean was the referee.

Report Exaggerated

Campbell said the official inquiry "shows clearly that the original accounts of this incident reported in the press and elsewhere were exaggerated and no blows actually landed on any of the participants.

"However, it is also clear that Richard did get McLean by the throat or tie when he suddenly approached him to protest against a penalty received the night before at Montreal.

"Richard's arm was quickly brushed aside and he made no effort to strike the referee. Club officials quickly intervened to prevent further trouble.

"Richard's action in grabbing McLean was accompanied by a lot of foul and abusive language at the official which was continued through the entire incident lasting several minutes . . .

Act Unjustifiable

"While the incident was not so serious as at first reported, nevertheless it was completely unjustifiable . . . league officials are entitled to full protection and to be free from molestation of any kind from both players and others associated with the clubs and that applies both on and off the ice.

"They have the full backing of the league and this fine will not

Essen Police Fight 500 Reds In Street

ESSEN, Germany, March 12—(AP)—Club-wielding West German police clashed with about 500 Communists in a street fight Sunday night following an indoor rally against the rearmament of West Germany.

At the end of the meeting the Reds surged into the streets, singing and shouting Red "peace" slogans.

Police reported "several" Communists were injured. They declined to say whether any of the Communists was arrested.

The rally was sponsored by the Free German Youth, a Communist-sponsored organization.

Well-Behaved Lady

BUFFALO, NY, March 12. (AP)—"She's very refined, and a lot quieter than many ladies who ride in my cab," said taxi driver Vincent O'Neill. Then he breathed a sigh of relief as Rosie, his fare, disappeared into the armory where a sportsmen's show is under way. Rosie is a bear. She taxied to and from a radio show yesterday with her trainer, Stanley Beebe.

Navy Has Eye On 30 Ships In Mothballs

OTTAWA, March 12 —(CP)— The navy, gunning for a 100-ship fleet by 1954, has an eye on more than 30 former warships that are expected eventually to be pressed back into service.

It is believed the ships, in effect, have been frozen for recall when they can be of the most use in fulfilling the three-year program that will give Canada a sizeable two-ocean fleet.

They are minesweepers and frigates—the latter tough anti-submarine craft — which were sold by War Assets Corporation after 1945 as part of the dismantling by the navy of 390 fighting ships Canada built in the Second World War.

They were bought by Marine Industries Ltd. of Sorel, Que., and placed in mothballs and have been inspected recently by navy officers.

Marine Industries bought the warships for eventual sale. A clause in the sale agreement said that if the world picture darkened, the navy could order the Sorel plant to take them off the selling list. The navy has already done this.

Strategic Reserve

In a list of warships now available to it, the navy classes them as a 'strategic reserve." Other categories include 22 ships in commission, 22 in the navy's own reserve and 27 under construction or ordered, a total of 71.

In commission—at sea or set to go to sea—are the aircraft carrier Magnficent, the cruiser Ontario, seven destroyers, four frigates and 10 smaller ships. In reserve and slated to be put back in commission are the cruiser Uganda, four destroyers, two frigates and 15 smaller ships.

Orders have been placed for building of seven destroyer-size anti-sub escort vessels, 14 minesweepers and six other ships.

Ottawa Trying Free Dr. Allen

OTTAWA, March 12 — (CP) — The external affairs department said today Canada has been making representations to Communist China about the imprisonment of Dr. Stewart Allen of Montreal, director of a Canadian mission hospital in Chungking.

His imprisonment, on a charge of selling goods without paying the government stamp tax, has been known of here for some weeks.

Canada has been using the British mission in Peiping as a medium to make representations to China for release of Dr. Allen but so far without any success.

U.N. Forces Closing On Hongchon

2 Russian Jet Planes Collide, Explode Chasing US Aircraft

TOKYO, March 12. (CP)— A spectacular explosion of two colliding Russian-made jet planes stole the Korean war spotlight today as ground action slowed behind retreating Communists.

The MIG's were trying to make a tight turn while chasing an American F-80 Thunderjet. They couldn't cut it fine enough, collided and exploded.

A flight of four F-80's, attacked by 16 speedy Red planes, reported they damaged four MIG-15's in a 10-minute dogfight. That brought the bag of damaged MIG's to seven for the biggest two days of jet fighting over northwest Korea.

On the ground, Red resistance collapsed on the East Central front and faded sharply before a three-pronged Allied spearhead along the West-Central sector of the Allies' advancing 70-mile line.

United Nations tank columns rolled to within five miles of Hongchon on the west-central front. Hongchon is a great Communist troop staging area and once was reported to be Chinese general headquarters.

Little Resistance

U.N. forces met little resistance as they probed within sight of the big Red supply centre. Only the day before, Reds before Hongchon fought stiff rear-guard action, indicating they would make a last-ditch stand.

British, Canadian and Australian troops were within five miles of Hongchon on the south. They were 22 miles south of the 38th parallel.

A U.S. 1st Cavalry Division tank force stabbed three miles forward Monday to within five miles of the Red centre on the southwest.

U.S. First Division Marines, approaching Hongchon from the southeast, were reported six miles away.

North Korean resistance collapsed on the east-central front. Allied troops moved in quickly behind the fleeing Reds and seized mile-high Mount Taemi without firing a shot.

Seizure of the commanding peak straightened out the east-central front, which was dented five miles last week by a ferocious Korean Red counter-attack.

Front-line officers said there was no danger of further buckling of the line in that sector.

Lt.-Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, U.S. Eighth Army commander, told war correspondents that UN forces "have let a lot of air out of the inflated balloon of the Chinese military establishments."

In six days the grinding Allied offensive had killed or wounded about 33,000 Communist troops, and, Ridgway said, the ratio of Communist casualties to UN losses was "well over 60 to 1."

Ease Restrictions On U.S. Currency

OTTAWA, March 12 — (CP) — The foreign exchange control board said today it has decided to allow Canadian tourists to double the amount of United States currency they can take out of the country without a permit.

The previous limit was $50 a month, with the remainder of the $100-a-month ceiling to be made up in Canadian funds. Under the new regulations, a tourist can take the $10 monthly maximum in American funds.

Princess Elizabeth Will Visit Gozo

LONDON, March 12—(AP)— Buckingham Palace disclosed today that Princess Elizabeth will visit the island of Gozo later this month.

Gozo is the lesser of the two main islands which make up the Royal Navy's bastion of Malta.

Primary purpose of the Princess' trip, which begins March 19, will be to spend a while with husband Prince Philip. He is stationed at Malta with the Mediterranean fleet, in which he commands a frigate.

Reds Take Over Weddings To Save 5-Year Plan Time

PRAGUE, March 12 (Reuters) —In Czechoslovakia, a country where every hour taken off from work is counted a loss to the five-year economic plan, no time must be wasted on wedding preparations.

Thus Communist authorities have set up a communal enterprise called "Svatka" to help young couples save time and money when getting married.

Run by a team of efficiency experts, Svatka sets itself to carry through all wedding arrangements from the simplest 10-minute registry office affair to the most elaborate church ceremony.

After 12 months in business, Svatka reports having handled preparations for 1,700 couples at a saving of 42,000 working hours for the five-year-plan.

For 170 crowns ($3.40), Svatka will do almost anything from getting civil documents to planning the honeymoon. It will trace lost documents, print and post wedding invitations, insert notices in the papers, and get the special issue of clothing, linen and furniture coupons allowed to newlyweds.

All the couple has to do is show up for the ceremony. Svatka has not yet hit upon supply proxies to save the couple the trouble of coming to the wedding.

On the wedding day, Svatka provides a wedding bouquet, supplies witnesses if the family has none handy, calls in a photographer, orders the wedding lunch or reception, and sees that cars are waiting to whisk the couple and their guests to and from their work. All dealings are with communal enterprises.

After the ceremony the state-owned airline gives a 35-per-cent fare reduction to honeymoon couples. Svatka books a room in any one of the hundreds of nationalized hotels at holiday resorts.

Sees Handwriting On Wall King Gives Peasants Land

CAIRO, March 12 (Reuters).— King Farouk gave the lead for sweeping agrarian reforms in Egypt when he recently ordered the distribution of crown land to landless Fellaheen (peasants).

On his 31st birthday, some 3,000 acres was distributed among 600 families from overpopulated areas.

The land, in units of five acres each, will be paid for over 20 years, with no payments during the first two years.

With the title deeds, each new peasant land owner received the key to a two-room house, a cow, a donkey, a supply of seeds and fertilizers, and a new £5 ($14) banknote.

Four villages have since sprung into being with 620 hygienic houses, schools and health units, public baths and mosques.

King Farouk, reputed to be the largest single land owner in the country, has made a gesture which is expected to provide an incentive to further social reforms and help combat growing Communism in Egypt.

About two-thirds of Egypt's population of 20,000,000 lives under semi-feudal conditions till land so rich it yields tw... three crops a year for a pit...

They often share their mud huts with animals. Sanitation is practically unknown.

Communist propaganda has not been slow to exploit this.

Discontent with the land system now is taking an active form: clashes between officials and peasants are quite common.

Agrarian reform has one main obstacle. Parliament is mainly composed of large proprietors, who will not do away easily with their own privileges.

The King's example, however, is important.

Say Richard Used As Front To Sell Red Paper

MONTREAL, March 12. (CP)—Police Saturday night arrested nine persons, who, they said, were selling a "Communist" newspaper called Champion, carrying a front-page story about Maurice (Rocket) Richard. Lieut. Jean Boyszen of the anti-subversive squad, which seized the papers, said Richard had nothing to do with the paper. He added that the story and a front-page picture of the Montreal hockey idol were used to bait the public into buying the paper, a five-cent eight-page tabloid.

Some 500 copies were seized while hundreds more were strewn along the streets outside the Forum, where Canadiens were playing Chicago Black Hawks.

Police said the six men and three women arrested will be charged with selling papers without a permit. They have been released on $200 bail.

The paper quotes Richard as saying in an interview that he didn't like attempts to monopolize hockey. Champion says the Rocket told its youth editor, Jean Sylvestre, that "Jim Norris had a controlling interest in the four American clubs (of the National Hockey League) and would like to get his hands on the two Canadian teams as well."

Richard "didn't like this attempt to monopolize the hockey game," the paper adds.

No Comment

The Rocket was in New York Sunday night, where Canadiens played Rangers. Other Canadien officials were not available for comment.

Lieut. Boyszen said the nine arrested, all of whom gave Montreal addresses, were members of the National Federation of Labor Youth, an organization he described as Communist.

Champion, in its fourth edition since Jan. 30, is published in Toronto. Its masthead carries the motto: "Youth Demands No Conscription."

In a statement, the Montreal committee of the paper protested the arrest as being "a deliberate attempt to prevent young Canadians from voicing their opposition to conscription."

While its dealers were apprehended for selling Champion, the statement claimed, other newspapers were being sold nearby.

Toronto Milk Price To Rise

TORONTO, March 12 (CP). — A dairy spokesman said today that the Toronto retail milk will likely be increased one cent a quart—to 21 cents—probably before the end of this week, as the result of a conciliation board recommendation that dairy workers get a $6-a-week wage boost dating from March 1.

"Milk will have to go up a cent a quart some day this week if the union accepts the board's finding," said Alderman John McMechan, a director of the Toronto Milk Distributors' Association. He added that there would be no increase in the price of pints, now 12 cents.

The dairies have been paying $3 of the $6 increase since last September, when the retail price was raised to 20 cents a quart from 19.

Agriculture Minister of Ontario today said new Ontario milk legislation is about to be introduced. "I hope the price of milk won't be raised now in Toronto," he added.

Two Saturday Fires Do $50 Total Damage

Two small fires Saturday did total property damage estimated at $50.

An overheated stove pipe at the house of Norman Graham, 636 Union St., ignited a section of the ceiling where the pipe passes through from the ground floor to an upper bedroom. A hole two-foot square was burned in the ceiling but the fire did not get through to the upstairs room.

Damage to the ceiling—mainly to the plaster—is estimated at $25. Firemen used a hand pump to douse the fire.

Children playing with firecrackers in a wood shed at the rear of 299 Townsend St. started another $25 blaze. A firecracker ignited an ironing board and the flames ran up the fall of the wooden shed before firemen doused them with a hand pump.

Sheikh Collects $40,000 Daily From Oil In Desert

CAIRO, March 12. (CP)—An Arab sheikh who reigns over a 50-by-70-mile sandy waste called Kuwait on the hot and humid Persian Gulf rakes in tax free every day some $40,000 in oil royalties. The money—in rupees—rolls into the private bank accounts of 55-year-old Sheikh Abdulla Al-Salim Al-Sabah.

Sheikh Abdullah is a genuine sheikh. He lives in a palace, has a harem and wears the flowing white gold-embroidered kuffiah of the desert Arab.

He serves bitter Arab coffee in tiny cups to his guests, races Arab horses and hunts gazelle in the desert. He gives lavish banquets where his guests' hands are washed in rose water.

Feudal Ruler

He lives as a feudal ruler in a fabulous part of the world, not far from the home port of Sinbad the Sailor. Kuwait is the home of sea-going Arabs who once made fortunes in pearl diving, boat building and trading btween Europe and Asia.

For the last five years a new stream of undreamed-of oil wealth has been flowing to Kuwait—more properly to the sheikh who personally receives the royalty payments.

Oil men say that tiny Kuwait, with its 125,000 Arab inhabitants, sits over what may be the largest single oil reservoir in the world —a reservoir estimated at 11,000,000,000 barrels.

Sheikh Abdulla is new on the job. He succeeded his cousin in February, 1950, after the cousin's death. He was picked by a council of elders comprising the 25 or so top men in the ruling families.

Oil wealth is new to Kuwait. Production started from scratch five years ago and now flows at the record rate of some 400,000 barrels a day. Production of 500,000 barrels a day from present wells is believed possible.

Forced Landing But 2 Men Found Safe

NORTH BAY, March 12 (CP). —Two Hamilton area men are safe after spending a night in a small civilian plane in which they made a forced landing on a tiny northern Ontario lake near Warren, 40 miles west of here.

George Edelkoort, Hamilton painter, and Christopher Petroff of Bronte were found Saturday by a search plane flown by Tod Wilson of North Bay.

Other planes from the North Bay and Sudbury areas spent several hours searching the bush country after it was reported that the blue-and-yellow Fleet Canuck had gone down between here and Sudbury late Friday while returning to North Bay from a flight to Manitoulin Island.

Edelkoort's plane was accompanied on the trip to the island by a plane flown by Wilson, with Clayton Vaughan of Bronte as a passenger. As they were nearing Sudbury on the return flight, Wilson and Vaughan saw the other plane veer off to the south and disappear in light haze.

Wilson started searching at dawn Saturday. His plane was joined by craft from the Lands Department base here and from Lakeland Airways here, as well as from Austin Airways at Sudbury.

Housing Laws May Be Eased

OTTAWA, March 12.—(CP).—The Federal Government is keeping a close eye on the housing situation in expanding defence production areas and special concessions may be made under the National Housing Act to encourage more home building there, a spokesman said today.

Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, the Government's home-financing agency, is making a survey of present and future needs in areas where defence production has or will bring a big influx of workers.

The spokesman said no definite steps will be taken until the survey is complete. But it was probable the Federal Government might take joint steps with the provinces concerned to provide necessary housing in these areas.

It might also be prepared to restore the National Housing Act provision by which a homebuilder could get an additional one-sixth of his original loan.

Hit Near Home Man Aged 90 Dies In Hospital

COBOURG, March 12 (ENS)—John Cullin, 90, resident of Wicklow, was fatally injured just after midnight on Sunday near Grafton when saruck by a hit-and-run driver. He died in Cobourg General Hospital at 4:30 on Sunday morning. Police reconstruction of the fatality is that the old man was walking west on highway No. 2, a short distance from the home of Harry Wapshaw, with whom he lived. When struck by an east-bound car he was apparently about to cross the road, as he was only two feet south of the centre line. Blood marks indicated he was thrown about 12 feet where he was found a short time later by Albert E. Thompson of Belleville.

Police checked on all cars going into Beleville. Whoever was responsible for the fatality, his car will bear plenty of evidence that he was in an accident. The radiator was broken as evident from anti-freeze found at the scene and from the multiple injuries received by the old man, the front of the car must have sustained heavy damage.

Mr. Cullin had lived in this district for many years and was well known in Cobourg and Grafton. He has no survivors. There has been no decision yet as to an inquest. The accident was investigated by Provincial Constables Frank Clough and Hugh Wooldridge of Cobourg.

Australians Food, Climate Weakening

SYDNEY, Australia — (CP)— Most Australians like to think they come of a race of 'supermen' but they don't.

The traditional Australian is tall, broad-shouldered, narrow-hipped, lean jawed with steely eyes. Maybe there were a lot of these at the turn of the century, but that isn't the picture today.

Statistics kept by doctors in the Second World War recently reviewed here showed the average Australian now is five feet 7½ inches tall, weighing 142 lbs. with a 34-inch chest. He is bald early in life and loses his teeth before he loses his hair. He also has a tendency toward nervous disorders and stomach ulcers.

Two of every three Australians volunteering for the services in the last three months have been turned down as not meeting the physical requirements.

Doctors have various reasons for what appears to be the physical deterioration of Australians. One is the climate, warm and humid, encouraging a tendency to take things easy. Over-exposure to the sun is a common habit among Australians, taking its toll of nervous and physical energy.

Food is another big cause. Doctors say Australians eat too much meat and not enough vegetables and fruit. They drink too much tea and beer.

Smith To Spend $28,800 On Roads

Smtih council will have $28,000 to spend this year on construction and maintenance of its township roads.

The leaders of two volunteer fire departments in the township, Chief Al Crowe and Chief Noble, submitted their estimates equivalent to a rate of six mills which will be levied on each fire protection area.

Mr. J. A. Middleton reported a small balance still to be collected o nthe 1949 tax roll. He was instructed to collect these taxes, by distress if necessary, not later than March 24, and return the roll at the next regular meeting.

A petition from more than two-thirds of the cattle owners in the township requested that all cattle in the municipality by treated for warble fly. The necessary bylaw was passeod, and Cephas Bullock was appointed insector to enforce the bylaw. An Iron Age sprayer has been purchased. This machine will also be used for weed spraying.

Mr. T. Lawrence was granted a permit to build a service station and restaurant on the Chemong Road south of the Lindsay turn.

Application of Crown Concrete Products to build a block factory on lot 6, WCR, was granted, and a permit will be issued.

Pope Attends Solemn Mass

VATICAN CITY, March 12 — (AP)—Pope Pius attended a Solemn Mass of thanksgiving celebrated in the Sistine Chapel today in honor of the 12th anniversary of his coronation.

As the pontiff was carried on his portable throne to the famous chapel, several thousand Roman Catholics who had been permitted to enter the Vatican palace cheered him with shouts of "Viva il papa."

Dressed in white and wearing the beehive shaped tiara, the pope blessed them again and again as he progressed towards the chapel.

There, 12 cardinals, diplomatic representatives to the Vatican and prelates filled the chamber.

In the chapel, the pontiff descended from his portable throne and knelt at the altar to pray briefly. He then took his place on a temporary throne placed at the side of the altar.

The Mass was celebrated by Beneddetto Aloisi Cardinal Masella.

In an anniversary broadcast to poverty-ridden Spain Sunday the pope called for a "just salary and a better distribution of natural wealth." He said these are among the most important points in the social program of the church

Carves 228 Rations From Small Sheep

LEEDS, England—(CP)—Britain's "match-box" meat ration means that one sheep can be made to serve 228 customers.

A Leeds butcher demonstrated that by carefully carving a small sheep into 228 rations, less excess fat and bone.

"It has to be lean meat because customers won't take anything else when they get so little anyway," the butcher said.

The ration now is eightpence (about 10 cents) worth of fresh meat a week. Butchers say that far from having less to do in providing the small ration, they are busier than ever trying to keep the cuts the right size.

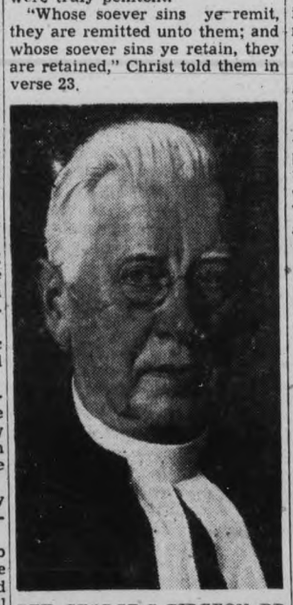
First United Church Moderator Preaches Mark St. Anniversary



"I am the vine, ye are the branches," the Very Rev. George C. Pidgeon, First Moderator of the United Church, quoted in summing up the Christian Church and its relationship with God, the source of its life.

Dr. Pidgeon was speaking at the 23rd anniversary service of Mark St. Untied Church Sunday morning. The church was completely filled with people sitting in chairs in the aisles.

Verses 19 to the end of 23 in Chapter 20 of the book of St. John were "really the beginning of the Christian church as an organized body," the speaker said.

He said the people sitting in church listening to him were the "spiritual descendants" of those disciples who were greeted by Christ the first day of his resurrection. To those few men he gave the authority and power to forgive the sins of people who were truly penitent.

"Whose soever sins ye remit, they are remitted unto them; and whose soever sins ye retain, they are retained," Christ told them in verse 23.

REV. GEORGE C. PIDGEON, DD

Christ came to the disciples and said, "peace be unto you." Peace had characterized Christ's conduct throughout his life and he had transmitted the same sense of peace to His church.

Christ's first act was to establish His identity. ". . . he shewed unto them his hands and his side. Then were the disciples glad when they saw the Lord."

It wasn't enough for them, said Dr. Pidgeon, to witness Christ's spiritual immortality. They wanted to see that he had conquered His death on the cross. They wanted to see that in fact He had come back in body to the land of the living

Pass On His Commission

But He had returned to pass on His commission. "As my Father has sent me, even so send I you." They were given a mission in life. It was to spread Christianity throughout the world. It was to establish the Christian church. The Christian church still had that commission and that authority passed on to it. The church must never become self-satisfied nor tempted to rest on its laurels.

The church, said Dr. Pidgeon, was not just a voluntary group. "It was established by the authority of her Lord and their endorsement by Him."

Just as God had breathed life into Adam as described in the book of Genesis, so Christ breathed life to the church.

Quoting verse 22, "He breathed on them, and saith unto them, receive ye the Holy Ghost."

The church had gone only a short distance in its history when it became obvious that organization was required. The church had been criticized by those who said it was overorganized. But the difficulty, said the speaker, was often that there was not enough spirit and life in its members to make the organization work. Just as the church is kept in motion by the action of its members, so the members are put into action by the church.

Christ was the life of His organization as the vine is life to the branches.

"The church lives by its unity with him who brought it into being," Dr. Pidgeon said. "The branch is as necessary to the tree as the tree is to the branches. You are as indispensable to Christ as Christ is to you."

But the nature of the branch determines the kind of fruit that the branch will bear, the speaker reminded the members of the congregation.

The type of people the congregation were would determine the kind of fruit the church would bring into its community. Christ had worked through people, not through the written word, nor through violence.

"Jesus started the ministry by calling men to full-time service," he said. There was a very urgent need in the church in Canada for full-time service. He said the church should supply that need by providing its best sons and daughters for full-time service.

Guest soloist was Don Landry. Mark St. United Church's minister is Rev. R. S. Morwood.

Need Pencil, Alphabet Ability, Rotary Told

COBOURG, March 12 (ENS)— A pen, pencil or typewriter, 26 letters of the alphabet, something to write about, and an ability to make it interesting were the essentials in story writing, Frank Pickford, local author, told the Rotary Club luncheon here. Mr. Pickford was formerly editor of the Sentinel Star in Cobourg, but has been devoting himself to short story writing during the past 10 years.

It took from five to 15 years and millions of words of practice to click in the writing game, Mr. Pickford said. As for plots, there were many, but they all boiled down to the same basic facts — man and woman sought happiness, although that happiness might be represented by various things.

Peterborough Helps Torontonians

Toronto people have been living all their lives in the flicker of 25-cycle lighting and last year Peterborough folk distributed $70,655 of their money to help Torontonians out of their eye-straining situation. We hope that Toronto, Hamilton and other places in the 25-cycle area are properly grateful. As a matter of fact, every Ontario municipality in the 60-cycle area is contributing quite substantial sums of money towards the frequency standardization, even though it is of little direct value to them. Cobourg, for instance, had a bill, which it of necessity paid in advance, for $12,360.

* * *

Hydro accounts for 1950 have now gone out to all the Utilities Commissions buying their power from Hydro, as most do. The so-called 13th bill provides rebates of goodly size to the municipalities. (The 13th bill is really an annual accounting of receipts and expenditures, and since each municipality is assessed month by month during the year, and pays month by month on an estimated cost put high enough to prevent deficits, the 13th bill is usually a rebate for overpayment after all costs have been tallied by Hydro.) Cobourg had, in its 13th bill, a rebate of $12,972, which would have been twice as big if it had not had to pay $12,360 for its year's share of the big conversion job. Peterborough had a sizeable rebate of $55,821. This was as large as it was because of the increased use of power locally; it could have been $126,476 if the city had not been billed for $70,655 for the frequency changeover.

* * *

Since a standard frequency throughout the Province is very desirable, Peterborough will not grudge sharing the cost, even though it is not directly affected by the change. It can be a little dismayed that the Hydro authorities are being as generous with our money as they are, since even small electrical gadgets are being replaced or renewed free of charge. Need the Commission have been so liberal? Could a minimum not have been set—say $15—under which appliances of less value should be converted at the householder's expense? The cost to individuals would have been small; the cost to the Commission (and thus to all Hydro users in the Province) for converting hundreds of thousands of small appliances is very great.

* * *

The bills for the work which is only beginning will undoubtedly grow larger as the standardization pace is increased. Next year's bills will be bigger, we assume, and there will be similar costs to Peterborough, Cobourg and all other places during the next three or four years until the conversion is completed. As we said before, we hope Torontonians are grateful to us in the 60-cycle zones. Perhaps the mayors of Toronto, Hamilton and other cities on the Niagara basic system will be sufficiently appreciative to write letters of thanks to Peterborough, Port Hope, Cobourg, Millbrook, Lakefield, Cavan, Bailleboro and all other municipalities which are helping so generously with the financing of their change-over. It is the least they could do in these times when our Hydro household bills have risen.

Let Us Not Treat Women As Fools

Two strangely contradictory opinions of women have appeared in pieces of Ontario legislation during the past week. The first opinion, and one of which we strongly approve, is the background of the Fair Employment Practices bill, introduced into the Legislature by the Labour Minister; it is the opinion that women who do work of equal quality and quantity with men should be paid on the same scale as men. There are objections to this provision, the chief complaint being that many men must maintain families on their incomes, and therefore need more money than single women who do work comparable to their own. Recognizing the truth of this, we nevertheless feel that the day is not far distant when in many families both man and wife will share the task of supporting the family, and that the equal-pay-for-equal-work theory is a signpost toward the future rather than a revolutionary change in a static society. The work, rather than the need, must be the decisive factor in determining payment; otherwise needy incompetents would have a better claim on high payment than efficient workers.

The other opinion about women, of which we strongly disapprove, lies behind the provision in the bill which permits women to serve on juries, which says that "a judge may excuse a woman from jury duty in criminal cases where the type of case or evidence to be heard is deemed to be unacceptable to women." Unless we are mistaken, this means that women may be excused from jury duty in cases involving rape, sexual crime, homosexuality and the like. Such a provision, in our opinion, insults the intelligence and moral stamina of women. They could bring to such cases a point of view and a degree of understanding which would be valuable.

Women are not delicate flowers, withered by consideration of the unpleasant aspects of life. As mothers and as nurses they show every day that they can deal with tragedy and horror and filth as competently as men. Women are no more sentimental than men, and in their attitude toward an offence against a child we think that they would hold the balance as steadily as men. A woman who has borne a child in blood and sweat and labour is not going to shrink from evidence about a bloody crime. A level-headed woman of the world may show more intelligent understanding of homosexuality and the crimes that spring from it than many men. Women are not fools, and we do not think that an Ontario law needs any provision which suggests that they are.

Furthermore, if women are to have the vote, the full privileges of citizenship, and equal pay for equal work, they must also have the responsibilities which go with these things. Let no one cry out that chivalry is dead. Chivalry, if we examine it carefully, was the exaggerated respect which was paid to women in return for the surrender of many of their rights as free and intelligent human beings. In the modern world there is no place for that sort of chivalry; it has been supplanted among the majority of people by a courtesy between the sexes which works both ways, and is rooted in a mutual respect. In a world where men and women are rivals and comrades in work, that is the only sort of courtesy which is practicable.

In the modern world women need be no less delightful and men no less gallant than in the past. But their charm and their gallantry must rest upon a sensible recognition of the basic worth of both sexes. The provision which lets women off jury duty when something nasty has to be discussed is unnecessary and undesirable.

Eisenhower And Politics

While political commentators in the United States deplore the fact that the name of General Dwight Eisenhower is continually dragged into discussions of domestic politics, they point out that it has become impossible to discuss the subject without doing so. The rift in the Republican Party is the cause of this, for the moderate group of Republicans is rigidly opposed to the policy apparently adopted recently by Senator Taft, of Ohio, considered the party's strongest candidate, at the moment, for the Presidential nomination next year.

Senator Taft, after some months of hesitation, now appears to have embraced the foreign policy favoured by The Chicago Tribune, the newspaper published by Col. Robert R. McCormick. That policy may be described briefly as one of isolationism, strongly seasoned with Anglophobia. It denounces everything General Eisenhower stands for in international affairs, and calls for establishment of a "stockade state" for America. The colonel occasionally has intimated he might be willing to have the U.S. annex Canada as a part of this program.

That alone would be sufficient to strengthen the determination of the moderate Republicans to find a candidate with a chance of defeating Senator Taft for the nomination, but The St. Louis Post-Dispatch has given them an equally compelling reason. It has published a series of well-documented articles showing that Senator Taft has entered what it calls "a sinister alliance" with Senator McCarthy. It seems incredible that a man with Senator Taft's reputation for high integrity would do so, yet astute political observers in the United States claim that The Post-Dispatch articles are soundly based. If so, this would bring Senator Taft into closest association with a man who received a $10,000 cheque from the Lustron Corporation, allegedly for writing a small housing pamphlet, and who has been accused of receiving numerous "loans" from Lustron's president, Carl Strandlund. And Senator McCarthy, according to an incomplete tabulation made by The Denver Post, poured out a total of seventy distortions and demonstrable falsehoods in just twelve months.

The moderate Republicans, therefore, are convinced that they must prevent Senator Taft from winning the nomination, and they feel that General Eisenhower is the only man who could do so. The flaw in their planning is that the general sincerely doubts the wisdom of a soldier entering politics, and he now holds a post in which he believes he can best serve his country and his ideals. However, if he was confronted with the possibility of McCarthyism at home and McCormick foreign policy abroad, he might change his mind about how he could serve best.

Musical Notes

by
PETER PIPER

I CALLED on a friend this afternoon. While we were talking together at the door the strains of a "boogie-woogie" version of Rimsky's "Flight of the Bumble Bee" were wafted towards me. I suppose that Rimsky, were he alive to hear it, would have made some acid remarks on it, but I must confess that I was fascinated by the sinister angularity of the arrangement. Somebody told me once that boggie-woogie was invented by a deceased garage hand. After hearing a few records I could not help being struck by the resemblance of this music to the jerky running of an early Ford engine with "mooky ploogs". How different from the first movement of Bach's Third Brandenburg Concerto, which ticks over as smoothly and efficiency as an eight-cylinder engine in perfect working order! If any boogie-woogie merchant has the temerity to tinker with the works of Brandenburg No. 3 he should be immediately jet-propelled into the middle of the South Pacific.

THE influence of machinery on music is not entirely of recent origin. Schubert, Mendelssohn, Raff, Wagner and others have written spinning songs, with accompaniments suggesting the monotonous humming of the spinning wheel. But it is comparatively lately that the machine has played an outstanding role in inspiring composers. The Soviet composer Mossolov glorified the din of a steel foundry in his "Music of the Machines", and Honegger did the same thing for a mighty locomotive in his "Pacific 231". With regard to the latter Honegger said "I have not aimed to imitate the noise of an engine, but rather to express in terms of music a visual impression and physical enjoyment. The piece opens with an 'objective' contemplation, the quiet breathing of the engine at rest, the straining at starting, then the progressive increase of speed, finally reaching the lyrical pathetic state of a 300-ton train thundering through the silence of the night at 75 m.p.h." In spite of Honegger's protestations he succeeds in spite of himself in eliciting a remarkably realistic imitation of the sounds of a railway train. His use of terms such as "objective contemplation" and "lyrical pathetic state", which sound so protentious and empty when translated into plain English, are part of the ordinary small-change of French artistic sales-talk, and as such are not particularly enlightening. But then, composers are not always very clever at explaining their own work. I would say that Honegger has treated his train as though it were a living being that breathes, acts and feels. The listener can share the sense of exhilaration, of effortless power, when the engine is pounding away at full speed, and the feeling of relief and relaxation of the tension when it slows down to a majestic halt in the closing bars.

IT would, however, be a mistake to limit the influence of machinery on music to the comparatively few instances where this influence is explicity indicated by the title of the work. Would it be too fanciful to interpret the steady one, two, three, four of jazz as the impact of modern industrial and mechanized life, while the syncopations and cross-rhythms of the melody paint a picture of the jangled nerves and frustrations of the individual in modern society.

IT has been possible for a number of years to obtain the correct time in many European countries by simply dialling the telephone. Now a new service has been started at The Hague. By dialling a number it is possible to receive a tuning note of A = 400 vibrations per second. The service is at present on an experimental basis, and if proved useful it will be extended to other exchanges. It can also be heard in other exchanges, but there is no guarantee that the intonation will be exact outside The Hague. A night telephone call to Holland costs $9.00 for the curious!

ONE of the King's nephews, the Earl of Harewood, has made quite a reputation for himself as music critic to the London weekly of Leftist views, "The New Statesman and Nation". His marriage to a young Austrian pianist was a social event of importance, and best man was Benjamin Britten, the composer. An amazing misunderstanding occurred at the christening of his son recently. Apparently the reporter covering the event for the "Yorkshire Evening Post" had telephoned the details to his office, and was understood to have said "Sheep may safely cross by dark", when what he meant to convey was "Sheep my safely graze, by Bach". There is another story of a similar kind of misunderstanding. A man went into a store to buy something. He noticed that the radio was on and recognized one of the finest works for violin and piano. Assuming that the clerk was a music-lover he remarked "So you are fond of the Franck Sonata". "Oh, I'm not so fussy about all that crooning", was her reply.

I AM afraid that the general standard of sight-seeing amongst all performers is deplorably low. There is no reason why any musician of average attainments should find any greater difficulty in singing or playing at sight any moderately easy piece of music than in reading a newspaper. Yet we all know what happens; the unfortunate sight-reader stumbles from note to note, going back on his traces, fumbling blindly and inflicting almost as many torments on his audience (if any) as on himself. It is obvious that people differ very widely in ability to sight-read, yet I am convinced that most of the trouble that is experienced is due to two main causes—uncertainty about fundamentals and lack of practice. In the first place it is necessary to have a clear idea of the most important thing in sight-reading, namely to keep going. This is much more important than striking all the right notes. Bulow very rightly said, "In the begining was the Rhythm". If the rhythm is observed faithfully many small errors or omissions are unnoticed, and even serious errors do not sound half as bad. The aim should be to give a rough idea of the piece rather than a meticulous playing of every note with a total disregard of rhythm. Before starting one should look over the piece to be played, noting the key signature, the time signature, deciding the key of the pieces, noting which clefs are being used, and so on. Do not assume that the opening clefs will always be treble clef for the right hand, bass clef for the left hand. Look out for rhythmic patterns and melodic patterns, sequences and the like. This is important if the piece is to sound a coherent whole rather than a series of disjointed sounds.

IF you are reading aloud from a book your eye always travels a few words ahead of the actual words that are being read. This is how it should be when reading music. Check up on your knowledge of the Rudiments of Music: common things such as the different rests are not understood. Scales and arpeggi in all major and minor keys should be kept up to scratch; a sound knowledge of them is a great help. Finally there is nothing like practice to improve sight-reading. In my young days I found a hymn book a remarkably good training-ground. After that the easier scherzi and slow movements of the Beethoven Sonatas. Bulk is the thing.

Letters To The Editor

PROTEST FROM C.G.E. PLAYGOERS

Sir: As President of the Social and Athletic Club of the C.G.E., which includes more than 4,000 members who work and live in Peterborough, I wish to express my very deep dissatisfaction that the inability of Mr. Sadlier to secure rental of the Queen Mary auditorium may drive the Summer Theatre out of the city.

The fact that each of the two years our club has sold between 4,000 and 5,000 tickets to its members for the plays, shows that they are certainly interested in the Summer Theatre. They will be very disappointed if this attraction is not available to them this year. Our Club books the theatre for a night a week for the ten or eleven plays, and every night the theatre has been sold out completely, not an empty seat. This shows, surely, that we enjoy the plays and want them back again this summer.

I cannot personally see how the actors can put on a good show at the Collegiate with half a house, and I hope that a way may be found to let them have the Queen Mary auditorium again.

Yours sincerely,
WM. C. BENNETT,
President,
Social and Athletic Club, C.G.E.

MORE THAN ONE NUISANCE

Sir: Living directly opposite Queen Mary School, on Weller Street, I think I may be allowed my opinion as to the ways in which this school may be considered a public nuisance The smoke from its chimney is a nuisance to the neighbourhood whenever there is a wind; it is dirty, black smoke from the type of coal used in big heating plants, and it is hard on clothes and curtains. Paper scraps blow all over the schoolyard, and end up on the neighbour's lawns The pumping station, erected without consulting the wishes of the neighbours, on the school playground, is a continuous nuisance But the rental of the auditorium has never been a nuisance to me or to any neighbours I have spoken to, and we have never been offended by any noise or Sunday activity connected with it

We do not complain about the nuisances I have mentioned above because we realize that schools are important—more important than small matters of our personal convenience. In a democracy the good of all comes before the good of the few Why, then, is this fine democratic principle reversed in the matter of the Summer Theatre?

It is easy enough to deal with the parking nuisance, if it is a nuisance Let the patrons of the theatre park their cars on the school ground. This solution is so simple that many people wonder why the Board did not suggest it themselves, and save all this fuss.

Yours truly,
(MRS.) RUTH B. COWAN.

NO COMPLAINTS ABOUT HOCKEY CROWD

Sir: I was very pleased to read the letters referring to the Peterborough Summer Theatre. I was one of the many who thoroughly enjoyed the Theatre last year and was looking forward to the coming season.

Maybe the residents of the area surrounding the school are not the only ones who have a complaint about the noise at eleven o'clock at night. Have they been to a hockey game at the Arena lately and heard the racket of an after-game crowd? We live very near the arena and it is not uncommon to find cars parked in our laneways and on our lawns and yes, even in the doorways of our garages. Has there ever been a complaint about these? Has anyone asked for the Arena to be moved? No!

I guess because our homes are not ritzy and the residents are mere factory workers we have no kick coming? Or is it that we are more considerate of the pleasures of others and like to see people enjoying themselves? Just because we do not like hockey we do not wish others to be less demonstrative in expressing their enjoyment.

I have been wondering how many of the residents of the Queen Mary School area attend the Theatre. Are they maybe jealous because they spend their summers at cottages and resent us city dwellers the pleasure of a night at the Theatre!

Yours for a Summer Theatre.
"CASEY".

APPROVES OUR STAND ON BIBLE TRANSLATION

Sir: Thanks for your admirable comments upon the latest efforts to improve the Authorized Version of the Bible. I have read many of these deplorable "improvements" and without exception the substituted words have enfeebled the meaning and emasculated the robust phrasing of the original. As you say, who would wish to re-write "Shakespeare?" Or for that matter, "The Pilgrim's Progress?"

If the laity do not understand the Bible the fault lies with the clergy: if they cannot (or will not) explain the meaning of the incomparable Authorized Version it is a confession of their own incompetence. The greatest writers and orators of the day (Winston Churchill and Rudyard Kipling, for instance) have been dilgent students of the Bible and gladly avow their indebtedness to it. Despite the Bible-tinkers and their cheap wares the Authorized Version will always remain as a noble and inspired example of impressive English as well as a source of consolation to Christian people.

Bible Message

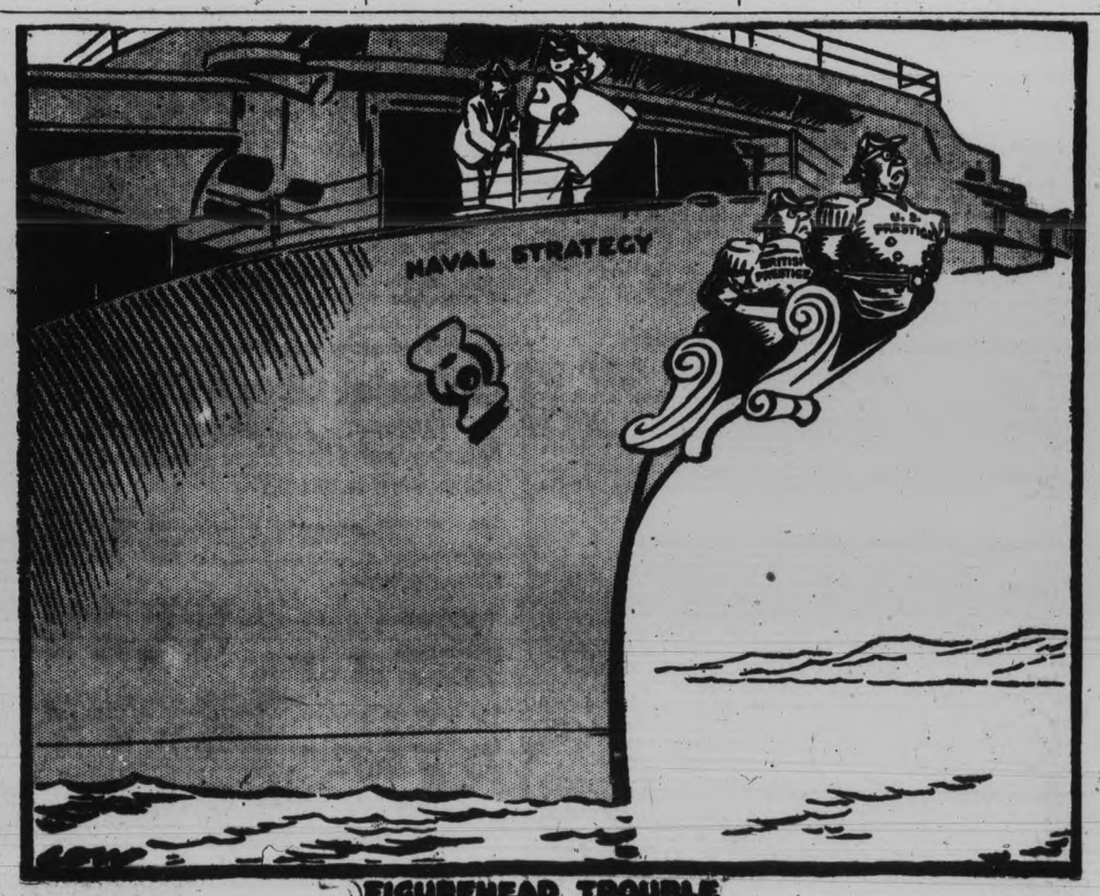
(From the Authorized Version)

It is a good thing to give thanks unto the Lord, and to sing praises unto thy name, O most High: to shew forth thy loving kindness in the morning, and thy faithfulness every night, upon an instrument of ten strings, and upon the psaltery; upon the harp with a solemn sound. For thou, Lord, hast made me glad through thy work: I will triumph in the works of thy hands...

The righteous shall flourish like the palm tree: he shall grow like a cedar in Lebanon Those that he planted in the house of the Lord shall flourish in the courts of our God (Ps. 92: 1-4, 12, 13.)

✧ ✧ ✧

The Lord reigneth, he is clothed with majesty; the Lord is clothed with strength wherewith he hath girded himself: the world also is stablished, that it cannot be moved. (Ps. 93: 1.)



✧ ✧ ✧

I know that, whatsoever God doeth, it shall be for ever: nothing can be put to it, nor any thing taken from it: and God doeth it, that men should fear before him. That which hath been is now; and that which is to be hath already been; and God requireth that which is past. (Eccl. 3: 14, 15.)

700 C.G.E. Quarter Century Club Members

Celebrate Over 20,000 Years Combined Service With Canadian General Electric

Last Saturday, 700 members of Canadian General Electric Company's Quarter Century Club attended a dinner in the concert hall at the Royal York Hotel. The gathering, under the chairmanship of R. M. Love, consisted of members of the Peterborough and Toronto chapters, together with representatives from Halifax, Montreal-Ottawa and Western chapters. The Peterborough contingent of 250 came to Toronto by special train.

— There are 765 Quarter Century Club members at work in the plants and offices of Canadian General Electric, 97 of whom are women. 177 pensioners bring the total membership to 942. Three pensioners are in their 91st year and 29 are over 80 years of age. One pensioner, whose son also is a member, is already starting his second quarter century as a pensioner. Another family has twelve members all working in the Peterborough plant — with four of them having passed their quarter century marks. There are 10 cases of fathers and sons both being members.

During the course of the evening, H. M. Turner, President of Canadian General Electric, addressed the Quarter Century Club members. He spoke about the essential contributions of the electrical industry to the nation—helping to supply a vast array of capital goods for the "Production Front" as well as equipment for the armed services.

If it continues to make this vital contribution to Canada's strength, as well as to needs of consumers, the electrical industry would produce as much in the next decade as it has throughout the past 60 years, according to Mr. Turner.

The guests were entertained by an exact replica of the C.G.E. radio show — with the Leslie Bell Singers, Howard Cable and the Orchestra, baritone Charles Jordan and John Scott, narrator, appearing in person.

Man Wounded In Gun Battle

BRANTFORD, March 12 (CP) —John W. Kramer, 32, is in hospital here with bullet wounds received early Saturday in a gun battle with two policemen. Kramer, whose condition is reported as not serious, was hit in the right wrist, in the left hand and in the right ankle.

Police said five shots were fired, one by Kramer and a warning shot and the three subsequent police shots. They said the warning shot was fired after Kramer had fired at them.

Kramer will be charged, police said, with attempt to maim a police officer.

Traffic Officer James Davison and Constable Tom Jordan were called to the home of John Kramer, Sr., to give protection to Mrs. John Kramer, Jr., who was staying there. The call that the police received reported that the younger Kramer was threatening to shoot his wife.

Cliff Matthews and Charles Smith of the Western Canada university won debates with representatives from the University of New Brunswick and from Laval University to win the top award of the Canadian University Debating Association.

The topic of each debate was: "Resolved that compulsory arbitration in labor disputes be required in essential industry."

TAIPEH, Formosa, March 12—(Reuters).—The Chinese Nationalist military information service said Sunday that Russia had "taken full control" of Manchuria northern industrial province on the Soviet border. The information service said the province was governed by a "Russian advisory group."

Ask Muskie Season Be Extended

TORONTO, March 12 (CP). — A resolution asking that pickerel and northern pike be declared game fish was passed Saturday at the annual convention of the Northern Ontario Outfitters Association.

The recommendation was among 25 to be laid before the fish and game committee of the Ontario Legislature when it meets next week.

The outfitters contended that since pickerel and northern pike are recognized as game fish by commercial fishermen and the Fish and Wildlife Branch it should be legalized as such.

Another resolution called for establishment of a $1 resident angling licence. Delegates expressed belief that an angling licence for residents 16 years and over would help make the general public more conservation-minded. Revenue derived from sale of such a licence, the resolution said, would provide for greater propagation of game fish and establishment of additional rearing ponds.

Other Recommendations

The delegates, representing 1,400 licenced camp owners and outfitters in north and northwestern Ontario, approved other resolutions calling for:

1. Opening of a controlled moose season in areas approved by the Department of Lands and Forests. One area which would be excluded would be the Kenora-Rainy River district south of the main line of the CNR, described as a congested area.

2. Establishment by the department of fish hatcheries and muskellunge rearing ponds at Nestor Falls and Dryden in the Lake of the Woods district, an area which has been famous for muskellunge but whose waters have never been restocked.

3. Extension of the muskellunge season to Oct. 15, from Oct. 1. This resolution, from the northwestern Ontario camp owners, said: "Few muskies taken between Oct. 1 and Oct. 15 would not be detrimental to the musky supply and offer an additional attraction for late season fishing."

Warns West Keep Eye On Russ Expansionism

ANNECY, France, March 12 — (Reuters). — French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman said here Sunday night that the Paris conference of the Big Four deputies "should lead to an easing of world tension."

But Western powers must be on guard against "Russian expansionism," he added in a speech on foreign aggairs.

The Schuman plan for the pooling of European coal and steel supplies is "on the point of realization." The plan is "revolutionary but it should bring Europe more well-being from the social and economic points of view," he added.

Present Plan To Truman

KEY WEST, Fla., March 12. — (AP). — A multi-billion dollar spending program was proposed to President Truman Sunday to "break the back of hunger and famine" and halt Soviet aggression "short of war."

The proposal came from the International Development Advisory Board headed by Nelson Rockefeller as a means of combatting "military aggression and subversion" on the one hand and "hunger, poverty, disease and illiteracy" on the other.

Truman said the 86-page report would be of "great help" in drafting recommendations he will send to Congress in "the near future" for foreign defence and economic assistance in the next fiscal year.

Owen Sound Defeats Petes To Open Allan Cup Series

Owen Sound Mercurys opened their best-of-seven senior "A" Allan Cup playdown series at home Saturday night with a 10-2 win over the Petes. A crowd of 1,200 saw a speedy, clean fray with the homesters earning the victory by everal goals, though not by an eight-goal margin, The second game is here Wednesday and third on Friday before they return to the northern centre.

Tired from their series with Kingston Nylons and the long motor trip to Owen Sound, the Petes turned in a poor display. They found the large ice surface with the extra wide curved corners hard to figure for half the game and this, coupled with some cheap penalties, proved too big a handicap the last part of the visit to overcome. Two Owen Sound goals were scored with Petes in the sin bin and another glanced in off a defenceman's skate. The count should have been about 6-2. Petes were without Tompkins or Garvey.

Sounders Good

On the other hand the Sounders turned in a swell effort all through. They were big and fast, flashing fine in-close combination and finish around the net, and having a real basher in Harry Kazarian, the chunky lacrosse villain. They took a 3-1 lead in the first and really flew to wham home five markers in the second chukker. The Petes outplayed them in the 2-1 third period but were robbed repeatedly at the net. They said afterward that on the smaller surface here and at full strength—without a long trip behind them—they should even the series on Wednesday.

Tommy Burlington shone throughout for Mercurys in a great showing, with Jack Ingoldsby another ace on the attack. Several others were prominent, though a number of odd assists were handed out on two-man plays. Bob Gillson was mighty tough to beat in goal. So was Ray Harding, despite the count, as he turned aside plenty of hot rubber in every chukker. Curly Mason and Gus Leonard were the pick of the forwards over the route for the Jopling bunch and Ron Horton stood out on defence. Others showed flashes but were not consistent.

He Saw Some

Mason was chased for tripping to open play by Referee Red Farrell—a one-sided Barrie arbiter who let Kazarian trip Dugan right after without calling it. Then he nailed Davison for a trip and the Petes were shy two. Kazarian scored in a scramble from Allum. Later, Horton was picked off for interference and it also cost a goal, Burlington bashing home a rebound with Kazarian and Forslund given assists. With all back, Ingoldsby made it 3-0 with a slap shot on a corner passout, Burlington and Allum aiding. The Petes drove in and Gus Leonard counted a nice one on combination with Fryia, going right in and backhanding the disc into a corner.

Early in the second, Ingoldsby scored on a partial breakaway with Burlington and Allum. Ray came out to make two fine saves but the homesters were flying and Bukacheski hit home a passout in a scramble from White and McReavy. Mason and Wade almost tallied but Ingoldsby broke back fast with Burlington and Hayward to give Ray no chance. West was robbed and Mason came back from an interference penalty when Hayward's shot caromed off a player's skate. Allum's backhander beat Harding near the finish with Burlington and Ingoldsby in on the play.

Petes Have Edge

Forslund scored in the third from Ingoldsby on a rebound and, with the Petes putting on the pressure, McCreary got away to notch their final one, Bukacheski and White being handed assists. Jopling and Gus Leonard were right in and then West but Gillson outguessed them. With Kazarian off for charging Davison, Mason ripped in close to notch a neat one from Dugan and Wade. With all back, the Petes kept peppering the goal but couldn't whittled down the count, even when Ollum drew an interference penalty in the last minute. Teams:

Petes — Goal, Harding; defence, Horton and Davison; centre, Dugan; wings, Wade and Mason; alternates, G. Leonard, Fryia, Mortimer, West, Floyd, Collins, E. Leonard and Jopling.

Saints Capture First One In Juve Series

St. Catharines' highly touted juvenile hockey team met and defeated Oddfellow juniors Saturday afternoon by a score of 10-6 at Civic Arena in the first of a two-game home-and home-series for the right to advance into OMHA finals. Return game will be played in St. Kitts this week.

Johnny Godfrey's boys played a great game against a much heavier team of junior "B" calibre and held their rivals even in the second and third frames after a bad first. St. Kitts scored four tallies in the opener before Oddfellows made a start but, once under way, the Godfrey crew gave tit for tat.

Led Attack

Henry Ciesla, star centre, led St. Kitt's attack with two goals and four assists closely followed by Wimp Roberts with four kings and one assist. Ernie Bodnar starred defensively while all played well.

For Oddfellows, scoring honors were well distributed with Caravaggie, Buchan, Gooley, Cupola, Doris and Pammett all hitting the target behind Campbell and all assisting except Cupola with Gooley setting up a pair. The whole team played well.

St. Catharines: Goal, Campbell; defence, Markarin, Bodnar; centre, Ciesla; wings, Roberts, Swain; alternates, Foley, Richmond, Frayne, Hill, Goss, Pratkowski, Sherlock.

Oddfellow Juves: Goal, Bryan; defence, Jones, White; centre, Pammett; wings, Sullivan, Ferguson; alternates, Caravaggie, Gooley, Buchan, Doris, Cupola, Hope, Brioux, Kimball.

FRANKFORD, March 12 — Frankford-Bata Combines moved within one game of the Trent Valley Hockey League's southern division crown by downing Trenton Gould's Taximen 5-4 here on Saturday. The win gave Combines a 2-0 lead in the best-of-five series.

Combines outscored the Taximen 3-2 in the first period, with each squad tallying once in the second and third.

Foster and Cooke paced the winners with two goals and an assist each, while Watson accounted for the winning tally. Jones, Black, Beale and Bob Johnson each notched one for the visiting Trenton team.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

There's a big puck battle looming at Civic Arena at 8.30 tonight, the do-or-die senior "B" one for Belleville Redmen and the local Eagles. Tied at two wins each in their best-of-five group semi-finals, one team will go into finals about 10.30 tonight and the other will be through for the season—yes, all washed up. Which one will it be? That's the question that should pack the place, that and the fact that it'll be a sizzling scrap right to the final bell between these well-matched outfits. Plenty at stake, too, so they'll play for keeps every minute. This is one playoff game no hockey fan should pass up. No, sir!

* * * * * *

As far as our two senior squads go, the end could come quickly for either Eagles or Petes. By the same token, the season might go on a spell yet for either one or for both. Winner of the senior "B" series goes into group finals 'gainst Kingston Nylons right away. In the senior "A" or Allan Cup sawoffs, the winner of the Owen Sound-Petes' series is likely to go into OHA semi-finals. Don't know about Eastern Ontario yet—and there'll be an NOHA team later—but we believe there are only Woodstock, Brantford and Sarnia left in the hunt down that way. And time is running right along into spring.

They'll Have To Hustle

Petes will have to pull up their socks—and be at full strength—to beat Owen Sound here Wednesday to even up their series. They looked well below par and lost in the large Owen Sound rink (with the widely-curved corners) on Saturday, while dropping a 10-2 decision, but that's still a good win for the Mercurys, who looked plenty potent. They may find the long trip here and the smaller rink tough, also, and the Petes might yank out a victory but they sure can't fool from here in. Mercurys (with some senior lacrossers aboard) are here Wednesday and Friday and then it's back north Saturday. Several carloads of local fans took in the game. The Sounders are fast—and so are the Collingwood cops, as several Peterborough drivers found out coming home.

A salute to Bun Kingdon and his junior "B" Triple Links on downing Oshawa Bees 7-6 here Saturday to open their four-in-seven group finals. They're in the Motor City tonight, and it will be a hot series ere one team drops out, no doubt. A goodly gallery saw a speedy struggle with both sides giving it all they had; the homesters having a shade too much on their own ice. Apart from Goalie Red Wasson—who turned in another swell chore—we'll name no individual stars, the whole gang clicking well as a unit. That's four straight playoffs wins against tough opposition. Don't break it now, boys.

Barrier Erases Eaglets

No word at the moment on our midget Marines' next game, neither Al Watkins nor Ed Woodcock having been notified of their semi-final opponent. The local bantams, McGillis Eaglets, were erased in the semi-final series, losing 9-3 in Barrie to a more experienced squad on Saturday. Tough luck to a game little team, handled by Jack Byers and Don Floyd, after surviving two provincial playdown rounds. Johnny Godfrey's juvenile Oddfellows will have to step plenty, also, in St. Kitts tomorrow to avoid a similar fate in their OMHA semi-final series. They took a 10-6 reverse here Saturday aft in a neat number, the big visitors having their edge in the first frame but being held on even terms the rest of the route. So, the locals might still take it.

Fred Scates, George Dormer and Harold Dormer are on the nominating committee of the men's City Softball League. They'll bring in a suggested slate of officers for the annual opening meeting of the loop tomorrow eve at seven in the hall above Lowe's on George St. Some of last year's active officers will settle for an executive committee post this season. Two of last year's clubs, Mutuals and UEW, were on hand and several Civic League teams were represented and thinking seriously of making application for entry in the City League this spring. But more again on the men softballers as they get re-organized.

The Eagles—handled by Jack Byers and Don Floyd—got their goals through Peter Heffernan, Bill Godfrey and Ken Floyd. DUNEDIN, N.Z., March 12 — (Reuters) — The English cricket tourists shut out Otago twice today on a rain-damaged pitch to notch their second win of the New Zealand tour.

England declared their first innings closed this morning at Saturday's score of 381 for 8. Otago fared disastrously and were put out for 83 and 137.

IOOF Juniors Take Opener Over Oshawa In Fine Fray

More than 1,100 hockey fans were treated to a breath-tingling display Saturday night at Civic Arena as the flying Oddfellows racked up their fourth playoff victory in a row defeating Oshawa Bees 7-6, in the first of a best-of-seven final series for Central Ontario Junior "B" group honors.

Ab. Buckton's goal at 14.40 in the third from Doris and Douglas proved the clincher in a clean, wide-open and hard-fought battle all the way with Oddfellows undoubtedly the better team on the play. The second contest is in Oshawa tonight with the third tentatively set for Saturday night at Civic.

Got The First

Dean West opened scoring early in the first on a brilliant thrust with bashing Army Armstrong, but Bees quickly equalized as Brabin and Jed Wilson combined nicely close in. The fast struggle continued as goals by Ken Floyd and Ray Douglas were offset by hard-earned tallies from the sticks of Lawrence and DeGray to round out a sizzling first frame.

Oddfellows sustained offensive, featuring great teamwork, their effective forechecking and indomitable spirit, paid off as play continued, and the Kingdon crew skated off in the lead as the second chapter ended. Jim Morrow found the range twice, with Wyatt, Clapper and Army setting him up, while Ray Douglas hit the twine once from the stick of the wily Doris, who drew three assists for the night. Bees' markers in the frame were sunk by Lawrence and O'Connor, two visiting stars, with Fred Etcher and Gord Deeth the playmakers.

Playoff Hockey

The finale found both teams going all out with lightning speed in a rousing period that saw playoff hockey at its best. Red Wasson was brilliant throughout, robbing opposing marksmen several times from point-blank range, including a penalty shot by Brabin. O'Connor tallied midway in the third on a hard drive from right wing on a solo rush, but less than three minutes later, Douglas, Doris and Buckton ganged up on goal and the latter took a passout in front of the rival cage and whipped it in before the harassed Pallister could move.

It was a fine two-way struggle, with individual honors fairly well divided on both teams. Every Oddfellow gave his level best in this game, and the same might be said of Reg Mills' boys. There were 10 penalties in all, with Bees drawing six.

Oshawa — Goal, Pallister; defence, Hillman, Johnson; centre, Etcher; wings, Chircoski, Lawrence; alternates, Keller, Deeth, O'Connor, Brabin, De Gray, Wilson, Edwards, Marshall.

IOOF — Goal, R. Wasson; defence, Armstrong, Clapper; centre West; wings, Morrow, Wyatt; alternates, Douglas, Doris, Buckton, Floyd, G. Robinson, B. Robinson, D. Wasson, Shearer.

Nova Scotia Captures Title

HALIFAX, March 12 (CP). — Curling enthusiasm in Nova Scotia and the Maritimes generally was at a new high today in acclaiming Don Oyler and his championship rink from Kentville.

Oyler confounded many experts in skipping his team through all 10 rounds of the Canadian championship bonspiel without a single defeat.

Roy Forsyth's Manitoba rink from Winnipeg, highly regarded as title prospects before the play started last Tuesday, fell before the Nova Scotians in the all-important 10th round Saturday.

The last round Saturday afternoon against Alf Chesser's British Columbia team from Trail was only a formality as far as the championship was concerned, but it meant everything to Oyler in maintaining his undefeated streak.

The same steady curling that had carried the Kentville rink to victories over eight other sectional championship holders proved too much for the final bid of the Western province.

Manitoba was stopped before the 12th end was completed, Oyler winning by an official count of 12-7 in 11 ends. British Columbia went down 10-5.

The Trail rink, however, took second place in the championship standing.

Wings Chalk Up Two Wins Leafs Split Weekend Tilts

By MEL SUFRIN,
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

Proponents of individualism in modern hockey should be pleased with the six weekend games in the National Hockey League. Half a dozen bright individual performances competed for interest with the tight three-way fight for the third and fourth playoff positions.

Such names as Gee, Peirson, Kennedy, Raleigh, Olmstead and Richard appeared regularly in the scoring columns as each of the six teams played twice.

Detroit Red Wings strengthened their stranglehold grip on first place by beating New York Rangers 3-2 Saturday and shutting out the lowly Chicago Black Hawks 7-0 Sunday.

Toronto Maple Leafs, certain to finish in second place, defeated Boston Bruins 5-3 in Toronto Saturday and then were beaten 3-1 by the same team last night.

Have Wild Time

In the other two games, Montreal Canadiens had a wild time at Chicago's expense, blasting the Hawks 12-2 Saturday and then coming from behind to gain a 5-5 tie with New York Sunday.

From a team standpoint, the results left New York and Boston tied for third place with 59 points, a single point ahead of Montreal. All three teams have six games left to play in the regular schedule and it's a toss-up which will finish out of the playoffs.

As to individual effort, it's a toss-up, too, about who rates top mention.

Maybe it should be George Gee who picked up four goals and two assists for Detroit in two weekend victories. He got one unassisted Saturday and was followed by goals by Gordie Howe and Ted Lindsay in fashioning the win over New York. Pat Egan got both Rangers' goals. Gee saved his most spectacular effort for Chicago, however, a team he used to play for. He figured in five of the seven Detroit goals, helping Marty Pavelich and Jimmy Peters on tallies, and scoring three himself. Gaye Stewart, another former Black Hawk, and Glen Skov, got the others.

One-goal Lead

The shutout, ninth of the season for rookie Terry Sawchuk, gave the young Detroit goalie a one-goal lead in competition for the Vezina Trophy. Detroit, which has played a game more than Toronto, has had 130 goals scored against it, while the Leafs now have 131.

Another former Black Hawk came back to plague his ex-mates in the Saturday night game before 14,453 fans at Montreal. He was Bert Olmstead who got three goals and two assists in the landslide win over the cellar-dwellers.

Maurice (Rocket) Richard also got three goals and two assists for Montreal, bringing his season total to 41 goals. This is the fourth year Richard has scored more than 40 goals, giving him a lifetime NHL total of 291. He has 33 to go to overtake Nels Stewart, holder of the lifetime record, and at the current rate the Rocket should set a new mark some time late next season.

Butch Bouchard, Elmer Lach, Bernie Geoffrion, Doug Harvey, Floyd Curry and Calum McKay also got into the scoring for Montreal, while Pete Babando and Bill Mosienko scored for Chicago.

Kennedy Star

Ted Kennedy, Toronto captain, was a major factor in the Boston defeat before 13,085 Toronto fans Saturday night. He got two goals and played one of his best games in months. Joe Klukay, Howie Meeker, and Cal Gardner were the other Leaf scorers while Milt Schmidt, Bill Ezinicki and Woody Dumart tallied for Boston.

Sunday night, Johnny Peirson, Boston right-winger, stole the spotlight, scoring two goals and assisting on the third. Klukay scored for Toronto. The victory shoved Boston back into third place.

Don Raleigh shone before 13,806 New York fans Sunday night as he scored three of his team's five goals and assisted on another. Nick Mickoski got the other two for Rangers.

Bouchard, Montreal defenceman, got his second goal of the season (he got the first Saturday) to tie the score 5-5. Geoffrion, Lach, Tom Johnson and Robert were other Montreal scorers.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Plans are being laid to give Canadian Davis Cup tennis players international training in preparation for the North American Davis Cup matches next summer.

The plans were announced by J. M. McAvity, president of the Canadian Lawn Tennis Association, at the annual meeting of the association at Montreal during the weekend.

McAvity said tentative arrangements have been made to send Canadian Davis Cuppers to the all-England matches at Wimbledon, the French championships at Paris and "other international events."

Final arrangements will not be made until it is decided whether enough funds will be available.

Baseball Commissioner Happy Chandler will get a final "yes" or "no" on a new term today by secret ballot at a joint meeting of the major leagues. No other candidate will be on the ballot.

Chandler was given a "fighting chance" by Clark Griffith of the Washington Senators, one of his staunchest supporters, after the two leagues met separately here Sunday.

Joe Louis will meet Omelio Agramonte, Cuban heavyweight, at Detroit March 28 in a 10-round bout, it was announced Saturday by Jim Norris, president of the International Boxing Club.

Louis, former world heavyweight champion, decisioned Agramonte in a 10-round fight at Miami Feb. 7.

Louis has been insisting on a return fight with heavyweight champion Ezzard Charles, but Norris said there was "nothing to report" on negotiations for a possible June title match between them.

Jockey Johnny Longden and a four-year-old colt named Be Fleet wrote a colorful chapter of the turf Saturday when they rolled wire-to-wire to win the $50,000 San Juan Capistrano Handicap at Santa Anita Park.

Ringing down the curtain on the winter meet before 50,000 fans, 41-year-old Johnny brought Be Fleet under the wire 1½ lengths in front of the favored Argentine, Repeluz, while Mocopo ran third in the field of 10 horses.

Eight years ago Longden, who learned his riding tricks around Taber, Alta., won his only victory in the Kentucky Derby aboard Count Fleet. And Be Fleet is a famous son of the famous Count.

Jock Whitney's Arctic Gold won the Grand National trial steeplechase at Hurst Park Saturday and became a clear favorite for the Grand National at Aintree April 7.

The stylish American-owned horse made all the running in the three mile chase and finished an easy three-lengths ahead of its nearest rival, Toy Serpent.

Bookmakers on the course immediately quoted Arctic Gold at 7 to 1 for the National.

Arctic Gold started as favorite at 11-8 and won about £500 ($1,500) in purse money.

Decide To Keep Grey Cup Final To One Game

By AL VICKERY

WINNIPEG, March 12—(CP)—The average fan will see little change when the 1951 football season rolls around as a result of the Canadian Rugby Union annual meeting which ended here Saturday.

In setting its course for the coming season, the CRU elected as its president Myer Insky of Montreal, energetic representative of the Quebec Rugby Football Union. He replaces Tom Alison of Toronto.

When "Joe Fan" huddles in the stands this fall, his attention will be drawn to one backfielder, who will be allowed to block 10 yards past the line of scrimmage. The union passed its rules committee's recommendation that one backfielder on the offensive team may block for 10 yards, provided he is outside the end position when the ball is snapped. A few other minor changes were also adopted.

But any illusion the fan had of attending a two-game Grey Cup final was shattered when the union voted down 6-3 a Big Four proposal for the total-point series, with games at Montreal and Toronto. A change of mind by the Western Interprovincial Union, which previously had favored the idea, resulted in the motion being defeated.

To Cost More

It will, however, cost a little more to see the east-west classic. The union has raised the ticket prices to $5, $4 and $3 plus the 15-per-cent tax from last year's $2 and $3 plus tax.

Playing conditions for the game should be improved, from the muddy field which greeted the finalists last fall. The CRU decided to purchase a canvas tarpaulin from an eastern firm at an approximate cost of $8,000. The canvas strips would cover all but the end zones.

Four top-notch American players will be affected by a ruling that a player is no longer classed as an import if he has four consecutive seasons' play in Canada. They are Frankie Filchock of Edmonton Eskimos, Del Wardien of Saskatchewan Roughriders, Howie Turner of Ottawa Rough Riders and Virgil Wagner of Montreal Alouettes.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

Saskatoon Quakers defeated Regina Vics 3-2 in a two-game series for the Saskatchewan senior hockey championship that ended 18 years ago today. The Quakers beat Edmonton Superiors and Trail Smoke Eaters to enter the Allan Cup final against Moncton Hawks, but the Hawks scored the Maritimes' first victory in the all-Canada final.

Hollywood Dr. Says Fad Diets Endanger Lives

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, March 12 (AP) A prominent Hollywood physician today rapped fad diets which he said are endangering the lives of movie stars and the public at large.

The man making this statement is Dr. Max Rubinstein, author of a textbook on endocrinology and a current book for popular consumption, "The Gland and Sex Dilemma." Many prominent Hollywood names are among his patients and he has had a chance to observe the effects of diets.

"Hollywood people are overly diet-conscious," he observed. "And because they are so well publicized, they have affected the eating habits of the rest of the nation."

Gone Overboard

"Hollywood has gone overboard for nine-day diets, seven-day diets, banana diets and now yogurt diets. People don't realize that a diet should be like a prescription. It should be made up to fit the individual and should be used under a doctor's supervision.

"These highly-publicized diets do not attack the basic problem in cases of overweight. The weight is regained soon afterward.

"Many of the stars who diet suffer from secondary anaemia. This can result in serious ailments and can shorten their lives."

The physician observed that movie stars and Hollywood people in general suffer from nervous tension.

Drive Too Hard

"They are constantly worrying about the future and how the public will take them next year," he said. "Their sympathetic nervous systems are overstimulated and this affects their glandular balance. This results in one of two reactions. They either drive themselves too hard or they take the attitude that they don't care and look for escapes."

Hockey Player Dies In Denver

DENVER, Colo., March 12 (CP) Johnny Holota, veteran minor league hockey star, died in Colorado General Hospital Saturday, three days after he was injured in an automobile accident.

The 30-year-old centre from Hamilton, Ont., suffered a skull fracture, but an autopsy showed that his death might have been caused by a heart ailment.

Holota, who was playing his eighth season of professional hockey, had been unconscious since the accident early Wednesday, a few hours after his United States Hockey League team, Denver Falcons had lost a 5-3 decision to Omaha.

Another Denver player, Billy Warwick, 24, of Regina, and three members of the Omaha club, also were hurt in the smashup. All were riding in a car driven by Warwick, which struck a road barricade and swerved off the highway.

Holota graduated to pro ranks from the Guelph Biltmore juniors.

Atomic Field Weapons Hinted For U.S. Army

WASHINGTON, March 12 (AP) —The United States army's research chief, Maj.-Gen. Ward H. Maris, gave a new hint Saturday that atomic field weapons may be added to the country's arsenal.

"With no guarantee of push-button warfare being around the corner," he said, "it can be said that gratifying progress is being made in providing powerful and practical atomic weapons for tactical use by the ground forces."

Maris did not elaborate on the statement, made during an NBC television talk.

Blind Faith Not Enough For Living

Monsignor Tells Need Of Sound Thinking In Catholic Culture

The Very Reverend Basil Markle, STD., secretary of the Canadian Catholic Conference delivered the third and final lecture of the Catholic Culture series before a capacity audience Sunday evening at the Knight's of Columbus Hall. The speaker outlined the respective roles that faith and reason must play "in order that we may have world peace."

The Catholic system of faith, it was pointed out, meets all the requirements of a full supernatural life. As Catholics they have been left a body of revealed truth. The mass, the sacraments, prayer and penance are all channels of grace. Knowing the weakness of human nature, infused habits (supernatural virtues) are received with grace.

Belief Demands Explanation

However, the speaker insisted that this wonderful supernatural system will not suffice in itself for rational, free, human beings. Blind faith will not take its followers through life. Belief demands explanation. "Freely have you received, freely give." Nor can lay people depend on the work of the clergy. Because contact between priest and parishioner is so difficult today, the priest cannot meet the difficulties of all individuals, Monsignor Markle pointed out.

"Defence of the faith against atheistic communism, secularism and materialism and the constant threat of war is the work of our intelligence. The intelligence is made for truth. Since the 13th century Scholastic Philosophy has given us a systematic means whereby we are able to think of fundamental truths and principles. Sound thinking is required in order to bring peace to individuals and to the world."

"Motor of Reason"

In pre-Christian times, the speaker pointed out, there was a mixture of religion but very little of reason. Revelation served as the headlights, that the motor of Reason might see the road of truth. "Today we have the three requirements for the obtaining of human truths: abundant sources, a continuity of teachers and our universities."

The speaker concluded by stressing the importance of sound philosophy in the world of action. "We are only as free as we are intelligent. Each individual has a responsibility to the truth. Good will among men and nations is only possible with sound thinking." The speaker urged the audience to inaugurate Public Forums and to take part in an adult education program.

The speaker was introduced by Dr. E. M. Crough and thanked by Ald. Pat Anglesey. Robert Hutchinson accompanied by Max Clark at the piano gave violin selections. Chairman for the evening was Emmett Sheehy.

Drop Traditional Modesty Is Plea Of CGE President

Sixty-three new members were welcomed into the CGE's quarter-century club Saturday night at a banquet given in Toronto for club members from Halifax to Vancouver. A special train took 250 from Peterborough for the social evening. It was estimated that the 700 members present could boast of more than 50,000,000-man hours of work in the company's employ.

CGE's quarter century club now totals almost 1,000 members in chapters from coast to coast. Twenty-two of the new members were from Peterborough.

Largest of its Kind

The get-together is believed to have been the largest of its kind ever held by a Canadian company.

President H. M. Turner, himself a quarter century club member, said that if the record of the last 30 years holds good the electrical industry in Canada will produce almost as much in the next 10 years as in the past 60.

Speaking in the Royal York Hotel before the Peterborough and Toronto chapters of the organization, Mr. Turner outlined the part played by the electrical industry in producing a wide range of capital goods for the "production front," as well as special equipment for the armed services.

Maintain Supply

By simplifying design and using substitute materials that are not scarce, the company hopes to maintain the supply of appliances and other consumer goods.

"Today, Canadians are the largest per capita consumers of electric power in the world," said Mr. Turner. "This power at relatively low cost is making a fundamental contribution to our high level of production, where we stand seventh among all the nations of the world; and to world trade, where we hold third place."

Mr. Turner urged Canadians to drop their "traditional modesty" and realize that, because of the country's resources, greatness is being thrust upon them.

May Avoid War

"As a nation we are preparing to share in the defence of our democratic way of life, to defend, if necessary, our homes and the freedom of our families . . . I hold to the view that if we can show sufficient strength of arm and will, we may avoid a major struggle."

The company itself has the responsibility of contributing to the nation's strength by participating in the preparedness programs now under way. It will continue to operate at peak capacity, he said, supplying the needs of heavy industry.

Producers of iron ore, nickel, copper and aluminum—and the mills that fabricate them into plates, sheets and shapes—use large quantities of electric motors, furnaces, transformers, switches and controls, as well as cable and other supplies. Electric utilities have expansion programs under way and these require generating and distribution equipment.

Might Transfer Personnel

Mr. Turner hinted that manufacturing personnel might have to be transferred from non-essential to essential work.

"The manufacturing division of our Company is doing everything in its power to anticipate requirements of the various metals and other materials. In many places, however, we are working from hand to mouth, and manufacturing operations may be shut down from time to time. Eventually, a need may arise to move manufacturing personnel from non-essential to essential produce manufacturing operations. This will be done with due consideration for those involved in the transition.

"It is apparent that we must mobolize our resources to support a military defence program for an indefinite period . . . probably for years to come. The sacrifices that we are called upon to make are only worthwhile to the extnet that we value our existence as free men."

The company's policy on taking part in the manufacture of defence material (i.e. equipment purchased by the government for the use of the armed forces) is this:

"We believe our first contribution to the preparedness program is to build the machinery essential to industrial plant improvements and expansion."

The company aims to keep their shops occupied and their people fully employed, and to make facilities and skills available to the government where they have particular qualifications.

"Perhaps I should remind you that we are now engaged in the manufacture of equipment classified as "secret" and we will be asked to undertake other contracts similarly classified. Information about this equipment must be closely guarded, so that it will not get into the hands of a potential enemy country. In neither of the two previous wars did the need to protect our secrets exist to the same degree. Custodianship of secret information is a responsible trust and, as trustworthy individuals, we must not be careless in handling this information.

"While our immediate aim must be to play a full part in national security, I am sure that we and all Canadians look forward to the time when the products of our hands will be used constructively, rather than for destruction. If we have faith in the justice of our cause, and confidence in the strength of our people, we cannot help but take that longer view—looking forward to the day when electricity and its use again becomes the servant of man's peacetime needs."

Canadian Railways Regulate Nation's Economic Activity

TORONTO, March 12. (CP)—No activity is more vital than the railways to the security, prosperity and progress of the Canadian people, Donald Gordon, chairman and president of the Canadian National Railways, today told a luncheon meeting of the Empire and Canadian Clubs. "Almost every major industrial development requires the mass overland transportation that only railways can provide," he said.

Always Met Expenses

"Nowhere else can the pulse of this nation's economic activity be felt more quickly than in the arteries through which the great bulk of its commerce must flow, and therefore no one has a greater stake than railway management in the direction and rate of advance achieved by our population, technology and national production."

Since the Canadian National began operations as an organized system it had never failed to meet operating expenses, though in most years it had failed to cover interest charges, Mr. Gordon said. He believed the nature and origin of these interest charges are not and have never been understood by the vast majority of Canadians.

In the five years preceding consolidation of the Canadian National system, the deficit of the four component railways — the Grand Trunk Railway, the Canadian Northern Railway, the Grand Trunk Pacific and the Canadian Government railways—totalled $213,000,000. In the same year they fell short by nearly $60,000,000 of covering even their operating expenses.

Sons of Predecessors

The CNR, Mr. Gordon said, was "charged with the financial sins of its predecessor corporations to the tune of $63,000,000 in annual interest charges, $28,000,000 of which was payable to the government. . . .

"There is, I am convinced, a strong body of public opinion which supports and expects action now to put the accounts of the Canadian National in such order that its annual operations will be readily comprehensible."

Two Cars Damaged

A total of about $160 damage was done to two cars that collided at George and Perry Sts. on Saturday.

John Hodson, 130 Perry St., was driving east on Perry St. He told police he stopped at George St. and then proceeded across. About half way through the intersection, his car met in collision with a car being driven south on George St. by Clinton Stockdale, RR 4, Peterborough.

About $75 damage was done to the right front fender and radiator of the Stockdale car and about $85 damage to the left rear door and fender of the Hodson car. Constable William G. Scott investigated.

Fewer Apples Grown In 1950

TORONTO, March 12—(CP)—Ontario fruit men grew fewer apples in 1950 than in 1949 but harvested larger crops of grapes, strawberries and raspberries From the standpoint of cash returns, 1950 was the better year, with over-all value of fruit production estimated at $14,851,300, compared with $12,958,500 for 1949.

"The value of the apple, grape and strawberry crops was considerably higher in 1950 than in 1949," the Ontario Agriculture Department said today in its seasonal fruit and vegetable report. "But the value of other fruit crops, which included cherries, peaches, pears, plums, raspberries and cantaloupes, was lower."

Production of apples declined to 946,700 barrels in 1950, from 1,138,500 barrels, but the average price paid to growers rose to $3.38 a barrel from $2.18, with the result that the total farm value of this crop increased from $2,482,800 to $3,199,900.

Peaches brought the same average price in both 1949 and 1950, $2.18 a bushel, but the size of the crop harvested was 1,089,300 bushels in 1950, as against 1,238,000 bushels the previous year.

Soldier Hurt Norwood Man Charged

Police Claim Driver Failed To Remain At Scene of Accident

An 18-year-old soldier is in hospital with severe head injuries and a Norwood man has been charged with dangerous driving and failing to remain at the scene of an accident after an accident Saturday in Norwood.

Morley Simmons, 40, of Norwood was charged today in Peterborough police court and remanded to March 20 on $1,000 bail.

Victim of what police describe as a hit-and-run accident is 18-year-old Myrrl Drinkwalter of Cannington, a private in the R.C.R.

Pte. Drinkwalter is in Civic Hospital with a severe head injury and scalp lacerations. His condition today is "good," hospital authorities say.

Stationed at Petawawa

The young soldier who is stationed at Petawawa was hitchhiking east along Highway 7 late Saturday afternoon. It is alleged that he was struck by Simmons' car and left unconscious by the side of the highway, some 200 feet west of the subway on Peterborough St., Norwood.

The accident was almost in front of Bert Oles' service station. Mr. Oles called Dr. A. R. Atkinson who gave Pte. Drinkwalter first aid and then took him to Peterborough by ambulance.

Provincial Constable Jack McKendry co-operated with Chief of Police W. B. Parcels in investigating the accident.

Today Simmons appeared before Magistrate W. R. Philp charged with dangerous driving and failing to remain at the scene of an accident. He was remanded without plea. Chief Parcels said another charge may be laid.

He joined the OPP in December 1927 at Belleville after serving in the city police force there for five years. Since then he has been at detachments in Madoc, Picton, Bancroft and Bowmanville.

City Teachers Equal Pay Equal Work

New Salary Schedule Acknowledges Equality Principle

Of its own initiative, Peterborough Board of Education adopted at the beginning of this year the principle of equal pay for women doing the same work as men at the Collegiate Institute, Mr. K. S. Wightman, superintendent of schools, recalled to the Examiner today.

In that step the Board actually anticipated the proposed legislation of the Ontario government. Women are heads of two departments, modern languages and classics, and thereby receive the same salaries as the men who are heads of the other departments. Otherwise men and women are classified as assistants on the same salary basis.

In each of the Public Schools there is a woman teacher doing extra work in charge of athletics for girls, Mr. Wightman said. For that work each receives $100 additional to their regular salaries.

The men directing boys' athletics are paid more than allowance because the program is more extensive for boys than are the athletic activities for girls. The men supervise football, baseball and hockey, for instance, in senior and junior groups, with one man in charge of each group.

Famous Names To Feature Three Concerts

Community concerts in the 1951-52 season will be as outstanding as Peterborough has ever had, Mrs. W. B. Brown, the concert association president, said today in making public the program. The three artistic features booked are Dorothy Maynor, world-celebrated Negro mezzo-soprano, Jean Casadesus, pianist, whose family name is already enshrined in musical history, and a symphony orchestra, "The Little Orchestra Society" of New York's Town Hall.

Dorothy Maynor, who gave a concert last month in Toronto, has one of the most remarkable and sympathetic voices to be heard today. Koussevitzsky has declared "The world must hear her voice." It is hearing it, in concert halls, through her recordings and on the air. She is often compared with the contralto Marion Anderson.

Jean Casadesus is the 23-year-old son of the great pianist Robert Casadesus and was born in Paris. He is considered to be gifted in the Casadesus tradition and to be at the outset of a famous career.

The symphony orchestra which the Concert Association is bringing to Peterborough has never gone on tour before. It is small, like 18th century orchestras. It is composed of some 35 musicians, and plays works by Mozart, Handel and other original compositions designed for orchestras of its size. Its conductor is Thomas Scherman. It is reputed to be one of the finest of its kind in the world. It is a permanent New York orchestra, and does much broadcasting and gramaphone recording, as well as its usual Town Hall concerts.

Marlies Drop 3-2 Decision To Monarchs

By The Canadian Press

Toronto Marlboros need all the breaks if they are to add the Alexander Cup to their Allan Cup victory of last spring.

The Dukes, Canadian senior hockey champions of 1950, who graduated into the newly-formed major series class this season, neared the end of the Ontario Hockey Association playoff trail Saturday when they dropped a hard-fought, 3-2 decision in overtime to Toronto St. Michael's Monarchs for their third straight loss of a round-robin series.

The only way Marlboros can get into the major-group finals is to defeat Hamilton Tigers and pray that the Monarchs can do the same. That would leave Hamilton and Marlboros tied for second place with one victory and three losses. The Monarch are unbeaten in three games.

The junior "A" schedule approached its close as Barrie Flyers, home-free in first place, walloped Galt Black Hawks 9-1, Oshawa Generals whipped Hurricanes 5-2 and Stratford Kroehlers and Toronto St. Michael's College played to a 1-1 tie.

Hughes Hero

Goalie Phil Hughes was the hero of Monarchs' conquest of the Marlboros as he stopped rubber from all angles. Ken Watson fired the winning goal 29 seconds after the start of the extra period.

Johnny Ubriaco scored the other two Monarch tallies while Ross Johnstone and Al Buchanan counted for the Dukes.

Jerry Toppazzini put on a one-man show for the doubtful enjoyment of the Galt fans when he banged home three goals—one while his team was short two men—and set up two more. Don Emms fired two more tallies while Jack White, Jack McKnight, Leo Labine and Real Chevrefils got the others. Tony Poeta was the lone marksman for the Hawks, who were off color after a tough battle in Windsor the night before.

Lou Jankowski, the junior "A" scoring leader, added a couple of goals and an assist to his total as Oshawa coasted to an easy victory over the tail-end Hurricanes. The win left the Generals a single point behind the fifth-place St. Catharines Teepees with a game in hand.

Bobby Attersley, Stan Mills and Mike Delich completed the Oshawa scoring while Claude Watters and Warren Godfrey were the Hurricane marksmen.

Guy Henri of Stratford and Jim Logan, a junior "B" player on trial with St. Michael's, were the only scorers in their tie game, which lifted the seventh-place Kroehlers two points ahead of Galt. The Irish, in ninth place, have been eliminated from the playoff picture.

Lakefield Lions Out

LAKEFIELD, March 12 (ENS) —The Lakefield Lions disappointed a busload and many carloads of fans Saturday in Powasson as they lost 8-4 in the second OMHA Juvenile C semi-final round. Powasson took the series by a 17-11 score as the Lions were eliminated.

Steele scored two and Ibbiston Odrorski and Worto one each for the Northerners in the first frame as Heffernan and Twist counted for Lions, McCracken and Coyle each having an assist. Sloan got the only second-period marker, and Pearson added one in the third, but Powasson tallied three from the sticks of Hamilton, Ibbiston and Steele. Delmar Sloan was cut on the face by a skate when tripped, no penalty being given, though the gash required stitches. Heffernan was hurt in the second and lost to the team.

Lakefield — Goal, Wingett; defence, Pue, Sabatino; centre, Hunter; wings, Pearson, Coyle; alternates, McCracken, Sloan, Twist, Heffernan, Henry, Wilson, Brown.

Powasson — Goal, Dagenais; defence, Odroreski, Coutou; centre, Steele; wings, Ulbrecht, Ibbiston; alternates, Hamilton, Worto, Greenlaw, Eckford, and Purdon.

Irvin Hanes High

Irvin Hanes, of Esquires, rolled a high triple of 825 and top single with a nifty 383 in the City Bowling League last week, as Cavanagh's had a fine 3,575 and a single of 1,350 to lead teams as they went in to a top-place tie with Shockey's with 104 points. Sunocos blanked Swartz as 4-2 wins were marked by Clapper's, McGillis, Esquires, Campbell and Best and Shockey's over Moore's, Fashion-Craft, Cavanagh's, Dunn's and Bond's respectively. Fred Martin leads in the averages with 233.6 as George Walton has 230 in 25 nights.

Harold Killen of Esquires had a neat 802 triple and 335 single, other good singles being: Claude Cornwell 368, Harold Killen 335, Tony White 325, Jack Playford 319, Mike Caccavella 306, Vince Anthony 305, Herb Correll 305 and Bob Patten 300.

Bancroft Gets Title

By DON WILSON.

BANCROFT, March 12. — Bancroft Pontiacs captured the Hastings-Addington senior hockey trophy by downing Tamworth in the fifth game of a three out of five series and they played before the largest crowd to ever attend the new Bancroft Arena since its opening two years ago, the attendance being 1,063.

At 5:39 after the opening bell Elwood Brough slipped the puck by Storings of Tamworth to start the scoring session assisted by Joe Kavanagh. At 7:11 John Pilgrim made it 2 to 0 for the local talent, Pilgrim teamed up with Bert Comrie at 12:52 for another counter, by this time the local fans were almost standing on their heads. As the period was drawing to a close Brady put the rubber disc behind Art Young, the capable Bancroft goalkeeper.

Bill Delyea combined with Bert Comrie to put the local boys ahead by a further margin at 2:07 of the second. Later Pilgrim assisted by Stew Stringer enlarged the lead. Tamworth's H. Ronbough got together with Markle and Brady to score Tamworth's second and last goal. Jones of Tamworth was the only member of either team to go to the ice box in this period for tripping.

The third turned out to be very black for the Tamworth pucksters as the Pontiacs really went on a scoring spree with Delyea and Comrie combining to open the period scoring at 2:00. Bob Maxwell, who had showing the fans his stickhandling all evening put one in, assisted by cousin Doug Maxwell. Capt. Joe Kavanagh showed his wares at 4:28. Elwood Brough decided that brother Norman should get in the act and they went down the local ice lane to show the visitors they meant business. Cecil McAlpine went through the whole Tamworth organization to prove the flame is still burning. Pontiac Jim Bruce and Tamworth Jones decided to have a private necking party on the boards and referee Fitzpatrick broke it up, giving the lads each a major. Jones didn't fancy the idea and told referee Fitzpatrick to vacate to a warmer climate, thus securing himself a misconduct penalty. Don Simpson the coach of the Pontiacs, certainly has an orchid coming to him for the fine coaching job he has done.

Rawdon Teams Go

MARMORA, March 12 (ENS)— Excepting the Orangemen who had only seven men, the teams of Rawdon Township Hockey League were well represented at the gathering in the Arena Friday when semi-finals were played to decide teams for the cup to be contested for on Monday evening.

Three games were considered necessary by president Charles Wellman and each were of shorter duration than the regulation time. Only one period of 15 minutes was played by Oddfellows and Orangemen to decide third and fourth places. The latter team won by goals scored by Pollock to one registered by Redcliff. As a result of their win, the Orangemen were pitted against the first place Combines to lose a game of two 15-minute periods by 4-1. Brothers Jack and Dan Reid evenly shared the goals for the Combines with Anderson scoring for the losers.

The third game, also of two 15-minute periods, was fought by Trail Rangers and Oddfellows, the latter winning by 2-1. Bert Sine and Jackson scored for the winners in the second period after Tucker had netted for Trail Rangers in the first. Thus Oddfellows furnish opposition for Combines in Monday night's final. The three games were refereed by George Wellman and were devoid of penalties.

Omemee Gets Series

OMEMEE, March 12 (ENS).— In the ORHA semi-finals Omemee Black Hawks walloped Mount Pleasant 15-4 in Lindsay Friday night, making the second win in two games, having edged them 6-5 at Simcoe last Tuesday.

It was nip-and-tuck well into the second period, being tied 3-3 with less than eight minutes to go, but in the remaining time Omemee brought the score to 6-3. Just at the end of the period J. Parsons got a nasty wound in the forehead from the puck. Fans feared he was done for the night, but he was back on the ice to start the third period and scored a goal right from the blue line in 36 seconds of play—the first of nine scored by Omemee to Mount Pleasant's one.

Mount Pleasant scorers were: Martin from R. Porter, MacPherson from C. Porter, Harsant from A. Porter and Robinson, Ellis unassisted.

Most of the scoring for Omemee was done by the Jamieson, Armstrong, R. Crawford line. Mount Pleasant's persistent concentration on Parker made it difficult for the other line. R. Crawford bagged four goals and four assists, Jamieson four and three, Armstrong one and five, Deyell one and two, Parker one and two, F. Parsons one each, T. Parsons a goal, D. Crawford one, O. Crawford one and D. Fox an assist.

Omemee: Goal, Mitchell; defence, T. Parsons, and D. Crawford; centre, Parker; wings, O. Crawford and D. Fox; alternates, Armstrong, R. Crawford, Jamieson, F. Parsons, Deyell and H. Fox.

PCVS Juveniles Get Lead From St. Kitts

Coach Bev Goulding's PCVS juveniles took an eight-point lead in the Ontario juvenile basketball semi-finals Saturday night at the Collegiate by defeating St. Catharines Stars 45-37. The return game of the points-to-count series will be played this week-end.

In the other game of the doubleheader the Garnet and Grey seniors for the second time in the past week proved their superiority over Toronto Collegiate basketball teams. They rolled by Toronto Riverdale Collegiate 46-35. Last Saturday they defeated the powerful Western Tech quintet from Toronto 66-46.

PCVS juveniles spread their scoring throughout the team and were down 23-22 at the half. Lionel Hempstead tipped in three baskets, while other points were scored by Bill Stewart, Don Ash, Dave Langhorne, Terry Brown, Murray Graifstein and Bryan Young. Martin for the Stars dropped in eight points to lead Stars in the half, Sheppard, Wilkerson, Primeau and Shook combining for the other 15 points.

St. Catharines faded slightly in the second and PCVS continued at the first half pace to outscore the Niagara district representatives 23-14 to win the game. Once again the scoring was spread throughout the Collegiate team, Langhorne. Hempstead and Ash leading the way. Martin still led the Stars with six points in the half.

St. Catharines' Martin led the scoring with 14 ponits, while PCVS's Lionel Hempstead collected 11.

Northcott Hot

Led by high-scoring Al Northcott, PCVS seniors broke away from Riverdale in the third quarter to win the exhibition game. Neil Thompson, Paul Frise and Northcott compiled 12 points in the first quarter as Riverdale's Haney, Webb, Fulcher, Walker, Bruce and Finch matched the PCVS scoring. Terry Brown, Don Ash and Northcott pushed PCVS up at the half 21-20.

Northcott broke away on one of his hot scoring sprees. Before he was finished he had flipped in seven field baskets for 14 points to give PCVS a 42-29 score. Neil Thompson, Northcott's linemate, added two baskets. Frise one and Ted Evans a foul shot. Both teams dropped off in the fourth's scoring which ended at six-all, Ash and Brown tallying for PCVS.

Northcott's 20 points easily gave him the game's scoring honors. Riverdale's Haney totalled 12 points, while PCVS's Neil Thompson was close with 10.

Young Man With a Plan

Every young man faces two certainties . . . one, that he cannot work forever . . . the other, that he cannot live forever.

As a consequence he must also admit two possibilities . . . one, that old age may find him financially dependent on others . . . two, that his early death may bring privation to his family.

There is a sure way in which a young man can provide alike for himself in old age or for his family in case of early death. It is to embark upon a definite life insurance programme with an initial policy within his current means. Step by step, thereafter, he can increase his life insurance holdings to keep pace with personal advancement and growing responsibilities.

In this way he places — and keeps — his own financial future and that of his dependents beyond the hazards of mere circumstance. He becomes a "Young Man with a Plan" . . . a more substantial citizen and a happier man because of it.

CURLY-HAIRED YVONNE BERTRAND, three, is too young to realize how close a brush she had with death but, as the above photo clearly shows, she was visibly shaken by the horrible experience she had just had. Here, between sobs, she tells the sad story of her cousin's death.

QUICK-THINKING, 27-year-old Laurent St. Michel, of Montreal, rescued a blond youngster from certain death in the icy waters of the St. Lawrence River, but desperate repeated attempts failed to save the girl's five-year-old cousin. Laurent was driving along a waterfront road when he saw the two children in the water.

Twelve Fatalities Reported Eastern Canada Over Week

By The Canadian Press.

Twelve persons died violent deaths in eastern Canada during the weekend. Eight deaths occurred in Ontario, three in Quebec and one in New Brunswick.

Of the 12, six persons died as a result of traffic accidents, three in fires, one was electrocuted, another died in a fall and one when a team of horses bolted.

In Montreal, Joseph Simard, 46, was found burned to death in his bed after a fire, apparently started by a cigarette, spread to the bedclothes; Alfred Johnson, 77, died in hospital of burns suffered when his clothes were ignited by the pipe he was smoking, and Bernard Vladar, 36, was fatally injured when struck by an automobile.

In Apohaqui, N. B., Stewart J. Gregg, a brother of the Federal Labor Minister, Milton Gregg, was killed Saturday when a team of horses bolted and threw him from a sled in the yard of his home. He was in his 60s.

In Ottawa, Roland Dugal, 38, was electrocuted Sunday when he brushed his bare right arm against an outlet carrying 4,000 volts.

Traffic Victims

Dead as a result of traffic accidents in Ontario are: John Collin, 90, struck by a hit-and-run automobile at Wicklow, east of Cobourg; Jack Coleman, 22, in a car which hit a hydro pole south of Owen Sound; George Barber, 15, in a car-bicycle collision at London; Raymond Hacquard, 13, whose brother was injured when their home-made bobsleigh ran under an automobile at New Liskeard; and James Gray, struck by a car or truck in Hamilton.

Sharon Corby, 15 months, died in Sick Children's Hospital, Toronto, after being rushed 55 miles from Port Perry where she was burned Saturday when her crib caught fire.

Harvey Gallant, 44, was fatally injured Saturday when he fell 50 feet from the Rock River bridge, near Gravenhurst, while unloading rails.

Dies From Burns

KINGSTON, March 12.—(CP). — Frederick Evans, 38, died in hospital Sunday from burns suffered eight hours earlier in a Bay Street rooming house in downtown Kingston. The fire of undetermined origin started in Evans' room and destroyed the bedding and mattress of the bed in which he was sleeping. The alarm was turned in by Mrs. Nellie Stanford, landlady, while boarders broke into the smoke-filled room. Damage was confined to the room.

Lay Second Charge Of Assault, Robbery

TORONTO, March 12.—(CP).—Thomas Etherington, 30, already out on bail and awaiting trial on a charge of assault and robbery, Sunday was charged on a second count of assault and robbery after a youth from Oshawa—whose name was not disclosed—claimed he was robbed of $15 and pushed from an automobile.

The Oshawa youth told police he gave Etherington $15 when the latter said he would get two girls for a date. They picked up one girl and when the visitor tried to get into the car he was pushed to the street.

Britain's Reindeer Raising Program Said Only Two Lapps Short Of Fulfillment

LONDON, March 12.—(AP). — British reindeer fanciers said Saturday they are only two Lapps from their goal: establishment of an antlered herd such as thronged the Scottish wastelands centuries ago.

The Government has approved a three-year reindeer raising program for the Highlands. But the reindeer fans are looking for two Lapp herdsmen to handle the first batch of 25 animals to be transplanted from Northern Sweden.

It's a big problem. The Laplanders seem reluctant to let good herdsmen leave the home stamping grounds.

For the first three years, the project will be merely a scientific demonstration whether reindeer can exist on the stubby undergrowth of the Scottish mountains.

If this works, said Sir Frederick Whyte, chairman of the United Kingdom Reindeer Council, the supply of home-raised meat for Britons could be raised considerably after 1954. This is the hope Sir Frederick held out to meat-shy Britons at an exhibition of reindeer lore here.

Asked To Increase Gift Food Parcels

The IODE urgently request that gift food parcels for the people in Great Britain be increased.

The present flu epidemic in Britain is causing hardships not only to the aged but to industry, as thousands are away from work. Meat, fats and sugar are needed to build up energy and strength. If you were an English housewife your weekly ration would be as follows:

4 oz. bacon; 3 oz. cheese; 4 oz. butter; 4 oz. margarine; 2 oz. cooking fat; 10 oz. sugar; 2 oz. tea; 5 oz. sweets; 9d. meat (carcass); 2d. tinned meat; (meat the size of a 5c match box, or compared to what you could purchase for 10c in Canada.)

Names of elderly people and families which have been supplied to the IODE by the women's voluntary services in England may be had by applying to the IODE, Provincial Chapter in your province, 168 Jackson St. W., Hamilton, Ontario.

Tinned meat, tinned fat and sugar well wrapped in 1-lb. packages may be sent to the IODE where they will be packed in large cases and sent overseas for general distribution.

Germans Praise Toronto Tenor

BONN, Germany — (CP) — German critics are singing the praises of Adam Gaw, Toronto-born tenor, who has just completed a successful concert tour of Western German. He is the first of his countrymen to present a program of Canadian folk songs to a German audience.

Mr. Gaw's visit to the three Western zones of occupation and Berlin followed a series of concerts in many of Europe's leading music centres. These included the Scandinavian countries, Holland, Belgium, Switzerland and France.

Press and public showed particular interest in the young singer's introduction of Canadian composers, but his programs also comprised a number of Italian and French renaissance classical selections.

At the close of the present tour, Mr. Gaw returned to Milan to continue his studies. He has already made his debut on the Italian concert platform and opera stage.

U.S. Gets Look At Jet Transport

WASHINGTON, March 12 — (AP) — Washington got its first look Saturday at a jet transport plane. The four-engined, 50-passenger Canadian-built Avro jetliner arrived from Indianapolis for study by United States military officials.

Its builders said it made the 520-mile trip in 75 minutes 15 seconds, at an average ground speed of 415 miles an hour. Air speed ranged from 435 to 500.

The plane was built by A. V. Roe, Limited, of Malton, Ontario. American officials will look it over to see if they want it for the US Air Force.

Weekly Planning Helps To Ease Spring Cleaning

TORONTO.—(CP). — With the annual spring-cleaning threatening to turn the house topsy-turvy any day now, a woman expert here says a lot of the fuss can be avoided by planning properly.

Kay Taggart, supervisor of home furnishings for the Women's Institutes branch of the Ontario Agriculture Department, says many housewives now do a thorough cleaning job week by week, leaving only a few annual jobs for the spring.

But if this happy state of affairs doesn't exist, a routine for extra weekly cleaning makes it possible. She suggests that on the weekly cleaning day one week could include taking down dusting and washing all pictures. Another week the tops of doors, windows and woodwork could be given special attention, and so on around the calendar.

This would leave only a few special jobs for attention in the spring. Window washing is one of these, and a good time to remove the winter's grime is when the storm windows are taken down and screens put on. Apart from commercial cleaning preparations a good home-made cleaner is obtained simply by adding coal oil or vinegar to water. A chamois cloth is best for polishing.

Furniture Too

Miss Taggart says wooden furniture also needs at least one good cleaning a year. A good way to clean table tops and such is to use a solution made of a quart of hot water to which has been added a tablespoon of turpentine and three tablespoons of boiled linseed oil.

After such wood surfaces have been cleaned a thin coat of wax helps a lot, protecting the surface and making the daily dusting easier. A rapid, light motion in polishing gives a high gloss. It is the heat of friction that gives the shine to the surface.

Polish of course may be used on furniture every week. A home-made polish of equal parts of vinegar and olive oil serves well. It should be well shaken and a small amount applied with a duster.

Small Girl, Dog Welcome Guests

MONTREAL.—(CP).—A little girl and her small, shabby dog are in for a surprise next time they visit Montreal's city hall.

No one at the hall knows where they come from, but the girl and dog have become welcome visitors. It seems they have been dropping in late in afternoon to chat with police officers and visit various offices. Then they quietly leave.

Perturbed by the wire leash the child uses to restrain her pooch, Real Massicotte, secretary to council leader Dave Rochon, went to his summer residence recently and brought back a new dog harness he had originally bought for his own dog.

And next time the little girl turns up she will be presented with the little "trophy."

11 Models Take Troubles To Union Man

TORONTO, March 12.—(CP).—Eleven beautiful artists' models, concerned about the rising cost of living and chilling drafts in life classes, have taken their troubles to a union organizer.

Russell Harvey, AFL Canadian organizer, agrees that their situation is shocking and says they're victims of the economic system.

The 11 joined the Artists' Models' Federal Union and hope to sign up the rest of the 50 artists' models in Toronto as well as fashion and photographic models in the city.

The models said they are paid $1.25 an hour and haven't had a raise since 1947. They said they must be on call seven days a week and average only $20-$30 a week. They said they must pay all their own expenses, including transportation and, in some cases, baby sitters, since most of them are married.

And posing for artists is tough work, they said. It was just as fatiguing holding a pose for three hours as it is to work seven hours, say, behind a department store counter.

French Canadian Conducts Faust On Radio

By The Canadian Press

Jean Beaudet, a French-Canadian with an extensive European musical background, has established himself as an orchestra conductor of international fame.

The native of Thetford Mines, Que., now living in Montreal, marks another milestone by conducting the CBC Opera Company's presentation of Gounod's "Faust" in the Wednesday night program of March 7. But his main ambition is to conduct more and more Canadian works. He has perhaps conducted more premieres of Canadian music than any other musician in Canada.

While still a youngster in Quebec schools, Beaudet was introduced to the French master composers and their noted interpreters through a rare record collection which had belonged to an uncle. A pianist of considerable ability, he is called the greatest interpreter of Debussy and one of the finest of French music generally in Canada. His wide conducting experience across Canada however, has also embraced opera and all the great symphonic works.

Three Years In Paris

As winner of 1929 Quebec Province Prix D'Europe he spent three years at the Conservatoire International De Paris and there consolidated his interests in French music, especially in modern and contemporary works. He has been the first to present many of these to Canadians.

Beaudet was a CBC executive from 1937 to 1947 during which period the Toronto composer Healey Willan was commissioned to write two operas, "Transit by Fire" and "Deirdre of the Sorrows." Beaudet left the CBC to devote all his time to music, performing as a soloist, teaching and conducting.

He considers the Prague Music Festival of 1946 one of the peaks in his career. Beaudet was among some of the world's great conductors at that event—such as Sir Adrian Boult, Dmitri Shostakovich and Eugene Goosens. The Czech critics paid him great compliments.

Women Composers

A piano recital by Norah Drewett de Kresz of Toronto features works of Canadian women composers at the International Night dinner of the Business and Professional Women's Club of Toronto March 3.

The Canadian selections include an "Etude" by Jean Coulthard of Vancouver; "Studies in Line" by Barbara Pentland of Winnipeg and Vancouver; "Promenade" by Albertine Caron-Legris of Montreal.

Apart from these four Canadian women composers, Madame de Kresz will play her own piano arrangement of Bach's D Minor Organ Fugue.

Most Women Smoke–Merchant

CRANBROOK, B.C.—(CP). — Cranbrook's mayor, Robert S. Sang, is a tobacconist who doesn't smoke. But he's always willing to toast the ladies.

He estimates that 70 per cent. of the women around here smoke, and that is the largest single factor in trebling cigarette sales in the last 20 years.

Plug tobacco, pipe tobacco and cigar consumption is down and he doesn't know why. But he doesn't blame the women for it.

What's Right

You invite an unexpected guest to stay for dinner with the family and he accepts the invitation.

WRONG: Keep apologizing for the meal, saying that if you had known you were to have company you would have planned something special.

RIGHT: Give him what you have without apology. That is true hospitality.

HIGH WATERFALL

The Angel waterfall in Venezuela has a total fall of 3,212 feet, with the highest single drop 2,648 feet.

MR. AND MRS. ANTONY CLARK are pictured following their wedding in Trinity United Church Saturday afternoon. The bride, the former Gladys Elaine Cook, is the daughter of Mr. Malcolm G. Cook and the late Mrs. Cook of Peterborough, and the groom is the son of Mr. Stanley G. Clark, Richmond, Surrey, England.

Elaine Cook, Antony Clark Married At Trinity Church

White snapdragons, daffodils and ferns provided an effective setting in Trinity United Church Saturday afternoon for the wedding of Gladys Elaine Cook, daughter of Mr. Malcolm G. Cook and the late Mrs. Cook of Peterborough, and Antony Clark, son of Mr. Stanley G. Clark of Richmond Surrey, England. The Rev. Dr. Bruce Gordon performed the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of ivory nylon styled with a square neckline and twin frills of the material trimming the bodice front. Matching frills edged the long pointed sleeves and formed a peplum at the waistline. Her floor-length veil of ivory silk illusion was held by a Queen Ann headdress edged with seed pearls, and she carried a cascade bouquet of white tulips and hyacinths, which completed her ensemble.

Bridesmaid was her cousin, Miss Margaret Eggleton, who wore a mint green corded silk faile gown fashioned on princess lines, V-shaped neckline with an insert of pale green lace, three quarter length sleeves and lace mittens. Her hat was of matching Queen Anne style faced with green lace and she carried a cascade bouquet of daffodils.

The groom's attendant was Mr. Frank Dohaney of Toronto. Ushers were Mr. E. C. Hesla of Toronto and Mr. James Orr of Peterborough.

Mrs. Hugh Redmond played the wedding music and during the signing of the register Mrs. B. Gordon sang, "I'll Walk Beside You".

The wedding reception was held at the Kawartha Golf and Country Club. The bride's sister, Mrs. Norman Bennett of Weston, received in an afternoon dress of plum velvet with matching hat and a corsage of pink carnations.

For the wedding trip to the Laurentians, the bride wore a navy gabardine suit, matching top coat, white and navy milan straw hat and navy accessories and a corsage of white gardenias.

On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Clark will reside at 4750 Pie IX Blvd., Montreal, Quebec, Apartment 8.

Trinidad Carnival Queen Plans To Pay Montreal Visit

By CHARLES ESPINET

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad—(CP)—Montreal and other eastern Canadian cities will be hosts in June to a representative West Indian beauty.

She is 17-year-old Christine Gordon, Trinidad's "queen of the carnival" for 1951, who was selected by a panel of seven judges on carnival Sunday, Feb. 4.

Miss Gordon is Trinidad's sixth carnival queen and the most popular choice since Franka Anderson held the title in 1949. An olive-complexioned daughter of a Scottish-West Indian sugar planter, she is a member of a rich West Indian merchant family.

Thousands acclaimed the new queen at a festival held in picturesque Queen's Park Savannah. She was chosen from among 28 of Trinidad's most beautiful girls, 20 of whom paraded in the final judging for the title.

Among the contests were Anglo-Saxon, French, Portuguese and Spanish types as well as East Indians, Chinese and Negroes. From the girls in the final parade, six were chosen as ladies-in-waiting to the carnival queen.

The judges included Grant Major, Canadian trade commissioner in Trinidad, Rex Stollmeyer, British West Indian trade commissioner and Capt. R. Deam, officer commanding the United States naval operating base at Chaguaramas.

Educated at St. Hilary's School for Girls, Port of Spain, and the Ursuline Convent, Bridgetown, Barbados, Miss Gordon has a winning smile and a charming personality. On her Canadian trip she will be chaperoned by her stepmother.

Canadian Girls Find Doors Opening Wider For Careers

By KAY REX

OTTAWA —(CP)— A wide choice of careers awaits the modern Miss with an eye to the future —thanks to the efforts of the lady herself.

A recent survey shows women still holding down many of the responsible jobs they worked into during the war. Some now are at the top of the ladder. Others have carried the feminine banner into new fields—into everything from radio to politics.

Women are "proving themselves," says Mrs. Ellen Fairclough, Canada's only woman member of the House of Commons. "Anything the girls want badly enough they can get."

What's in the cards for the career-minded Miss?

Statistically, nursing and teaching will most likely catch her eye. But medicine and law also are garnering a corner on the feminine market.

Canada now boasts 113 women lawyers and 466 practising physicians — feminine gender.

There even are 37 women dentists and five dental hygienists. The latter is a new profession introduced into Canada two years ago. A trained hygienist works with the dentist.

Charlottetown boasts three of Canada's five hygienists. They are Annabel Allen, Thelma Reid and Dorothy Gallent.

A single glance at industry will show the working girl a variety of opportunity.

Million in Industry

On Nov. 30 the Bureau of Statistics listed 68,000 women in agriculture and 1,050,000 in industry ranging from 279,000 in various forms of manufacturing to 65,000 in real estate, insurance and other forms of finance.

The last war opened the door to many a career.

Take radio for example. The CBC now boasts a staff of 32 per cent feminine—449 women. Several are doing a man's job.

For instance, there are five writers and news editors in CBC newsrooms across Canada. Among these is a senior editor, Mrs. M. A. Macdonald in the Maritime newsroom—a position held by men in other regions.

Canada's growing film industry is a Mecca for creatively-inclined women. One is Judy Crawley, wife of the head of Crawley Film Ltd., of Ottawa, and a producer-director in the company.

Mrs. Crawley produced "The Loon's Necklace," a film based on Canadian folklore which won eight international awards two years ago.

In the realm of photography Marjorie Shackleton of Capital Press has chalked up more than one "first" for Canada's women photographers.

Pert and twenty-fivish, Marj has snapped a shutter at most of the world's top brass visiting in the capital these last three years. She was Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King's favorite photographer and one of the few he permitted to photograph him in the last few months of his life.

Men Take a Hand

In at least one profession—social work—the men appear to be turning the tables and barging into what once was considered feminine territory.

"Since the war more men have been training in Canada's nine schools of social work," says Miss J. A. Maines of the Canadian Association of Social Workers.

She estimates the association now has 1,400 members, two-thirds of whom are women.

In any case there is plenty of room for both men and women in this profession.

Despite the fact the association's membership has doubled in the last five years, there remains a shortage of professionally-trained workers.

"Shortages exist in all divisions of social work," says Miss Maines.

For the same reason a girl with her eye on a teaching or nursing career should have no trouble getting a job.

Some 61,000 women now teach in Canada's public and secondary schools, not including the number similarly occupied in private schools and universities. At the same time there are at least 25,000 graduate and undergraduate nurses in Canadian hospitals.

But girls choosing either of these professions will find plenty to do. At the moment the country is short of something like 5,800 teachers.

At the same time the present need for more nurses is bound to increase in line with the expanding health services.

MR. AND MRS. SIMPSON WRIGHT of Ottawa announce the engagement of their only daughter Patricia Joy to Kenneth William Barrie eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Barrie of Norwood, Ontario. Marriage to take place in Parkdale United Church, Ottawa on Saturday, April 14.

Norma Jane Ferguson Weds Roy Bennett at Castleton

The marriage of Norma Jane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Ferguson of RR 1, Warkworth, and Roy Bruce, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Bennett took place in the parsonage of Castleton United Church Saturday afternoon. The Rev. J. E. Griffith performed the ceremony.

The bride wore a white satin floor length gown styled with a lace yoke, shoulder length white net veil and carried a bouquet of red roses. The bridesmaid was Jean Bedford of Campbellford who wore a pink nylon sheer floor length gown, shoulder length matching veil and carried a bouquet of daffodils and tulips.

The best man was Lloyd Bennett brother of the bride.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's aunt and uncle Mr. and Mrs. William Morris Cobourg. The bride's mother received in a navy blue crepe dress with matching accessories and a corsage of red carnations. The groom's mother assisted. She wore a wine crepe dress, matching accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

The wedding trip was to Detroit, Michigan.

Two-Ring Ceremony Marks White-Thompson Vows

Ferns and mixed spring flowers provided the setting in Mark St. United Church Saturday afternoon for the double ring wedding ceremony of Dora Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William S. Thompson, R.R. 10, Peterborough. The Rev. B. S. Morwood performed the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown fashioned with a full skirt of white satin and a peplum falling in a graceful pointed train, a lace yoke and high rounded neckline bound in satin The lace sleeves came to a point. Her figertip veil of French net was held by a Juliet cap of lace over satin and she carried a bouquet of carnations centered with an orchid. Miss Vera Kidd was maid of honor and wore a yellow taffeta gown with fitted bodice, flaired skirt, Peter Pan collar and long fitted sleeves. She wore a matching braided heart shaped hat and carried a bouquet of blue iris. Miss Marie Dunford was bridesmaid and wore a gown of mauve taffeta styled the same as the maid of honor's, and carried a bouquet of yellow daffodils. The flower girl was Miss Beverly Cumming who wore an apple green taffeta gown with a fitted bodice, high neckline edged with a ruffle, short puffed sleeves and full skirt ending in a ruffle.

The best man was John White brother of the groom. Ushers were Howard Peters and Bob Clarke.

Mrs. R. C. Searles played the wedding music, and during the signing of the register, Reg Peters sang "Bless This House."

The wedding reception was held in the church parlors The bride's mother received in a rust crepe gown, navy hat and a white gardenia corsage. She was assisted by the groom's sister, who wore a navy gabardine suit, grey hat and a white gardenia corsage.

For a wedding trip to Niagara Falls and Buffalo, the bride wore a navy suit with matching accessories.

On return, Mr. and Mrs. White will reside at 286 Stewart St.

DOROTHY DIX

Mother-in-law, Is Too Good Insists on Running House

DEAR MISS DIX: What is one to do with a too-good mother-in-law? I have one who is so good to me, so anxious to help me and to take me from all work and worry that she has taken entire charge of my house. She doesn't leave me a thing to do. To all intents and purposes it is hers and not mine (I live in a duplex apartment that has been made from part of her house). When I protest she says: "You must be tired. Just sit down and take things easy and let me do it" until sometimes I feel as if I could scream, but I can't say anything because I know she is doing it from the best of motives. I am not unappreciative, but I do want to run my house myself, and my mother-in-law has entirely eliminated me from being able to do anything my own way. What about it?

Dorothy Dix

HENRIETTE

ANSWER: So far as you are concerned I am afraid there is nothing to do except to endure your mother-in-law's meddlesomeness, which is none the less hard to stand because it is meant in kindness. Being smothered to death in molasses is none the less unpleasant and fatal because it is sweet.

You'd Better Move

The only remedy I can suggest is for you to induce your husband to move to another city, where you will be out of reach of your mother-in-law's efforts to live a happy life for you. A good, long, expensive railroad ticket has solved many a delicate family problem. If this is impossible and emigration to some distant spot is not feasible, go to some other part of the town to live, where you may possess your bathtub and kitchen and gas stove in peace.

It is a strange thing that any woman doesn't know enough about her sex to realize that every woman wants to select her own home and the furniture, and to run it according to her own taste and that any other woman interferes with this at her peril. Why, to get her own home is one of the main things a girl marries for, and she doesn't want even her own mother to make a suggestion in it. Nor does she want any other woman to take her work out of her hands, and any mother-in-law or aunt or any other female relative who thinks that she is being good and kind to a bride by doing her work for her or showing her an easy way to do things has another guess coming.

DEAR MISS DIX: My grandson, aged 16, has been in the habit of borrowing small sums from me with the understanding that he will return them when he receives his allowance, but he never does. When I remind him of it he says he has forgotten it, and his mother gets angry at me and accuses me of being stingy. Says I should give the boy the money. Believe me, Miss Dix, I am not thinking of the money, but of the dishonest principle of borrowing and never paying back that is being instilled in this boy's character. What do you think?

GRANDMA

ANSWER: I think that you are exactly right and that there is nothing more important than that children should be taught from their earliest infancy to take a responsible attitude toward money and to be punctilious in paying their debts. It should be impressed upon every child that to borrow and not to repay is just as dishonest as stealing. It is even more despicable because it is betraying the trust of someone who likes us.

No part of a child's education is more important than teaching it to handle money. From the time a child is 5 years old it should be given a regular allowance that should cover all of its little personal expenses and it should be made to live within this allowance. If it spends it foolishly, it should be made to do without the things it wants the remainder of the week. There should be no begging for nickels and no borrowing. But if it does borrow the parents should see that the debt is repaid to the last penny.

When you have taught a child to take care of money, to do without until it has the money to pay for it, to spend wisely and well and to pay its debts, you have laid the foundations of an upright character.

DEAR MISS DIX: Please tell me what to do with a boy friend who falls asleep in my presence. He comes to see me almost every night and we go to shows and dances frequently, but he just seems not to be able to keep awake. What shall I do?

SALLY

ANSWER: Why, I think I would give him the air. He certainly pays you a very poor compliment by falling asleep in your presence or maybe it is the other way around and your conversation is so soothing that it runs him into repose. At any rate, a sleepy-headed husband will not make a very interesting and thrilling life companion.

Lincoln's Wife Enjoyed Gossip

NEW YORK —(AP)— Six letters written by Mary Todd Lincoln to a New York friend have turned up at the National Antique Show here. About all they prove is that Abraham Lincoln's spouse, like most people, enjoyed a bit of gossip.

The letters are owned by Mrs. Verner Alexanderson of Englewood, N.J., and were written to her great-grandfather, Abram Wakeman who was a New York lawyer and the city's postmaster in 1860. He supported Lincoln's campaign for the presidency.

In one letter Mrs. Lincoln referred to a "W," later designated as "so very far beneath our thoughts," and added "yet when you chance to visit 'W' it will be quite amusing to hear you account some of the ludicrous scenes you may have passed through."

In the same letter she wrote: "If possible, I am sure, you will always say a kind word to Mr. and Mrs. B whose favor it would be most impolite to ignor. Mr. W. may try to sour them."

This "Mr. W" obviously wasn't popular with Mrs. Lincoln. She said in another letter: "If any information was given Mrs. W it emanated from E. himself and those whom he had entertained with the vile falsehoods. Coupling a lady's name with one with whom I have never conversed and not placed on even the footing of our doormen is indeed a farce."

The letters are addressed formally to "Hon. Mr. Wakeman, My Dear Sir," and signed "Your friend M. L." Or else "Mrs. L."

Fenella Women Aid Red Cross

ROSENEATH, March 12 (ENS) —Members of Fenella Women's Institute entertained their husbands and friends in Fenella Community Hall on Thusday evening.

The business meeting was conducted by the resident, Mrs. Frank George, with Mrs. Percy Macklin pianist.

Three finished quilts were displayed at the meeting. These are being donated to the Cobourg Branch of the Red Cross.

"Our Trips to Florida" was the subject of an address by Mr. Charles Burrison, Gore's Landing, the guest speaker. Mr. Burrison is a fluent speaker and has made several trips to Florida. His interesting address was interspersed with humorous incidents of travel. The speaker was introduced by Mrs. Frank George and thanked by Mrs. Beecher McDonald.

Mrs. Elmer Harper was in charge of a brief progam that included a vocal solo by Ken Waldie, "The Easter Parade." A pie-eating contest was won by John Jewell and Mrs. Charles Burrison.

Progressive euchre was played and the prizes for high score were won by John Jewell and Mrs. Eric Sandercock.

A table of special interest to the ladies present was a display of needlework made by the members during the winter months, in the quiet evenings on the farm. The display included crocheted tablecloths, satin cushions, centrepieces, buffet sets and fancy pillow cases.

The meeting closed with the National Anthem.

Lunch was served by the Institute members.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

MARY MOORE SAYS:

When Your Apples Require Attention Use These Recipes

Goody Two-Shoes I am glad that you pushed me into writing this column, for my apples needed attention too.

You know, of course, that you can make the bruised and threatening-to-go-bad apples into canned applesauce. This must be done with care though, for applesauce will spoil readily if not 100 per cent sterile.

OR serve an apple dessert every other day for dinner.

I have chosen recipes that are not in everybody's file.

Duling Dumplings (Apple Roll)

Sift together 2 cups flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt. Rub into them 2 tablespoons each butter and lard. Add ⅞ cup milk and stir it in. Roll out on floured board to one-half inch thickness. Brush with melted butter and sprinkle with 2 tablespoons brown sugar mixed with 1 teaspoon cinnamon. Cover the dough with sliced apples. It requires about four. Roll up like jelly roll. Cut into 6 slices. Place them on one of the cut sides on buttered pan. Pour over following sauce: Mix 2/3 cup sugar with 1 tablespoon flour, ½ teaspoon salt; stir into these 1 cup boiling water until thick. Then add 1 tablespoon butter and juice of one-half lemon. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. for about 30 minutes.

The above treatment is good with other fruits.

Applesauce Refrigerator Cake

The virtues of this dish are the ease with which it may be made and the fact that it improves if made a day ahead of using.

One can condensed milk (that is the kind with sugar in), ¼ cup lemon juice, 2 egg whites, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 2 cups strained applesauce, one-third pound vanilla wafers. Blend the condensed milk with the ¼ cup lemon juice and stir until they thicken. They do not need heating. Beat whites until stiff and fold them into the milk mixture. Add the 2 tablespoons lemon juice to the unsweetened applesauce. Line a square cake pan with waxed paper. Place a layer of vanilla wafers on bottom. Spred with half of the milk mixture then with half of the applesauce in layers. Repeat these three layers, having top layer of wafers. Chill over-night. To serve cut in 2x4 inch pieces. This will turn out neatly onto serving plate, and may be topped with a fluting of whipped cream.

Applesauce Cones

This is economical for you will have the ingredients on hand at all times. It is deliciously crisp and good.

Cut circles of fresh white bread to fit top and bottom of 6 custard cups; half of them will be small and half size of top of custard cups. Butter them. Cut strips of bread long enough and wide enough to fit around inside of the cups. Butter them. Put bottom circles in custard cups and put the lining strips in. Fill to within ¾-inch of top with mixture of ¼ cup sugar, 1¼ cups applesauce, 2 tablespoons seedless raisins. Sprinkle with 1 teaspoon sugar. Dip the top circles on buttered side in sugar. Place on top. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. for 30 minutes, or until toasted and heated through. Turn out the cups on serving dishes and serve with cream or soft custard.

Children love this. It is also good with mixed strained prunes and applesauce or apple sauce flavored with black currant jam.

RCAF Delays Recruiting Nothing For WD's To Wear

OTTAWA, March 12 — "The Great WD Mystery"—why the Air Force has so long delayed recruiting of its Women's Division although the step has been repeatedly announced by Defence Minister Claxton as imminent—today was finally cleared.

The girls just haven't got a thing to wear.

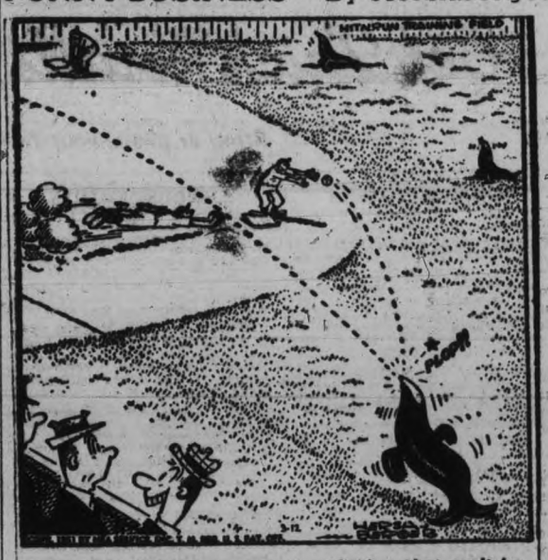
Air Force authorities told an Ottawa paper the enlistment of WD's—and they're badly needed right now in the expansion program to raise the RCAF to double —strength this year—was being put off for lack of uniforms.

A new Women's Air Force uniform has been designed and orders have been placed but prospects are the order won't be filled for at least six months.

And the Air Force, officials said, just doesn't feel it can ask it's new WD's to step into World War II's out-of-date uniforms.

Strict Secret

Specifications and design of the new uniforms are still a more closely guarded secret than the CF-100 battle performance but they were described guardedly as "recruit-getters."



"The girls," said the Air Force, "will love them—when we get them. But until we have the uniforms for the girls, we don't think we should try to get the girls for the uniforms."

The uniform problem, in fact, was serious for all branches of the services. Army, Navy and Air Force orders were hitting hard at the already serious wool shortage which had pushed up the price of civilian suiting 20 per cent.

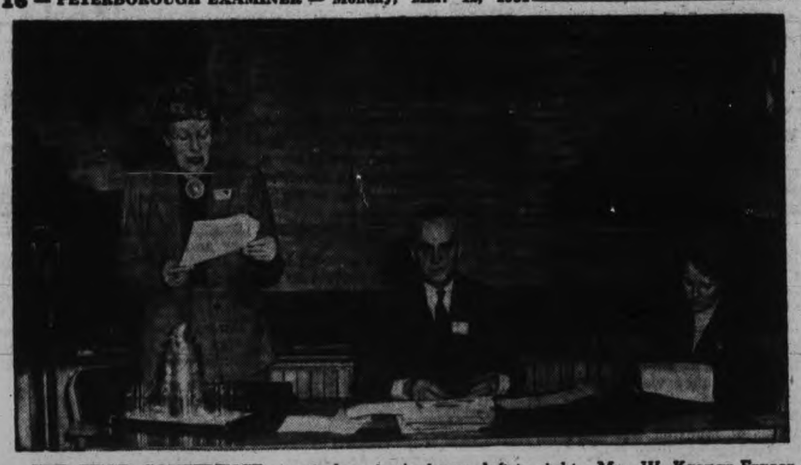
Nickel alloy steels contribute to the ruggedness of tractors, bulldozers, and other equipment.

Steam shovels and other earth-moving and construction equipment contain many parts made of strong, tough, durable nickel steels and nickel cast irons.



Moving Mountains ... we sure need NICKEL!

Hundreds of everyday uses for Nickel have been developed by the Nickel industry through a planned program of research. Today a large share of Canada's Nickel production is being diverted from peacetime uses into channels for preparedness. So the Nickel mine facilities, greatly expanded over the past decade, are again being operated at peak capacity. There is actually more Nickel now being delivered by Canada to the free world than in any peacetime year.

LAKEFIELD, March 12 (ENS) —The Lakefield Public School Board decided $9,070 was required from the village of Lakefield, and $580 from Douro township for current expenses of the Public School for 1951.

The final financial statement based on a tentative budget submitted by secretary Miss Grace Yonge was as follows:

Receipts: balance, $1,450; government grant, $12,550; high school rent, $2,650; total receipts, $16,650.

Expenditures: salaries, $17,500 (1950 salaries, $14,600); this includes the 10 per cent increase given the staff; instructional equipment, $800 (1950, $600); administration, $600 (1950, $500); operation, $3,700 (1950, $3,650); maintenance, $3,500 (1950, $2,600); auxiliary agencies, $200 (1950, $200).

Included in these estimates is the cost of re-arranging the principal's room, blocking the windows and installing a new lighting system.

It was moved by trustees Campbell and Hunter that teachers and students be allowed to support the 1951 Cancer Society and Junior Red Cross campaign.

Principal E. T. Sloan stated in his report that the enrolment was 281 pupils. Attendance was 83.74 per cent. The attendance was lower than usual due to an epidemic of flu and measles. There were three admissions and three transfers during February.

Woman May Get Hydro Pension

KITCHENER, March 12 (CP)— Premier Frost of Ontario has been asked to arrange financial help for Mrs. Daniel B. Detweiler, 82-year-old widow of the man who toured Southwestern Ontario on a bicycle 50 years ago to woo support for the idea of publicly-owned hydro. Partly through this work, Ontario's $968,000,000 publicly-owned hydro system came into being.

(In Toronto, a hydro source indicated that Mrs. Detweiler would probably be given a pension within a month.)

Since her husband's death in 1919, Mrs. Detweiler has supported herself by working as a practical nurse, a substitute teacher and a dressmaker. Later she opened her home to roomers. Still later she sold her home, lived in a single room in a friend's house and then, a month ago, moved to a rented room in the home she formerly owned.

Her life now is a struggle to make her meagre savings last.

In a letter to Premier Frost last week, Irvin Erb, Kitchener business man, wrote of Mr. Detweiler's pioneer efforts on behalf of hydro and suggested that the province provide "some form of tangible recompense to his widow who has been bearing the brunt of his sacrifices."

To Try More Fluorine

HAMILTON, March 12 (CP).— Addition of fluorine to drinking water as a means of reducing tooth decay will be recommended to Hamilton city council by the Board of Health. Dr. L. A. Clarke, Medical Officer of Health, said Sunday the annual cost will be about $20,000. The decision results from experiments undertaken in the last few years in the western Ontario cities of Brantford, Stratford and Sarnia.

22 Cars Derailed

The planes will fly Canadian casualties to near-home hospitals after they have been flown to the United States by U.N. Pacific airlift flights.

Call Off Stoppages

SYDNEY, Australia, March 12 (Reuters)—The Central Council of the Australian Miners' Federation decided Sunday to advise the coal miners to call off their one-day weekly stoppages which started Feb. 5. They were called as a protest against a coal industry tribunal award pegging increased wages to uninterrupted work for a full 10 days in every two weeks.

HONG KONG, March 12 (AP) —A Pacific Overseas Airlines plane crashed and burned on one of Hong Kong's many hills Sunday shortly after taking off in heavy fog for Siam, killing the 26 persons aboard. Man Is Subject Of Lesson Sermon

"Man" was the subject of the lesson sermon which was read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world including First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Peterborough on Sunday.

The golden text was "Mark the perfect man, and behold the upright: for the end of that man is peace." (Psalms 37:37)

Selections from the Bible included the following from Genesis 1:1,26,27. "In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth. And God said, Let us make man in our image, after our likeness: and let them have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, and over the cattle, and over all the earth, and over every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth. So God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him; male and female created he them." Correlative citations from the Christian Science text book, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," included the following. "Man. The compound idea of infinite Spirit; the spiritual image and likeness of God; the full representation of Mind."

Average Guy Type Leading Man

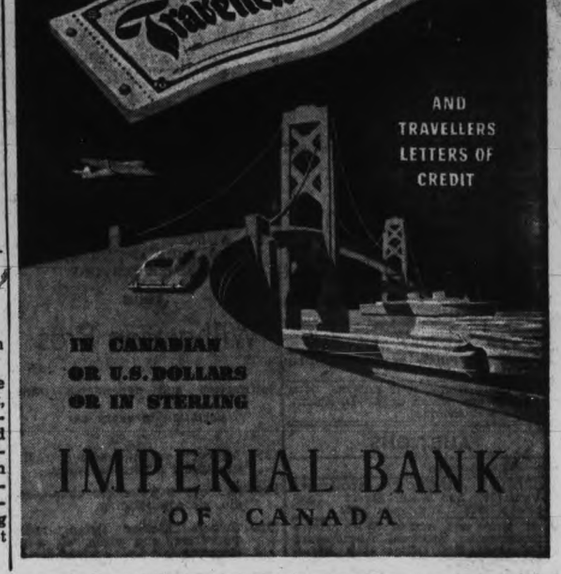
By JACK QUIGG

HOLLYWOOD, March 12 (AP) A new breed of leading man is taking over in Hollywood.

He's not as virile as Gable, not as dashing as Flynn, not as tough as Bogart or Cagney, not as whimsical as Grant and certainly not as taciturn as Cooper—but he's made the old stars edge over to make room for him.

You might call him the "average guy" actor.

He's good looking, but not strickingly handsome. He's intelligent, but not an intellectual. He can be rough and tough, but he doesn't make a profession of it. He's romantic, but not a "great lover."



In short, he's a nice guy, the sort you'd probably like for a friend. A guy like, say, William Holden.

The New Guard

Holden is typical of the new guard, some other members of which are Glenn Ford, Kirk Douglas, Farley Granger, Edmond O'Brien, Stephen McNally, Burt Lancaster, Richard Conte, John Lund, Mark Stevens, Robert Ryan, Wendell Corey, Montgomery Clift, Macdonald Carey, Richard Widmark, Howard Duff, Dana Andrews, John Hodiak, Gregory Peck, Jeff Chandler and Larry Parks.

Like Holden, these actors are distinguished by the wide range of roles they can play convincingly. That's how they differ from old guard players, who are practically limited to roles in which they can play themselves.

There are no strings on the "average guys." Widmark, launched a la Bogart as a psychopathic killer, was just as good as a plague-fighting health officer. Douglas, a brutal boxer in "Champion," was the tender gentleman caller in "Glass Menagerie." John Lund played a dashing army officer in one film, and idiot in his next.

J. A. Pike Suggests Mining Under Parklands

VICTORIA, B.C. —(CP)— Vast stores of minerals lie under the huge park areas and reserved lands in British Columbia and the mining industry is seeking a way to operate in these areas.

J. A. Pike, manager of Island Mountain Mines Co. Ltd., told the BC, Natural Resources Conference here that the province is losing revenue and jobs by closing off these areas from mining.

He said 13.7 per cent of the province land area is given over to national or provincial parks, forest reserves or under forest management licence.

Anything On Wheels Ready Cash With Car-Hungry Britons Yearning

By LES MALLORY

LONDON, March 12 —(AP)— A million car-hungry Britons yearn wistfully for the new automobiles they can afford but can't buy because of the allocation of a large share of production to the export market.

At the same time, glutted dealers in the neighboring Republic of Ireland hanker for a sales wizard to help move the almost-new stocks they can't sell.

In Britain new anything on wheels is ready cash.

True, most of the Britons on the dealers' weary waiting lists want new models. But there is a sizable corps of commercially-minded citizenry that looks on a new car as strictly for "flogging" —London underworld for black market peddling.

In 1950 the home market got 113,000 cars out of 522,000 made. The rest went to the docks. And Britain's litle guys watched them go—the little guys who bought 220,000 autos in an average pre-war year.

In the Republic of Ireland, the picture is different. Ireland, within Britain's export belt—because Britain needs her foodstuffs—gets quotas of new models each year just as the dollar-export bloc does.

These, together with home-built vehicles—Ford manufactures in Cork, other firms assemble in Dublin—satisfy Irish needs when backed by imports of European jobs such as Renaults and Volkswagens.

The overflow snarls in Ireland's narrow streets and the city fathers hear howls for wider thoroughfares.

Meanwhile the bottom has fallen out of the used car market over there. Ireland is eager to export the surplus autos. And British drivers would be glad to get them. But the British Board of Trade is finicky about issuing import licences. The government says currency must be saved for more vital needs.

$6 Weekly Raise For Dairy Men

TORONTO, March 12 (CP)—A conciliation board has recommended unanimously a $6-a-week raise for Toronto dairy employees but was divided on the retroactive date of the raise. The board declined to deal with suggestions by the Toronto Milk Distributors' Association for a reuction in the number of deliveries—now six—a week as an economy measure.

It was believed that an increase in the price of milk—now 20 cents a quart—was inevitable. The Milk Drivers' Union (AFL) is opposed to fewer deliveries and the employees said they cannot afford the present delivery schedule.

A majority of the board recommended the $6 wage increase be effective March 1. The union's representative said the increase should be retroactive to last Oct. 1 when the agreement expired. He said the companies already are paying $3 of the wage increase.

West, Reds Creep Closer To Agreement

Say Gromyko Makes Slight Concession In Wording One Item

PARIS, March 13. (AP) — Western delegates were reported agreed today on their answer to new proposals for the Big Four talks agenda launched Monday by Andrei Gromyko, Russian Deputy Foreign Minister.

Gromyko's "concession" to meet the West "half way," as he put it, was to re-word one item on his proposed list of topics for a Foreign Ministers conference — the item concerning a peace treaty with Germany.

Delegations from Britain, the United States, and France met for several hours late Monday night and discussed Gromyko's proposal at length. They were expected to give the Russian their answer at today's meeting.

The east and west actually are not far apart on the treaty issue, but they remain sharply divided on other agenda points.

A British official said that actually Gromyko is growing "more and more immovable" in his opposition to the westerners' stand on what they consider the main point of any conference—that to improve east-west relations the foreign ministers must get down to causes and see why things are tense.

Want Cases

The Russian say they want to get down to cases instead of causes. They want to talk about Germany mostly, and specifically about the disarming of Germany and how to see that she stays disarmed. They also want to talk about reducing armaments all around.

The western deputies say the Russians have no right to put on record that the ministers should discuss disarmament and the disarming of Germany. They contend the foreign ministers can go over those subjects if they wish, but the subject headings should be neutral—"level of armaments" and "preparation of German treaty." Otherwise, say the west, the deputies meeting here would be pre-judging decisions their chiefs ought to make.

The Russians and the western powers started with two entirely-different drafts a week ago, each containing three points. They now seem to agree on one point—except for a couple of words.

Were They Surprised

BOSTON, March 13. (AP) —It sounded like a riot, so the Boston police headquarters dispatcher sent 25 policemen in nine cruisers and a patrol wagon last night to the Roxbury section. When they reached the scene, what did they find? Two hundred persons standing around. Watching two little girls in a fist fight.

500 Missionaries To Be Flown From Hong Kong

HONG KONG, March 13 (AP) —More than 500 European missionaries being evacuated from Communist China are to be flown home from Hong Kong, it was announced today.

Thirty-seven British missionaries left Monday by plane for London and other Commonwealth points. Mission headquarters here said it expects to send one or two plane loads each week.

Most American Protestant missionaries from Red China are going home by ship. American Roman Catholics have not begun a general withdrawal. However, many Roman Catholics are arriving here, most of them expelled by the Reds. Others are en route home for transfer or leave.

Reports here Monday night said Dr. Stewart Allen of Montreal, director of the Canadian Mission Hospital at Chungking, was being held incommunicado after his arrest last Christmas. The charges against him might include murder.

Four Canadians In Group

In Toronto, W. W. Tyler of the China Inland Mission said today he believes two Canadians and their wives are in a party of 37 missionaries who left Hong Kong Saturday.

Mr. Tyler said he thought that J. D. Harrison of Toronto, his American-born wife, and Mr. and Mrs. George Bell of Toronto, were members of the party which headed for Britain in a chartered plane due today at London.

Red Troops Vanish Along Front

Allied Officers Wary of Trick, Near 38th Parallel

TOKYO, March 13. (AP)— United States troops stormed back into Yudong today and wrested control of the village from a battalion of Chinese Reds. Yudong is 11 miles southeast of Hongchon and less than three miles southwest of a Chinese concentration area.

A US 2nd Division patrol first entered the town Monday night but withdrew after a brief fire fight.

Elsewhere along the 70-mile front United Nations forces were chasing strangely-elusive Chinese and North Korean soldiers back toward the 38th Parallel.

Probing spearheads of three Allied columns closing in on Hongchon were within 25 miles of the old boundary between North and South Korea.

At the same time, Fifth Air Force fighter-bombers blasted the Red concentration area to the northeast.

Vain Search

Farther east U.S. 7th Division patrols searched the countryside in a vain search for Communist strongholds.

Southwest of Hongchon a company of the U.S. 1st Cavalry Division threw back three counter-attacks by about 700 Chinese Communists.

Air strikes and artillery barrages blasted the attacking Reds.

There was no ready explanation for the sudden Communist withdrawal from the mountain redoubts where they had fought bitterly for every yard of ground. Some front-line officers said possibly they were pulling back to make a new stand in prepared defences in the ridges north of Hongchon.

"It was such tough going yesterday and so easy today," a sergeant said.

Canadian troops, along with British forces, were reported to have pushed to within four miles of Hongchon.

All along the 70-mile front the Reds were putting up only a show

Say Defence Costs Double, Estimates Up $858,300,000

OTTAWA, March 13. (CP)—The twilight war will give a jet-propelled impetus to the Government's 1951-52 spending. Taxes undoubtedly will rise. Finance Minister Abbott's preview of the next fiscal year's expenditures, in his estimates tabled in the Commons Monday, showed an expected—and only partial—bill of $3,586,915,000. Record peacetime defence spending of $1,700,000,000 boosted the expenditures by $858,300,000 over the $2,728,000,000 authorized the current year ending March 31.

Neither of the grand totals is final. This year's will be raised by many millions in "supplementary" estimates to be tabled later, while the customary supplementaries also will hoist the total for next year, starting April 1.

No tax forecasts were made by Mr. Abbott in bringing down his estimates, contained in a 540-page blue book. These deal only with spending. The next news will come after Easter in the budget, which tells how the country will foot the expense bill. He said he could not bring down the 1951-52 budget before the March 21 adjournment.

But substantial tax increases are regarded as inevitable, despite a slash in proposed non-defence spending that lopped some $35,000,000 off the estimates in these categories.

Big Increase

In the expended provisions for the protection of Canada, the defence department itself called for $1,600,000,000 for the next year, compared with $762,617,000 in the current year.

Another $64,000,000 will go for the new defence production department, and there are miscellaneous items such as research and atomic energy to bring the whole defence total to more than $1,700,000,000.

Along with those swollen figures for the immediate year ahead, the estimates disclosed the government's intention to ask parliament to sign contracts for additional defence requirements amounting to $2,200,000,000. These bills would be payable in later years.

In line with earlier forecasts, the estimates showed the Air Force getting the lion's share of money as between the forces.

The government will ask for the RCAF $929,000,000—of which $406,000,000 will go largely for fighter planes—while the army is to get $667,609,000 and the Navy $277,754,000.

Tried Spying Ask Exile Lose Citizenship

LONDON, March 13 (CP).— The Attorney-General today asked that the British citizenship of an exiled Czech be revoked for petty spy activity.

Sir Hartley Shawcross said that Carl Strauss, an export manager for a British firm, was paid $60 to $140 a month for sending the Czechoslovak government tidbits of information.

Sir Hartley, asking revocation of citizenship before the deprivation of citizenship committee, said the information passed by Strauss 50, was mostly gossip which could have been culled from any newspaper.

But, he added, "he was being trained in the general arts of espionage so that he would have been very useful indeed had a more serious situation developed."

Strauss, who entered England during the war as an exile, passed messages in cigarette boxes to other agents.

Shawcross said the Prague queries dealt with such matters as the likely outcome of the 1950 British election, a reported feud between two cabinet ministers, and the British attitude on a trip General Francisco Franco made to Lisbon.

Hope To Avert Increase In Milk Price

TORONTO, March 13. (CP)—A delegation of Ontario milk distributors met with Government officials behind closed doors today to talk over the proposed appointment of a single arbitrator on the province's milk prices.

Meeting with the distributors were Agriculture Minister Kennedy and Welfare Minister Goodfellow. The delegation was headed by J. L. Burrows, president of the Ontario Milk Distributors' Association, and M. G. Hart of Oshawa, past-president of the association.

Mr. Kennedy said Monday he hopes to avert an increase in the price of milk in Toronto and the rest of Ontario.

Mr. Kennedy said in an interview that he fears a price boost in Toronto, expected to arise from a Conciliation Board report recommending pay increases to 1,700 dairy employees, would set a pattern for dairies across the province.

The minister said he plans to send a Bill on milk control, which now awaits passage in the Legislature, to the House Agricultural Committee where producers, distributors and consumers will be asked to present their views.

Up To Members

"The milk situation as it affects the whole province can be threshed out before this committee," Mr. Kennedy said. "I don't intend to treat it as a government Bill but as one which the members can alter as they see fit."

The Bill provides for replacement of the present three-man Milk Control Board by a single county judge who will arbitrate where producers and distributors can reach no agreement on a wholesale milk price. It also would limit the Control Board's general authority to refuse to issue milk licences, and sets out specific cases in which the board has this authority.

Wait First-Hand Report On Canadians In China

OTTAWA, March 13. (CP)—The External Affairs Department is awaiting a first-hand report on conditions inside Communist China, where things are authoritatively reported to be becoming tougher for Canadians and other westerners. External Affairs Minister Pearson Monday said "certain Canadians" have been detained by the Reds. This treatment is considered part of what is said to be a general trend towards making life more difficult and unpleasant for Occidentals. There are several hundred Canadians, mostly missionaries, in the country.

For those reasons, the first-hand report is being awaited with interest. It will come from Chester A. Ronning, 56, former Camrose, Alta., school teacher who has closed out the former Canadian Embassy in Nanking and reached Hong Kong en route home.

Classed for some time as officer in charge at Nanking, Mr. Ronning is due back in Canada next month for the first time in five years. He and H. L. Staines 50, a clerk who formerly lived in Kaslo, BC, are believed to have travelled through China largely by train.

Mr. Pearson may have been referring to those two when he told the Commons that Canadians are leaving China, although some delays are being put in their way.

The minister told Gordon Graydon (PC-Peel) that Canada, unable to do so herself because she does not recognize the Reds, is having British diplomats do everything that can be done for the protection of the "certain" Canadians who have been detained.

Officials confirmed earlier that External Affairs has known for some time of the imprisonment of Dr. Stewart Allen of Montreal, director of a Canadian mission hospital at Chungking.

Press reports have said Miss Connie Ward, formerly of Vancouver, has been detained and released. The department said a Canadian, Dr. Robb, has had the same treatment and that there have been accusations against a group of Canadian Roman Catholic nuns, believed to be operating an orphanage in the Canton area.

Mr. Pearson told the House he did not want to say too much at this time about the situation, but might have something further to say later.

Ask 1½ Million For Plundering

TEL AVID, March 13 (AP). — Israel today disclosed a demand for $1,500,000,000 for "Jewish property confiscated and plundered by the Germans" during the Nazi regime.

The demand was contained in a note presented Monday to the governments of the United States, Russia, Britain and France, the four occupying powers of Germany.

The note explains that the total value of "property confiscated and plundered" by the Nazis is estimated at $6,000,000,000. Israel is asking the amount she estimates it will cost her to resettle 500,000 Jewish immigrants from countries formerly under Nazi control.

Meat For Sausages To Be Cut In Britain

LONDON, March 13 (AP)— Butchers will cease to receive meat for manufacturing sausages after March 19, the British Press Association reported today.

This will cut the quantity of non-rationed sausages on sale by a third. Butchers instead will be allocated six per cent more meat normally rationed to housewives.

The latter increase will not however mean any more fresh meat for customers—butchers will use it to make sausages. A trade spokesman said the cut in manufacturing meat will not be offset by the increase in rationing meat.

Ministry of Food spokesmen declined comment on the report.

He found 12 sets of twins, five in a single class.

Judge Shoots, Restores Order

FORTUNA, Calif., March 13 — (AP). — Police Judge L. L. Bryan brought order in his court Monday with a blazing revolver.

Involved in the Wild-West melodrama were Judge Bryan, farmer Gerhard Svendsen and Svendsen's wife.

The judge explained that Svendsen, a 220-pounder, entered his court and started berating him because of a six-months-old assault - and - battery charge against him. Svendsen was free on a peace bond.

While the tirade was going on, Mrs. Svendsen entered and tried to bring peace. Then Svendsen began to beat his wife. Judge Bryan tried the peacemaker's role and the irate farmer turned on him.

So the judge picked up a .38-calibre revolver, shot a hole through the toe of the farmer's shoe (which missed the foot) and then—while the farmer hopped around on one foot—fired three more shots in the air to call the police.

Neighbor Fined For Slander

SUDBURY, March 13 (CP)— Damages of $1 each were granted in a judgment Monday by an Ontario Supreme Court jury to Mrs. Cecile Sabourin and Mrs. Regina Chretien of Sudbury in their slander suit against Mrs. Ida Trottier, a next-door neighbor.

Mrs. Trottier also will be required to pay court costs of the three-day hearing.

The suit was brought against Mrs. Trottier as the result of remarks made by her about the plaintiffs in July and August, 1949.

Counsel for the plaintiffs maintained that the remarks were an attack on the character of Mrs. Chretien and Mrs. Sabourin, causing them considerable embarrassment and trouble in their home life.

Mr. Justice A. M. LeBel said that people who make statements which injure the character and reputation of others should be made to understand that they can't do it with impunity.

Uranium Lead Resumed Soon

OTTAWA, March 13 —(CP)— Trade Minister Howe predicted today that Canada will soon reassume leadership in North American production of uranium.

Mr. Howe, director of Canada's atomic effort, was commenting on a Washington announcement that the United States has passed Canada to become the second largest producer of uranium in the world. The Belgian Congo is the largest.

This statement caused some surprise here because it had been assumed Canada was fairly well ahead of the U.S. in production of the atomic ingredient.

Mr. Howe said he believed the American lead in production will prove to be "a temporary situation," and that Canada will move ahead.

Big-Money Crap Game Said To Run In Oshawa

TORONTO, March 13 (CP). — The annual report of the Ontario Provincial Police said Monday that big-money crap and rake-off games have been operating in Windsor, Oshawa, Sault Ste. Marie, Crowland township and Tay township as well as in the Toronto suburbs of Etobicoke, North York and Vaughan township.

The report, tabled in the Legislature, said requests from municipalities for use of the provincial police anti-gambling squad set a high last year. Steps are being taken to increase the squad's size.

Pleads Guilty To Tax Fraud

BELLEVILLE, March 13 (CP) —E. J. S. Wallwork, a public accountant, Monday pleaded guilty to a charge of conspiracy under the Income Tax Act, and also to making false returns for his personal income from 1944 to 1948.

Wallwork was remanded in police court on bail of $25,000 for sentence March 20. He was charged with conspiracy in connection with income tax evasion by the Canada Talc Mines of Madoc.

During a previous hearing the court was told that from 1940 to 1948 a sum of $116,000 had been transferred by the company to Wallwork who acted as the firm's auditor.

By agreement this amount had been split three ways, Mr. Wallwork retaining one-third and paying two-thirds back to E. D. James and Roy Taylor, company officials.

Testifying for the Crown, Taylor Monday said that the arrangement between the company and Wallwork had been started in 1940 following a discussion about what to do with a company surplus.

An investigator for the Income Tax Department showed that Wallwork had made false returns on his own personal income from 1944 to 1948.

Witnesses said the youths climbed a fire escape and entered the room of a Toronto student. She said they were boisterous but did not molest her and left when she showed them the door.

Believes Red Menace Weakening In Asia

LONDON, March 13 (Reuters) —Rt. Hon. Malcolm MacDonald, British Commissioner-General in Southeast Asia, today said the Communist menace from within in countries in Southeast Asia has "rather weakened" during the last six or 12 months.

But the threat from outside is "as great as ever," he warned.

MacDonald spoke to reporters before leaving by air for Hong Kong after talks on the Far Eastern situation with Prime Minister Attlee and members of the cabinet.

Malayan Casualties

Swift Madrid Action Nips Barcelona Strike

BARCELONA, Spain, March 13 (Reuters)—A Spanish cruiser and three destroyers today sailed into Barcelona where about 150,000 workers are on strike demanding release of those arrested in Mondays mass demonstrations against the high cost of living.

A special trainload of police reinforcements from Madrid was also rushed into the city.

The mass strike by 300,000 Barcelonians Monday appeared to be petering out today in the face of rapid government action but about half were still off the job.

Many construction workers remained out and taxis were still off the streets early today.

Some strikers said they would not return to work until all those who had been arrested as strike organizers were freed.

World Nudist Congress Competes With UK Festival

LONDON, March 13 —(AP)— People who like to shed their clothes in the sun are being invited to Britain this year for a grand 3½-month convention.

It will be an attraction coinciding with the Festival of Britain, ambitious May-to-October exposition at which the United Kingdom will parade its glories and might.

The World Congress of Naturists, as the nudists prefer to be known, has no official connection with the Festival of Britain.

The Naturists will have their own festival at Chestnut Grove, Kent, away from maddening London. With certain reservations any visitor who can produce credentials establishing that he is a reputable nudist back home, is welcome.

The Festival starts early in June, but there will be intervals of dressing up during its 3½ months. There will be at least one indoor reunion in London.

There is little precedent for managing an international conclave of Naturists, but a program embodying the best nudist practices of many lands has been arranged. Visitors may dress up to visit the orthodox Festival of Britain. Or they may stay within the high and opaque walls which surround Chestnut Grove to participate in fun, relaxation or moral reflection without clothes.

Mrs. E. V. Stanley, member of the host North Kent Club, said one of the rules of membership in the club is "equality of sexes."

"We get many husbands and wives, most of them young, and of course they balance each other. Then we aim to have as many boys and girls, and there can be exceptions only if unattached men or women come with highest recommendations."

U.K. Has New Secret Weapon Against Subs

Claim 'Mechanical Brain' Spells Destruction To Enemy U-Boats

LONDON, March 13—(CP)—A new British weapon designed to make life a lot tougher for even the speediest submarine caused ripples of speculation today.

One British writer hailed it as capable of doing for the navy what radar did for the RAF during the Second World War.

The new device—its name and details are on the secret list — was mentioned in the House of Commons Monday night by James Callaghan, parliamentary secretary of the admiralty. It is a mechanical brain which locates, attacks, aims and fires automatically.

Callaghan told the House that Britain will have 232 new ships in her navy when the three-year naval program is completed. He asked £278,000,000 ($834,000,000) for the navy this year.

The new units would include six aircraft carriers, eight destroyers, 24 frigates and almost 200 minesweepers and patrol boats.

Does Remarkable Job

Discussing the new weapon, Callaghan said:

"I have seen a demonstration of this equipment, which now is undergoing trials at sea. It is a most remarkable evidence of the way in which anti-submarine weapons have developed since the last war."

Naval writers took over from there. With remarkable unanimity correspondents for leading newspapers said they "understood" that the secret equipment constitues a further development of the poswar "squid," a multi-barrelled mortar which lays down a pattern of shells for underwater explosion.

A. J. McWhinnie wrote in The Labor Daily Herald that the new weapon produces a more-devastating explosion than has ever been known in anti-submarine warfare. Nowell Hall, naval correspondent for the Conservative Daily Telegraph, said the new bomb would pierce even the toughest hull if exploded within a certain distance.

Can't Get Away

W. A. Crummley, naval reporter for The Daily Express, said the secret of the new equipment is that it prevents U-boats from escaping destruction at the last minute.

"It cuts out the ASDIC 'blind spot' in which the destroyer lost contact with its target in the last half-mile of its full-speed run-in to drop depth charges," said Crummley. "It cuts out human calculations—and errors."

ASDIC stands for Allied Submarine tDetection Investigation Committee, and was the means used for detecting U-boats in the Second World War. The new device is said to leave ASDIC far behind.

U.S. Ahead Of Canada On Uranium

Hint Atomic Weapons May Be Tested At Some New Spot

WASHINGTON, March 13. (CP) — The Atomic Energy Commission announced Monday that the United States has passed Canada to become the second largest producer of urnalum in the world. The Belgian Congo remains the leading producer.

The Commission, at a press conference, gave no figures. Nor did it indicate where Russia stands in the uranium race.

Most US uranium, commission sources said, is produced oh the Colorado plateau along the Colorado River. The deposits there occur in low-grade cornotite, a type of rock. Canada and the Belgian Congo get their uranium from high-grade pitchblende deposits.

Gordon Dean, AEC chairman, threw a hint during the press conference that the AEC may test new atomic weapons at other places than the Pacific island of Eniwetok and the burned desert area around Las Vegas, Nev.

Guarded Secret

But when and where the new explosions will take place remain a closely-guarded secret.

"We're going to have to make more tests," Dean said, but he did not want to pinpoint the sites.

"You see, there is always the probability you could take one (an atomic weapon) out in the middle of the ocean or drop one out of a plane."

Since the series of mysterious dawn blasts on the western desert at Las Vegas, Nev., last month there has been widespread speculation about the nature of the next tests and where they would be conducted. A good deal of talk has centred around whether a hydrogen bomb would be exploded.

Dean also confirmed speculation that a new $600,000,000 plant in South Carolina is designed to produce materials for "either A or H bombs."

Richard Denies Talk On Norris

MONTREAL, March 13. (CP)— Maurice (Rocket) Richard of Montreal Canadiens said today he could not recall telling two reporters of an alleged Communist newspaper that Jim Norris of Detroit was monopolizing hockey.

The high scoring right-winger said in a statement: "I discussed hockey in general with two fellows, who said they were reporters; I did not mention Mr. Norris or his connection with hockey. I merely talked about our team (Montreal Canadiens) and our playoff chances."

Richard was referring to newspaper Champion's report of an interview with him. Last Saturday night police anti-subversive squad officers arrested nine persons whom they said were selling Communist newspapers. The paper carried a front-page story on Richard.

The Champion quoted Richard as telling its youth editor Jean Sylvestre that: "Jim Norris has a controlling interest in the four American clubs (of the National Hockey League) and would like to get his hands on the two Canadian teams."

Champion is an English-language paper published in Toronto.

Chandler Plans Resign Soon

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 13 (AP).—Baseball Commissioner Albert B. (Happy) Chandler will resign his post within the next six months regardless of whether his successor is elected, it was learned today.

A close friend of the commissioner told The Associated Press that Chandler had debated the idea of quitting immediately after his repudiation by the major-league owners Monday, but was advised against it.

As was the case three months ago, the magnates voted not to re-elect Chandler to a new term. In a written secret ballot nine owners voted for Chandler and seven voted against him. He needed 12 for re-election. The former Kentucky Senator's seven-year contract ends April 30, 1952.

"Happy knew he was licked Sunday after a talk with Clark Griffith of Washington, his staunchest supporter," the Chandler intimate said. "He suggested resigning then but was advised to reserve decision until he talked with his closest friends among the baseball magnates."

Make Cuts

Elsewhere — despite higher wages and materials costs—there were cuts in the government's proposed spending.

Non-defence construction and other capital spending were hacked by about $35,000,000. The estimates indicate the civil service payroll will be thinned out.

Biggest reduction was shown in the agriculture department—$28,600,000. Public works, resources and veterans' affairs also were heavily cut.

The major increase—$18,000,000—was in the health department.

The controversial debate on the Anglo-Canadian wheat agreement shared the parliamentary spotlight Monday night with the estimates. Speaking in the wheat debate, Trade Minister Howe said Brtain had discharged her legal obligations under the agreement, and is not in default.

Not In Default

The Canadian government had never suggested to the British government "at any time that they were in legal default."

It had been a mistake, he felt, to include in the agreement such a "loosely-worded" clause as the "have regard to" clause. Under this clause, Britain was to take into account, in settling with Canada the price to be paid for wheat in the last two years of the agreement, the low price at which she got wheat in the first two years.

While the clause was the source of much misunderstanding, Mr. Howe said he felt that the British government was "partly to blame" through a speech at Winnipeg by the then Food Minister John Strachey, which many Canadian wheat producers took to mean that the United Kingdom government was guaranteeing a final settlement.

Last May, the United Kingdom said it believed it had discharged its obligations under the agreement. The Canaian government then accepted that as Britain's position, but made efforts later to have the U.K. government change its mind.

Volleyball Fleas Lose To Spiders, Mosquitoes Lead

Two victories, 9-6 and 15-8, by the Spiders over the Fleas Saturday in the Lillico volleyball play at the YMCA placed them in first place with 34 points. The Spiders lost the third game 11-9. They won 15-2, lost 15-7 and tied 8-7 (team has to win by two points or else called a tie).

Telegrapher Up On Manslaughter

PRINCE GEORGE, B. C., March 13 (CP).—A court case born of a Rocky Mountain troop train disaster was scheduled to start today in this northern British Columbia city.

Preliminary hearing of a manslaughter charge will open in police court against Alfred John Atherton, 22, former Canadian National Railways telegrapher.

Atherton is alleged to have relayed a train order incorrectly, resulting in the head-on collision Nov. 21 at Canoe River, B. C., in which 21 persons—soldiers and civilians—lost their lives.

The westbound CNR troop train and an eastbound CNR passenger train collided on a mountain curve about 190 miles east of Kamloops, B. C., in one of the worst wrecks in western Canadian railway history.

Charged specifically in the death of Henry Prostunik, fireman on the troop train, Atherton was arrested in Saskatoon by RCMP Jan. 9 and brought here. Numerous remands followed. He was free most of the time on bail of $5,000 posted by two city business men.

One of western Canada's most noted criminal lawyers will defend Atherton. He is John Diefenbaker, Progressive Conservative member of parliament for Lake Centre, Sask., who has known the defendant "over the years." Junior defence counsel is William Ferry.

Mr. Diefenbaker was admitted to the British Columbia bar Saturday at a cost of $1,500.

Pats Resting After Victory

By WILLIAM BOSS.

WEST CENTRAL SECTOR, Korea, March 13 — (CP). — The Patricias have been sorting themselves out for the last 24 hours, resting atop 1,900-foot Mount Kkakkun which they seized on Sunday.

Capture of the mountain was the culmination of a five-day operation which saw the Canadians win their first real battles against the Chinese, and so knock the enemy off balance that his front is still withdrawing.

Although the Patricias have not experienced in Korea a knock-down, drag-out battle like that at Ortona or the assaults on the Hitler or Gothic lines in the Second World War, they have decisively beaten at least two Chinese battalions in frontal assaults up 60-degree mountain bluffs — and in Korea that is something.

Their bayonet charges last Wednesday and Thursday up a hill, spearheading Lt.-Gen. Ridgway's offensive in the west-central sector represented the deadliest fighting anywhere in that phase of the campaign.

Bodies of 52 Chinese—all killed by small arms fire or grenades—were found on the mountainside afterward. More than 2,000,000 rounds of ammunition were abandoned by the enemy, who left virtually impregnable positions after the Canadian assault that captured the imagination of the entire theatre.

Factory Smoke Said Nuisance

Ald. P. J. Anglesey reported to the finance committee of the council Monday night complaints from some residents of Romaine St. that smoke from nearby factories was a neighborhood nuisance, especially on wash days. His query to the committee was briefly—can anything be done about it?

Only by request for co-operation as shown several years ago by the Ovaltine Company and Campbell's Dairy, was the general reply.

Authority Lacking

Mayor Swanston said that municipal authority to curb "the smoke nuisance" was lacking.

City Clerk Outram remarked that the walls of the new city hall would hardly retain their natural gray color in the smoke from the YMCA, Mohan and Hunter dairy and other buildings in that area.

It was suggested that Peterborough had a remedy in smoke-consuming equipment manufactured by the Canadian General Electric Company, and it was understood that "some local people have already installed that process."

The answer to Ald. Anglesey was that present abatement of smoke volume within the city could be effected only by the co-operation of industries and other concerns as had been accomplished by other firms.

of rearguard resistance.

But allied commanders were wary. They did not label the Red withdrawal a rout.

Not Knocked Out

"We've got the enemy reeling back but he still isn't knocked out," said Maj.-Gen. Claude B. Ferenbaugh, commanding the battle-tried U.S. 7th Division.

"The outlook is optimistic, but we're keeping our guard up."

Even as the Reds drew back from their front-line positions, their reinforcements were coming up from the rear.

More than 1,500 enemy trucks were spotted Monday night moving southward from North Korean bases. That was the largest number seen in 2½ months.

Special H and S Service

MILLBROOK, March 13 (ENS) The Home and School Association attended in a body the evening service in St. Thomas' Anglican church on Sunday. Members of the Association who took part in the service included Mrs. G. A. Spicer who gave a vocal solo, "Man of Sorrows", Wilfred Elson and Harold Argue who read the scripture lessons; Percy Hamilton, who assisted the rector in the prayers, and the Rev. A. A. Chote who preached on "Christ in the Home, School and Church."

Dollar Unchanged

MONTREAL, March 13 (CP).—The American dollar today opened at 4 9-16 per cent premium to the Canadian dollar, unchanged from Monday's close. That is, it took $1.04 9-16 Canadian to buy $1 American.

The pound sterling was $2.92¾ also unchanged.

CRU DELEGATES—Winnipeg was Canada's football capital during the week-end. The Canadian Rugby Union held its two-day annual meeting there, during which it was decided to continue the Grey Cup final as a one-game fixture at increased prices. Here five members of the executive discuss details as the session started. Left to right are: Jim McCaffery of Ottawa, vice-president Art Chipman, Wininpeg, president Myer Insky of Montreal, past president Tom Alison of Toronto, and Norm Perry of Sarnia.

Must Increase Butter Made 10%–Cameron

SASKATOON, March 13 (CP). —The federal government's dairy chief said today that Canada must increase its butter production by at least 10 per cent if it is not to face another butter shortage next year.

In a speech prepared for delivery before the annual meeting of the National Dairy Council, W. C. Cameron predicted that when the current butter year is over in April, "it is safe to say that Canadians will have consumed at least 21,000,000 pounds more butter than was produced."

Part of this excess of demand over production was met by a surplus of 20,000,000 pounds the previous year; part by imports of about 5,000,000 pounds from New Zealand.

Canada's domestic production of butter totalled about 300,000,000 in 1950, down 40,000,000 pounds from 1949.

Must Boost Production

"In other words, if consumption continues at the present level butter production would need to be increased over that of 1950 by approximately 10 per cent to meet domestic needs."

Canada, he noted, is becoming more industrialized. Each year the population is increasing by about 280,000.

"Think of some city with 280,000 people and visualize what it means to supply it with dairy products. Each year, the equivalent of a city of that size, or larger, is added to the domestic market."

Amid all this industrial expansion, the dairy industry, after a half-century of growth, was "just self-sufficient" and no more.

Young Girl Tries Bank Holdup

MONTREAL, March 13 (CP).— A young blonde girl with a toy gun attempted to hold up the Banque Provincial du Canada on Ontario St. E. Monday, but was thwarted by one of the bank's customers waiting in line before the teller's cage.

Police identified her as 20-year-old Denise Beauregarde. She was taken from police headquarters to hospital in an ambulance for mental examination.

According to police she was waiting in line at the teller's cage and suddenly pulled out what looked like a small pistol and said: "This is a holdup."

A customer standing by, who saw that the gun was obviously a fake, slapped it out of her hand.

Prices Continue Drop On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, March 13 (CP)— Prices continued dropping sharply as the session progressed on the Toronto Stock Exchange today.

Monday base metals led the downturn. Today industrials were in the forefront. Industrial losses ranged to more than $3 and every group in the list except banks was lower.

Canadian Celanese stood out with a drop of $3.75 and Canadian Dredge was down $3. Imperial Oil, McColl Frontenac, Abitibi, Aluminum, B.A. Oil, Canada Cement, Canada Packers B and Ford A were all down $1 or more.

Base metals dipped fractions with the exception of Consolidated Smelters which was off $2. Key issues lower included Waite Amulet, Quemont, Hudson Bay, International Nickel, Noranda and Falconbridge.

Western oils posted declines ranging from pennies to 50 cents.

Golds showed mild support in early dealings but were soon carried downward with the rest of the market. Senior producers were down fractions and junior producers declined pennies.

The latter represented Alnwick Township junior farmers.

One representative of each of the seven zones with two members of the executive composed the resolution committee. Harry Doxtator, Roseneath, was chosen as representative of zone No. 2 and chairman of the resolutions committee.

Resolutions formulated through farm forums and passed on to the Federation of Agriculture were supported by the hog producers' resolution committee.

No Compromise With Reds Says Former Ambassador

By FRED J. ZUSY.

SUEZ, Egypt, March 13 (AP)—Dr. Boholslav G. Kratochvil, resigned Czechoslovak ambassador to India, Monday reached the half-way mark in his flight to freedom and said "one cannot compromise with the evil of Communism."

In an interview, he said he had informed the Czech Embassy staff in New Delhi by letter that "instead of dancing with the crooks I prefer to fight."

Kratochvil, who left his post in New Delhi March 1 after being recalled by the Communist regime in Prague for "consultations," arived at the Suez Canal en route to political asylum in Britain. He came from Bombay by ship with his wife and two-year-old son.

"It is my firm conviction that those who attempt to compromise with Communism will enslave their children's children," he said.

Kratochvil had been appointed ambassador by former Foreign Minister Vlado Clementis, who is awaiting trial in Prague on charges of plotting against the Communist regime.

Monday's interview was Kratochvil's first public statement since he disappeared from New Delhi. It took place in his cabin on the Scindia Steamship Company's Jal-Azad (Free Waters), which will carry the Kratochvils to Liverpool.

"I did not leave for a personal reason," he said. "It was a case of conflict of principles—of trying to protest what's going on in Czechoslovakia."

Speaking of the future of the Communist satellites, he said he believes that revolution is impossible in those countries because of repressive measures, but "disintegration is possible as more and more disagree with the policy of the government."

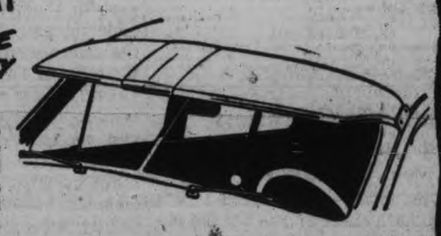
Weed Removal Topic At Millbrook WI Meet

MILLBROOK, March 13 (ENS) Mrs. Charles Thorndyke was hostess to the Womens Institute on Saturday afternoon. The president, Miss Mary L. Widdis, was in the chair. Mrs. Wm. Hilton distributed the new W. I. song books. She reported that Mrs. Tom Harkness, a member who has been ill, was remembered with a box of fruit.

J. A. Thompson, principal of the Continuation School gave a talk on "Weeds". Mr. Thompson stated that the one thing that could be said in favor of weeds was that they taught a lessson, that they like bad habits and had to be eradicated when they were very young if they were to be uprooted at all. Now he said powerful poisons sprayed at the rate of 10 ounces to the acre kill most broad-leaved weeds, and leaves the narrow-leaved plants, such as grain, unharmed. He showed a collection of weeds of the locality with notes ess to the Women's Institute on the best means or eradication. A question period followed, with Mr. Thompson supplying the answers.

Mrs. Delbert Olan moved a vote of thanks to the speaker which was seconded by Miss Marjorie Skitch.

Miss Widdis and Mrs. Thorndyke showed a display of antiques. Mrs. Thorndyke also showed a cone from a great fir tree of British Columbia.



Mrs. D. Olan brought a display of novelties made by Fred Gardiner.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Gordon Davidson, Mrs. Wm. Armstrong and the hostess.

Unfair To Canvassers

When the Red Cross and Community Fund canvass officially ended last Saturday, the total sum collected was $72,000, $13,000 short of the $85,000 objective. The campaign workers are continuing their efforts this week so that the objective will be reached. We have heard no criticism that the objective is too high or that every penny of the $85,000 is not needed by the various welfare organizations who are combining their appeals for funds in one canvass. In fact, every responsible and thoughtful Peterburian knows that the work these participating organizations do is of very great value to the community, that the monies collected are fully needed, and spent with great care and economy. The Fund must be built up to the $85,000 figure unless Peterborough is to suffer a diminution of its humanitarian work or the nuisance of various separate appeals throughout the year.

* * *

Last year the objective was not reached during the campaign week and canvassers and committees had to drudge on during the following fortnight. This is an abuse of the services and goodnature of the canvassers, and a needless waste of their time. They are all busy people, certainly as busy as the people whom they are canvassing. If the fund workers are good enough to take the time to collect subscriptions, the contributors should be courteous enough to give their calls immediate attention, to make their donations within the week set, and to give as generously as the need requires. The canvassers should not have to wheedle in a matter so important to the citizens and an inclusive, one-appeal campaign arranged specifically for the donors' convenience.

The Resignation Of Ernest Bevin

After denying that it would be necessary for him to do so, Mr. Ernest Bevin, Britain's Foreign Minister, resigned his office on his seventieth birthday. This is a loss not only to his government and his country, but to the whole Western world, for Mr. Bevin was a strong and fearless democrat. There was never any doubt about where he stood on Russian imperialism, and his early support of the Marshall Plan did much to strengthen it. He was abused in some quarters for his attitude toward the trouble in Palestine, but when everything is known about that situation it will be seen that he was consistent in maintaining a mandate which Britain had honored in good times as well as in bad. It is a measure of his ability in the second most demanding post in the Cabinet that the Opposition, and the people of the U.S.A., had a deep respect for him, and that he carried them with him on many important issues.

He is succeeded by Mr. Herbert Morrison, another Labour leader who commands respect from many people who do not share his political views. Both Mr. Bevin and Mr. Morrison started life without many advantages, and their own capacities and the spirit of the age in which they live carried them to high office. Their story is full of instruction for Canadians who believe that careers are not open to talents in Britain, and that democracy in that country is less powerful than it is here.

It would be idle to pretend that Mr. Bevin has not sacrificed his health to his country's service. Although he has laid down a heavy load he will continue as a member of the Cabinet. Let us hope that relief from his post at the head of the Foreign Office will enable him to take some of the ease and pleasure which he has truly earned.

Where The Government Money Goes

The Public Accounts of Canada for the year ending last March have now been made public. They are voluminous and anybody wanting specific details will have to go to Ottawa to look them up. A summary is published and a complete table of contents, for the convenience of members of parliament and other inquisitive people.

The Government took in during that year $2,580.1 million and spent $2,448.6 million (i.e., about 2½ billion dollars), and had a surplus $131.5 million. Where did it spend the 2½ billion dollars? The Public Accounts tell all, or nearly all. (For instance, the details of the government spending on its atomic energy work are not made public; there might be a Russian or two listening-in.)

Government expenditure is divided into several broad categories: Ordinary, Capital Accounts (like the railways and public works), Demobilization and Reconversion, "Special", "Other Charges" and the like. Ordinary expenditure totalled $1,701,260,101.13. A sum like that does not seem to be very "ordinary." The capital accounts totalled $22,923,586.02. Demobilization and reconversion cost last year $468,606,607.30, three-quarters of this being for the Department of National Defence. There were special expenditures, all of them listed being for agriculture, deficits of the Wheat Board, Prairies Farm Assistance, Fraser Valley flood relief; to a total of $37,927,898.49. Government-owned enterprises spent some 52 million dollars.

The "Ordinary" expenditures hold special interest, because one can compare in them the spendings of various departments. The biggest spender was the Department of National Health and Welfare, in Family Allowances; a total of $297,514,033.94. (In sums like this the cent figure at the end is anti-climactic and we shall drop them henceforth.) Actually, the Department of Finance spent the most money, on paper at least; more than $596 million dollars. This was chiefly interest on the Public Debt. The Department of Justice spent ten million. Veterans Affairs cost $96,090,693 in pensions for veterans of both world wars. The Department of Agriculture spent more than twenty-five million, exclusive of its special spending. External Affairs cost $9,721,389. It is interesting that the equally celebrated and Canada-wide R.C.M.P. cost the country only $25,013,587.

The Government indulged in printing and stationery to a large degree—$866,069 it cost last year. Paper work is evidently rated above the Governor-General and Lieutenant-Governors, for only $274,024 it attributed to the costs of maintaining them and supporting their offices.

Spring?

Robins are back from wherever they have been wintering (in Florida, we suspect, along with other Peterborough migrants). Sunday a crow was picking the carcass of a fresnly-killed sparrow on Highway 7, while a flock of raven relatives eyed him from a telephone wire. Snow has almost disappeared from lawns and fields, fall wheat is showing, and bulbs in gardens are shooting. It really looks and feels as if spring has sprung. It will confound the pessimists who predicted a hard winter by various esoteric signs in autumn, and it will be the earliest spring since the last time we commented on an early spring.

People in these parts have no sure faith that seeing is believing; certainly not about our weather. Even if they see spring around them, they are not led up the garden path. It is not yet mid-March and everybody knows that some of the biggest and blusteriest winter storms come around St. Patrick's day. Only twenty years ago this last week-end Peterborough had such a big storm that a bakery had to use snowmobiles to deliver bread, and it cost the city $1,800 to dig itself out.

A visit to Ottawa is a check on optimism—and we are not making a snide remark about the forthcoming budget. Ottawa is still snow-bound. Old, dirty snow it is, but there are several feet of it on front lawns, and side streets are still one-car lanes. Spring will come to Ottawa in due course; and in due course to Peterborough. It is not yet due.

Canada The Great Backer

We read the other day a headline: "Small Army For Japanese Blocked By Canada." Ah! we thought, the great 'Yes' nation is at long last saying 'No'. She has dug her heels in—or the Minister of External Affairs has dug his heels in—and is not following the U.S.-U.N. party line for once. Canada, the Great Neighbour, the Arsenal of Democracy, the Feeder of Peoples, the Hope of American Civilization, the Provider of Shock Troops, the Millionaire Cousin of the Billionaire U.S.A., the basal link in the towering isosceles triangle whose sides are the U.K. and the U.S., this Canada is definitely playing an angle of her own. How wonderful!

Canada has so long gone along, anteing up with her small chips in the big game; has sided—and paid her full dues—with the good works and good intentions of the other benign western nations; led in the last century by Britain, in this by the United States, and now in a clublike way by U.N. So Canada has gone along with the other fellow, the big fellow. It was most refreshing to read the heading, without investigating the matter of it, that Canada blocked the formation of a Japanese army. That's the stuff! Let us assert ouselves. Let us show spunk. Let us act as the money-box, the food-box, the powder-box which we have become.

Alas! As we scanned the sentences below the heading our eyes hastily went back to the heading for verification. It read, not 'blocked' but "Small Japanese Army Backed By Canada." We are still the big backers.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A British hangman says that women are braver than men when facing death. What we should like to know is: are they ready for that final appointment, or do they ask the hangman to wait for another five minutes?

It is being suggested that the British eat dormice, which are plentiful; the Romans ate them with a honey sauce, and considered them a delicacy. Whether the modern Briton has an Ancient Roman digestion remains to be seen.

Shortcomings of Soviet Building

by
EDWARD CRANKSHAW

THE Soviet building industry is in trouble again for falling badly behind with its allocated tasks. At the same time it is now carrying out some of its most triumphant projects. This dualism, this striking contrast between the special project, conceived on a gigantic scale and aided with all the apparatus of modern technology, and the chronic failure to cope with work-a-day requirements, is exactly characteristic of Soviet economy as a whole. It explains a good deal of the bewilderment experienced by people who have never been to Russia when they try to discover the truth about the Soviet Union. Apologists for the Soviet Union dwell on the great and undeniable achievements; its critics dwell on the failures on the every-day level. Both are right and both are wrong.

* * *

THE Soviet building industry offers the most vivid illustration of this contrast, perhaps because housing is a matter which touches everywhere and everyone, so that the true state of affairs cannot be concealed. On the one hand the cities go ahead with their development schemes, like the magnificent new buildings for Moscow University, for the Academy of Sciences, for the Underground Railway, and so on; on the other hand the municipal building schemes fall hopelessly into arrears. Or, in the countryside, one district has a brand new Agrogorod, or agricultural settlement, with model houses and all the amenities; while in a neighbouring district the peasants get no new houses at all, but are forced to move their old wooden huts from their traditional villages to the site of the new community settlement.

* * *

IT is only if this enduring characteristic is realized and remembered that it is possible to understand how on one day Pravda will be celebrating at the top of its voice the construction of new skyscraper apartment-houses on Moscow's Sadovaya Boulevard, and on the next day denouncing the building industry and everyone connected with it for total failure to live up to their responsibilities.

* * *

AS far as the ordinary Russian is concerned it is the everyday failure rather than the success of the spectacular project which matters. And during the past few years the everyday failure of the building industry has been consistent and extensive. As I have said, unlike the routine failure of production in a secret factory situated deep in the Soviet hinterland, the failures of the builders cannot be concealed; and thus the Soviet Press is forced to recognize them publicly.

* * *

THE most recent official attack was concentrated on the question of costs, by which the Government has recently begun to set great store. For a long time the Kremlin did not seem to mind how extravagantly and wastefully and inefficiently the Soviet enterprises set about the fulfilments of their quotas—provided the goods were turned out in the end.

* * *

DURING the past two years all that has changed. "Last year", said Pravda recently, "our Government promulgated a Decree on the lowering of building costs. However, many Ministries and Departments, among them the Ministry of Industrial Construction and the Ministry of Construction of the Engineering Industry, have so far failed to fulfil their tasks of reducing building costs. The leaders of building organizations must put an end to the violation of Governmental decrees on the lowering of building costs, must improve their work and stop lagging behind other branches of the national economy".

* * *

THE same story is true of domestic building. In Moscow the local Communists were recently attacked on several occasions for the slow construction of domestic housing; and Moscow is the city which has first priority in everything. One of the reasons given for delay and inefficiency reveals another characteristic of the new Soviet bureaucrat; the refusal to leave his office and get mud on his boots—an attitude which permeates the whole of the new class of industrial overseer. In the words of the Party Secretary, Rumyantsev, "the district committee does not seem to realize that the majority of Communists work exclusively in the administration on office jobs, and never go down to the building site, where the success of the enterprise is finally decided". The need for such overseeing on the site is very great, bearing in mind the erratic and feckless nature of the majority of Russian workmen and the apathy induced by the harsh conditions of life under Stalin.

* * *

LAST year there was a great inquest into the state of building all over the country. Much of the blame was put on the supply Ministries, and the Minister of Building Materials was sacked. But Pravda had a good deal to say about the mood of the builders themselves, which is fairly symptomatic of the mood of the Soviet workers in all industries. In sharp contrast to the usual propaganda about the delights of Stakhanovism and the super-mechanization of all manual tasks, Pravda stated categorically that practically all building work was still carried out by the crudest manual methods, that progressive methods of construction were rarely taken into consideration by those responsible, and that the lack of enthusiasm on the part of the workers was generally painfully evident.

* * *

PRAVDA also attacked the habit, endemic in Russia, of planning too wide and too far, so that many buildings are started simultaneously, and none finished. In Saratov for example, not one single planned project had been completed by the middle of 1950. "Far from completing the planned reconstruction, the city, and especially the outskirts, is cluttered with all kinds of temporary buildings; temporary houses, temporary restaurants, temporary clubs, temporary cook-houses. These ugly huts grow like mushrooms wherever they find room". This is the reality behind the giant enterprises which dazzle the specially conducted visitor from the West. It is likely to continue.

Letters To The Editor

FACTS ABOUT QUEEN MARY AUDITORIUM

Sir: May I call attention to a few facts concerning the use of the Queen Mary Auditorium. Queen Mary Auditorium, like the Civic Arena, Collegiate, and other Public Schools, is situated on land zoned in the City Plan of Peterborough as, "third density residential district". In such districts permitted uses include a Community Centre. Queen Mary Auditorium is the nearest thing to a Community Centre we now possess.

The regulations in the zoning bylaws of the city plan state—"The owner of every building or structure here-after erected or altered for use, in whole or in part, as a theatre, auditorium, arena, social club, church, or other place of assembly, in which seating accommodation for an audience or congregation of people is or maybe provided, shall, within one thousand feet of such a building or structure, provide and maintain accessible off-street parking space, exclusive of driveways, consisting of at least 200 square feet of space for each six seats of total seating accommodation."

Queen Mary Auditorium is the only place of assembly in Peterborough that can possibly comply with the preceding condition. However no attempt has ever been made to have the patrons of the Auditorium, (for the Summer Theatre or any other assembly) park in the available grounds at the rear. By its own bylaws the appropriate municipal authorities should have erected signs advising "Auditorium patrons park on parking space to the rear."

Incidently, this should immediately be done in respect to the Civic Arena. The parking chaos around the Arena is far worse than ever that around Queen Mary. The local residents around the Arena have far sounder grounds for an injunction.

As I recollect the letter in respect to the Summer Theatre at Queen Mary Auditorium, it listed a number of disabilities that the neighbours suffered due to its presence; conditions which I would have considered most annoying, but the letter did not enter a complaint.

It would seem that the intent of the letter was to persuade the appropriate municipal authorities to clean up the annoying conditions. However the common tendency of public bodies to be perfectly safe, and thus unduly timid, has lead to a move that could threaten public use of buildings in which the local citizens have invested close to a million dollars. These are the Queen Mary Auditorium, Collegiate Auditorium, the Arena, and the proposed Civic Centre. Any impairment of the right of the appropriate municipal authority to use any of these places of assembly creates a precedent in respect to the others that can be used against it.

While there is a possibility that an injunction against the use of the Queen Mary Auditorium (or any other place of assembly) may be applied for, it does not seem probable. But, if one is, it is the duty of the appropriate municipal authority to defend the public interest in the full use of property in which the public money has been spent. If suitable measures are taken to reduce the annoyance, it would be a brave man, indeed, who would apply for an injunction in view of general public opinion.

The measures to be taken are, I suggest, the appropriate authority to:

(1) Direct the erection of signs ordering patrons to park on the grounds to the rear and open the west door to the parking lot and close the north door to Hopkins Ave.

(2) Order all scene painting etc. to be done outside the west door where it is screened from view, instead of outside the north door.

(3) Order that the hours of the performance should be from 7:30 to 9:30 or 10:00 so that local residents may retire in peace.

(4) Advise the management to instruct their staff to co-operate with the residents in conforming with the schedule of life of other residents of the area.

Yours truly,
H. R. SILLS.

APPRECIATES PIANO RECITALS

Sir: May I commend your paper on sponsoring the recent series of piano recitals featuring Peterborough's own Agnes Logan Green.

These recitals must have proven a source of delight not only to connoisseurs and amateurs of the art of piano literature, but to all lovers of good music.

Mrs. Green's excellent taste and variety of programmes affords the eager listener an opportunity seldom provided by sometimes repetitious and rather hackneyed radio and even concert performances in general.

May we who enjoy and benefit so much from these programmes anticipate the return of the series next season? Thank you.

A grateful pupil of Mrs. Green,
SYLVIA CHERNEY.

BROCKVILLE ANXIOUS FOR SUMMER THEATRE

Sir: As a patron and neighbour of the Peterborough Summer Theatre, it was with much interest that I read Dr. Honey's letter in the Examiner, explaining the action the Board of Education took in refusing to allow the Summer Theatre to return to the Queen Mary School auditorium next summer.

The only reason given for this action is, that one resident close to the school considers the Summer Theatre to be a nuisance, due to the fact that entrance and egress to and from his property is prevented because of the cars parked in his vicinity during the evenings the Summer Theatre is in progress. Due to this complaint by one taxpayer, the Board of Education decided to close the doors of the Queen Mary School auditorium to the Summer Theatre.

I ask you, is this the way a body elected to serve the best interests of the taxpayers at large should operate? What about the hundreds of taxpayers and the other close residents of Queen Mary School who are anxious to have the Summer Theatre back again in that auditorium and who will be very disappointed if it is not allowed to return? There is always, in any venture, someone who does not like the way things are being done, or who complains about this and that; however, such a person does not rule the majority. Surely in this case the selfishness of one man is not going to be the last word in a matter of such great importance to hundreds of people in this city and the surrounding district.

Just what constitutes a nuisance anyway! If cars parked in front of your house, as long as they are not blocking your driveway is considered to be a nuisance, then everyone in the city at one time or another would have a complaint. But do they complain — of course not! Actually the other residents around Queen Mary School do not object, they are only too glad to have the Summer Theatre there and to be able to enjoy all the benefits derived from it.

If, however, the complainant is going to stick to his grievance, come what may, and can legally push it through if he so desires, then could not some arrangement be made whereby the theatre-goers would not park their cars in front of his house; or, as Mrs. Hooper suggested, use be made of the playground behind the school as parking space? I am sure everyone would be most co-operative, if it were to mean that the Summer Theatre could remain here in Peterborough and in the ideal location afforded by the Queen Mary School auditorium.

I have heard from a very reliable source that Brockville is quite anxious to have Michael Sadlier and his company go there and establish a Summer Theatre. If he is unable to procure the Queen Mary School auditorium, there is certainly the possibility that we will lose our Summer Theatre and Peterborough's loss will surely be Brockville's gain.

It is my feeling that the Board of Education has taken the line of least resistance in refusing Mr. Sadlier the use of the Queen Mary School auditorium and offering to him instead the P.C.V.S. auditorium, which, for many practical reasons, he feels he cannot accept. Let us hope that the Board will reconsider its decision, weighing the many pros and con of the situation, and that some solution will be arrived at, making it possible for the citizens of Peterborough to enjoy another season of Summer Theatre in the Queen Mary School auditorium.

As Dr. Honey said, the educational and cultural amenities which accompany good theatre, far outweigh all other considerations.

Thanking you, I remain,
Very truly, yours,
GWEN BOND BROWN.

SUGGESTS THEATRE UNDER PRIVATE MANAGEMENT

Sir: After reading numerous letters in the Examiner during the past two weeks, concerning the "Summer Theatre", I feel I would like also to express a humble opinion, even though it is not in the same vein as the majority. But may we thank our lucky stars that in this fine country of ours, we can voice our opinions.

If the worthy gentleman who has caused this furore—or should I say "Tempest in a Tea-cup," feels that he objects to the number of cars parked around his home during summer evenings, and noisy trucks on Sundays; I feel he has every right to voice his objections. Consider the veritable upheaval of those termed "Wellerites", should a bowling alley have been proposed in that area. Rather, I commend the gentleman for taking the stand he has done.

If these wealthy friends of Mr. Michael Sadlier feel so badly about the situation, could they not get together and organize to build a small theatre for minor productions, which would not be under the control of the Board of Education; but under private management. This could be located on some suitable plot at the edge of the city, with parking facilities provided beforehand so that surrounding householders are not inconvenienced.

Yours truly,
INTERESTED OBSERVER.

LONG-LIVED FAMILY

Sir: I read today the obituary of Andrew McKenzie as copied in Almonte Gazette with very much interest. Andy and I were like brothers when we were in Carleton Place over 50 years ago. I was born at Pakenham about eight miles from where Andy was born. I was 85 December 29 last, am in good health and my philosophy of life has been I expect to die of old age but plan to die young. My mother's grandmother died in Ireland at 112 years, my father's grandmother from County Cavan, Ireland, died near Perth at 104 years. I am only planning for the average 108 years.

Yours truly,

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Then the Lord answered Job out of the whirlwind, and said, Who is this that darkeneth counsel by words without knowledge? Gird up now thy loins like a man; for I will demand of thee, and answer thou me.

Where wast thou when I laid the foundations of the earth? declare, if thou hast understanding. Who hath laid the measures thereof, if thou knowest? Or who hath stretched the line upon it? Whereupon are the foundations thereof fastened or who laid the corner stone thereof?....

Knowest thou the ordinances of heaven? canst thou set the dominion thereof in the earth? (Job 38: 1-6, 33.)

Then Job answered the Lord, and said, I know that thou canst do every thing, and that no thought can be withholden from thee. (Job 42: 1, 2.)

(The Times, London)

Hundreds of swans on the Thames are contaminated by tar which flowed into the river from Oxford gasworks, where a 60,000-gallon tank burst on Tuesday night. Today the King's Swan Master is to go to Oxford with Inspector M. Wade of the R.S.P.C.A., to patrol the river and catch and clean the tarred swans. The birds must be cleaned at once because if left to clean themselves they eat the tar, which soon kills them.

Because of the risk of fire after the retorts were opened, firemen stayed on duty at the gasworks throughout Tuesday night. One man fell into the tar at a spot where it was two feet deep and was still covered in tar yesterday morning after several hours' work by colleagues to get him clean.

Children Learn By Doing Rather Than Being Lectured

Modern trends in education, in the teeth of criticism, is proving itself, the records of the maturing students showed, G. Les Woodruff, principal of the Hamilton Normal School, told members of the Rotary Club at a meeting Monday at the Empress Hotel. A former resident of Peterborough and a member of the local Rotary Club, Mr. Woodruff, spoke on the subject, Every Week Is Education Week.

Educators had been charged with hoodwinking the public with the Porter Plans and Hope reports. Critics said they were failing to produce citizens who could match Red Chinese and Russian troops in fanatical fighting spirit.

"You do not want us to turn out children as they do in Russia," Mr. Woodruff said. Instead modern education was trying to produce children who show "self help, self reliance and a little control."

Constant Change

He said educators were constantly changing and improving "what we know in the light of what we learn."

He said the record of Canada's army during World War II had shown that the schools had been turning out students who stood up under the test of war. He said there had been trouble with conscription, although not as much as in the previous war. He said Canada had produced good fighting men who had been able to adjust back to civilian life relatively easily.

There were two types of teaching. The one, practised mostly by the older teachers, was the traditional method. In this the teacher selected what he wanted to give the children from the curriculum and had complete control over what the children were going to do and how they were going to do it.

The modern teacher started her pupils out in some direction, but she let them take their own course to a very large extent and hoped that she would be able to see that they were making some progress. The trditional teacher was able to assess the progress of her children easily at any moment. The modern teacher had a more difficult time.

Modern Method Better

But tests had shown that the modern method had produced children "better in all the virtues you would desire" except in writing, than the traditional method. This had been demonstrated both in England and in the United States.

Emphasis was placed in modern teaching on learning by doing. You can learn to milk a cow only by trying it, Mr. Woodruff said. Children learn well by doing, rather than by being lectured at.

Children learn to count by playing store and making purchases.

Changes in education were being made constantly by the results of studies of children. It was found out, for instance, that a person's intelligence reaches its peak of efficiency at 15. This is when his mind is fresh and clear of fixed notions. Yet in the past, when he is 15, 16 and 17 he has been lectured at in schools. These were the years which he should be learning to think for himself.

Educators are learning more and more what children are capable of doing at various ages. In the light of this, curriculums are being revised. This has sometimes led to charges of schools lowering standards. What schools have been doing was to put the standards in their proper places.

Mr. Woodruff was introduced by Burritt Smitheram and thanked by K. S. Wightman.

The club welcomed a new member, A. W. Brown, bringing its membership up to 91.

Newfoundland 2nd Province To Plan Indirect Sales Tax

By The Canadian Press.

Newfoundland has become the second province to commit itself to an indirect sales tax—a measure which will require a constitutional amendment before it can be put into effect.

Attorney-General Leslie Curtis told the Newfoundland Legislature Monday that the province will substitute the hidden, or indirect sales tax for its present social security assessment as soon as the proposed amendment to the British North America Act is passed by parliament.

All provinces have agreed in principle to the idea of changing the constitution so that the provinces can impose sales taxes at the manufacturer's level. At present the sales tax must be at the retail level, thus direct.

However, only Nova Scotia and Newfoundland have stated definitely that they will impose the indirect taxes when the green light is given.

Newfoundland now collects a three-per-cent levy to pay for social security. The indirect sales tax will be limited to three per cent and Newfoundland is expected to take full advantage of it.

Suspended Rules

In Charlottetown, the Prince Edward Island House temporarily suspended its rules in order to discuss a matter of "urgent public business." Members expressed concern over the action of the Canadian National Railways in discontinuing use of its line over the Hillsboro bridge and the substitution of a longer route.

There were complaints that the change, made Saturday, was with too little notice and also that the rerouting has caused inconvenience to many persons in the area. The question will be considered again.

The Nova Scotia Legislature discussed the legal situation. Attorney-General Malcolm Patterson said there is need for a "shuffle of jurisdiction" in the province's courts, with more work going to supreme court justices and less for magistrates.

In the Quebec Legislature, Welfare Minister Sauve presented a civil defence bill but said it has not yet been decided who will pay for civil defence. The question had not yet come before the federal cabinet.

In Edmonton, the government outlined a plan for permanent licences to replace the present annual licences issued to trades and businesses in Alberta The Legislature was told that if it approves the plan will be put into effect this year.

Unsuccessful Opposition

In Regina, the Liberal opposition attempted unsuccessfully to kill the CCF government's redistribution bill. Liberal leader Walter Tucker moved that it be replaced by a measure which does not include the specific boundaries of constituencies under the redistribution. His motion was defeated 27 to 15 in a vote.

In Victoria, four coalition members voted against the government on amendments to British Columbia's compulsory hospital insurance act. However, the changes were approved in principle by a vote of 33 to 12. The amendments raise yearly premiums for single persons from $21 to $30 and increase family premiums from $33 to $42 The increases were necessary to offset large deficits.

At Winnipeg, rapidly-expanding development of Manitoba's natural resources was said bringing new wealth, employment, markets and colonization to Manitoba. F. C. Bell, Acting Minister of Resources, told the Legislature the government is taking "a very keen interest in gas and oil possibilities" in the province and is lending encouragement to exploration in this field. It was "too early yet" to count Manitoba as an oil-producing region, but prospects were encouraging.

Civil Defence Budget Details Not Given

OTTAWA, March 13 (CP). — The government gave no precise indication Monday of what it proposes to spend on civil defence in the next fiscal year, other than it will be less than $13,419,000. The bill for military defence will be more than 110 times that.

61 Try To Buy Island As Atomic Bomb Haven

By SIDNEY WEILAND

LONDON, March 13 (Reuters) —Sixty austerity-weary Britons who wanted to get away from it all learned the saddening news Monday that even lonely islands are scarce.

Their dream was a $45,000 haven in the tax-free, unrationed, sunny side of the world.

Sixty-one would-be exiles answered a London advertisement announcing the West Indies island of Guina—700 acres and a house—was for sale.

One of them concluded the deal Monday. He will be able to grow fruit and rear sheep on Guina.

For the others all that's left on the immediate market is Ynyn Castle, a two-acre isle off the Welsh coast. Though it has a bungalow with electricity, it's too close to civilization for most, only 300 yards from the mainland. It's price is $28,000.

Knight, Frank and Rutley, real estate agents, said the 60 disappointed bidders for Guina were mainly people who wanted somewhere peaceful to spend their retirement.

"Some of them were frankly looking for a place where they might avoid the atom bomb," the agents said.

Thousands Looking

Agents have thousands of people on their books looking for little islands—more than at any time since the 1938 Munich crisis when there was another move to get away from it all.

The most distant—and potentially safest—isles in the West Indies and South Pacific are hardest to get.

Most of the prices asked frighten off the keenest island enthusiasts.

Nearer home, there are 5,200 islands scattered around the British coasts, mainly off northernmost Scotland. But their owners are sitting tight.

Not more than half-a-dozen islands come on the market each year.

One paradise island, off Bermuda, complete with coral reefs, passion flowers, and a swimming pool, brought $500,000.

Redmen Eliminate Eagles To Move Into The Finals

Belleville Redmen knocked the Eagles out of further contention in hockey this season when they took a 7-5 win here last night before 1,700 fans. It was the fifth and deciding game of their best-of-five OHA senior "B" group semi-finals, the Redmen now going into finals against Kingston Nylons. Wally Bent's battling Belleville boys earned the duke in a fine fray, lightning fast most of the distance and generally clean. The visitors earned the edge with a 3-1 margin in the second period, the first and third frames being 2-2 affairs. The Quinte crew got one soft one at the end when Jones hit the empty net after Mick Magee had pulled his goalie in a last desperate do-or-die attempt, which didn't pay off. Each side drew six penalties and, while fights threatened twice, it was a clean tilt. Eagles afterward congratulated the victors.

At Top Speed

Both goalies were busy and both kicked aside a flock in every period as play swept up and down at top speed. Big Vern Goyer stood out for the winners with two goals and an assist, Moher also shining as he notched a pair and helped once. Jones was in on two, with Desjardins, Mulvihill, Semark and Schreider each figuring in on one counter. Freddy Mortimer proved most effective for the losers with two tallies and an assist, Andy Milne scoring one and helping on another. Single points were counted by Doug Mortimer, Jim Munroe, Keith Montgomery, and Bert Hill. The Eagles were without Dootch Vitarelli.

Burns got an early boarding penalty but was back when Freddy Mortimer scored with a quick shot on an in-close pass from Milne, after a Hill-Monty rush just missed. Belleville began to press and Goyer tied the count in a scramble on Nicholls' doorstep. Desjardins was gated for hooking and Doug Mortimer's hot angle shot from Montgomery made it 2-1. Bastedo later drew a tripping penalty, but returned before Greenlaw got the nod for interference. In his absence, Moher scored in close from Goyer as the disc glanced off a skate into the cage.

Redmen Drive

Four minutes went by in the second before Belleville went up one when Moher's corner passout went in off Lalonde at the goalmouth. Montgomery and Desjardins hit the sin bin for high-sticking, but no damage resulted. Later, Desjardins banged home Jones' pass right inside on a partial breakaway with but one defenceman to beat. Mulvihill added one on a fast bit of combination and hot shot from the side as the Redmen dominated play. Bastedo was waved over for tripping and Munroe's screened shot from defence beat Irvine to make it 5-3. A fight threatened by the Quinte cage, but it was broken up fast.

A Greenlaw-Hill thrust to net the disc was ruled no goal early in the third, claiming the crease rule was broken. Eagles kept pressing hard most of this heat and Milne almost got one. They kept tearing in and Milne's sizzling shot on Fred Mortimer's pass caught a corner. Mulvihill was chased for playing with a broken stick, Montgomery following for tripping. Mulvihill returned and Munroe got it for interference, leaving Eagles shy two for a space. Schreider then went for hooking. He was still off when Fred Mortimer tied the score with a backhander in close on Hill's pass, but, with Schreider back, the Redmen roared in once more and Goyer scored in close from Moher and Schreider to win the game. Rochetta went off because Eagles had too many men on the ice as a fight nearly broke out in a corner. Goalie Ross Nicholls was pulled with half a minute to go and Jones knocked the puck into the empty net after a long shot up the ice just before the final gong. Teams:

Belleville— Goal, Irvine; defence, Schmidt and Bastedo; centre, Wardhaugh; wings, Mulvihill and Green; alternates, McDonald, Goyer, Moher, Jones, Desjardins, Free, Schreider, and Semark.

The all-week mixed rink bonspiel for the Empress Hotel Trophy got away to a good start on Monday. All rinks were on hand and the games started on time. Each rink plays three games. Of the six rinks that qualified to return on Friday, four are from the local club, one from Lindsay and one from Oakwood. Probably the curlers who are getting the biggest kick out of this 'spiel are those from Keene. They have only been organized a couple of years, but they have come a long way during that time The ladies of the club are doing their part to put across this big event. They are serving hot meals.

Those who qualified for the finals Friday are:

Empress Hotel Trophy — D. Charlton, Peterborough; C. Giroux, Peterborough.

Calvert Trophy—Dr. C. Laidley, Lindsay; Dr. M. McCartney, Peterborough.

Eaton Trophy—T. McArthur, Peterborough; C. Barry, Oakwood

Some of the curlers are asking about this vice-skips' bonspiel for next Saturday. It seems that there is a rumor going around that it has been postponed a week —so far we have had no official confirmation of that report.

Demarco Clinches Scoring Championship

NEW YORK, March 13 (CP)— Ab Demarco, veteran centre of Buffalo Bisons, virtually clinched the American Hockey League individual scoring championship last week with a total of 104 points.

With only a week of regular play remaining, it would take a tremendous spurt by Jack McGill of Providence Reds, who has 96 points, to supplant Demarco at the top.

Including games of Sunday, Demarco notched 35 goals and had 69 assists in 61 games. McGill bagged 27 goals and 69 assists in 66 games.

Fred Glover of Indianapolis is the leading goal-getter with 46. Glover set a league record of scoring in 11 straight games.

John Henry Lewis, the world light heavyweight boxing champion, defeated Jock McAvoy in a 15-round bout at New York 15 years ago tonight. McAvoy, boosted as one of Britain's best pugillistic products since the First World War, won only three rounds. Lewis abandoned the title in 1938.

Entries Discussed At Soccer Session

A well attended meeting of the Peterborough and District Football Association was held in the YMCA on Monday evening with president William Gracie in the chair and other members of the executive being present Peterborough United and O'Halloran's have made application to be affiliated with the Eastern Ontario Football League with the former demanding that they participate only in the EOFL while O'Halloran's will play in both leagues.

Lindsay have made application to play in the local league along with O'Halloran's. There are in all probability another two teams which will enter from the city to make a four-team league.

Asa Downer and Dalton Downer were added to the board of directors to replace Jack Downer who cannot fulfill the position. The secretary was advised to write Jack Chamberlain asking his reasons for not acting on the board of directors.

Clarify Position

The secretary was instructed to write the Ontario Football Commission to come to Peterborough and clarify the situation relative to the local association and the Eastern Ontario League when it is felt that a club dictates a policy detrimental to the soccer code.

Perhaps the Canada Packers will enter a team in the local league; while the local association anticipate a team from the CGE.

The next meeting will be held on Monday, March 26 in the YMCA.

No club will be allowed to sign more than 12 forms (signing a player) before June 1 and thereafter only 16 players for the season.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

A few new rules are getting an OLA tryout this year For instance, junior lacrossers will be allowed a seven-game senior trial and still retain junior status. Also, for the first month of senior "A" play, the goalie will toss the ball back into play after a goal is scored, thus doing away with a faceoff. It is being tried for that period at the request of the CLA in an effort to speed the game up still more. Another thing, a minor penalty to a goalie is served by any player on the floor at the time of the offence, but a major penalty must be served by the goalie himself if he is given the nod.

Owen Sound Mercurys play the Petes at 8.30 tomorrow eve in Civic Arena and again here Friday. They're staying over in a hotel before heading home for the fourth game of the best-of-seven Allan Cup playdown series Saturday night. One up now, the Sounders — classy senior "A" puckists as they are — may find things a lot different here Wednesday. They will be the ones at the end of a long trip and they'll be the guys playing in a rink new to them, one smaller than their own surface. If the Petes are at full strength and play up to form, they have a good chance of evening up the series. But it is bound to be a grand game in any case and should jam Civic Arena.

* * * * * *

Take A Bigger Bite

It might be explained here that these Allan Cup games still come under OHA jurisdiction until an OHA winner is declared to meet the NOHA champ — then the CAHA is in charge. These games of course see a bigger bite (15 per cent) taken by the OHA right off the top of every game, so this coupled with longer jaunts means clubs must hoist the price of ducats a bit. Such is the case here, though not to kids. As a matter of fact, Owen Sound charged a buck for all their senior "B" games this winter, and they took 65 per cent of home games. Yet they were only even on the season up until this series with the Petes opened. Hockey is quite expensive to clubs.

Belleville Redmen won 7-5 here last night and that finishes the Eagles for this season. 'Twas the fifth and deciding joust of their OHA senior "B" group semi-finals, Wally Bent's scrappy Redmen now meeting Kingston Nylons for the group title. A swell scrap before some 1,700 fans, with the visitors hustling a bit more to earn an edge in the second period, and that proved the difference. Eagles fought back furiously in the third but couldn't quite make it, and they congratulated the winners when the gong sounded. We wish the Redmen luck against the strong Nylons, as the Belleville boys play fast, clean hockey and they never quit trying. Coach Bent and his team rate a lot of credit.

* * * * * *

They Had Tough Luck

And the Eagles deserve credit, too, for staying in there punching after the tough breaks they've had. It was the poorest showing in three years for this team (previously called Legion) but they've had their worst breaks lately in all that time. One good import, Lorne Smith, left early to play senior "A" down in the Maritimes. Then Bob Parnall went out for the season due to a flying accident. Johnny Godfrey followed for the season with a serious eye injury. Dootch Vitarelli has been out, for several weeks with a fractured hand. Other injuries of shorter duration to such players as Bert Hill, Bill Crowley and Al Burns knocked 'em out of first place a month or so back, and they've been declining gradually since. Just a tough-luck season for Mick and his men, but they'll be back next November.

It was 6-4 for the Bees in Oshawa over Bun Kingdon's junior "B" Oddfellows last night to tie their best-of-seven group finals at a win each. One goal was scored late when the IOOF goalie was pulled in a last desperate attempt by the visitors to sew up the score. Another fine fray between these hustling young outfits, Ted DeGray sparking the Motor City attack with three goals and an assist. All the Links labored lustily but penalties hurt their cause in the second stanza. They drew six of the 10 sentences handed out, though the game was pretty clean for a junior "B" playoff. Quite fast, too, and it's anyone's series yet—that's for sure. They resume action at Civic Arena on Saturday night, with the fourth tussle likely for Oshawa the following Monday.

Arrange Cup Series

MARMORA, March 13 (ENS)— With Tweed hockey team having decided to withdraw from the Marmora Merchants' Cup series, the local team arranged home and home exhibition games with Bancroft, Marmora going north on Monday with the northerners due to return here on Wednesday evening.

Frank Selke, general manager of Montreal Canadiens, said Monday he had no comment "for reasons of my own" when advised that Maurice (The Rocket) Richard, the club's star forward, had been fined $500 but not suspended for engaging in a fracas with referee Hugh McLean in a New York hotel March 4.

The fine was handed out by NHL president Clarence Campbell in Montreal.

Cricketers In Two Series This Summer

By C. H. IRESON

Local cricketers are preparing for a real busy season, with arrangements in the hands of a committee of President J. Monkman, vice-president J. Wild, Capt. F. Booth, vice-captain S. Jennings, treasurer A. Hamilton, secretary W. Wright, at 213 London St.—phone 2-3119.

The club will operate two teams this season, the second one to be known as Peterborough "B" also a member of the Toronto and District Cricket Council. It will play in the third or Rawlinson division. The first team played in this in 1949, gained promotion last year to the Godin or second division, and finished second behind a strong Toronto team.

Running two teams will entail nine trips to Toronto and one to Oshawa, meaning more expenses and duplicate equipment. It also means 22 players must be available, but it is believed about 29 are available now. It is a big step forward for the sport here.

The season will open with matches against Grove of Lakefield and TCS of Port Hope, and then both teams will be busy for three months in Council matches. During the season, a new Ontario junior team—players under 21—will play here. The local club playing as Peterborough County will be in the Ontario County tournament for the R. C. Matthews Trophy, which they won in 1948 but lost to Carleton the next year. The locals beat Carleton last year but lost to Halton in semi-finals with Lincoln County winning the trophy.

An English team will be in Canada this year, and the local club may have representatives on the Ontario team which meets it in Toronto. F. Booth in 1949 and A. Pope last year were selected. The annual meeting of the club will be held soon, and meantime new players here are asked to contact the secretary.

Brintons Oust C's For Northern Title

HASTINGS, March 13 (ENS)— Brinton Carpet made it three straight as they took Campbellford 6-3 to capture the northern division championship of the TVL and now meet either Bata Combines and Gould's team now battling it out for the southern division supremacy. Eakens, Lawson, Richlark, Huard and McIndoe stood out in front for Brintons, with K. Anderson and McCuaig tops on defence

CANCEL GAMES

George (Buster) Horwood, president of the Quebec Junior Amateur Hockey Association, announced Monday night that all playoff games between Quebec Citadels and Montreal Canadiens have been cancelled until an emergency meeting is held Wednesday night.

Oshawa Bees Even Series With 6-4 Win Over Links

Oshawa Bees evened their best-of-seven junior "B" hockey group championship series with Oddfellows last night at the Motor City as they edged out a 6-4 triumph in a fast battle, before the largest home crowd of the season. The series stands at one game apiece with the third at Civic Arena, Saturday night.

Ted DeGray, fast Bee winger, led his team to victory with a fine display, scoring three goals with one assist. His finally tally was a gift into the open net though, as Red Wasson left the cage in the dying seconds when Links used six forwards in an effort to tie the score. Dean West's second goal, on a great thrust with Wyatt and Brian Robinson made it 5-4 late in the frame. George Brabin scored two while Jew Wilson aided on three as the trio snared first honors.

Took The Lead

IOOF took the lead in the fast first frame as Armstrong scored early from Morrow, and the West line clicked with Dean scoring, while Bees were held scoreless in a clean chapter. If fortune dogged Oddfellows in the costly second as four of their number—Armstrong, Wyatt, Wasson and Shearer—hit the sin bin and though Hillman and DeGray also served, Oddfellows suffered most as Bees sunk five tallies to take over the lead and four of these came with a man or more advantage. Brian Robinson's solo effort to outguess the defence wound up the scoring in the fatal second.

Notwithstanding the breaks, Bees played good hockey, proving good opportunists and fairly earned the verdict, though the result might have gone either way with Oddfellows making a very strong bid in the final period to almost salvage another, by a whisker. It was a wide-open battle from start to finish with neither team having any great territorial advantage at any time. The players of both teams went all out in true playoff style.

There were 10 penalties in all and whereas Bees served six of 10 in the opening game, they in turn drew only four in this second struggle against six for their rivals.

IOOF—Goal, R. Wasson; defence, Armstrong, Clapper; centre, West; wings, Morrow, Wyatt, alts., Douglas, Floyd, Buckton, B. Robinson, G. Robinson, Shearer, D. Wasson, Doris.

Oshawa — Goal, Pallister; defence, Hillman, Johnson; centre, Etcheri wings, Brabin, Wilson; alts., De Gray, Lawrence, Deeth, Edwards, O'Connor, Marshall, Chircoski, Keller.

Referees—F. Morrison, J. Hodgson.

First Period
IOOF—Armstrong (Morrow) 2.41
IOOF—West (Morrow, Wyatt) 5.28
Penalties—O'Connor, Morrow.

Second Period
Oshawa—De Gray (Wilson) 4.00
Oshawa—De Gray (Marshall, J. Johnson) 7.20
Oshawa—Marshall (De Gray) 7.33
Oshawa—Brabin (Wilson, Marshall) 11.09
Oshawa—Brabin (Edwards) 12.06
IOOF—B. Robinson 12.27
Penalties—Armstrong, Wasson, De Gray, Hillman, Wyatt, Shearer.

Third Period
IOOF—West (Wyatt, B. Robinson) 16.30
Oshawa—De Gray (Wilson) 19.35
Penalties—Douglas, Wilson.

Hockey Profit Shown By Hastings Minors

HASTINGS, March 13.—At the season's windup meeting of the Hastings Minor Hockey Association here, under president H. G. Fairman, it was announced that the organization had shown a profit, despite heavy travelling expenses. Both the juvenile and midget teams had made a good showing in playdowns. The juveniles were undefeated in their schedule, rubbed out Marmora in playdowns and then lost out to Havelock. Manager Fairman and coach Stan Stevenson received the thanks of the association, and the midgets' manager, Joe Jones, and coach Len Hill were thanked, too. The inexperienced midgets eliminated Flinton, Bobcaygeon and Little Britain before losing in provincial semi-finals to Pickering by a goal.

Plans for next year were discussed and it is likely these two teams will be back, and also a bantam entry. Other officials present were: Arthur Orr, Elmer Richardson, John MacMillan, Doug Wright, Guy Wellman, Bill Armstrong, Francis Parker and Walter Dodd.

OHA Juniors Begin Playoffs Friday

TORONTO, March 13 (CP).—The Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series playoffs start on Friday, it was announced Monday night.

Eight of the 10 teams will take part in the quarter finals. The team that finishes first will meet the one ending up eighth, the second will meet the seventh, third against sixth and fourth against fifth. All will be best-of-five series.

Barrie Flyers have clinched first place and Toronto Marlboros, Windsor Spitfires and Guelph Biltmores will also be among the first four although their exact order won't be decided until the regular schedule ends Wednesday night.

St. Catharines Teepees now are in fifth place but could be overtaken by Oshawa Generals. Galt Hawks have an outside chance of overtaking Stratford Kroehlers in seventh place.

Semi-Finals

The league semi-finals, best-of-five series in each case, start Saturday, March 24, or Sunday, March 25, and the best-of-seven final start either Sunday, April 1 or Monday, April 2.

With the season just about over Lou Jankowski of Oshawa remains in the scoring lead with 62 goals and 56 assists for 118 points. Linemate Alex Delvecchio is second with 113 points followed by Ken Laufman of Guelph with 110.

In the last week Lorne Howes, Barrie goalie, has taken over the goals-against leadership. He has allowed an average of 2.98 goals a game in 52 games. Don Lockhart of Marlboros is second with an even three goals a game and Glen Hall of Windsor is third with 3.093.

DETROIT, March 13.—(AP).—Joe Louis was reported today to have the flu, and his bout with Omelio Agramonte here March 28 was indefinitely postponed. Toronto's Chances Slim For Grabbing Top NHL Spot

MONTREAL, March 13 (CP).—A 10-point lag may mean an end to any hopes Toronto Maple Leafs have of finishing ahead of Detroit Red Wings in the National Hockey League.

It's a slim chance, but Leafs' 81 points for games through March 11 could add up to 95 after the final seven games. That would mean winning all seven. Wings have only six left, none against Leafs, and they're not likely to drop many of them to help out any first-place ambitions Leafs may have.

League statistics released today show Gord Howe of Detroit in his accustomed place atop the individual scoring heap. But Montreal's Maurice Richard outpointed him last week eight to six for a solid hold on second place and a chance of overtaking him.

Richard, whose 41 goals is tops in the league, won't have to worry about anything except more tallies in Canadiens' final six games. For a while it appeared he might be suspended for a few games after a run-in with referee Hugh McLean, but that was settled Monday with a $500 fine.

Bruins Have Share

Boston Bruins have a share in two third places, in the individual scoring race and in the league standings. Milt Schmidt passed Detroit's Sid Abel, and now has 59 points, four ahead of Abel.

Bruins share third in the standing with New York Rangers, both with 59 points. They are one point up on Montreal while Chicago trails with only 36 points.

Terry Sawchuk of Detroit is tops among the netminders with nine shutouts and an average of 2:03. Al Rollins of Toronto Maple Leafs comes close with an average of 1.91 but has played only half the number of games Sawchuk has.

Toronto's Gus Mortson and his team-mates share top penalty honors. Mortson has been off 142 minutes this season while Leafs have 768 minutes in penalties.

Almond Whips Olivier Breton

VANCOUVER, March 13. —(CP).—Cool, methodical Frankie Almond of Vancouver stabbed Olivier Breton of Toronto into a bleeding heap Monday night to retain his Canadian featherweight boxing championship.

Almond won by a technical knockout at the end of the eighth round of the scheduled 12-rounder—the first defence of his title since he took it from Lou Alter of Montreal a year ago.

Breton collapsed for an eight-count just before the end of the eighth. When the bell rang, the referee lifted Almond's arm. Almond weighed 124½, one pound less than the challenger.

The 21-year-old Vancouver boy had a four-inch advantage in reach, but those four inches looked like a yard by the end of the third round.

Almond's trip-hammer left was in the 26-year-old Torontonian's face all night. In the third, Almond opened a cut under Breton's right eye. By the fifth, a mouse ballooned under Breton's left eye.

Breton was game all the way, but when he did manage to work in close, his punches didn't carry any sting.

To get in where he could reach Almond, Breton had to take terrible punishment. And by the time his looping left had reached Almond, the blow had spent itself or the champion was rolling away.

Greco Keeps Title, TKO's Ferland

MONTREAL, March 13 (CP)—Montreal's belting Johnny Greco still is tops in the Canadian welterweight division today, a fact he ably demonstrated Monday night with a convincing ninth-round technical knockout over Gaby Ferland, also of Montreal.

Both fighters entered the ring at 147 pounds for the 12-round title match, witnessed by 5,500 fans who contributed a gross gate of $13,737.

It was the second meeting between the two fighters and the fifth time that the swarthy Montrealer has defended his title he took from Montreal's Dave Castilloux in 1948. It was in that year that Greco and Ferland first met and Greco knocked his opponent out in six rounds.

In Top Shape

Greco was in tip-top shape Monday night and he belted the French-Canadian around the ring especially in the ninth when he had him down for an automatic eight-count before referee Tommy Sullivan halted the match and raised Greco's arm in victory.

A Canadian Press score-card gave Greco four rounds up to the start of the ninth and the lead in that round before the fight was stopped.

After a slow start, Ferland took the second and third rounds on the basis of his aggressiveness. He rocked the champion with powerful right uppercuts but Greco had plenty left and came back hard and fast.

When the end came, Greco was blasting Ferland with a free-swinging, two-fisted attack that had the challenger helpless.

Ontario's Equal Pay Bill Passed In Principle Despite Stiff Opposition

TORONTO, March 13. (CP)—A concerted effort by Opposition members in the Ontario Legislature Monday failed to order the rewriting of a Government bill whose aim is to ensure uniform pay for men and women doing the same work in factories, offices and shops. An Opposition motion by the Legislature's sole woman member, Agnes Macphail (CCF-East York), to have the House Labor Committee write "a bill that truly expresses the principle of equal pay for equal work" was defeated on a recorded vote, 43 to 28.

That vote was followed by a second, giving unanimous support to the principle of the Government bill.

"Half a loaf, or even 1/100th part of a loaf, is better than none," said E. B. Jolliffe, CCF Leader.

Criticism of the bill's terms was led by Miss Macphail and Eamon Park (CCF-Toronto Dovercourt).

Miss MacPhail said the bill was "only a gesture" and failed either to protect women who lodged complaints or to provide adequate enforcement. She urged it be broadened to ensure equal pay for women doing "comparable work" to that of men, instead of limiting it to cases where the "same work" is done.

Too Many Loopholes

Mr. Park said the wording of the bill provided "any number" of loopholes. "The bill will not require any employer to change his employment practices if he wants to find ways of getting around it," he said.

He charged the Government had brought in the bill to satisfy the demands of women's organizations for equal pay legislation.

J. B. Salsberg (Lab-Prog-Toronto St. Andrew) termed the bill "deliberately ambiguous," while Campbell Calder (L-London) said that negotiators investigating grievances would be blocked at the outset by the difficulty of proving the woman in question was doing the "same work" as other men in the establishment.

Labor Minister Daley said that Louis Fine, his department's chief conciliation officer, will be named to direct a new fair employment practices branch in the department.

The branch is planned to administer equal wages law and also the proposed anti-discrimination legislation which comes before the House today.

Pioneering Bill

Premier Frost said the equal pay bill was "pioneering social legislation," without counterpart in the British Commonwealth. Other Governments had supported its principle of equal pay for women, but had balked at the difficulties of enforcement, he said.

The Government had avoided one of the chief difficulties by providing that equality of women's wages be maintained only in individual establishments, instead of extending the principle over whole industries or over the whole province.

Mr. Daley said his policy would seek to persuade employers to operate within the law, through education and conciliation, and keep from having many cases come to court. The Government would not halt at legal action if necessary, however.

Procedure of enforcement parallels methods of settling union disputes. A conciliation officer would investigate written complaints. The next step, if the officer fails to reach settlement, would be a commission, which would have the powers of a conciliation board. If the grievance remains, the labor minister could authorize court action. A fine of up to $100 is provided for offending employers.

A second bill involving women was also approved in principle Monday. It will permit women to be called for jury duty, although it allows any woman to claim a year's exemption from jury summonses. Attorney-General Porter said the exceptions would be allowed to avoid hardships on housewives and mothers.

Harry Nixon, veteran Liberal member for Brant, suggested that the Government limit the use of expropriation proceedings when pipelines are being built across farm lands.

Ontario Needs Natural Gas

WASHINGTON, March 13 (AP) —Natural gas is the only answer to the problems of the gas systems of several cities in Ontario, a federal power commission examiner was told Monday.

Representatives of the systems testified in the proceeding in which Union Gas Company Limited of Chatham, is seeking to get 18,500,000,000 cubic feet of natural gas a year from the United States.

Union Gas has signed a contract with Panhandle Eastern Pipeline Co. of Kansas City, Mo., for this maximum quantity. However, the federal power commission must approve the contract and also grant an export licence before the gas can become available.

John A. Spence, superintendent of the gas department in Guelph, said that advent of natural gas would mean a 25-per-cent cut in rates for consumers here.

W. G. Woods, secretary-treasurer of the Public Utilities Commission in Waterloo, said that obtaining of natural gas "is the only solution to our staying in business."

Union Gas proposes to sell to Guelph and Waterloo as well as two other municipal systems, at Kitchener and Stratford, if it gets the Panhandle gas.

OTTAWA, March 13 (CP). — The Canadian Commercial Corporation Monday announced $6,798,043 worth of contracts awarded by the crown-owned purchasing organization during the last half of February.

Contracts valued at more than $100,000 included the following:

Hydro To Get Power From Welland Canal

OTTAWA, March 13 (CP). — Diversion of 2,500 cubic feet of water a second on a year-round basis will be made from the Welland canal system to swell the power output of the hydro plant at Decew Falls, according to an agreement reached here Monday.

Robert H. Saunders, chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission, said the agreement, worked out with Transport Minister Chevrier, will mean an additional 1,250,000 kilowatt hours a day for Ontario hydro and will involve $3,880 a day in revenue.

Woman Remanded

TORONTO, March 13.—(CP).—Mrs. Marie Lopees, 24, charged with murder in the stabbing death of her husband March 3, Monday was remanded to March 19. Police allege that the husband was slain during a quarrel in the couple's basement apartment in suburban New Toronto.

To Spend 15 Million On Trans--Canada Rd.

OTTAWA, March 13 (CP). — The Canadian government has earmarked $15,000,000 as its contribution this year toward construction of a trans-Canada highway.

The amount was included in the 1951-52 estimates tabled Monday in the Commons by Finance Minister Abbott. Last year the government set aside $20,000,000 to pay to the provinces for work on the highway. However, only $8,000,000 of that amount was spent.

The highway is due to be completed in seven years.

Death Rate Drops

WASHINGTON, March 13. — (AP).—The United States' 1950 death rate was the lowest on record, and the number of births was near an all-time high. The death rate in 1950 was lower—9.6 per 1,000 population (excluding armed forces overseas) compared with the 1949 rate of 9.7, the previous low. The agency estimated that, including unregistered births, 3,699,000 babies were born last year, compared with 3,707,000 in 1949.

Have-Not Lands Point Gun At Democracies

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Five countries with little more than one-tenth of the world's population use nearly one half of the world's textiles—its cotton, wool, rayon, nylon and other fibres natural or man-made.

These five countries are the United States, Canada, Sweden, Belgium, and Switzerland.

At the other end, eight African and Asiatic countries, including China—which have nearly one-third of the world's people—use less than one-tenth of the world's textiles.

These figures are from the Food and Agricultural Organization, as quoted in the current monthly review of the Bank of Nova Scotia, and the review comments:

"Though some part of this wide discrepancy may be explained by differences of climate, most of it reflects the great disparity of income levels."

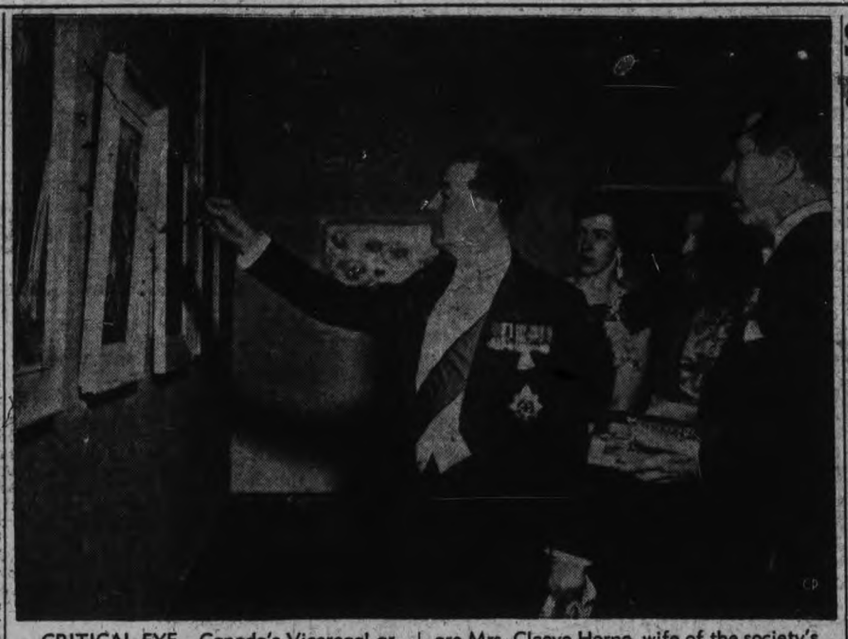
Much Better Off

In other words, it reflects how much better off a small part of the world's people—including Canadians—is, as compared with the much bigger part.

The figures referred to are for textiles, but nearly any set of figures concerning the good things of living, would tell the same story.

There was a time when we could quickly forget the poverty of other people or salve our conscience with a few coins in the foreign mission box.

Now, whether or not the situation rests on our consciences, it points a gun at our way of life.



A few years ago governments of countries which called themselves "have-not" nations threatened us with aggressive imperialism which could be and were fought. In the present and coming years the threat will come from the "have-not" peoples thmselves, seeking a better share of the world's goods. And there are new imperialisms to give them leadership and take advantage of their unrest.

Western peoples, too, are making some attempts to give leadership, in asisting in such things as the Colombo plan to raise the way-of-living in southeast Asia; or in making contributions of one kind or another to various backward areas. As yet, however, we have been lacking in dynamic ideas which catch the enthusiasms of peoples.

We don't yet even know whether the world is capable of supplying a comfortable living to its great and increasing populations. But the problem out of it is to be solved according to our ideas.

NECESSARY STEP

Immunization is the first line of defence against such diseases as diphtheria, whooping cough, and small pox.

CRITICAL EYE—Canada's Viceregal artist, Viscount Alexander, points out an interesting feature of one of the paintings in the current exhibition of the Ontario Society of Artists in Toronto. Shown with him shortly after he opened the exhibition, are Mrs. Cleeve Horne, wife of the society's president, Lady Alexander, and Mr. Horne. The show caused some controversy when four prominent members of the society resigned in protest of alleged poor quality of some of the "modern" works chosen for the show.

Fight For Lilacs Off Novello Coffin

LONDON, March 13.—(Reuters).—Ivor Novello, great lover of the British stage, was cremated here Monday while sobbing women fought for sprigs of white lilac which fell from his coffin. Novello, 58, who died last week, turned out many musical romances in which he frequently played the leading role.

Startling Cancer Discovery Made By Doctor In US

NEW YORK, March 13 (AP)—Cancer in a woman's body has led to discovery of a common new blood type and a startling finding about cancer, a leading blood expert said Monday night.

It was found because the woman's blood wouldn't mix with blood from anyone else, except her sister. Her blood destroyed other bloods.

The reason was traced to cancer. It apparently was making a chemical it isn't supposed to make.

It is the first link ever reported between cancer and blood types, which determine the safety of blood transfusions. It may help explain one origin of cancer.

The report was made by Dr. Philip Levine, director of the RH blood testing laboratory of Ortho Research Foundation, Raritan, N.J., at a meeting on blood types in the New York Academy of Sciences.

The new blood type was named the Jarrell Factor, after the 66-year-old woman who had a stomach cancer.

Dr. Levine said the cancer cells contained the chemical for Jarrell type blood, and gave rise to antibodies against it in her own blood. This was shown by tests after the cancer was removed, without giving her blood transfusions.

Finding this chemical in cancer may help explain how cancers start. Cancer cells are ordinary cells gone wild. Their heredity changes so they no longer live, work, and die like ordinary skin, muscle or nerve cells, and they don't do useful work.

The new finding is evidence that cancer cells, when they undergo this change, can take on jobs never suspected before. Maybe, Dr. Levine said, the hereditary change that started the cancer also gave the cancer cells the ability to make the blood-type chemical.

Whether cancers do this often isn't yet known.

Report to Metropolitan Policyholders for 1950

ANOTHER YEAR OF OUTSTANDING SERVICE

THERE COULD BE no better summary of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company's activities and achievements during 1950 in the United States and Canada than the following message with which President Charles G. Taylor, Jr. opens the Company's Annual Report to Policyholders.

"You have every reason to be pleased with the results of the operation of Metropolitan in 1950.

"The major test of a Life insurance company's value to the public is in the payment of benefits to policyholders and beneficiaries and in the increase of the insurance protection which the company affords them. New high records in each respect were made in 1950.

"Metropolitan has been able to maintain this year, with minor modifications, the prevailing dividend scales. The Company has also made appropriate additions to surplus funds and contingency reserves held for the protection of policyholders. This means that, with very few exceptions, individual policyholders' dividends will be equal to, or greater than, the dividends paid last year.

"It is gratifying to report that, notwithstanding increased costs due to inflationary trends which have affected every business and every individual, Metropolitan has thus continued its low cost record."

METROPOLITAN'S OPERATIONS IN CANADA

These high lights of the Company's business in Canada during 1950, our 78th year in this country, will be of particular interest to Metropolitan's Canadian policyholders and their beneficiaries.

Payments to Policyholders and Beneficiaries

Metropolitan paid in 1950 to its Canadian policyholders and their beneficiaries $44,121,559 in death claims — matured policies — benefits in the event of either accident, sickness, hospitalization, surgical or medical expense — dividends and other payments. Of this amount, 70% was paid to living policyholders.

The total amount the Metropolitan has paid to Canadians since it entered Canada in 1872, plus the amount now invested in Canada, exceeds the total premiums received from Canadians by more than $401,000,000.

Life Insurance in Force

In 1950, Canadians bought $217,020,846 of new Life insurance protection in the Metropolitan, bringing the total of the Company's Life insurance in force in Canada to $2,508,305,363. This amount is made up of 57% Ordinary business, 28% Industrial business, and 15% Group.

Total Investments in Canada

Metropolitan investments in Canada amounted to $602,587,542 at the end of 1950. These investments are playing an important part in the economy of Canada with substantial totals of Federal, Provincial, and Municipal bonds and with sizeable totals in the obligations of steel and paper companies, the oil industry, railroads, electric light and power companies, and others.

Health and Welfare Work

Since 1909 Metropolitan has conducted a continuous health education campaign in Canada and during 1950 participated in numerous activities. Nearly 2,000,000 pamphlets on a variety of health and safety topics were distributed—monthly health advertisements appeared in national publications — "Good Hints for Good Health" was a daily feature on many radio stations.

Asians Twist Freedom War To Race Fight

Union Executive Says That Red Propaganda Distorts West's Aims

Unless we are careful we may find that Asiatic peoples will interpret the present struggle of democracy against totalitarianism as an all-out fight between Asia and the western democracies.

That was the warning given Peterborough and District Labor Council (CCL) Monday night by Dave Archer, executive secretary of the Ontario Federation of Labor. Mr. Archer, together with Henry Weisbach, executive secretary of the CCL's Political Action Committee, spoke on the policy of the commitee (PAC) on both international and domestic questions.

"There is a danger in Asia because of the impetuous actions of the United States," said Mr. Archer. "They are novices at international relations and haven't the skill and ability of, say, the trained British diplomats, regardless of party."

He said that Communists are clever at confusing people as to their opponents' aims. They will take advantage of any political error made by their opponents and capitalize on it for propaganda purposes.

"We don't want a war to preserve and promote freedom turned into a war between the Asian peoples and the western democracies."

Should Recognize China

Mr. Archer said the refusal of the United States to recognize the new Communist regime in China is a mistake. Whether we like it or not Mao Tse-tung and not Chiang Kai-shek holds the reins of power in China.

Communist rule there is an "established fact." On the brighter side, he pointed out that Mao is "fiercely nationalist and may be another Tito in the making."

"If we continue to recognize Chiang Kai-shek the peoples of Asia will see us in the position of recognizing a dictatorship of the right but not of the left."

In India, Ceylon, Burma and Malaya the British had turned over political power completely or set up governments that were trying to educate the millions of illiterate and poverty-stricken people.

"From a democratic point of view our job is to see that these people are given an opportunity to have the kind of government they want. . . Democracy in one country is not necessarily the same as in another."

Mr. Archer said the International Confederation of Free Trade Unions had given a lead in the right direction by undertaking to train trade union leaders from the "danger spots" of India, Pakistan, Malaya and Indo-China.

To Train Asian Unionists

Purpose of this training was to educate these Asiatic trade union leaders to understand democracy and resist communism.

(Earlier the Peterborough and District Labor Council voted a $5 "token donation" to the South-east Asia leadership fund set up by the International Confederation of Free Trade Unions. William Whibbs, Local 524, IUE-CIO said the Labor Council should be willing "to pay part of the price" if free trade unions are to exist. The seconder of the motion was Irving Yeo, also of Local 524, IUE-CIO, who declared that the peoples of Asia "have the same right as we against capitalism and international cartels.)

Mr. Archer also mentioned the Colombo plan, started by British Commonwealth countries, "to bring technical and skilled help to these people so they can get a standard of living that enables them to practice democracy."

Canada's share for this year is $25,000,000. But the speaker criticized her for taking part only on condition that the United States also give assistance.

In Canada, he said, the PAC (Political Action Committee CCL) had strongly campaigned for the re-establishment of price and rent controls, abolition of the "means test," changes in the factory act, two weeks holidays with pay for all workers, and more rigid factory inspection.

Not Tied To CCF

Mr. Archer stated that while it was true the PAC had supported the CCF in parliament it was not tied to that party. Support was given because the CCF was the only one of the parties — including the Labor Progressive Party—that would agree to a brief drawn up by the CCL's political committee.

"In the United States the PAC supports individuals. But in Canada, because of the parliamentary system here we support the party, not the man. The party in power takes full responsibility for everything."

PAC was only established permenantly last year, said Mr. Archer, but it has an excellent record. On the municipal level it combined with the AFL to sponsor Ford Brand as labor candidate in the Toronto city elections. Brand drew some 70,000 votes and next year he would likely be elected, predicted Mr. Archer.

Labor also rallied support for Alan Rush, now elected mayor of London, Ontario, after his controversial dismissal from the city's police force.

The Peterborough Political Action Committee has a "big job" ahead of it, concluded Mr. Archer. "That is to see that a responsible, bona fide trade union is put in at CGE."

MR. AND MRS. GEORGE TAYLOR OF WARSAW were 60 years married on Sunday. All their married life has been spent in Warsaw. For 55 years Mrs. Taylor has been organist at the Warsaw United Church. During Sunday and Monday the couple held open house.—(Parks Studio Photo)

City Must Pay $43,294 Deficit

"There's no alternative," was the remark of Ald. J. E. Gillespie as the finance committee of the council Monday night assumed the Civic Hospital deficit of $43,-294.39 for 1950.

Mayor Swanston presided in the absence of the chairman, Ald. T. D. Miller, with the following members present: Aldermen H. T. Rehill, Norman Graham, Hugh F. Waddell, J. E. Gillespie, A. B. Burrows, and P. J. Anglesey.

In the hospital budget for this year, the requisition on the council is $144,710.39.

Estimated expenditures for 1951 amount to $875,225.43, and the estimated revenue is $773,809.23, leaving excess of expenditure over receipts at $101.416.20.

The sum required from the city this year is the total of items: (a) $101,416.20, being the excess of expenditures over revenues in the general operation of the hospital this year; and (b) the 1950 deficit of $43,294.19; amounting to $144,-710.39.

Suggested method of payment:

January and February advances already received by the hospital, $24.000.

March, $9,916.20.

Nine monthly payments—April to December—of $7,500 each: $67,500.

Deficit from 1950, immediate payment, $43,294.19.

Total: $144,710.39.

Church Organist 55 Years Of 60 Years Wedded Life

Young lovers should be sure they're suitably matched before they tie the knot, said Mr. and Mrs. George Taylor, of Warsaw, Monday while holding open house during their diamond wedding anniversary celebrations. "They want to be sure to make the right choice, like I did," said Mrs. Taylor. "So many young married couples don't get along now."

Diamond Wedding

Sixty years ago Sunday, 18-year-old Eliza Payne wed George Taylor. The marriage was performed by the Rev. Richard Hyde at Payne's Mills, four miles east of Warsaw. The day was bright and warm with a thick blanket of snow. Except for the snow Sunday, their 60th anniversary, the weather was identical to their wedding day.

Since Mrs. Taylor was married at 18, she heartily approves of young marriages. She explained that when people marry at 18 to 20, they don't have the chance to become unsettled in their choice of a husband or wife.

The couple received on Sunday and Monday. On Sunday their home was open to visitors from out-of-town but in addition to these many visitors, the Warsaw area turned out in full force. Monday was set aside for local visitors.

Spring walked into the Taylor home as the visitors brought sprays and bouquets of tulips, daffodils and other bright, early flowers. They also received many gifts.

Greeting From Ontario

Greetings from Prime Minister Leslie Frost and a reception at the Warsaw United Church were the anniversary highlights. The Taylors received a scroll from Mr. Frost saying:

"May I extend to you on behalf of the government of the province of Ontario the heartiest congratulations on the 60th wedding anniversary and wish that you may both enjoy further anniversaries in good health and happiness."

Mr. and Mrs. Frost also sent a personal note.

Usually the Sunday night attendance at church is small, but last Sunday the United church was almost filled to capacity. After the service the congregation adjourned to the basement where they held a reception for the Taylors. There they were presented with an envelope filled with money, and a rosebush.

Probably the most significant gift to Mrs. Taylor was a piano lamp from the church's choir. For more than 50 years (Mrs. Taylor believes about 55 years) she played the organ and led the choir. Only this past month did she resign and accepted the position of assistant organist.

Her attendance record is enviable. Only a few times during that period did she miss playing the organ and in recent years the piano. Once she can clearly remember was when she went to Vancouver.

"Whenever I was sick, I always seemed better by Sunday to play the music," she said.

Mr. Taylor is prominent in the Warsaw community. After 14 years of farming Mr. Taylor and Stewart Payne purchased the flour mill in Warsaw in 1907. Eventually Mr. Taylor became the mill owner and operated the chopping and feed mill for 35 years. He retired in 1942. His favorite pastime is reading.

"We're quite satisfied," said Mr. Taylor. "Neither one of us is looking for a divorce."

Careless Driver On Ice; $10, Costs

Found guilty of a charge of careless driving in trying to pass a car on an icy road, Roy Paudash, Hiawatha, was fined $10 and $11.20 costs in police court today.

Evidence was that he collided with a car driven east on the Keene Road by Harold Wilson, Keene, about half a mile west of Hastings, Dec. 31.

Wilson said there were patches of ice and snow on the road and driving was "tricky." He was driving about 35 miles an hour when he suddenly was aware of the glare of headlights behind him. In a moment the car was beside him, almost in the north ditch.

Wilson swung to the south to give the car as much of the road as possible. The Paudash car then came out of the ditch across the road in front of him and "hit my front fender and swung me around."

About $57 damage was done to the front left fender and front bumper of his car. He reported Paudash saying "If $10 would fix it up, he'd fix it up. He wasn't going to pay any big bill."

Tracks In Snow

Provincial Constable Peter McIntyre testified that he found two tracks 300 feet long in a six-inch deep bank of old snow on the north side of the road. The tracks then veered across the road to a point where they met with tracks from the Wilson car. The point of collision was marked by a three-foot circle of dirty frozen snow from fenders in about the centre of the south lane of the road.

He said the 20-foot wide road was very icy.

Blew Horn

Paudash in his own defence said as he approached the Wilson car, he blew his horn. The Wilson car turned over to the south and he started to pass. But when he was alongside it appeared to come back toward him and he turned north to avoid a collision. His left wheels got into the snow and he was dragged into the ditch. He swung back to the road and the front left fender of the Wilson car hit his right rear fender on the north side of the road.

Earl Kemp, who was riding with Paudash, coroborrated Paudash's evidence.

Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, said he believed there was a greater obligation on Paudash to slow up when he got into the snow bank than there was on Wilson.

TEACHER ASSESSORS

Two teachers have been appointed assessors in Douro. They are James Moloney, St. Peter's primary school, and Joseph Moher, principal of St. Alphonsus. They succeed B. Q. Dench. The appointments were made at Monday's council meeting.

Archers Ask Two Weeks Deer Hunting

Bow and Arrow Group Wants Separate Season For Archers

TORONTO, March 13 (CP)—A request that archers be allowed to hunt deer two weeks before the normal start of the open season on deer was made by the Hunting and Field Arcners Association of Ontario today before the fish and game committee of the legislature.

The association's brief suggested that the use of bow and arrow could be safely allowed in heavily populated areas where a rifle is dangerous.

A detailed brief dealing with Ontario fishing laws was presented by the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters.

It stated that many northern trout lakes have been ruined by bait minnows being liberated by fishermen, and urged the Department of Lands and Forests to advertise more prominently its regulations against the liberation of minnows in waters where they do not originate.

The brief also asked for a closed season on pickerel, except in commercial waters, between Oct. 15 and May 15. It asked that limits be enlarged to 15 inches for pickerel, 20 inches for northern pike and 12 inches for black bass. Present limits are 13 inches for pickerel, and 10 inches for black bass.

Ask Netting Halted

Licences to take smelt in the spring do not specify that certain streams may not be used, the federation brief said, but many spawning pickerel were being destroyed in certain streams. The brief asked that smelt netting be halted in rivers such as the Napanee River and the Salmon River at Shannonville, where pickerel spawn.

It asked the Lands and Forests Department to reach an agreement with United States officials regarding maskinonge fishing in Lake St. Clair, and asked that no licences be issued for seine net fishing in the Detroit River and River Canard, near Windsor, or for fishing traps in the lower Niagara River.

The brief praised the government for steps taken to date toward halting pollution of rivers and lakes, and urged that it continue its investigation of pollution problems and set up minimum standards that can serve as the basis for anti-pollution legislation.

It urged the government to investigate any damage caused by changing water levels during the spawning season, and seek the co-operation of those who operate dams controlling the water level, inclunding industries and the Ontario Hydro Power Commission.

Shift Billboards On Market Site

A plan for shifting billboards from the city's lot that is to become a market site was approved by the council in finance committee Monday night. Four of the six so-called panels are to be moved and two others will be set up on the property.

Mayor Swanston said he and a representative of E. L. Ruddy Co. had looked over the lot from the aspect of the billboards, and agreed to certain switches in their placement.

So far there has been nothing suggested by the council that offers any promise of materializing into the shape of a market building.

Council's latest essay in market planning was the proposal to the county council for a discussion with the reeves of the townships adjoining the city. No one in the council has suggested that the city should be concerned about erecting a new market building on the property it is providing on George St. in the block between Townsend and Rink Streets.

APPLY FOR CERTIFICATION

Local 234, Industrial Union of Automotive Employees, are seeking a hearing after applying to the OLRB for certification as the legal bargaining agent for 75 garagemen in Peterborough. Eight garages where the local claims a majority of the employees are Gillespie's, Gray's, Deeth and White's, Reuben Wilson's, Duffus', Lillico's, Cliff Towle's and McWilliams' Motor Sales.

Protests Election

There was a minor interruption Monday night at the March meeting of the Peterborough and District Labor Council. President Alfred Barber, Local 210, United Packinghouse Workers (CIO-CCL), asked the officers-elect for 1951 to come forward and be installed by Dave Archer, executive-secretary of the Ontario Federation of Labor. At this point Lorne Bebee, Local 293, UAW, protested that last month's election of Dave Hatherly, Local 599, IUE-CIO, as secretary was unconstitutional. He did not elaborate. (Mr. Hatherly defeated Mr. Bebee for the office on the second ballot.) "Have you put that protest in writing?" asked President Barber. When the ex-secretary replied "no" President Barber told him that was the required procedure. The installation of officers then went on without further incident.

Civil Defence Responsibility Of All Citizens

Ald. Hugh F. Waddell, deputy chairman of the Peterborough Committee for Civil Defence, has returned from Ottawa after completing the civil defence forum run under the auspices of the dominion government.

At the regular meeting of the defence committee, Mr. Waddell told of his experiences on the forum course, and outlined the various phases of civil defence as it is being planned by the government.

The forum was attended by civil defence officers from various centres in Canada. The course included not only lectures and discussions by authorities on their subjects, but actual work on various defence problems right on the ground.

Personal Matter

Mr. Waddell pointed out that civil defence is a personal matter and that it is in the interests of all people who subscribe to democracy to accept some responsibility for their own self-preservation.

He said that, while the functions and principles of civil defence remain the same in any country, there are two general ways in which they could be made to function.

The first is the highly centralized organization with legal authority to order, command and dictate to all other branches of government and all of the people. Or, one which embraces each level of civil government and utilizes existing agencies that are national in character throughout the land, and which develops the principles of self-help, mutual aid and co-operation.

More Liable To Crack

The centralized form is more positive, but is more liable to crack in the face of adversity than the one of decentralized responsibility, providing that the decentralized organization is well trained and organized.

However, to be successful the local or decentralized form of civil defence depends upon the willingness of the various agencies and people themselves to co-operate and accept their individual responsibilities.

Mr. Waddell felt that the Peterborough committee were planning on sound grounds that would enable them to co-operate with the central organization and with other municipalities.

Self-Preservation

Mr. Waddell said that you could sum up the whole principle of civil defence by saying that it is self-preservation. To provide this self-preservation requires preparation and training, co-operation from each level of government, from the organized bodies of men and women in societies, associations, and neighbor-to-neighbor contact, and the teamwork and responsibility of all citizens, both men and women.

Modern wars are not only won on the battle-front. Part of the victory can be won at home. If the civil defence population are prepared to face the initial unexpected blow of an aggressor, then, it is reasonable to believe that an aggressor cannot achieve its strategic aim, which is to demoralize our population, to destroy our essential production, and cripple our governing powers.

Old Rusty Revolver Fails Saves Motorist's Life When Hitch-hiker Fires

Man Later Captured Near Port Hope Foot Caught In Fence; Charged With Assault While Armed

PORT HOPE, March 13. (CP)—The rusty mechanism of a revolver missed fire last night and saved the life of a Toronto motorist when a hitch-hiker pointed the gun at his head and pulled the trigger. Police said John Angelson, 29, stopped his car and he and a passenger, Paul Moran of Toronto, grappled with Angleson's assailant, disarming him. But the man broke lose and fled.

Not Fooling

Later police arrested William Wannamaker, 23, of Trenton, and charged him with assault while armed.

Angelson and Moran, who were driving toward Toronto, said they picked up a hitch-hiker at Trenton. As they passed through the centre of Port Hope, they heard the man say:

"You're not going anywhere. I'm not fooling."

"I felt the gun against my ear and heard a click," said Angelson.

Waved Gun

The hitch-hiker then waved the gun at both men and told them to take him to Toronto. Moran grappled with him as the car pulled to a stop, and Angelson signalled to a service station employee to call police.

The man broke loose from the car and escaped into woods north of Port Hope. Constables Robert Smith and William Coughlin later found Wannamaker with his foot caught in a fence he had tried to jump.

He was caught at the foot of a rock formation known locally as Jacob's Ladder.

Old Coke Shed Converted Bottling Plant

Dismantling the old gas works at the foot of Simcoe St., continues from time to time. R. L. Dobbin reported at the Utilities Commission meeting Monday sale of purifiers and other equipment to Pintsch Compressor Co., Montreal.

The old coke shed is being converted into a propane bottling plant, as an earnest of the department developing some business in the retailing of propane in pressure containers.

The Commission is making more gas and better gas since installing the propane facilities.

Gas production in February was 615,000 gallons more than in the second month of last year. But, the revenue was slightly less.

Increase In Rates?

"I don't like that," said Mr. Dobbin, as the Commission briefly discussed the evidence that some increase in the rate should be considered. Commission is content with producing at cost, and it is likely that the members will ask some of the larger consumers of gas to sit in with them and discuss this detail of the utilities service.

In the electric department the peak power load was up to 20,600 kilowatts last month, an increase of five per cent. Building of a new 44,000-volt line was begun in February along Wolfe St., westerly from Rutherford Ave. to the new substation on High St.

Domestic power distribution was 75 per cent completed to Cobourg Housing on the High St. hill. Moving of the pole line on Park St. from Lansdowne southerly was completed except for the removal of some old poles with Bell Telephone cable on them.

At the waterworks, the new 30-inch section of raw water main at the filter plant was completed. No. 1 filter bed sand was removed and under-drains checked. Preliminary planning was done on the new plant extension. Four hydrants were thawed.

MAIN ST. TOPICS

NORWOOD MAN DRUNK

Pleading guilty to a charge of being drunk in Peterborough on Monday night, William McMaster, 66, Norwood, was fined $10 and costs in police court today.

LAST PROGRAM

The Rev. W. J. Johnston will be the guest speaker at the last So-Ed program for 1951 on Wednesday night. He will speak on "When Irish Eyes Are Open". From 9:30 until 11:30 a dance and party will be held. The entire program will be held in the YWCA.

COURT ROOM PLANS

A revised plan of the police court room in the new city hall, with its furnishings, was received by the finance committee of the council last night. A motion by Aldermen Burrows and Rehill recommended that the cost be obtained for consideration by the council.

APPLIES FOR LICENSE

Application of Harry Goodman for a used car dealer's license was held over for further consideration by the finance committee of the council Monday night. Mr. Goodman is proprietor of the National Motors site on the north side of Hunter St., near the creek. The building on the lot has been rented by Western Clock Co. W. B. Gordon presented Mr. Goodman's request to the finance committee.

MIAMI CONVENTION

"There's plenty of time to decide about that," was the comment of G. S. Matthews, chairman of Utilities Commission, about Peterborough representation at the convention of the American Waterworks Association at Miami, Fla., at the end of April. It is likely that R. L. Dobbin will be authorized to go, but not next year to Rio di Janiero, Brazil. The Commissioners and Mr. Dobbin dismissed even the prospect of it. As for the meeting in Miami, it comes so late in the season that hotel rates are clipped to $4 a day.

MIGRATING TURKEYS?

Four turkey hens and a gobbler turned up this morning in the backyard of Mrs. Bessie Spinks, 714 Lansdowne St. at High St. She didn't know where they came from and called police station for help. Either they escaped from a pen of some nearby turkey raiser or they are migrating back to Canada from a summer in Florida along with many other Peterborough residents.

Arm Badly Mutilated When Drawn Into Mill

Owner of a Campbellford planing mill, Keith Bailey had his right arm badly mutilated Monday when it was drawn into the feed roller of a planing machine.

He was rushed to St. Joseph's Hospital where officials said he spent a fairly comfortable night and was comfortable this morning.

Instead of Windbreakers

Council May Strike Medals For Awards

Instead of club bags, windbreakers and other personal accessories, city council may strike a civic medal with which to recognize and supplement honors won by its citizens.

That idea took shape at the finance committee meeting Monday night in discussion of a reference to a junior lacrosse team dinner April 4. It may be recalled that Peterborough juniors, coached by Lou Vitarelli, won the Ontario championship in their division last year.

A recurring question reaching the city hall was whether the council intended to do anything by way of gifts to the juniors as provincial title holders. That suggestion has led to a proposal of policy of permanent form of suitable presentation not only to members of athletic teams, but as mentioned by Ald. A. B. Burrows to others excelling in cultural efforts.

Permanent Possession

An engraved medal bearing the city's new coat of arms, and set in a suitable and durable case, would be a permanent possession, Ald. Burrows suggested.

One of the comments in the course of the discussion indicated some degree of doubt as to whether this civic honor should be conferred on any persons engaged in professional sports. That raised a point about the extent of amateurism still existing today. It was only briefly mentioned, but it appeared to be accepted that the younger folks were still playing the game for its appeal as a competitive sport rather than for a cut in the gate.

Mayor Swanston suggested the civic medal idea and it is likely to be considered by a small committee.

Nationally Known Naturalist Old Peterborough Boy Dies

Walter Maguire, 70, of Burnaby, B.C., nationally known naturalist and former resident of Peterborough, died last week in hospital after a four-day illness.

Mr. Maguire was born in Peterborough but left his native city for Burnaby 31 years ago.

He was best known for his collection of bird eggs. The Maguire Ological Collection is said to contain 12,000 eggs. It is regarded as the best in British Columbia and one of the best in Canada.

The variety and scientific value of the collection was improved by exchanges with other naturalists in France, Spain, the British zone in Germany, Finland, Sweden, Ireland, Great Britain, Africa and Brazil. Also with almost every province and state in North America.

For several years he made trips through British Columbia during the breeding and migration season. He explored the bird life in such places as the Upper Queen Charlottes, the Similkameen or Okanagan Valleys, the Cariboo or the seabird colonies of the B.C. coast.

At the time of his death he was planning a field trip to the south-west corner of Alberta for 1951, working out of either Lethbridge or Medicine Hat.

Only three days before he died he and his collection were featured in a front-page picture and story in the British Columbia of New Westminster.

He was a Mason and Kiwanian.

Left are a son, H. Scott Maguire, and two daughters—Mrs. J. R. McCrae, Vancouver, and Miss Betty Maguire, Victoria.

Policemen Think Movies Give Bad Impression

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, March 13 (AP) The movie industry today was able to hear a first-hand report of what policemen think of cops-and-robbers films. The comment is perhaps best expressed by a bronx cheer.

The man delivering this opinion was John Shilling, detective on the New York police force for 20 years. He retired four years ago and moved with his family to California. Now he engages in private investigation and is presently employed to check facts on the new film "Detective Story."

I asked him what policemen think about how they are portrayed in the crime movies.

"I'll tell you this," he replied, "most policemen would like to hit the producers of those pictures over the head."

Show As Stupid

A good many crime pictures show the private eyes outsmarting the detectives on the olice force, who are usually portrayed as dullwitted. Shilling protested against this.

"You dont find a dope in the detective division," he remarked. "When a man is promoted to detective, he's got to produce results, or else. He's got to know everything, including how to deliver a baby, if necessary. And it has happened."

Shilling declared that no movie has been entirely accurate on police matters, "even the pictures that Mark Hellinger made." But he thought Hellinger's films were the best of the lot, especially "The Naked City.'

—Even The Best Err—

"Even that one had errors of procedure," he commented.

The detective even had his reservations about "Detective Story." "When I read the script, I was revolted,' he announced. (It concerns an almost sadistically-relentless detective.)

"But this guy (Director William Wyler) is handling the subject beautifully, and I think it will turn out okay."

Shilling approved the set patterned after the 16th precinct in New York and he is being careful about details.

"I gotta be careful," he said. "All the guys on the force know I'm on this picture and if I make a slip, I'm in trouble."

Say Professors At Queen's Get $500 Raise

KINGSTON, March 13—(CP)—Members of the faculty of Queen's University received letters Saturday informing them of salary increases of up to $500 a year, an informed source said Monday.

Principal R. C. Wallace and members of the staff declined to give any information on the amount of the increases. However, it was reported that the boost was $500 a year for all except those who joined the faculty in the last year. They got $300. Reason for the difference is said to be that the starting salaries of new members of the staff were fixed in line with the scale of living costs.

Some three weeks ago, the faculty members held a meeting and were reported to have forwarded a letter of protest on the salary scale to the university's board of trustees.

The salary scale for full professors at Queen's previously was $4,500 to $5,500. A $500 increase would bring the maximum to $6,000. Minimum salary for full professors at the University of Toronto was boosted recently to $6,200.

Holland Plans To Increase Jobs In New Factories

By GEORGE FRANKS

THE HAGUE — (Reuters) — Establishment of small new industries all over the country is a feature of the Netherlands' industrialization plan, by which it is hoped to find work for an additional 250,000 persons by the end of 1952.

The plan to make Holland more industrial than agricultural has been made necessary by the rapid increase in population and by the imperative need to establish a more favorable trade balance.

It is estimated that jobs must be found in new and expanding industries for 125,000 new workers resulting from the rapid increase in population, and another 125,000 workers made available by improved factory efficiency, greater labor productivity, and a resultant reduction in staff.

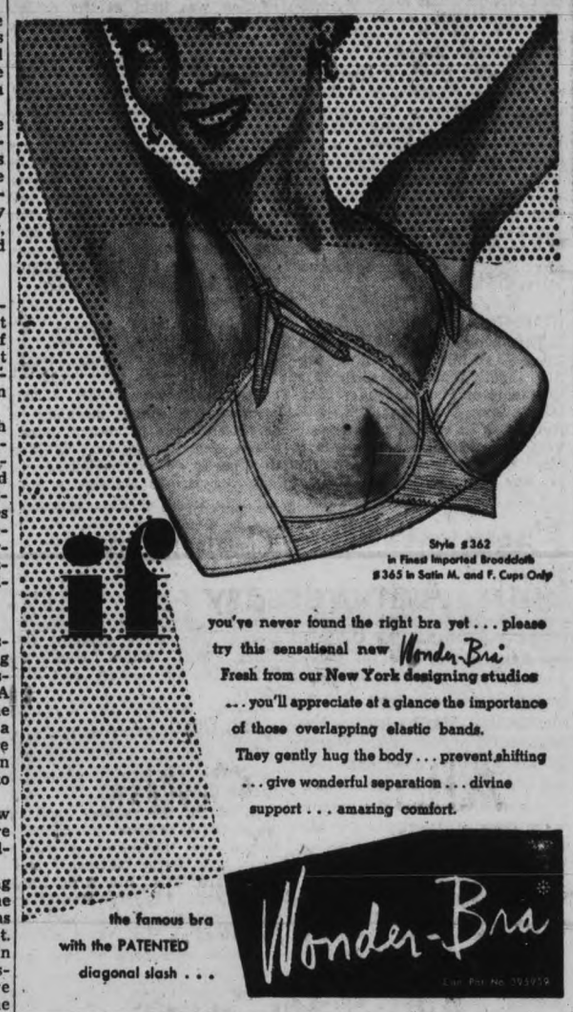
Need Industries

The main problem is the establishment of new industries, not only because of the difficulty of obtaining capital investment but also because of the many difficulties arising from the selection of localities and sites.

In a few large towns which were already partly industrialized, it has proved a simple matter to build new factories and employ new workers. The housing problem could in most cases be solved by building new settlements of a semi-permanent character or instituting good transport services to and from well-established residential areas.

Good Progress

An example of how the industrialization problem is being tackled comes from the progressive town of 'S-Hertogenbosch. A large area on the outskirts of the town has been turned into a model industrial centre where well-known Dutch and foreign concerns are being encouraged to erect new factories.



Every facility is provided. New factories already at work there are making shoes, liqueurs, foodstuffs, typewriters, and paper.

Another method introducing new industries is the simple one of taking the factories to areas where unemployment is greatest.

There is particularly the case in regions where traditional industries such as peat-cutting have almost died out, or where the sources of subsistence have not kept pace with the growth in population. Some 500 workers in the village of Emmercompascum, who were peat-cutters or farmhands three years ago, now are skilled factory workers in a new large concern in their own village.

The new factories, whether large or small, provide the best possible working conditions. Special attention is also being paid to social welfare both inside and outside the industry.

Marshall aid is being freely used for these purposes.

Quota 5 Million

MONTREAL, March 13 (CP)—A national quota of $5,250,000 has been set for the National Conference on Israel and Jewish Rehabilitation for the year 1951, it was announced Monday. This is the largest single appeal undertaken in the history of the Canadian Jewish community. Praises Philosophy

MONTREAL, March 13 (CP)—Senator Arthur W. Roebuck Monday night told the members of the Zionist Order Habonim that "the most potent lift the Jews have brought to Palestine is Jewish morality and economic philosophy. "The pioneer settlers of modern Israel have brought to Israel a philosophy of life based on the ancient religious writings," Senator Roebuck said. He recently visited the Middle East on his way to a Commonwealth parliamentary conference in New Zealand.

Announces Savings

OTTAWA, March 13 — (CP) — Administration of the Prices Board, scheduled to be liquidated after the domestic rent controls expire April 30, will cost an estimated $186,750 in 1951-52 compared with $1,907,142 in 1950-51. The $1,720,392 saving was forecast Monday in estimates tabled in the Commons by Finance Minister Abbott.

More Air Cadets

SEIGNIORY CLUB, Que., March 13 (CP)—Number of air cadets in training in Canada has increased 24 per cent in the last year, M. Banker Bates, of Hamilton, said Monday in his presidential address to the annual meeting of the Air Cadet League of Canada. Mr. Bates reported a strength of nearly 17,000 air cadets in 198 squadrons across Canada.

Women Sweep Michigan Election

MENDON, Mich. (AP) — The women—and should anybody be surprised?—are in control here.

The novelty, if any, is that this has to do with politics.

In the village election a feminine ticket swept the boards Monday. It wasn't even close for any office.

There will be one lonesome male officeholder. He is incumbent city clerk Vern McClish who wasn't opposed.

The women campaigned on a general platform that they could do a better job of running the village government than men.

Of the total vote cast, 68 were by men and 52 by women.

Among the winners was Mrs. Mary Male, who beat out her husband, Gordon Male, for a one-year term as trustee, 73 to 43.

CARNIVAL QUEEN—Christine Gordon, 17, Trinidad's "Queen of the Carnival," will tour Montreal and other eastern Canadian cities in June. The sixth carnival queen, she was chosen from 28 of the island's most beautiful girls.

WASHING'S NO PROBLEM NOW!

"Mummy took Auntie's advice"

'It takes seven colours to make true white,' Auntie said. 'One of them is blue. That's why you must use Blue in your wash. Just swish Reckitt's Blue through the rinse. It prevents that yellow tinge and you avoid taking chances with anything that may damage fabrics.' Reckitt's Blue costs so little, mummy says, 'and out of the blue comes the whitest wash.'

PENNY POST

A uniform penny postage rate started in England on Jan. 10,

THESE ACCESSORIES are spice for an Easter costume. A fingertip envelope (upper left) in navy calf with gold plated handle bar is right with capes and the ensemble look. A necklace of odd-shaped turquoise beads (lower left) is combined with filigree gold and pearl rondelles. The cluster earrings make a set. Fluffy fox (centre) in a new color, amber, makes a handsome, inexpensive stole. Gloves in double-woven cotton (upper right) have white pique cuffs that unbutton. The all-important scarf (lower right) is shown here in silk chiffon, a square revealing mauve lace on a pale pink ground with a border of navy on pink.

Mauve Note For Easter Trimming

By GAILE DUGAS

NEW YORK —(NEA)— One touch of mauve, the high shine of black patent, the gleam of white in a glove—these are the small things that help to make an Easter costume. The special twist of a new scarf or a fluff of amber fox can work wonders with a simple suit.

The woman who feels she can't possibly afford a suit or a dress for this Easter would do well to concentrate on accessories. She can give last year's good gray suit new life with a navy calf handbag and a pale pink carnation pinned, not on one shoulder but at the centre of the neckline. She might pick slim, pointy pumps in black patent, carry a patent handbag and wear a shiny black straw hat.

Because mauve is the leading accent color this spring, the mauve touch could come in costume jewelry, in flowers or in a huge silk square showing mauve lace on a pale pink ground. This particular scarf has a border of navy on pink.

Because this is a suit-and-street-dress spring, small furs and fluffy furs are newly in the spotlight. Foremost among these is amber fox, both for its beautiful color and its low price. Amber fox is used for one stole that will see its wearer through several Easters.

A navy calf handbag in the new fingertip envelope shape is a good investment on any spring day. Topped by a gold-plated handle bar, it can be carried in the hand or under the arm.

Mauve appears often in costume jewelry this spring but vivid colors are seen, too. The right accent for a gray suit might be a necklace of turquoise striated beads combined with filigree gold and pearl rondelles. To wear with this necklace, there are clip-on cluster earrings in striated beads, small pearls and filigree gold stars.

A glove that can lead a double life is a good buy at Easter or any other time. One such glove, in double-woven navy cotton, has a scalloped white pique cuff that unbuttons, leaving a very short shortie. When the pique is removed, the button-holes can be clipped with small sparklers.

Mrs. John Duignan Heads Women's Liberal Ass'n

Mrs. John Duignan was elected president by acclamation of the Peterborough Women's Liberal Association at the association's annual meeting Monday night. Mrs. C. M. Scott, retiring president was named an honorary president.

A. B. Galoska was the guest speaker at the meeting. In his address Mr. Galoska explained the threat of the Communist party in Canada and outlined the steps that such organizations as the Women's Liberal Association could take to prevent its growth in this country.

"At present there are 12,000 members in the Communist party in Canada," the speaker stated. "We must all become involved in this political cold war against Communism or we may wake up too late to find our freedom gone. We must develop a strong, active and even dynamic interest in our present democracy and in this way we will prevent any more converts from joining the Communist ranks."

Discussing the career of the Canadian Communist leader Tim Buck, Mr. Galoska stated that he and his supporters are allowed to work right in Canada's own backyard. He is using the freedom which this country is trying to preserve to further the Communistic cause.

"To preserve this freedom and successfully fight Communism, we must accept two responsibilities," the speaker contended. "Some of us must accept the responsibility of leadership and the remainder must accept the responsibility of accepting this leadership and of supporting it. In this way we can develop political faith in Canada this is truly democratic."

The speaker was introduced by John Wolfe.

W. B. Gordon was chairman for the evening and conducted the election of officers. In his remarks Mr. Gordon complimented the women on their large attendance at the meeting. He stated that it was a credit to the organization because it revealed that each member was assuming the responsibility of citizenship by attending the meeting.

The following were elected to the 1951 executive: Honorary Presidents, Madame Louis St. Laurent, Mrs. C. M Scott; President, Mrs. J. Duignan; 1st Vice-President, Mrs. H. P. Rudkins; 2nd Vice President, Mrs. J. A. Dewart; Secretary, Mrs. Frank Lundy; Treasurer, Mrs. P. D. Scollard; Co-Conveners of the Social Committee, Mrs. Ralph Standish, Mrs. Thomas Doughty, Convener of Program Committee, Mrs. Fred W. Steinkrauss; Telephone Conveners, North Ward, Mrs. P. C. Gould; East Ward, Mrs. A. O'Grady; South Ward, Mrs. Pat Coursey; West Ward, Mrs. Ralph Honey; Centre Ward, Mrs. Norman Killingbeck.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

When Rice in Diet Find No High Blood Pressure

"Well, I suppose on the strength of the rice diet news, you've bought yourself a hundred-pound bag?"

That is what one of my nearest and dearest said to me. Was I ever deflated. How well can people know you. I felt as if I lived in a fish bowl—for that was my very plan when I read of Dr. Walter Kempner's rice diet successes.

I do not have high blood pressure, but who knows?—I might get it!

Out of 1800 high blood pressure patients who went to Dr. Kempner's Clinic at Duke University, 1200 received "marked benefit."

To put it more factually (the report says) "What they really received is new life. Since 1944 patients have been coming—some on stretchers, some blind, many near death, all of them miserable from headaches, dizziness and heart pain that go with the disease."

"The diet is one cupful of rice (dry weight) per day, and as much fresh fruit juice as desired, plus some sugar. Tablet vitamins are given too, and the diet is supplemented by potato, lean meat and tomato eventually. But it is a long-drawn out treatment.

Other medical researchers agree with Dr. Kempner's findings.

So—it being Lent and rice lending itself to meatless meals in a very pleasant way—we feature rice today.

The report does not say if the rice used was brown, unpolished or polished. I have asked for this information and will let you know when I know.

To be on the safe side I am using brown rice—which requires a little longer cooking than polished white rice.

✧ ✧ ✧

Flaky Boiled Rice

To be used in place of potatoes with the meat course.

In pan for which you have a snug-fitting cover, put 2 tablespoons butter or margarine and 2 cups boiling water and 1 teaspoon salt. When boiling hard add 1 cup brown rice which has been washed in sieve under running cold water for 1 minute. Cover. When boiling hard turn off heat and let stand over burner for 5 minutes. Then turn on heat again (without lifting cover) as low as possible and let cook 45 minutes. Rice will be tender, flaky and water will be all absorbed. Let stand for 15 minutes in warm place. This standing period loosens all grains which have stuck to bottom pot.

✧ ✧ ✧

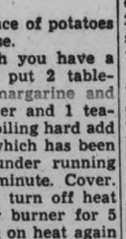
Pilaf (Turkish)

A delicious meatless-meal main course.

In a heavy saucepan melt ¼ cup butter or margarine or chicken fat and add ½ cup cut up green pepper, 1 cup tomatoes, fresh or drained canned, 1 finely chopped clove of garlic, 1 cup fresh sliced mushrooms, 1 tablespoon salt, ¼ teaspoon black pepper, and saute together for 5 minutes, stirring. Wash 2 cups best quality long grain unpolished or brown rice in sieve under running cold water, and add to the first mixture with 2¼ cups hot water or chicken stock or veal stock. Stir until mixed, then cover tightly and let come to quick boil. Turn off heat for 5 minutes; then turn heat on as low as possible for 45 minutes. If your burners do not turn very low put asbestos mat under saucepan. Do not uncover and do not stir during cooking period.

After vegetables are sauted the rest of the cooking may be finished in top of double boiler, if preferred, when cooking time is 1½ hours.

Five Women Start In RCAF Reserve



TORONTO, March 13 (CP)—Five women have started workouts as a start in setting up an RCAF reserve group here to trace courses of attacking planes and direct defending aircraft in the event of an air raid on the city.

They are part of the first group of 60 who may soon wear air force blue in an RCAF reserve drive for women recruits. In all, 200 women are expected to join squadrons here for a reserve training program.

Their job will be similar to that of British women who worked long nights at the plotting tables co-ordinating the Second World War "filter and fighter" system into an effective defence against air raids.

Of Interest to Women

DOROTHY DIX

Chronic Visitor, A Neighbor Can Be A Terrific Nuisane

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am a professional woman trying to make a little money by writing in spare time when I am not doing housework and taking care of a baby. My whole schedule is knocked silly and all of my efforts to work aborted by a neighbor woman who is a perpetual visitor and who holds me up for hours with accounts of everything her grown sons and daughters, sons-in-law, and daughters-in-law and grandchildren do and think and have. She keeps the baby from being put to sleep at the regular hour and she prevents me from ever doing anything on time. How can I get rid of her without insulting her?

Dorothy Dix

A BORED WOMAN.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: There is no use in trying to deal subtly with the chronic visitor. She, and just as often she is a he, is so sheathed in self-conceit that she has a hide like a rhinoceros and any hint that you may let drop about being busy glances off her consciousness without even making a dent in it.

Don't Be Victimized

I think you are very foolish to let yourself be victimized by a garrulous bore. As a direct way is always the simplest and the best, you should just tell her that you mean no offence but that your time is valuable to you and that you can't afford to waste it in idle talk. Or, if you haven't the nerve to tell her the truth, lock all your doors tight and fast before her arrival and let her knock and ring in vain. After she has done that for a couple of times she will get the idea that you are not pining for her society.

Everyone has to go through this experience with the time-wasters because there are so many idle men and women who have no resources within themselves, and who inflict themselves and their inane chatter on anyone who is good-natured or weak enough to stand for them.

Apparently it never occurs to them that they are interfering with the work of busy people or that anybody could get tired of listening to their oft-told tales or fail to be thrilled with their small beer chronicles of family happenings. They are enjoying themselves listening to the sound of their own voices and they should worry if they are driving you to thoughts of suicide.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a young man and have been married a little over a year to a woman to whom I am very much devoted. Our marriage would be ideal except that my wife has told me that my mother shall never be allowed to put her foot in our house as long as we are married. She accuses my mother of trying to dictate to us as to how to run our affairs, which is absolutely not true. My mother lives far away from us and has only once visited us. I am her only child and I have told my wife that under no condition will I continue living with her as long as she refuses to let Mother come to see us. Don't you think I am justified?

UNHAPPY MAN.

ANSWER: Your wife is just insanely jealous of your mother and, alas, there is no cure for jealousy. It originates without cause. It needs nothing to feed it. It cannot be reasoned with. The only thing you can do is to submit to the tyranny it imposes upon you, or else make a clean break with it. There is no hope that the person afflicted with it will ever change.

I think you are acting the part of a man in insisting that your mother shall be permitted to visit you in the house you support and of which you are ostensible head, but even if you force your wife to receive her it will be an empty victory. She will treat your mother so badly and hurt her in all the little mean ways that women know so well that there will be no pleasure in the visit for your mother.

But, if your wife forces you to refrain from having your mother come to see you, her triumph will be dust and ashes in her teeth because you will never forgive her and there will always be between you the bar of your frustrated filial love and a sense of her tyranny and unfairness.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Is it wrong for a woman to keep her age a secret from the man she is going to marry? If she looks ten years younger than she actually is, would it be terrible to pretend that she was that age?

JANE.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: A woman is as old as she looks and just how many birthdays she has had is her secret, which she is not bound to tell anyone.

HOW DO YOU SCORE ON THESE HELPFUL WAYS TO SAVE?

Which saves suede shoes in bad weather?
☐ Old stockings
☐ Puddle hopping

When wearing galoshes, guard suede shoes with an old pair of stockings, cut off ankle length. To save good nylons from dye marks, tuck soft Kleenex tissues in galosh tops. For so many uses, Kleenex tissues are best, by far!

Should you clean piano keys with — ☐ Water ☐ Milk
☐ A boogie beat

Piano keys shrink from water. So, whiten soiled "ivories" with milk—and Kleenex. Kitten-soft Kleenex protects the keys; it's sturdy, too—doesn't crumble. And with that Serv-a-Tissue box a Kleenex tissue's always handy.

Hats, Hemlines Put Oomph Into '51 Styles

By The Canadian Press

Two bees on the bonnet may lead this year's Easter parade. At least Ottawa hopes so.

While Montreal fashion experts frown on knee-peeking hemlines and stylists across Canada salaam before the new purple suits —Ottawa has the hat with bees.

This model was one of the most daring uncovered by the Canadian Press in a survey of spring fashions.

Of navy blue and natural straw, it's as perky a pillbox as has been seen in a bee's age. The two bees —of natural straw —cling to the crown. The creation, bees and all, sells for $35.

This year's hats— and hemlines —will inject enough oomph into the 1951 parade to make shy women bolder and cause strong men to straighten this ties.

While Montreal, Canada's old lady of fashion, pooh-poohs the idea of a changing skirtlength, Toronto style experts are pushing the rising hemline.

Following Ontario.

At St. John, N.B., they're backing the Ontario style centre. In the Maritimes the predcition runs that dresses will be 14 inches from the ground and coats as much as two inches shorter than last year.

Suits with "nipped in" waistlines and dressed with "dolman" sleeves make this year's fashion notes sound like a page out of grandmother's dairy.

Those are the season's main trends. There are chances,too, that hubbie will notice a touch of mauve in the little woman's spring get-up. It may be lavender gloves, a hat swamped in violets, or a purple dress.

The mauve tones are an import from New York via Europe. Paris and London fashion gave purple the nod last fall and New York translated it into "lilac" for spring.

While Winnipeg and Edmonton stores are displaying suits in a variety of violet shades, an expert in Canada's capital says the color really lends itself more as an accessory shade for the suits of navy, blue and grey which still remain high fashion.

The Ottawa style head further noted the surprisinly-mild fashion flutter which spring causes in the capital.

"When the average Ottawa woman buys a hat she will look for something conservative—and something specific to go with the shoes and gloves she already has," he said. "She can't afford to buy on impulse—as the women do in Montreal."

Coldwell Blames Economics For Weakness In Education

OTTAWA (CP).—M. J. Coldwell, a parliamentarian who is as familiar with school corridors as his own home, feels that one of the great defects in Canada's educational structure is its teachers. And it's all because of economics.

A school principal for almost a quarter century, the national CCF leader stressed the role of economics in Canada's teaching profession in a statement issued in connection with Canadian Education Week, March 4-10.

"While we have retained many splendid men and women in the profession, economic circumstances have forced others to find more remunerative opportunities."

All governments, he believes, including the federal should share in the financial job of providing wide educational opportunities for Canada's young.

Decided In Schools

"If it is true that any army marches on its stomach, it is more than certain that a nation's future is largely decided in the schools.

"That is why attention must be given both to facilities for education and the kind of teaching that is given.

"The most important factor is, of course, the teacher. That, perhaps, is where our educational system, because of economics, has up to the present time been most defective."

Mr. Coldwell, a past president of the Canadian Teachers' Federation and its honorary secretary-treasurer for six years, adds he is glad to endorse the slogan of making education in Canada "everybody's business" which is to be featured during Education Week.

Must Be Prepared

"In this period of social and economic crisis, it is essential that present-day students shall be prepared for life in a democratic society. Surely, this implies equal opportunities.

"At every level of government including the Federal authority, provision must be made for maintaining an efficient system of educational facilities and wide opportunities for the rising generation.

These would help wipe out the educational evils prevailing in Communist schools.

"In totalitarian countries, the schools become the media for propaganda and are effectively used for an evil purpose. In democratic countries, like our own, schools should be the genesis of future and expanding democracy."

That is why Mr. Coldwell is striving, along with other Canadians, "to assist in any way possible to build the most effective educational system possible."

Judge Dismisses Damage Action

Judge S. L. Smoke has dismissed an action for damages brought by Francis S. Gibbons, Prince St., against Peter Gravelle, Bridgenorth, and Oswald Covert, Peterborough trucker.

The accident occurred on the afternoon of September 7, 1949. Gravelle nosed his truck out onto Highway 7 after driving north up the Keene Road, five miles east of Peterborough. Gibbons, who was driving east in his car, blew his horn when about 100 yards away from the intersection. When he saw the truck had not stopped he again blew his horn at about 50 feet and swerved north. Before he could get back to the south side of the highway he was in a sideswipe collision with a westbound car driven by George McTaggart, Flat Rock, Mich.

Judge Smoke found negligence on the part of both drivers.

Gravelle, who was driving Covert's truck, did not keep a proper lookout on his left. And Gibbons failed to avoid the consequences of Gravelle's negligence, and thus "became the author of his own misfortunes."

According to Gibbons own evidence he was travelling 10 times as fast as Gravelle, said Judge Smoke in his written judgment. When it appeared that the truck was going to cross the highway he didn't slow down, and may have even accelerated, though he had no idea of what traffic was coming from the west.

The judge assessed Gibbons damages of $673.83 but dismissed the action with costs.

The case was heard March 5 and judgment was reserved.

T. J. Carley, KC, represented Gravelle and Gordon H. Farquharson appeared for Gibbons.

Accuse Civic Hospital Doctor In Toronto Adultery Case

The owners of a Windsor hotel testified Monday that in a Toronto assize court that Dr. Peter Kir, 42, shared a room for three or four weeks with the wife of a Toronto carpenter.

The carpenter, 49-year-old Josephat Neporany, is suing the Peterborough doctor for unstated damages for criminal conversation and alienation of affections of Neporany's wife. Mrs. Neporany is the former Olga Wojtyna of Larder Lake, Ont.

Dr. Kir was a medical assistant in a hospital near Windsor, and formerly at a Bathurst St., Toronto, clinic at the time the alleged alienation of affections and criminal conversation with Mrs. Neporany occurred. He is now on the staff of the Peterborough Civic Hospital, where he came last July and has intern and medical assistant duties.

To Civic From Montreal

Dr. Kir came to Canada from Czechoslovakia shortly after the last war. He is a qualified doctor licensed to practise in his own country, but he is not yet licensed to practise independently in Canada. He came to the Peterborough Civic Hospital from the Royal Victoria Hospital in Montreal, where he was working in the blood clinic.

As a staff assistant, Dr. Kir lives in the Civic Hospital.

Neporany and his wife, Olga, were married in Larder Lake in 1938. Both were born in the Ukraine.

Peter Sherban and Paul Wasylciw, joint owners in 1949 of Drake House in Windsor, testified that Dr. Kir and Mrs. Neporany occupied the same room in their hotel for three or four weeks after registering as Mr. and Mrs. Kir.

Replying to a question from Neporany's counsel, Peter White, Wasylciw said the couple regularly went out for evening walks.

'How did they appear to you on these occasions?" he was asked.

"Quite affectionate. They held hands."

Asked what was in the room, Wasylciw said it contained a bed, a dresser, a couple of chairs and an end table.

"Just one bed?" counsel asked.

"Yes."

Sherban told the court he had seen the woman known to him as Mrs. Kir doing laundry. There had been men's shirts and pyjamas.

Mrs. Wasylciw testified she cleaned the rooms in the Drake House hotel. She changed the pillow cases on the bed because both had been used.

"Did you ever see Mr. Kir and the woman in this photograph (a Neporany family group) go into the room together?" Peter White asked her. "Yes, on one occasion."

Witness Identifies

Mrs. Mabel Kard, said she was employed to look after the furnace and halls at a Windsor rooming house. She identified Dr. Kir and Mrs. Neporany as a couple who had occupied a room on the second floor from September to November, 1949.

According to the statement of claim, Neporany charges that in February, 1949, Dr. Kir and his wife committed adultery in Toronto and Windsor, "knowing her at all times to be the mother of three infant children and the wife of the plaintiff."

The Neporanys have three daughters, one 12, and 10-year-old twins.

Dr. Kir denies he committed adultery with Mrs. Neporany, and states he never lived with her.

Met Dr. Kir In Clinic

Earlier, Neporany testified his wife met Dr. Kir at the clinic where he was employed and at which she was a patient. In April he said he found a card in his wife's purse on which was a telephone number and a Richmond St. W. address which was strange to him. He went to the Richmond St. address and showed a picture of his wife and family to the landlady when he found the address was that of Dr. Kir.

"I got along well with my wife up to this time," Neoporany testified. "I knew home and did not tell her I knew about Dr. Kir. Later I told her and she left home and went to Huron St. where she stayed a week. She left and went to Charles St. and stayed until June 26, when she came home."

Cross-examined by Sydney M. Harris, counsel for Dr. Kir, Neporany said his wife left him "for love of Dr. Kir."

Home in June 1949

His wife was home for one week in June, 1949, Neporany said. Then she went downtown with his brother on July 1 and he had not seen her again.

Questioned as to how they had come to separate, Neporany said he hit and scratched him, the pusher her away. She fell down and he found later she had had to go to hospital. He had been making $75 to $80 a week, he said, but after his wife left he could work only two or three hours a day. He had to cook and wash for the children, and bathe them. He had taken them out of public school and sent them to a private school where they lived in.

Mania Bielawski, another roomer, at Kir's Richmond St. address testified she had seen Mrs. Neporany pay a couple of visits to Kir's room in the winter of 1949.

"When did the defendant first come to the Richmond St. address?" Mr. White asked.

"In the summer time, I think it was 1948," Mrs. Bielawski said.

"When did he leave?" "After the man came with the photograph he stayed a month or six weeks."

"Who was the man who came with the photo?"

Mrs. Bielawski pointed to Neporany.

Twin Brother Testifies

Joseph Neporany, twin brother of the plaintiff, said the couple "got along together perfectly." His sister-in-law looked after the children and was a perfect housekeeper. He never saw any quarrels. Mrs. Neporany left the home on Delhi Ave. where all three were living on April 22, 1949. She came back for a week in June, he said.

"Did you ever see your brother strike his wife?" Joseph Neporany was asked.

"Never. Once, just before she left home, he pushed her, but in self-defence. She didn't go to hospital for that. She slipped on the steps outside."

"Did you ever make love to Olga?" Mr. Harris asked the witness. "Never."

"Did you ever try to?" "Never."

The case continues before Mr. Justice Wells and the Toronto assize court jury.

14 Arrested After Explosion

ROME, March 13—(AP)—Fourteen persons were reported held for investigation today after small bombs exploded Monday night outside the United States embassy and Italy's foreign ministry.

The two explosions broke window panes and panicked passersby, but no one was injured.

Police said bits of hand-written leaflet found near the explosion at the foreign ministry were signed "LaLegione Nera"—"the Black Legion."

Another similar leaflet found near the scene said: "While the government of rentinciation trades off Italian Trieste, the Fascists avenge the honor of Italy and of Mussolini."

Premier Alcide De Gasperi and foreign minister Count Carlo Sforza begin conferences on Trieste and other problems in London today with top British officials.

Gifted Children Lost Interest In Art Quickly

TORONTO, March 13—(CP)—If a child loses interest easily, draws unintelligible "scribblings" or refuses to heed advice—there's no need to worry. Such traits are often signs of a gifted youngster.

Conclusions drawn from work done by art students in a three-year experiment by the Ontario Department of Education has revealed these qualities as characteristic of most above-average children.

Hand - picked from Toronto schools, 43 pupils ranging in age from 11 to 17 were invited to attend special art classes at the Ryerson Institute of Technology here. They were encouraged to express themselves and were given freedom to use their imagination.

"It has been a most interesting experiment,' said Dr. C. D. Gaitskell, art director for Ontario schools. When researchers have completed their efforts, he expects their findings to be of great help to all teachers in dealing with the exceptional child in the classroom.

Few of the pupils have a professional art career in view. "As they become less self-conscious," says their instructor, Margaret McCormack, "they express more personal experiences until they reach a very high degree of originality."

Nearly all the children invited come to the art classes. But they lose interest quickly if too much instruction or work in an uninspiring medium strikes them as a waste of time. They show little interest in each other's work and rarely help each other, being individualists from start to finish.

Book On Quintuplets Withdrawn From Sale

TORONTO, March 13 (CP) — Doubleday Canada Ltd., said on Monday that a new book about the Dionne quintuplets has been withdrawn from sale or distribution because of "certain inaccuracies."

Titled "The Dionne Legend, Quintuplets in Captivity?" the book was written by Lillian Barker, New York newspaper and magazine writer. It was to have gone on sale March 15.

Totem Pole Holds Roof Of Wealthy Man's Lodge

MONTREAL, March 13—(CP)—Artistically speaking Canada's early West Coast Indians had it all over us moderns.

That was the word Monday from Robert Tyler Davis as he stood in Montreal's museum of fine arts among Indian art that fairly brought the ghosts of the Haidas, Nootkas, Cowachins, Lillooets and Okanagans to the hustle and bustle of Sherbrooke traffic.

"It's primitive art that makes us look awfully clumsy today," said Mr. Davis, director of the museum.

Around him were great cedar totem poles, multi-colored blankets and tiny, delicately carved ivory ornaments. Also there were grotesque ceremonial masks, equally grotesque yet beautifully proportioned slate carvings, and marvellously efficient, yet wickedly-pointed paddles.

A visitor learns that totem poles are not idols. They are, in effect, the armorial bearings of rich families, and serve a functional purpose . . . they hold up the roof of the rich man's lodge.

They are only religious in the sense that they depict mythical animals or spritis which figure in the legends of the family's history. Being animists, these Indians believe that animals were superior to men, and that spirits, good or evil, took animal shapes to enter into contact with men.

Later Form

Many of the roof-supporting totems, some 12 feet high and five feet wide, are carved from a single red cedar log. The much taller and non-functional poles seen today, are a later form of the Indians' artistry. They had to wait the coming of the white man's steel tools.

One of the outstanding characteristics of the coast Indians' culture, as shown by the current exhibition, is the paramount place given to art and artists. Almost every piece of household equipment is carved with "spirit" symbols.

The baskets woven by the women to carry or store food, are signs, either painted on with pigments garnered from clay or berries or roots, or woven in with colored grasses. The clubs, used for killing fish or game each has its "good spirit," a frog, a beaver, a raven, or some other animal.

Fish hooks too, deadly things of wood and ivory, have their carved spirit.

The wealth of these coastal Indians is shown here too. Blankets were the prime medium of exchange, and intricately decorated pieces of copper were the outstanding signs of affluence.

Says Siamese Airways Owned Crashed Plane

ONTARIO, Calif., March 13 — (AP).—J. T. Caswell, operations manager of Pacific Overseas Airlines, with headquarters here, Monday that the plane which crashed in Hong Kong Monday, killing 26 persons, belonged to Pacific Overseas Airlines, Siam Limited.

Caswell said that Pacific Overseas Airlines sold its Siam interests to Siamese Airways in December, 1948. An Associated Press dispatch Monday erred in saying the plane belonged to Pacific Overseas Airlines.

Must Preserve Relics

MONTREAL, March 13 (CP)—Resources Minister Winters Monday night said priceless relics of great art must be preserved for artists and students of future generations. Mr. Winters spoke at the official opening of an exhibition of "Native Arts of the Pacific Northwest." He said: "Our duty is clear: to preserve for artists and students to come these priceless relics of great art, now well on its way to extinction."

Play Wins Praise

TORONTO, March 13 (CP).—The Belmont Group Theatre Monday night won praise from adjudicator Robert G. Newton for its performance of "Born Yesterday," the opening play of the Central Ontario Regional Festival. Mr. Newton praised the acting as excellent although he had criticism for some of its elements. He said the production was carefully worked out.

Dr. P. W. O'Brien Dies

TORONTO, March 13—(CP)—Dr. P. William O'Brien, pediatrician on the staff of St. Michael's Hospital here for 50 years, died Sunday night. A native of Belleville, he graduated from University of Toronto where he was one of the founders of Daffodil Night, the medical students' annual at-home.

Word "Peace" Is Becoming Daily More of Mockery

By JACK SCOTT

VANCOUVER, March 13. — Webster's define "Peace" as "a state of public tranquility or quiet; the state or situation of being free from war," but the fine old world is taking such a hell of beating these days it's getting to mean just whatever you want it to mean.

I have before me, at this moment, a Pied Piper call to the Second British Columbia Peace Conference. Indeed, I've been asked to address the conference as part of its window dressing of "a free exchange of opinions and ideas."

Like its counterparts elsewhere this "peace" gang is helping to ruin the good old word. The word is used in this case as a kind of grotesque false face by people whose fundamental interest is world communism.

One of their ideas for "peace," for example, appears in the form of a resolution which will be put to the conference calling for an international tribunal to examine General MacArthur's responsibility for crimes committed against the civilian population during the war in Korea.

Every pamphlet, every mimeographed letter from this outfit is anti-American and pro-Russian and so just as suspect in my book as if, say, the Progressive Conservative Association was to hold its version of a "peace" conference.

Also on my desk at the moment is an advertisement by the British Columbia Federation of Trade and Industry.

Their call for "peace" involves "better productivity all along the line . . . not just in making guns, tanks and planes, but in turning out more civilian goods, too." It notes that "a needless shortage of civilian goods will boost prices and make our dollars worth less."

So "peace" to the communists and cohorts simply means more communism.

And "peace" to the B.C. Federation of Trade and Industry simply means more trade and industry.

And the word daily becomes more of a mockery.

As Individuals

The trouble with the kind of thoughts expressed overhead is that there's a growing tendency to decide that everyone has an axe to grind and, thus, to think less and less as individuals. I guess there never were times more suited to the vacuum-packed brain.

Yet there are plenty of opportunities for information and for exchanging ideals. The United Nations groups here, for example, do a wonderful job. Another fine project is the Great Books discussion group program, which open here March 21. Information about this is available at the Public Library.

The brochure issued by the Great Books people quotes Rev. Ernest H. Sommerfeld with some words that make real sense:

"We should know that conscience, reason, knowledge, integrity, judgment and all other virtues are the disinctive and exclusive properties of individual persons. Committees don't think. Corporations didn't think. Labor unions don't think. Political parties don't think. Government's don't think. Nor do universities and churches think. Only individuals think."

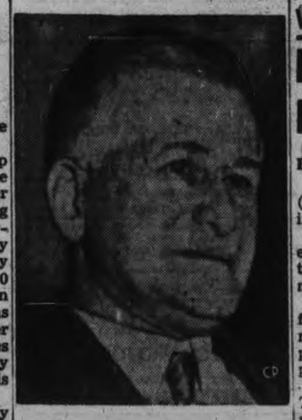
Last Word

There's a couple of amusing post-scripts to the column on My War With Moose Jaw.

Jeck Meikle, a newspaperman from those parts, writes: "When I left Moose Jaw recently to visit my sister in New Westminster the commissioner of the Chamber of Commerce, the mayor, chief of police and 63 members of the Retail Merchants' Association were holding their ninth consecutive meeting in an effort to determine how to dispose of your body.

"At that time it was a toss up between throwing you into the same canyon in which your trailer came to grief last July or leaving you bound to the floor of the government elevator before they started to store the 3,500,000

"I won't know if you've been successful in liberating yourself as Moose Jaw Public Enemy Number One until the committee receives a copy of your recent laudatory column and the major issued his official proclamation."



And a woman reader, who wisely asks for anonymity, writes, "I was born and raised there and the best thing I can say about Moose Jaw is that it's a good place to be from. That explain why Moose Jaw people are living all over the world . . . and not there.

"The chief drawback of the place is not the fault of the city itself. Nature is such a stinker with her dust, cold and heat. On my last trip there, I got off the CPR train about 7:30 in the morning and a hot wind hit me like a blast from a furnace. The temperature reached 105 before the day was out and as it was Sunday there wasn't a sign of human life anywhere all day. People were trapped in their home like caged animals."

I'm glad I didn't write that.

COMMONWEALTH AREA

The British Commonwealth covers one quarter of the world's land surface, or 13,022,758 square miles.

ELECTION QUASHED—Lucien Borne, who was re-elected mayor of Quebec City by acclamation for a sixth term last November, must face a new election. His election was quashed by Mr. Justice Valmore Bienvenue of Superior Court, following a hearing during which it was claimed nomination papers of F. H. Methot, a last-minute candidate, were illegally rejected. The new election will be held April 9.

Calls In Advisors

LONDON, March 13—(AP)—Britain's Socialist government disclosed Monday it is calling in executives from private enterprise to help run its rearmament program. G. R. Strauss, the Minister of Supply, told the House of Commons that industrialists involved will act as his advisors and will carrry out policy which he lays down.

Would Joe Approve?

Find Even Russian Love Becomes State-Controlled

By THOMAS HARRIS

STOCKHOLM, March 13. — (Reuters).—Even love is becoming state-controlled in Russia.

Before giving their hearts, modern young Bolsheviks must ask themselves "would Stalin approve my choice?"

"Stalin's choice" is being carefully driven home in some of the newest books, plays and films passing the censorship of the Department of Culture.

A typical example is Elisar Taltsev's play Second Love, now showing in all the big Russian theatres. The scene is set on a collective farm in Georgia, Stalin's native country.

The heroine, Grunja, reveals that her greatest happiness is her work on the farm which she carries out cheerfully for "the greater good of the fatherland."

Rodion, the hero, works hard too but "only as a means of achieving personal honor and success."

He makes Grunja fall in love with him but his attitude towards his work wounds her. She sets out to convert him.

Too Worldy

But Rodion is worldy. He wants to get on.

Grunja, torn between love and duty as she sees it, finally decides for conscience. The state has first place in her heart. Rodion is only her second love.

Sadly, she gives him up and gets on with her work. Maltsev carefully stresses how right her decision is.

While Maltsev's play teaches young Russians that they must love the state more than each other, other plays and books are telling them just what they must love in the state.

For example, Nikitin, Poljak and Volodine, three authors of an arithmetic book for children between 8 an d12, are roundly criticized in the Russian press for reflect the grandiose successes of our country in the work of Socialist construction."

One problem spoke of 60 cows producing 2,520 litres of milk. The party newspaper Isvestia found this harmful to young minds because they would fail to realize that 60 Russian cows setting problems which "fail to would produce more than 2,520 litres of milk.

Almost everyone uses and benefits by asbestos. When the housewife toasts a slice of bread, or irons a shirt, her safety is guarded by the asbestos insulation in the electric cord. When the motorist slams on his brakes, in an emergency, he depends on asbestos linings for a safe, quick stop. Even the water you drink may be carried in Transite asbestos-cement pipe. And so it goes . . . asbestos serves us in many seen and unseen ways!

Dutch Artist Plans Home On 435 Acres In Belmont

JOHANNES HEITINGA

HAVELOCK, March 14 (ENS) A tall, silver-haired Dutchman who was one of his country's famous artists, will start soon to build a home in Belmont township, where he hopes to realize what he says is his one ambition —to paint a landscape of the Canadian autumn scene.

He is Johannes H. C. Heitinga, formerly of Utrecht, and now living in Toronto. Last year, he painted the scenery for the Canadian National Exhibition's grandstand show, and this year has been engaged again.

Mr. Heitinga will still carry on his work in his studio in Toronto but will spend his weekends and holidays here.

He came from Holland in October, 1948. His elder daughter, Eileen, is employed in the display department of a large Toronto deparment store and is also a student of ballet at the Volkoff studio there, while his younger daughter, Shelah, is employed with a Toronto newspaper.

Mr. Heitinga, a former leader of Holland's underground, has citations from President Roosevelt signed by General Dwight D. Eisenhower and from the British government signed by Air Chief Marshall Tedder as tokens of gratitude for help given to Allied sailors, soldiers and airmen to escape from, or evade capture by the Germans.

He also has a mutilated left hand—his painting hand—which the Nazis burned with liquid phosphorus for his work in this connection. His body also bears marks of the same treatment. He works with his mutilated hand always encased in a glove. It is a constant reminder of his five years as leader of the Dutch underground movement.

The last half of the war he was on the Nazis' execution list but he thinks the reason his sentence was not carried out was that they were so busy with the Allied invasion that they did not get around to him. In one morning 72 of his friends were shot.

As a token of gratitude for his work, Mr. Heitinga received his first food in months from Major Bert Wemp, a former Toronto Mayor, whose son was helped to flee Holland and who had heard about the Dutch underground leader. Until it arrived, Mr. Heitings said that they had lived for nine months on virtually nothing while hundreds of people were dying daily of starvation.

Among Mr. Heitinga's accomplishments are scenic and mural painting, exhibition building, interior architecture and decorating, exclusive designing, modeling, plaster casting, displays and paper mache work.

He has travelled practically all over the world and has had a brilliant career in Europe as a theatre scene painter before the war. He has worked at many of the world's most famous exhibitions in France, Italy, Holland and other countries and has created scenery for top theatres in Paris, London, Switzerland and his native Holland.

Last year, Mr. Heitinga painted probably the biggest pictures in the world, the elaborate sets for the massive stage at the Canadian National Exhibition grandstand, which he said was the largest he had seen. He painted the huge back drops in oils and water colors and it was the first time he had used oils for scene painting.

The most intricate work for the show was three transparencies of a church, a fort and an old mill in water colors. In production a fire effect was achieved with lighting. The painting was done on the floor of the Coliseum building. Mr. Heitinga works standing up in his bare feet or wearing sandals and works with a four foot brush.

He also designed and painted the sets for LaBoheme presented by the Royal Conservatory Opera Company at the Royal Alexandra Theatre, Toronto, and was lauded highly for their fine quality, the attention to refinement of detail and the effectiveness of the color. Another work of art for which he received high praise was the designing and painting of the sets for the Wayne and Shuster "Mother Goose" pantomine which were described as of breath taking beauty in their fairy tale quality. Mr. Heitinga assisted by Miss M. McDonough of Hart House, painted the scenery for the "Salute to Canada" pageant presented at the Martyr's Shrine near Midland last summer.

Mr. Heitinga says he has one ambition to put on canvas a Canadian autumn scene with its profuse colorings. Next fall, he says, he will have an opportunity at his new home to enjoy the beauty of this season. He says he has not seen a picture of this type since coming to Canada and if he can match the colors he certainly is going to have one.

Mr. Heitinga says he has brought his art to Canada because this is a new country and it is his wish to teach his art to others.

He takes no credit for any of his works of art, because he says of himself he could do nothing, his talent being a gift from God and that no one can be a good artist who does not know God.

Besides being an artist, Mr. Heitinga is an accomplished pianist. He could once play the piano accordion but owing to the condition of his left hand is unable to hold that instrument now.

Mr. Heitinga has discovered a small unmarked grave on the property which he intends to care for. Thefirst deed for the land, he said, dated back to 1836.

The Case of the Part-Time Mother

SHAMEFACED, the lad stood quietly waiting for the judge to deliver a verdict. Jane Williams looked at her son through tear-filled eyes.

True, the offence was minor . . . the judge almost certain to suspend sentence. But the hard fact was that there he stood . . . her son Tom . . . charged in a courtroom. How could this have happened? Tom had always been a good boy . . . the dependable one in the family. It had been Tom who cared for the other children when she had to go to work, after her husband died.

Jane Williams realized now that Tom had needed care, too . . . the constant, watchful care of a parent for a growing boy. But she never saw him during the day . . . and the younger children took every moment she had after her day's work downtown.

If only Tom's father had provided for their future. If only he had foreseen the essential need for a continuing income while the family was growing up. She would have been able to stay home then — where she belonged — and give Tom all the loving care he deserved — and needed!

Think! Could this happen to your wife?

Labor Asks New Milk Board

TORONTO, March 14. (CP)—Establishment of a Provincial Milk Marketing Board was proposed today in a brief presented to Premier Frost and his Cabinet by the Ontario Federation of Labor (TLC-AFL). It is suggested that the Board be made up of representatives of distributors, organized labor, producers, consumers and Government. It said that meanwhile the Ontario Government should subsidize milk production "so that the price can be lowered to a reasonable level" at which working people will not be forced to reduce their consumption of milk. The Federation's president, A. F. MacArthur, is Canadian head of the Teamsters' Union. That union embraces 1,700 Toronto dairy workers now involved in a wage dispute that threatens to force up the retail price of milk by one cent to 21 cents. Percy R. Bengough, president of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, accompanied the delegation.

The brief said "child labor" is encouraged by employers who let out work to be done in homes.

The politically neutral federation commended the Frost administration for making efforts to improve the Labor Relations Act of 1948, for adopting amendments to the Workmen's Compensation Act in 1950, for promised safety regulations for Great Lakes ships and for publication of the Hope Report on Education.

The federation asked the government to support the idea of federal subsidies for meat and bread.

The brief said the usual methods of collective bargaining cannot keep up with the rising tide of inflation.

"As a sort of mockery of the process of bargaining for yearly contracts, some essential commodities increase in price several times a year.

The brief said there should be a 100-per-cent excess profits tax.

It asked provincial support for its proposal that the federal government set up a price control board.

Out Of Pen For Five Hours Man Arrested In Stolen Car

COBOURG, March 14. (ENS)—Five hours after he was released from Kingston penitentiary Tuesday afternoon, George French, 45, was arrested by provincial police. The arrest came after police set up a roadblock north of Brighton to halt a stolen car from Simcoe. The car had been stolen in Hull last week.

Arrested and being held for Simcoe police with French were Mr. and Mrs. Elias Henry. All are from the Muncey Indian reserve near London, Ont.

Spotted Near Brighton

About 3.30 Tuesday afternoon, Provincial Constable H. Cooke spotted the car near Brighton. He was driving east, and by the time he turned the patrol car around, the stolen car had speeded away.

The constable radioed detachments along the line and a roadblock was set up. Near Warkworth, a car answering the description, but with Quebec licence plates, was seen by OPP Constables S. Palmateer and L. Erskine.

They cut across country, stopped the car and arrested the occupants. Police said that the car originally had Ontario plates, but that Quebec plates had been substituted during the chase.

Order New Trial For Kennedy

TORONTO, March 14—(CP)—A new trial was ordered Tuesday by the Ontario Court of Appeal to determine the degree of negligence, if any, in the case of hockey star Ted Kennedy and 15-year-old Harold Shepherd.

The boy, a ward of the Children's Aid Society, was struck by Kennedy's automobile Nov. 19, 1949, during a driving snowstorm. He suffered two broken legs. A chum, Robert Armstrong, was killed.

An Assize Court jury under Mr. Justice D. P. J. Kelly found Kennedy and Shepherd each 50 per cent negligent at a trial last Dec. 5. It assessed Society damages at $1,120; Shepherd's at $3,088.

Kennedy, captain of Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, was ordered to pay half, plus court costs.

The appeal was launched by the Society, which contended the full $4,208 should be awarded to the Society and the boy. However, the court ruled the assessment will not be changed by the new trial, merely the apportionment of negligence.

Ask To Have Signal

SUDBURY, March 14 (CP)—Every effort is being made by Coniston town council to have a warning signal installed at the level-crossing where nine persons lost their lives in a train-bus crash Feb. 9, Mayor Roy Snitch of Coniston told a citizens' committee last night.

The committee "demanded" immediate action by council in installing a wig-wag signal.

Mayor Snitch said: "We have already made application to the Board of Transport Commissioners for adequate protection at this crossing. We have suggested a wig-wag or flasher system."

Ask 40 Teachers For Arbitration

BRANTFORD, March 14 (CP)—The Brantford Board of Education Tuesday night decided to ask 40 high school teachers to withdraw their end-of-term resignations and submit their salary dispute to arbitration.

The teachers submitted their resignations, effective at the end of the school term, after expressing dissatisfaction with the board's salary offer of a $200 increase in addition to the regular $200 increment, retroactive to Jan. 1 and an additional $200 effective Sept. 1.

Italian Challenges Churchill To Duel

ROME, March 14—(Reuters)—Count Vanni Teodorani Fabbri Serbelloni, who married one of Mussolini's nieces, boasted Tuesday that he had challenged Winston Churchill, or his son, to a duel to chastise the former British prime minister for "offensive remarks" about Italy.

The count, a spry, 34 against Churchill's 77, said he had no answer to his letter sent March 1. The challenge contained such phrases as "you are not even fit to lick the shoes of some noble Italians whom you ordered to be assassinated."

The letter said the count was prepared to meet Churchill or his son Randolph on a "field of battle."

It added: "I am doing this in the name of all the Italian soldiers who died and in memory of my unforgettable chief and uncle, Mussolini."

(The episode which provoked the truculent count was an angry House of Commons ejaculation by Churchill telling Defence Minister Emanuel Shinwell he was "only fit to talk to the Italians." Churchill apologized later and said he meant no discourtesy to Italy.)

High-Paid Animal Actors Laugh At Tax Headaches

HOLLYWOOD, March 14 (CP)—Some of Hollywood's highest-paid actors have no income-tax worries. They are the movie colony's acting animals.

Unlike the millions of Americans harassed with meeting Thursday's deadline on filing income-tax returns in the United States, the animal actors — and they're in the upper brackets—haven't given taxes a thought.

Lassie, for instance, who makes about $50,000 a year, complacently munched a fillet of horse while his master huddled with an accountant in preparation for March 15.

How much does an individual animal have to pay?

That's a toughie.

Most trainers have scores of beasts. The biggest outfit, the World Jungle Compound, has more than 200, ranging from elephants to squirrels. Taxes are based on the owner's total income and are not broken down to show each animal's share.

Lassie, if he were human, since he's male and single, would pay about $23,000 on his income. (That's right, Lassie is a "he.")

Billy Richards, a co-owner of the Jungle Compound, estimates his more-famous charges would be in at least the 20-per-cent bracket. He said his biggest star, a chimpanzee named Tamba which died in a fire last week, was paid $1,000 a week and he got a lesser sum between pictures "just for eating bananas."

Here are some other examples of how highly the movie industry regards its four-footed performers: in the $600-a-week class are Jackie the lion, Dynamite the black panther, Satan the tiger and Sherry the puma.

These salaries aren't as big as they sound when you consider overhead. Animals eat the year around but work only a few weeks. Expenses for food, quarters, transportation and veterinarians are deductible.

Lassie's trainer, Rud Weatherwax, wishes animals could claim exemptions for children. "Lassie has sired about 200 pups," he says. "Think how much that would knock off my tax bill."

Allies Enter Seoul Again, No Reds Seen

36 Tanks Leading UN Drive North of Hongchon

TOKYO, March 14. (CP) — Seoul changed hands for the fourth time in nine months today when South Korean troops swept unopposed into the battered ghost city and proudly raised their Republican's flag over the capital building.

The capture of the main political prize in Korea was part of the Allies' bloodless drive toward the 38th Parallel, which won at least 15 miles in the last 48 hours with hardly a Chinese or North Korean being sighted.

The Allied advance was general all along the front.

Apart from the re-entry into Seoul, the most spectacular advance was made on the Central front by the American 1st Cavalry Division, which drove northwest of the key stronghold of Hongchon and reached a point 18 miles from the 38th Parallel, meeting no resistance.

Tanks Lead Way

Thirty-six tanks spearheaded the 1st Cavalry thrust of four miles to a point north of Hongchon, which is 55 air miles east of Seoul.

The motorized cavalry made a bold crossing of the Hongchon River, just west of the town, to cut the road linking Hongchon with Chunchon, Red supply and assembly centre 15 miles to the north-west.

Other Allied elements were standing on the outskirts of Hongchon. Some may have entered the city. The Communists are expected to make a stand in the hills somewhere north of Hongchon.

North of Seoul, it appeared that the Chinese had withdrawn in good order up to 25 miles, or to a line just south of the 38th Parallel, where they were reported to have dug in on a powerful new defence line.

Political Climax

The fall of Seoul is the political climax of Gen. Matthew Ridgway's "limited objective" offensive which militarily was aimed at killing as many Communists as possible. Overwhelming air and artillery fire-power backed the advancing United Nations troops.

An Eighth Army spokesman tonight said South Korean patrols had crossed the Han River into Seoul in small fishing boats.

North of Hoengsong on the central front US Marines found a huge cache of enemy equipment.

It was described as "the largest single haul of the Korean war"—enough to equip a regiment.

All along the 70-mile front Allied patrols were seeking the retreating Reds. The Chinese and North Koreans had fled so fast from most sectors that UN troops lost almost all contact with them.

Revenue Dept. Almost Breaks U.S. Gamblers

WASHINGTON, March 14 (AP)—The Bureau of Internal Revenue almost broke the Numbers Game Bankers in Washington Tuesday.

Early in the day the Bureau slapped a $159,917.89 tax lien on Emmitt Warring, reputed Numbers Game boss. Newspapers headlined the figure.

Hunch players plunged heavily on the numerals 159.

At the end of the day when race track pari-mutuel odds were totalled to arrive at the winning number the result was—

Yep, 159.

"Boy, we really took a bath," said one [illegible]. He meant he had be[illegible]ed.

Acquit Browder Of Contempt

WASHINGTON, March 14 —(AP)—Federal Judge F. Dickinson Letts today acquitted Earl Browder, former head of the American Communist party, of a contempt of Congress charge.

Browder was accused of refusing to answer questions at a Senate foreign relations sub-committee hearing on Communism-in-government.

Browder testified last April 27 during an investigation of charges by Senator Joseph McCarthy (Rep.-Wis.) that the State Department was infested with Communists.

Judge Letts said a speech of the record did not disclose any instance in which the committee or the chairman, former Senator Millard Tydings (Dem.-Md.) overruled objections by Browder to answering questions.

Judge Letts said "simple justice and fairness" required that Browder be told that answers were demanded.

Browder spoke for the American Communists for 15 years until he was expelled from the party in 1946.

Browder now calls himself an "unaffiliated individual."

Lists His Money

NEW YORK, March 14. — (CP)—Threatened with perjury if he didn't answer, Gambler Frank Costello today told the Senate Crime Investigating Committee he has about $40,000 to $50,000 in his strongbox at home. The committee has been trying to get the reputed rackets overlord to list his total financial holdings, which he refused to do on Tuesday.

$250,000 Fire Sweeps Big Warehouse

ST. CATHARINES, March 14—(CP)—Damage estimated at more than $250,000 was caused when the Robertson storage and removal warehouse was gutted by fire early today. The business was owned by the mayor of St. Catharines, Richard M. Robertson.

The fire broke out shortly after 2:30 a.m. today, a half hour after the nightwatchman had made his rounds. He was awakened by the barking of his dogs and the smell of smoke.

The fire appeared small on the arrival of firemen. It was first noticed in the storage garage adjoining the main warehouse. A few minutes later, however, the blaze sprung up at several points in the building and a general alarm was turned in.

The St. Catharines fire department was assisted by two trucks from the fire department in nearby Merriton.

Not All Insured

It was estimated 200 families and individuals had furniture and household effects stored in the warehouse at the time of the fire. Many are believed to carry no fire insurance and are reported not to be covered by the warehouse fire insurance policy.

Mayor Robertson said the building had a replacement value of more than $100,000 and was only partially covered by a $40,000 insurance policy. Value of the stored goods was set at $150,000.

Cause of the fire has not yet been determined.

Warehouse and office records were saved and a temporary office was set up to notify persons having goods stored in the building. Some clients are believed now living in South America, Europe and the United States.

5 Inches Snow Fall In Ontario

TORONTO, March 14 (CP). — A snowstorm from "sunny" Alabama blanketed most of southern Ontario today.

Weather forecasters said the slow-moving storm from the south will deposit up to five inches of heavy, wet snow on an area extending from Windsor to Trenton and as far north as Orillia. Ottawa and Montreal may get a taste of it by evening.

By mid-morning, the Highways Department reported that roads in the area were generally slushy and snow-covered, slowing traffic to a crawl.

Forecasters said they did not expect the storm to extend to northern Ontario, where a few flurries were reported.

UN Gives Up Plan Unify Korea By Army

NW YORK, March 14—(CP)—The New York Times today quoted unnamed United Nations diplomats as saying that the idea of unifying Korea by military victory throughout the country is being quietly dropped.

The Times said in a newspage story the United States is reported to be considering the position that the UN military job will end somewhere around the 38th Parallel and that the next task, unification, will depend on political jockeying which may last a long time.

The newspaper said an actual announcement of the reported new position is unlikely. The reason was said to be that such an announcement would amount to a gift of information to the Chinese Communists.

New Reports Of Red Subs Off Halifax

Navy Chief Says Inquiry Closed On Carrier Sabotage

HALIFAX, March 14. (CP)—Vice-Admiral Harold T. W. Grant, Chief of Canada's Naval Staff, said today there have been new unconfirmed reports of Russian submarines off the east coast since the navy conducted an intensive investigation of several sightings last summer.

The admiral also told a press conference here that an investigation into a sabotage attempt aboard the aircraft carrier Magnificent has been completed and "the incident is closed."

In Halifax for an inspection of naval installations and ships, the admiral gave few further details regarding either the "Maggie" enquiry or the submarine matter.

He said there had been a "very few" reports of Russian submarines and none had been confirmed. The Navy and RCAF conducted an intensive search last July after numerous reports of unidentified undersea raiders had been received from fishermen in locales ranging from the Bay of Fundy to the Grand Banks of Newfoundland. Later, the Navy said that at least one foreign submarine—probably Russian— had lurked close to the Atlantic coast.

No Statement

Admiral Grant told reporters the suspected sabotage aboard the 18,000-ton Magnificent, Canada's only capital ship, had been investigated by the Navy and the RCMP and "it's unlikely that any further release will be made to the press."

The Maggie was delayed more than 24 hours from sailing February 4 on a cruise to southern waters when sand and brass filings were found in her engine bearings. Naval authorities said at the time it looked like the work of malcontents.

In answer to questions, Admiral Grant said more Canadian ships will be re-commissioned as men are trained. The Korean campaign now requires that five destroyers be kept in instant readiness although only three are actually in unfriendly waters. Regarding some 30 de-commissioned frigates at Sorel, Que., the Admiral said the Navy regards them as a reserve force to be brought into action in an emergency.

Higher Fuel Bills Face King George

LONDON, March 14 (Reuters).—Like every other British householder, King George VI must pay higher fuel bills this year.

In fact, it's going to cost the King more than three times what it did in 1950 to heat his five royal palaces.

The Governmen's financial estimates disclosed Tuesday that in the financial year beginning April 1 the royal fuel bill will amount to £36,790 (about $110,370). Last year's bill was £10,655.

Nearly half this year's fuel will be used to heat the royal family's London home, Buckingham Palace. The rest will be for Windsor Castle, Hampton Court, Balmoral and Sandringham.

Dissolve Parliament

CANBERRA, March 15. — (Thursday) — (AP)—Prime Minister R. G. Menzies went to the governor-general to seek a dissolution of both Houses of Parliament, the government announced today. Dissolution of parliament means new general elections. Menzies has run up against stubborn opposition in the Labor-dominated Senate, which last night referred the Conservative coalition government's urgent banking bill to committee, thus delaying the legislation.

Police Chief Reinstated At Welland

WELLAND, March 14 (CP)—Police Chief Thomas Gee was reinstated by the Welland Police Commission today after a two-week suspension.

The chief had been accused of accepting bribes from bootleggers to hamper police raids and reduce charges against accused persons.

After two days of hearings in camera which ended Tuesday, the commission issued a 700-word report exonerating the chief.

The report said three witnesses who swore they had given Chief Gee money or liquor all had been convicted of a number of offences. A fourth swore he had bribed the chief Aug. 8, 1950, and it was conclusively proved that the chief had not been in the city on that date.

The board said it would consider the information obtained during the investigation in checking bootlegging operations in the city in the future.

Soviet Accepts Western Version

PARIS, March 14 (Reuters)—Russia accepted at today's Big Four Deputies' Conference the Western version of a proposed agenda item dealing with the German peace treaty, it was learned tonight.

Herbert Morrison, Britain's new Foreign Secretary, is due here on Friday. His arrival is not officially connected with the deputies' conference, but if the end is in sight at the discussions by the weekend, Morrison's presence in Paris will provide a useful short-cut for any quick policy decisions which may be involved.

Officially, Morrison is coming to attend the committee of ministers of the Council of Europe, unofficial Parliament of Europe, which reviews the agenda for the forthcoming session of the Council's assembly at Strasbourg.

Malays Included In Central Cabinet

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaya, March 14—(AP)—Britain today broadened the government of tin and rubber-rich Malaya to include Malays, a Chinese and a Ceylonese in a central cabinet previously manned by Europeans only.

Sir Henry Gurney, British high commissioner for the Federation of Malaya, announced a "member system of government" would replace the present British secretariat heads who have directed the departments of the peninsula's central administration.

Missouri Postman Decides UK People Good Blokes

LONDON, March 14 (AP). — Lincoln Kilby, the Missouri postman, has concluded that the common men of the United Kingdom are solid, dependable blokes, good friends in an uneasy world.

Kilby, 58-year-old rural letter carrier of Vandalia, Mo., was sent here by his neighbors to get some honest impressions of what things are like over there. The neighbors collected $1,300 for the trip.

His mission ended today after a 55-day tour. He will have a lot to tell.

"It's not what I saw," said Kilby. "What made the greatest impression on me is something that I felt. These folks know the score, know the meaning of democracy and listen to every side of everything."

Kilby travelled to a dozen small towns, had chats with farmers, and in London and Glasgow got acquainted with the men who make ships and others.

In London, Kilby was astonished by the sensation his man-on-the-street mission caused. A newspaper gave him a fine watch. He was a guest at lunch at the House of Commons. The English-speaking union put on a party for him and the postal workers of London showed him everything. They also presented him with an illuminated document and gave him a postman's cap.

Millions Fear A-Blast In Germany

Fierce Gales Whip UK, French Coasts, War Ruins Collapse

LONDON, March 14. (AP)—Millions of persons in Northern Europe were terrified today by a violent shuddering of the earth's crust which some thought might have been caused by an atomic-sized explosion inside eastern Germany.

The tremor, one of the most severe ever recorded in Germany, was followed in some sections by a giant blast of wind. The shock and wind rattled windows, shook down war ruins, and tossed pictures off the walls of many homes. No extensive damage was reported.

Seismologists speculated that the epicentre was either in the Eifel Mountains of west Germany or in Thuringia, in the eastern zone of Soviet occupied Germany.

The terrestial convulsion, which lasted from five to six seconds with "echoes" of 15 minutes duration, was felt in varying degrees in a wide arc including Belgium, Holland, Northern and Eastern France, Denmark and Sweden.

In New York, the Rev. Joseph Lynch, director of the Fordham University Observatory, said the estimated location of the centre definitely indicated an earthquake of the "resettlement" pattern common in certain areas.

Heavy Seas

The shock was felt as heavy seas pounded the European continent, accompanied by gales which tied up shipping and inflicted heavy damage.

Professor Friedrich Becker, director of the Bonn, Germany, Observatory, said the atomic explanation had not been entirely eliminated, but the Western scientists trying to run down the origin and cause of the shock were handicapped for lack of definite information from behind the Iron Curtain.

Fails To Prove Earldom Title

LONDON, March 14 (Reuters)—Toby Fitzwilliam, 62 son of a Victorian chorus girl and a guards officer, has failed to prove his title to an earldom and the £500,000 ($1,500,000) that goes with it.

A judge decided today that his mother, former Gaiety Girl Eva Raines, was not the legal wife of George Charles Fitzwilliam when Toby was born, and that therefore he is illegitimate.

Toby, whose full name is George James Wentworth Fitzwilliam, had tried to prove that his parents were married in 1886 under an old Scottish law which said a couple were legally wed if they merely lived together and declared themselves man and wife in the sight of God.

The judge said he had come to the conclusion that the association between Toby's parents before their church marriage in England after his birth was "illicit and not matrimonial."

Today's ruling means that Toby's younger brother Tom, who was born after the church wedding, remains heir-presumptive to the rich Fitzwilliam earldom and estate, held now by a childless cousin.

Seek To Free Seven Miners

GATESHEAD, Durham, England, March 14 (Reuters)—Rescue squads today were hacking their way through mud and clay in a coal mine to free seven men trapped since late Tuesday.

All the men were alive and hot tea were passed to them through a four-inch pipe.

Only 13 men work at the small pit, and all of them were in the pit when about 11 feet of soft clay and mud fell near the entrance.

Six men on the outside of the fall immediately began to dig through to their trapped comrades and were later joined by rescue teams from nearby towns.

Garson Urges Businessmen Fight Inflation

SASKATOON, March 14 (CP)—Justice Minister Garson appealed to businessmen Tuesday to help the federal government fight inflation and to restrain from increasing margins of profit in the current emergency.

"These actions and reactions reduce the standard of living and destroy confidence in the integrity of business and of businessmen," he said in a speech before the annual meeting of the National Dairy Council.

"As time goes on they may also destroy the confidence of business itself in our free country."

He told the dairymen that the emergency period may extend for many years and that Canadians cannot expect to go through it without a measure of personal sacrifice.

Must Shoulder Responsibility

But businessmen, he added, will have to shoulder a great deal of responsibility in producing the maximum effort and fighting inflation, which Mr. Garson defined as a condition in which "too much money is chasing too few goods."

The government on its part, will take all "proper measures" to guard the economy against "drastic inflation." This would include "selective controls" and fiscal action.

"But at the present stage — let me emphasize, at the present stage —we do not think that it is in the public interest to install a comprehensive system of controls, the enforcement of which would be difficult and the effectiveness doubtful.

"What the present situation calls for is patriotic self-discipline from all our citizens. In this national effort, business bears a heavy responsibility. The activities of businessmen — large and small—will have a great impact upon our economy. The example set by business will be conspicuous and influential in the rest of the nation."

Government Honor At Stake Over Wheat Pact—Drew

OTTAWA, March 14. (CP)—George Drew, Progressive Conservative Leader, told the Government Tuesday night that its "honor" is at stake in the complex controversy concerning the Anglo-Canadian Wheat Agreement. He engaged in the Commons wheat debate to ask Prime Minister St. Laurent to "reconcile" what he said were diverging statements placed before the Chamber by Agriculture Minister Gardiner and Trade Minister Howe in the explaining of the final settlement of the four-year contract.

Mr. Drew said that Mr. Gardiner had implied that the United Kingdom government had not lived up to the terms of the contract; that Mr. Howe had said it was not in default.

He asked whether Mr. Gardiner, in his trip to Britain last month, had suggested that the $65,000,000 remaining from the 1946 Canadian loan be used to make a final settlement under the wheat agreement.

Mr. St. Laurent said the Canadian government never had made such a proposal. He understood the U.K. government had been informed there was $65,000,000 remaining of the loan which could be drawn upon before the end of this year and "used in any way in which they saw fit."

Should Say No

In the wheat debate, progressing on amendments to the Canadian Wheat Board Act, J. L. Gibson (Ind., Comox-Alberni) suggested the government pay nothing to Western wheat producers in settlement. It was time the government learned to say "No" to people seeking financial assistance.

The government has announced it will contribute $65,000,000 out of the federal treasury as a final settlement of a five-year wheat pool contract in conjunction with the agreement. This will provide prairie farmers with a payment of 8.3 cents a bushel on wheat delivered during the five-year period.

In the opening stages of the sitting, Defence Minister Claxton indicated that the government still has not decided whether women will be recruited into the armed forces.

External Affairs Minister Pearson indicated the government still thinks the question of United Nations troops crossing the 38th Parallel in Korea is properly one for discussion in the UN itself.

Greater Issue

In the wheat debate, Mr. Drew said the issue went "far beyond" the question of a wheat payment.

"Just as much an issue before this House is the honor of this Government," he suggested.

Mr. St. Laurent said he had drawn to Prime Minister Attlee's attention last fall a feeling in Western Canada that Britain had not carried out obligations under the agreement.

Canada earlier had accepted as Britain's position a suggestion that she had lived up to the terms of the agreement. The Western Canadian views later also had been brought to the attention of other British officials.

Trolleyline Up For Auction

BELFAST, March 14 (AP)—A trolleyline that sometimes got held up by storms at sea comes up for auction Thursday, piece by piece.

It won its battles with nor'westers, but it couldn't lick those bus lines. The modern generation just didn't think it was quaint to have waves of salt water breaking over the seats.

The name of the trolleyline sounds like an auctioneer's chant itself—the Giant's Causeway, Portrush and Bush Valley Railway and Tramway Company.

Its owners have disowned it. Nobody wants to buy it. Even the Northern Ireland government refuses to take it over.

Cynics have said the old GCP-BVR and TC had more words in its name than it had in rolling stock, but the auctioneer's list shows the line had 18 cars. They frequently rode through the storms linked together in groups of three.

The single-track trolley line connected the towns of Portrush and Bushmills with the Giant's Causeway, an accumulation of six-sided pillars which geologists believe are the hardened remains of prehistoric outbursts of lava.

Base Metals Lead On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, March 14—(CP)—Base Metals led the market slightly ahead as the session progressed on teh Toronto Stock Exchange today.

The leading base metals ahead included United Keno Hill, Sherritt Gordon, Noranda, International Nickel, Golden Manitou and Hudson Bay. Consolidated Smelters reduced an early $1 loss to 50 cents. Ryan Lake was the most active issue on the market as it added one cent and Osisko, a feature yesterday, was second with a four-cent drop.

Industrials firmed in dull dealings. Price changes were generally fractional and many issues were unchanged.

Western Oils reversed their early declines at noon and moved slowly ahead. Pacific Petroleum, Anglo-Canadian, Federated Petroleum, Garnet and Calvan added pennies.

Golds traded irregularly with little activity. Senior Producers tended slightly downward while Junior Proucers were mixed.

Given sufficient information in such occurrences, scientists would be able to pinpoint the source.

Earth tremors, however, are fairly frequent in the area of the West German volcanic range, the Eifel Mountains.

By telephone, Professor Friedrich Gerecke of the Soviet-controlled Earthquake Research Institute at Jena in East Germany, said the quake was one of the strongest ever registered there. But he ruled out the possibility of an explosion.

Feared "A" Explosion

In Bonn, the West German capital, hundreds of persons telephoned newspaper offices to ask if there had been an atomic explosion.

Several war ruins in Cologne collapsed and many residents in nearby Leverkusen fled to a wartime air raid shelter as the ground began to shake.

Huge seas pounded the south coast of England and the coast of France Tuesday night, and today as ships raced for shelter during one of the wildest 24 hours of the European winter.

The seas, whipped up by gales, were so heavy the world's biggest liner, the Queen Elizabeth, had to stand off Cherbourg today. She arrived last night to pick up 350 passengers for New York.

Restaurant People Rapped For Uninteresting Desserts

TORONTO, March 14—(CP)—The shortcomings of Canadian restaurants—ranging from wilted lettuce to sand in the spinach — were criticized here Tuesday night by a panel of food experts.

Delegates to the seventh annual convention of the Canadian Restaurant Association heard the experts complain chiefly about the apparent fear of making salads; "stodgy, characterless" desserts; lack of variety in the bread; and a tendency to stick to overcooked cabbage and watery peas.

Mrs. Katherine Caldwell Bayley director of the Canadian Home Journal Home Bureau, and Ann Adam, Globe and Mail cooking expert, were all in favor of more interesting desserts.

"Have you ever thought of the tantalizing addition of fine-cut ginger to vanilla pudding?" asked Mrs. Bayley. "Desserts can be a live issue if you appeal both to the dieters and the sweet-toothed who yearn for something outstanding at the end of a meal."

She suggested "cool pineapple on ice," and spoke of the "sheer drama" of giant toasted pecans and almonds on whipped cream.

What was really important was for restaurant owners to "create word pictures on menus."

"Tickle the tastebuds with titles like sherried ambrosia and you are on the way to a profitable dessert order."

Need Good Salads

Mrs. Helen Moringstar, Toronto lecturer, was in favor of good salads or none at all. With 1,000 varieties to make, why stick to cabbage and carrots with vinegar dressing, she asked.

"The customer shouldn't have to tolerate wilted lettuce leaves and a mouthful of sand with his spinach." The lettuce could just as easily be made to stand up on the plate.

Margaret Rees, Canada Packers dietician, foresaw the day when restaurant kitchens wouldn't have to worry about peeling potatoes. Stores and restaurants soon should be able to buy potatoes and other vegetables which have been peeled in bulk and kept fresh for days by processes being developed now, she said.

Lillian McIntosh of T. Eaton Company said "a squashed, cold, dried out roll is no cheaper to make than a hot fresh one."

Thriving Village Grows At Mines

RED LAKE—(CP)—Reflecting development of the rich Red Lake gold mining area, a new community is fast developing on the frozen shores of lake Balmer, 11 miles from the town of Red Lake.

The improvement district of Balmertown has grown rapidly into a community of 75 homes which boasts a post-office, general store, drug store, theatre and coffee shop.

Last fall a new road into the town brought it taxi service to Red Lake and McKenzie Island airport and later a bus line was started. Previously Balmertown had been accessible only by boat.

Balmertown was created to provide housing for employees of the adjacent Campbell and New Dickenson mines. Houses are company-owned and are rented, although it is possible to buy a home on monthly payments.

plans call for construction this summer of a $90,000 school, a community club, a Protestant church and a good-sized park area.

Church services are held every two weeks by the Rev. John Freedman, United Church minister from Red Lake.

Dutch Painting Unveiled, Gift To Canada

OTAWA, March 14 (CP)—The gift of a Hobbema masterpiece to Canada today was interpreted by Canada's Governor-General as a desire of the people of the Netherlands "to give symbolic and tangible expression" to the bond existing between the two countries.

The painting, "The Two Water-Mills," by the 17th century artist Meindert Hobbema, was unveiled at a ceremony in the hall of fame of the parliament buildings.

In a speech prepared for delivery, Viscount Alexander paid tribute to the "tremendous generosity and deep friendship" which prompted the gift, presented in commemoration of Canada's part in the liberation of Holland.

"The people of the Netherlands have demonstrated in many ways their apreciation of the share which Canadians had in liberating their nation during the war," he said, recalling how Hollanders have tended the graves of Canadians killed during the last war.

"These tributes to Canada's sons who made the supreme sacrifice have been greatly appreciated."

Unveils Painting

Gen. H. D. G. Crerar, who commanded the Canadian army of liberation, unveiled the painting, recalling September, 1944 when the Canadian army first reached Dutch territory.

"There is deep symbolism in the fact that the Canadian and Dutch flags, which flew side by side on the battle-fields of a few years ago, are seen together again today," he said referring to the flags on either side of the painting.

The Netherlands Ambassador to Canada, A. H. J. Lovink, also spoke briefly.

"I hope that Hobbema's masterpiece will continue to hang in this place for centuries to come as a tangible symbol of the lasting friendship between our two countries," he said.

Millbrook School Has Open House

MILLBROOK, March 14 (ENS) —The auditorium of the school was well filled with the school-children's parents and friends, who stayed for the Home and School Association meeting, following open night. The classrooms were open to the public with the pupils' work books laid out on their desks for inspection.

There were art displays on the walls, and the windows had been decorated with streamers and St. Patrick's Day motifs for the occasion. Each teacher was in his or her room to receive the parents and to discuss with them the program of the pupils.

A group of senior boys carried on experiments in the laboratory.

William L. Graff, chief librarian of Peterborough Public Library, was the special speaker. He showed the film "Who Will Teach Your Child?" and led in the lively discussion period which followed. The main point under discussion was ways of attracting the right type of person into the teaching profession, and what constituted a good teacher. Mr. Graff was introduced by Mrs. W. W. Kennedy, convener of the program committee, and Bruce Ingham moved the vote of thanks.

Those taking part in the musical program included Mrs. G. A. Spicer who sang a group of songs, the first, a German love story, "Last Night," and the French Canadian "Woodpecker Song"; Beverley Patton, who played Schubert's "Moment Musicale"; and George Ingham playing Brahms' "Rhapsody in E flat."

Reports were given by Mrs. Ed. Nattress, the secretary, Mrs. Stewart Snelgrove, treasurer, and Mrs. Henry Gray, convener of the publications committee.

The award for having the most parents present went to the children of Mrs. Gray's room, the primary.

At refreshment time, the cups and saucers acquired in the recently-held shower were used for the first time. Each member purchased one cup and saucer.

J. A. Thompson, principal of the continuation school, welcomed the guests.

The senior puils supplied refreshments, but since examinations commenced on Tuesday, they had Miss Kent and the social committee serve for them.

Hear Ship Seized

TAIPEI, Formosa, March 14— (AP)—Foreign quarters today heard that a Chinese Nationalist warship had seized the British coastal steamer Lady Wolmer. Details and confirmation were lacking. C.N.R. Meets Operating Expenses

The Canadian National Railways, Mr. Donald Gordon, its president, said in a Toronto address Monday, is much more than a railway network. "It is a system, organized into a managerial unit, which also exercises ownership or control over three major steamship operations, a nation-wide telecommunications network, a chain of ten hotels and three summer resorts, and such varied facilities as car ferries, buses, trucks, electric trams, dockyards, stockyards, warehouses, grain elevators, even a coal mine, and of course our association with an airline is well-known." Mr. Gordon affirmed that it "occupies a special place in the annals of transportation." Indeed it does, and not only because of its size, its variety of operations and its 115,000 employees, the C.N.R., owned by the people of Canada, has always shown on its balance sheet a huge annual deficit, since the day it was formed.

* * *

Mr. Gordon dealt with that matter. The Public Accounts of the Government of Canada for the calendar year 1949 showed, for instance, C.N.R. losses, in all its rail, sea and air operations of $48,125,488.74, charged to "Consolidated Deficit Account." Those figures seem to show that the C.N.R. is losing money pretty heavily and fast, and that the taxpayers are having to make good the losses. Mr. Gordon made this heartening statement: "Since the Canadian National began operations as an organized System in 1923, it has never failed to meet operating expenses."

* * *

The C.N.R. is therefore a going concern. It is meeting its operating expenses. What is crippling the System and puting deficits on the Government's books are the interest charges. Here is Mr. Gordon's explanation:

> It is necessary to recall that the Canadian National Railway System came into being on January 1st, 1923, having taken over in one form or another the operations of the Grand Trunk Railway, the Canadian Northern Railway, the Grand Trunk Pacific and the Canadian Government Railways. Ownership of the first three mentioned railway corporations had previously been assumed by Government because they had broken down, were insolvent and had only been kept going through large advances of public money. All sorts of financial legerdemain had been practiced by the managements of these corporations to keep them alive—expenditures properly chargeable against income had been seriously deferred and necessary improvements postponed. In the normal course of events, following their financial collapse, there would have been a receivership in bankruptcy in which the fixed charge debt would have been written down to a point having some relationship to earnings—or rather the lack of them.

If the C.N.R. is ever to be put in a proper financial light, these defunct capital accounts and the whole system of deficits and interest charges from the old railways should be written off and no longer burden the annual reports and discredit the financial reputation of the C.N.R.

Peterborough Ungazetted

The Canada Gazette is the town-crier of Canada. It is the official announcer of all affairs which must legally be made public. For instance, in its pages are the notices of bankruptcy, advertisements about companies being chartered, election returns, appointments to government positions, honours and awards conferred by the King, orders in council, military promotions, notices to call Parliament, and royal proclamations such as the proclamation that Newfoundland had become a part of Canada. The index to Part 1 of the Canada Gazette for 1950 (Part 1 is published every Saturday) has now been compiled, and our eye has been taken by the pages and pages of indexed Government Notices.

The most numerous of these notices have come from the Department of Public Works. That is the department which builds, renovates and maintains all government buildings and installations, from mooring facilities at Sydney, Nova Scotia to a doctor's house at the Fisher River Indian Reserve, Hodgson, Manitoba. It is the department which will build, some fine day, Peterborough's new Federal Building.

It used to be said that politicians gathered votes by promising a new government wharf to the constituency. Whether the promises are still bait or not, last year tenders were called for in the Canada Gazette to build fourteen new wharfs and to extend, improve, repair or replace 54 wharfs. Much other maritime work was called for, among them 48 dredging contracts. Cobourg got one of them, which proves that all the money spent for harbours and the like does not go to Newfoundland, Nova Scotia and British Columbia. Thirteen "harbour improvements" are listed, and 31 breakwaters were built, repaired, improved or replaced.

What rather stuns us is that in the great lists of public works for which tenders were asked last year, Peterborough is not mentioned. Apparently not even ash handling equipment was added to Peterborough's public buildings—the central heating plant at Cliff St., Ottawa, got that. The fourth floor of the Immigration Building at Vancouver had its new kitchen altered. The new Federal Building at Regina had its lighting system improved. "Krinkled dusters" are listed as having been supplied the Dominion Public Buildings in Ottawa. A quarantine barn was built at Levis, P.Q. Metal lock boxes for the Dominion Public Building were provided Fergus, Ontario. A boat harbour was contracted for at Skinner's Pond, P.E.I. But Peterborough got none of it. Not a tender was called to turn a straw in this fair city.

Tenders were asked for a new Customs House at Niagara Falls, and for Dominion Public Buildings at St. Stephen, N.B., Fredericton, N.B., St. Jerome, Que., St. Felicien, Que., Chandler, Que., Disraeli, Que., Montmorency Village, Que., Cowansville, Que., Dominion, N.S., Grandview, Man., Langenburg, Sask., Terrace Bay, Ont., Port Arthur, Ont., Ituna, Sask., Killarney, Man., Kingston, N.S., South Porcupine, Ont., Fort Qu'Appelle, Sask., Swan River, Man., and Brooks Alta. Were tenders called for a new Dominion Public Building in Peterborough? No. As Peterborough's name is absent from other lists, so it is absent from the list of new public buildings. Peterborough does not seem to be mentioned anywhere for anything in the 1950 Canada Gazette's list of work in progress.

But next year it will be different, we hope. High up on the record of Government notices—Public Works for 1950—will be this entry: "Dominion Public Building, Peterborough, Ont." The estimates tabled Monday in Ottawa list "Peterborough—Public Building $200,000 (revote)."

A Good Ontario Teacher

With "Education Week" still in our minds we should like to pass on to our readers a section of the Hope Royal Commission Report, the great unread report which took five and a half years to prepare and more than a thousand octavo pages to set down. It is the beginning of Chapter XXII, on "Recommendations With Respect to the Professional Preparation of Teachers." The Commissioners have found that the teacher is "the keystone of the educational arch":

> In view of the teacher's functions and importance, we feel that his qualities should include a high standard of physical and mental health, superior intelligence, a deep and abiding religious faith, a mature and stable personality, and a willingness and ability to mingle and co-operate with his fellows. Thus, he may approaching his work in a spirit of confidence, exert a beneficient influence throughout the school, his profession, and the community, and establish harmonious relations with pupils, school officials, and parents. In addition, he should possess a general culture in order to assess the capabilities of his pupils, to understand their possibilities of development, and to select proper means of stimulating their growth. He should have an adequate knowledge of the language of instruction in its written and spoken forms, both as a vehicle of communication and as a medium for thinking.
> He should be sufficiently familiar with the physical and social sciences and mathematics to understand the existence of natural and moral law and the value and method of objective thinking. He should know enough of aesthetics to appreciate beauty and to be able to touch his pupils with his spirit. Teachers at all stages of the educational system should be mature persons, possessing backgrounds rich academically and professionally.

The next long paragraph on the qualities of a good teacher deals in equally generous terms with his professional training, experience and study; that is, with pedagogics and the teacher. The definition ends thus: "A teacher who possesses in any considerable degree the very high qualifications enumerated will be ready to assume responsibility and should be free of exercise initiative. He may safely be entrusted with the education of children."

May safely . . .! To a man of that type, even without paragraph 2 qualifications, we would not only entrust our children but also our bank account, our home and the direction of the Canadian Brigade in Korea. We have entrusted our children to much less exalted beings, and our parents entrusted us to teachers unfit to tie the shoe-laces of one of the deities described above. One respected teacher from whom we got a really rich store of information, prejudice and sense, was (contrary to the first sentence of the definition) an agnostic, had shrieks in his stomach quite audible in the class-room and elaborated on by his powerful voice, quarrelled with his wife and the principal, and refused to belong to any club, church or lodge. But he had a lot of books, smoked good tobacco, drank the best stout, and had once travelled to Tibet.

The concocting of definitions of this kind is an admirable pastime, chiefly because no satisfactory one can be achieved and the search for it will go on to the end of time. This is a remarkably inclusive one and well worth the pains it took to devise. Certainly any of our teachers who "possess in any considerable degree the very high qualifications enumerated" are worth their weight in gold and their keep in the best Canadian dollars we can find.

ON THE MARGIN

Authors Great and Small

30 YEARS WITH G. B. S., by Blanche Patch (Gollancz).

THIS is a book reminiscence by Bernard Shaw's private secretary, whose name, during the thirty years of her service, became well known to people interested in producing Mr. Shaw's plays, or simply interested in Mr. Shaw. Miss Patch seems to have been admirably suited to the difficult position which she held in the life of the foremost man of letters of our time; it is plain from her book that she is tactful, pleasant, and of a calm temperament. Shaw prized her highly; it is somewhat surprising, under the circumstances, that her attitude toward him was detached and lukewarm at best. There can be no doubt, however, that this detachment on her part helped her to do her work as Shaw wanted it done; an ardent disciple would have been a nuisance as a secretary.

Miss Patch's book is a gossipy one, telling us a good many details about Shaw's routine of work, his personal life, and what it was like to be with him, day in and day out. Shaw exposed the treasures of his mind with incomparable felicity on his own behalf; we do not expect Miss Patch to add anything to his biography in that respect; it is surprising, however, that she has so little to tell which we have not already suspected.

One matter which she makes clear is, however, of real interest. Shaw protested all his life that he was an apostle of beauty, and that he could not live without beautiful things. But his two homes, it appears, were furnished with good, sound, ugly Edwardian stuff, none of which would have attracted a second look from a collector. He does not appear to have had any good pictures, and his books, though numerous, were for reading rather than for the pleasure of the collector. His workroom in London was po. y, and he did not even demand it for himself; Miss Patch worked in it with him, and continued her work when Shaw was talking to visitors. His summer-house, in the garden at Ayot, was, apparently, the only private workroom that Shaw possessed or wanted.

* * *

WE learn a good deal from Miss Patch about Mrs. Shaw, who did not permit much to be known about herself while she was alive. The relationship between the Shaws was a tender and strong one, but Miss Patch does not call it love; she mentions only one instance in which Shaw showed something more than courteous consideration for his wife. And it does not appear that Mrs. Shaw wanted more than that. She was a highly intellectual woman, self-possessed, and for many years, much wealthier than he; she does not appear to have relied upon her husband for anything beyond a powerful intellectual sympathy. Miss Patch does suggest, however, that Mrs. Shaw was jealous—jealous even of the secretary who saw what Shaw had written before she saw it herself. This was necessary because Shaw wrote in Pitman shorthand, and it was Miss Patch's duty to transcribe it.

During his last years, Shaw lived entirely at his country house, and Miss Patch remained in London, attending to business. She tells us that in these years Shaw became obsessed by the notion that he was poor, and that taxation was ruining him. This is amusing, considering the war which he waged for years upon private wealth, but that is by the way. He suddenly took it into his head to get rid of his London apartment, and sell all the furniture in it, and this is one of the most amusing episodes in the book. Shaw, the clear-headed, the eminently reasonable man, was, it appears, not half so sharp in matters of business as he liked to believe. He was, also, very clumsy with his hands, constantly broke his fountain pens, could not find things, and was, indeed, much more like the absent-minded professor of fiction than the clear-brained realist of popular belief.

Shaw was not, it appears, a great talker. He and his wife ate in silence; indeed, he usually turned on the wireless during meals, in order to restrain conversation. He was, also, Miss Patch insists, an essentially modest man, although he liked to act a conceited role when he thought it would annoy stupid people. As an employer he was a model.

No man, goes the old saying, is a hero to his valet. Bernard Shaw, it appears, was not a hero to his secretary. Miss Patch, though apparently an eager collector of autographs, is not a hero-worshipper. But she was a first-rate secretary, and because of that, we can forgive her the fact that she is not a particularly skilful writer, that she seems, now and again, to be confused about characters in plays which Shaw wrote before she joined him, and that she appears to measure all things and all men by a foot-rule. Closing the book, we feel that, if it had not been Miss Patch's job to do so, she would never have known anything about Shaw; after thirty years, she knew what had forced itself upon her attention.

FRED BASON'S DIARY (Ambassador Books).

FRED Bason is a London bookseller who is interesting because he was born in the slums, and booksellers do not usually come from slums. He was drawn to his trade from the beginning, however, and for many years he bought the cheapest of second, third, and fourth-hand books, and sold them again; sometimes he found something worth while among the rubbish; then he made a profit of several hundred per cent. He came to know many authors; he refers to Somerset Maugham familiarly as Willy; he makes fun of Arnold Bennett's large behind; he is very free with the names of the great. Of late, he has been taken up by a number of literary people in England as a curiosity, and apparently things are going well with him.

A success story? Yes, of a kind. But the present reviewer does not find it easy to like Mr. Bason, who does not appear, in his upward path, to have shaken off the tastes and prejudices which he picked up in the slums. A courageous man, and one whose devotion to bookselling deserves respect. An interesting man? No. A good writer? No. A good judge of other writers? No. A man who is making a little money by pretending to be more naive and helpless than he is? Yes.

HONEST BOY

Friend: "You look fed up."

Businessman: "Yes, I've had a trying day. The office boy came to me with the old gag about getting off for his grandmother's funeral, so just to teach him a lesson, I said I'd accompany him."

Friend: "Not a bad idea; but wasn't it an exciting baseball game?"

Businessman: "No it was his grandmother's funeral."

Letters To The Editor

A WORD FROM LINDSAY

Sir: Being a constant reader of the Peterborough Examiner I have noticed with something akin to amazement in your recent issues that the Queen Mary Auditorium, built, I understand, with a great deal of the taxpayers' monies, has been almost lost to the Peterborough Summer Theatre through the complaints of a lone citizen.

It is surprising to me, a member of your neighbouring community, that one person can exert such influence over this situation.

I, personally, have been connected in a small way with this fine group since it began in Peterborough several years ago and have found them most businesslike and agreeable to work with.

Our club has chartered buses to the theatre since its inception to carry interested people to your city, more fortunate than ours in having this group. We have found there at all times good entertainment and a friendly welcome.

Mr. Sadlier has done a good work, not only for the people of Peterborough but for its surrounding centres, and will, doubtless, continue to do so if he receives the fair and honest treatment he employs in all his dealings with others. The Summer Theatre is one of the best things that the city could have established not only from the tourist standpoint and the developing of and maintaining of friendly relations with other places, but from the point of those who have to be, through the sheer necessity of earning a living, "stay-in-towners" during the summer months.

To change the place of presentation from the Queen Mary Auditorium to the P.C.V.S. Auditorium would be a bad mistake, and if I were Mr. Sadlier I would not accept it. The large audience of the present quarters would be almost lost in the school auditorium which must be at least two-and-on-half times larger. Also it must be admitted that not all playgoers are terribly interested in the "theatre" as an art form. Many find that having a "coke" and a cigarette on the lovely breezeway on a clear summer night, and chatting with friends between acts has as much allure, for them, as the more subtle intricacies of the stage presentation itself.

I hope that you will find space to publish this letter, Mr. Editor, for I speak sincerely for quite a number of my fellow citizens, who have and hope to continue to see the excellent presentations of your Summer Theatre. Please accept this plea from us, and let the cry be "Let's keep the Summer Theatre where it is!"

I believe that for the lack of any valid reason whatsoever, (none has been thus far produced), there should not even be any discussion of change.

Thanking you, I am,

Yours very truly,
W. G. GOODMAN,
Lindsay Theatre Workshop.

REPLIES TO 'DISGUSTED'

Sir: It is rather nauseating for us English settlers in Canada to have to read such articles as "Disgusted". I think I am voicing the opinion of many of my former countrymen when I say that this is not general feeling in the old Country. There are certain types of people who are not satisfied with anything, anywhere. They're discontented with life in England — although they frequently reiterate "There's no place like England!" One stops to wonder—why did they leave? Perhaps because we are of English birth we feel even more bitter than the Canadians about such derogatory statements for we know they are not true but just the outcome of disappointment. We know, for instance, that poor families in this country have more opportunities than the ordinary working class family in England, that the ramshackle house which she despises would compare favourably with a lot of houses in England, and that the arrogant air which Disgusted assumes is not justified.

Any sensible person would have realized that it would be quite impractical to offer the V.L.A. Plan to immigrants. It was inaugurated to give Canadians an opportunity to put their rehabilitation credit to good use. A British veteran would have received an equivalent of the Canadian gratuity following honourable discharge. Canadian veterans taking up residence in England don't expect any remuneration from the British Government.. Why should they? There is a scheme here, N.H.A. by which civilians can procure homes, but it is common knowledge that in no country are homes given away, one has to work hard, and be patient, in order to acquire one.

It is such a pity that this arrogant minority have an opportunity to attract the public's attention. Most Englishmen will agree with me. Canada is a land of opportunities, it has great possibilities in agriculture, mining and industry, both for the English as well as the Canadians, providing that everyone realizes it is a person's birthright to expect to come first in his own country. The English are always ready to assert this right too, for it is common knowledge that antagonism is rife in England against any foreigner who appears to survive over there. An example is the contempt they display towards the Polish settlers. Our former correspondent only took advantage of the government courses, suggested that any soldier who had given a reasonable share of his life in the army, should be afforded a chance to prove that he is capable of handling a skilled job. Some others felt that owing to family responsibilities they were unable to avail themselves of this scheme. A Canadian has a capacity for hard work, their intelligence quotient can match that of an Englishman, how otherwise could this country have developed as it has, and still so young? I lived in England for 25 years, and while I must admit that the standard of education is higher over there now, it hasn't always been so. Here in Canada progress will be made through experience; having worked for the Board of Education I know the opportunities afforded students, both at secondary schools (in the way of maintenance grants) and in the way of loans tenable at different colleges, the latter repayable after training is finished. Students here, eager to achieve a goal put themselves through college, for which they are to be commended. The Canadians I think manage admirably on the small academic training which they receive; they are not mentally inferior. Technical colleges will, ultimately provide means for adolescents to whom this phase of work appeals.

It isn't the English the Canadians dislike so much—it's arrogance.

To have prestige is a virtue,
To be arrogant is a vice.

VIVE LE CANADA!

WOULD LIKE TO HEAR FROM OPPOSITION

Sir: As a devotee of the Peterborough Summer Theatre, I will be very disappointed if the result of this dispute turns out to be the non-appearance of the theatre this year.

One can't help noticing that to date the correspondence printed in your column deals with one side of the question only.

Surely these people whom we have called snobs, spoil-sports, and Philistines have a defence. Now is the time to let it be known and thus enable the public to appreciate both sides of the question before they condemn either party.

So far nothing has been heard from any of the alleged complainers. Surely they have the courage of their convictions, or are they content merely to sit back and let the city abuse them.

I say speak now or forever hold thy peace and allow the Board to bid the players welcome.

Yours very truly,
MRS. W. G. WRIGHT.

THEATRE RAISES PUBLIC TASTE

Sir: The controversy re the Summer Theatre which is causing such a "tempest in a teapot" is one I feel I cannot disregard. So many wish to place the responsibility for child delinquency and youthful transgressors on the parents.

It came to my attention that a number of young men having little to do decided as a lark to attend the Summer Theatre. They were so impressed and so well entertained that other forms of amusement suffered by comparison. The youth of our nation re-act much the same and if better forms of entertainment are provided there will be fewer frequenters of other questionable places of amusement. Peterborough is growing, so teach our future citizens to develop or acquire a taste for better music and better plays. May the vision of those who oppose the continuance of the Summer Theatre at the Queen Mary Auditorium be as broad as those citizens residing around churches, the arena, Ashburnham playground, who do not complain at the noise and traffic congestion.

Thank you,

E.R.A.

SAYS BLAMED FOR COLLISION

Sir: I wish you would correct the report regarding the accident or collision that occurred at Perry and George Sts. Saturday night. Anyone reading your report would get the impression that I, John Hodson collided with Stockdale's car, when about half way through the intersection. The truth is as follows: I, John Hodson stopped my car at the stop sign, proceeded east across George St. to point of collision 10 ft. from east curb of George St. and 10 ft. south curb of Perry S.E. corner.

Stockdale was proceeding south on George St. at excessive speed. He applied his brakes, which showed skid marks for 43 ft. to point of collision about 28 ft. from west curb of George St. and about 10 ft. to point of collision east curb of George. Stockdale's right front hit Hodson's left rear door. Hodson's front wheels were parallel with east curb of George St. Now, Mr. Editor or reporter, does that sound that I, John Hodson collided with Stockdale's car. Your report would have me pay 100 bucks. So please get the right facts before you print your reports. You can come and measure the skid marks Tuesday, they are there yet.

Thanking you,

JOHN HODSON.

ED. NOTE: We have nothing to correct. Our report referred to "two cars that collided", and said that Mr. Hodson's car "met in collision with a car being driven south". There was no apportionment of blame.

APPEASEMENT?

Sir: Doctor Honey's defence of the Board of Education's action in respect to the Summer Theatre is hardly convincing. In brief the inference is that appeasement is a safe policy in the face of threatened aggression.

It is agreed in principle that the legitimate complaint of any taxpayer is entitled to consideration with proper regard for the rights and privileges of others and the Board is requested to consider also the desires of two thousand taxpayers (as opposed to one) that their own buildings be made available to them for worthy and desirable use.

The complainant having achieved publicity for his case now has the opportunity, in all courtesy to his fellow citizens, to withdraw his opposition on assurance that measures will be taken to estimate the possibility of further inconvenience to him or damage to his property.

Yours very truly,
W. A. BROWN.

TWO SIDES TO EVERYTHING

Sir: I hope Canadians won't judge all English immigrants, by the few who complain publicly, of anything and everything that annoys them.

Things go wrong in England, and it would be unfair to blame Canada, because they also go wrong here. As an English immigrant who came here about the same time, as your correspondent, I can only say that we were told how conditions were, before we were allowed to come. In fact I had to stay behind with the children, until my husband could find a home for us. We have had a struggle, but we get along, and we are not complaining. We like it here, and intend to stay.

Every coin has two sides, so long as King George's head is on one side, we'll keep our tails up.

Yours sincerely,
MRS. I. Q. FOWLER.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

How is the gold become dim! how is the most fine gold changed! the stones of the sanctuary are poured out in the top of every street. The precious sons of Zion, comparable to fine gold, how are they esteemed as earthen pitchers, the work of the hands of the potter! (Lam. 4: 1, 2.)

* * *

This I say therefore, and testify in the Lord, that ye henceforth walk not as other Gentiles walk, in the vanity of their mind, having the understanding darkened, being alienated from the life of God through the ignorance that is in them, because of the blindness of their heart....

But ye have not so learned Christ; if so be that ye have heard him, and have been taught by him, as the truth is in Jesus: that ye put off concerning the former conversation the old man, which is corrupt according to the deceitful lusts; and be renewed in the spirit of your mind; and that ye put on the new man, which after God is created in righteousness and true holiness. (Eph. 4: 17, 18, 20-24.)

Woman Ordered Detained Ruled Hostile Witness

TORONTO, March 14 — Mrs. Olga Neporany, wife of Josephat Neporany who is suing Dr. Peter Kir of Peterborough for alienation of affections, visited the doctor several times at his Richmond St. W. room and complained to him about her unhappy married life, according to Dr. Kir who took the witness stand yesterday afternoon.

Over repeated objections of Peter White, counsel for Neporany, Mr. Justice Wells allowed Sydney M. Harris, appearing for Dr. Kir, to question his client on the general topics of conversation during these visits. Dr. Kir was still under examination when court adjourned for the day. He will resume his testimony tomorrow.

First Meeting

Dr. Kir testified he first met Mrs. Neoporany in Feb. 1949 when she came to the clinic where he was employed as a medical assistant.

"She said she had inflamation of the appendix," Dr. Kir said. "I examined her and tested her blood."

"Where did you next see her," questioned Mr. Harris. "At 671 Richmond St. W. where I lived."

"Why did she come there." "She came to ask me to accompany her to church."

"Did she visit you again?" "Yes. She told me I was a new man to this country and my start would be difficult. She said she could be of assistance to me."

"How many times did she come to see you at Richmond St?" "Three or four times."

"In what part of the house did you see her?" "In my room."

"What was the subject matter of your conversation on her next visit?" "She complained about her unhappy married life."

Mr. White here registered another objection, but his lordship allowed Dr. Kir to continue.

"She said she was not permitted to write letters home," Dr. Kir continued. "That she must always be accompanied by her husband's brother. I told her to accept her love for her children and not her own love and she promised to do that."

Used Interpreter

During the day Mr. Justice Wells and both counsel experienced difficulty in obtaining the testimony of Shifra Russak, Markham St. rooming house operator from whom Dr. Kir had rented a room. The witness was able to speak only through an interpreter.

"Do you know the name Peter Kir?" asked Mr. White "I don't know the name but I know the man."

"Do you know Olga Neporany?" "I know Olga but not the name Neporany. She resided at my place. She rented a room in June or July, 1949."

Witness talked at great length in Ukrainian to the interpreter and frequently giggled to herself.

"Tell her that anybody who wants to tell the truth can remember quite well," his lordship ordered. "It is not funny and I want her to deal with this seriously."

"How many times a week did Kir visit her?" Mr. White continued. "It may have been once or it may have been 10 times. There were days when he came twice, days when he came four times and days when he didn't come at all."

"Did you see them together?" "I do not go into the rooms."

"Who paid for the room?" "She paid."

Changing Testimony

Mr. White then said the witness was changing her testimony and asked his lordship to declare her hostile.

"I don't think she has any idea she is sworn to tell the truth," Mr. Justice Wells said. "I think I will declare her hostile. In fact, I'm thinking of taking her into custody, on the basis of her whole attitude and evasions."

Mr. White was then given permission to cross-examine his own witness, and the court recessed. His lordship instructed the sheriff to take the witness into custody, meaning she was not to leave the courtroom during recess, and no one was to talk to her. Witness then again took the stand.

"Did you tell Neporany that Kir visited Olga daily" "Yes."

"Was that true?" "Yes."

Some humor was brought to the courtroom when Annie Willinski, operator of Kir's rooming house on Richmond St., took the stand.

"When did Dr. Kir first come to live at your house?" Mr. White asked. "I don't remember," and looking across the courtroom she addressed the defendant: "When did you come, Dr. Kir?" The jury laughed and his lordship smiled.

"When did you first see Mrs. Neporany?" "When she came to my house. Dr. Kir told me 'That's my girl friend, I'm going to marry her."

"When was that?" "I don't remember."

"Was it warm or cold?" "You ask me questions like a baby."

The judge: "Mr. White is only asking the questions it is his duty to ask."

"How many times a week did this woman come to see Dr. Kir?" "You think I keep an accountant? How do I know how many times?"

"What happened when Olga came?" "What happened? You ask me such a question? I don't go into the room to see what happens."

"Who was in the room?" "Olga and Dr. Kir."

"How long did she stay?" "A couple of hours."

Neporany's twin brother, Joseph, testified he was with his sister-in-law in Queen's Park when Dr. Kir stepped off a street car.

"She left and went straight to him," Neporany said. "They came toward me hand in hand and Kir beckoned to me. I crossed the road to him. He said 'I'm taking this woman.' I said 'It's not news to me, because you've had her all winter.' Without any question he hit me. He hit me again and again. Then they went hand in hand toward College and Spadina. I got up and went to the police station. A police officer took me to the General Hospital and after that I laid a charge against Dr. Kir."

"Did you have another conversation with Kir?" Mr. White asked.

"Yes. I asked him how he met her. He said at a clinic on Bathurst St. He said she started to cry and he said 'I am a man, I know what she wants.' I asked him if she knew she was the mother of three children. He said yes, children were nothing to him."

Order Strike To Rap Paper

BUENOS AIRES, March 14 — (Reuters).—Argentina's communications, industry and commerce stopped for 15 minutes Tuesday by order of the government-controlled general labor confederation in condemnation of the independent newspaper La Prensa.

La Prensa, frequent critic of the government, has been off the streets since Jan. 26 because of a boycott by the federation's news vendors' union.

Trains halted in their tracks as the strike began. Most forms of transport and international communications, stopped.

In the capital some taxis continued to run and a few stores and banks attended customers.

In a counter-demonstration pamphlets were showered from cars and from balconies in the downtown area reading "Viva La Prensa" (long live La Prensa) but no incidents were reported.

Urges Britain Allow Use Of US Decorations

LONDON, March 14 (Reuters) —Lord Beaverbrook's widely-read Daily Express today urged Britain to allow her soldiers in Korea to wear United States decorations.

The Express said it disagreed with the government "when it accepted American charity," and now disagrees with the government because it refuses something from the Americans and will not grant permission for British soldiers in Korea to wear American decorations.

"This ban is nonsensical," the Express said in an editorial. "Let the men put up their medals. Unlike Marshall Aid, they have been fairly won."

IOOF Juveniles Lose Out In Semi-Finals

ST. CATHARINES, March 14 —St. Catharines Bisons, the defending OMHA Juvenile "A" champions for the past eight years, advanced to finals here Tuesday night when they eliminated Peterborough IOOF. Bisons had won the series opener in the liftlock city by 10-6 and with the four goal margin to work on, practically won the round by the end of the opening period. Then they had added six to their string for a ten tally lead, coasting the rest of the way for an 8-4 victory, or 18-10 on the round.

Bisons, who are the juvenile farm club of Buffalo Bisons and younger unit of St. Kitts' Teepees of OHA Junior "A", played sound hockey for the initial heat, with their first line of Ciesla, Swain and Roberts clicking. It was Ciesla from Swain, then alternated for the first brace, followed by Roberts, from the above duo for the third. Al Frayne plunked the fourth past West, while Ciesla set up Bob Richmond next. Frayne spiked his second in the last minute of play. This despite the fact that Bisons paid for four of the five minors in that panel, scoring the third with Markarian off.

On Even Terms

The second chapter was scoreless, with Petes continually trying, with all three lines that coach Jack Godfrey eased over the rails. However, rival coach Vic Teal outjockeyed Petes, using tall Hank Ciesla on defence when shorthanded and the Bison stickhandling wizard and his rear wall mates controlled play and killed off their enforced rests. Bisons were more concerned with protecting their six goal lead and made scant efforts to go on the offensive except with odd men, in which they had three opportunities, yet were unable to peported in Hongchon just last netrate the Jack Kimbal-Jack Church defence, or that set up by Kem Pammett and Leo Sullivan.

Bisons began to play the man and forget the puck in the final chukker, with Markarian cooled thrice. With him and Ciesla off Petes broke the ice on Jack Cupoli's counter and in 45 seconds Marve Buchan had cut the Bisons lead to 6-2. With Markarian off again Mike Golley gave Petes their third counter in a row, only to have Fat Roberts snap their string in 60 seconds, when he soloed end to end through the entire Petes' team in action and beat West at 7-3. Then Nick Hill wedged in a goal for Bisons at 8-3.

That matched Roberts' solo burst, as Bodnar took it through the IOOF'ers alone, with Hill providing the crease tap-in. Successive penalties to Markarian, Sherlick, Bodnar, Gimball and Resayne came in as many minutes and for the final stanza Bisons played 60 per cent of the time with a man short. Largely on cheap revengeful minors. With 1:29 to go, White shoved in the final register, at 8-4 with Frayne in the cooler. On the balance of play, Bisons merited the win, but Petes never gave up hope or effort and were matching Bisons even in the last of the opener when down 6-0.

IOOF — Goal, C. West; defence Kimball and Church; centre, Caravaggie; wings, Gooley and Buchan; alternates, Pammett, Sullivan, Dunn, Killen, Cupoli, Hope, White, Jones.

St. Catharines — Goal, Edward; defence, Bodnar and Markarian; centre, Ciesla; wings, Swain and Roberts; alternates, Sherlock, Richmond, Foley, Frayne, Nille, Corbiere, Piatkowski.

Woodville Captures Farmers' Bonspiel

LINDSAY, March 14. — The first bonspiel of its kind, a junior farmers' curling event; attracted 10 rinks to Lindsay from Bruce County, Ontario, Peterborough and Victoria. It was so enthusiastically received that the juniors have decided to enlarge the scope and make the bonspiel an annual event.

The winners were:

1, Woodville, Bill Veale, Gordon Dixon, Cliff Lillico, and Carl Trebell (skip); 2, Ripley, Bruce County, W. Dickenson, Eldon McFaden, Allan Kirkconnell, George McFaden, (skip); 3, Beaverton, Dick Howe, Jack MacDonald, Earl Windap and Ross MacMillan (skip).

AS YOU HAVE PROBABLY GUESSED by now after looking at the above picture, Goaler Harry Lumley of Chicago Black Hawks was completely bamboozled by Canadiens' Elmer Lach, (16). The sparky pivot planted the disc behind Lumley, the first of a dozen goals Canadiens whipped by Lum in last Saturady's 12-2 battle at Montreal Forum.

Garcia Lonesome Leaves Team

BURBANK, Calif., March 14—(AP) — Lonesome Lu has gone home, depriving the Chicago White Sox of a fine infield prospect.

Luis Garcia succumbed to homesickness Tuesday and left by plane for Caracas, Venezuela. The 21-year-old rookie, who had been assigned to the Sox farm at Colorado Springs, Colo., had made a good impression on manager Paul Richards.

Garcia promised to return the $10,000 bonus he received for signing.

Sox pitcher Luis Aloma, who had acted as Garcia's interpreter, revealed a strange story about the husky South American.

Aloma said Garcia had never gone to school and actually came from a tribe of head hunters in the hinterlands of Venezuela. His parents still live in the deep bush. Garcia was brought to Caracas as a youngster and was raised by an aunt.

"When our scout, Claude Dietrich, was in Venezuela to get the contract signed by Garcia's father, he was warned by the U.S. embassy not to go back into the back country," Richards disclosed. "He had Luis take the contract to his father and then bring it back out."

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

Hamilton Tigers went on strike after winning the National Hockey League title 26 years ago today. The club had refused a bonus to players to meet Victoria Cougars for the Stanley Cup. The second and third NHL teams, Toronto St. Patricks and Montreal Canadiens, played for the championship with Canadiens winning, but Cougars defeated Canadiens in the Stanley Cup series.

NEW GOLF PRO—Alfred Hill has been engaged as golf professional of the Peterborough Golf and Country Club for this year, and will report on April 15. Highly recommended by OGA officials and prominent golfers, Mr. Hill has had considerable instructing experience and tournament play, showing up well in the Millar Trophy tournament. He served as assistant to Bob Gray at Scarboro and Gordon Brydson at Mississauga, besides teaching pro at Cliffside for three years, during which time he set a course record of 64, which still stands. Last year, he was pro at Cedarhurst Club, Beaverton. During the past two winters, Mr. Hill instructed at Golf Haven School in Toronto.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

With spring moving gently but insistently upon the scene, a lot of chaps are looking over their golfing equipment. It won't be long. Interesting news comes from the Peterborough Golf Club through T. A. Mackay. They've engaged a new pro for this year, Alfred Hill, with Cedarhurst as pro last year and winter-time instructor at Golf Haven School in Toronto. Before that assistant at Scarboro, Mississauga and Cliffside. A lot of experience as an instructor and in tournament play where he has made some fine showings. He'll be here the middle of April and, meantime, club officials are getting set for another big season at the northend links.

Same is true out at the Kawartha Golf Club west of the city. There Lex Robson, an excellent pro with much experience, will be back on duty again. A recent notice says applicants for membership must pay dues for this year upon applying. If the application is refused, money is refunded. Family memberships include one regular and one associate member in the same household. A discount on annual dues holds good if paid for before June 1. Secretary G. F. White points out that the fees a year run from six bucks for junior tennis all the way up to $50 for family golf. Kawartha and Peterborough Club officials will give any info desired.

Owen Sound And Petes

Civic Arena should be jam-packed by 8.30 tonight as Owen Sound Mercurys tee off against the Petes. Second of their four-of-seven Allan Cup senior "A" playdown series. Sounders won the first at home, play here tonight and Friday, and then they switch back to the northern centre by Georgian Bay on Saturday and again Monday, if necessary, ere returning here. With the Eagles out of it now and the juniors tied 1-1 in group finals with Oshawa, there may not be too much more playoff hockey seen here. This Allan Cup game ought to be a dandy, with the Petes having a good chance of tying it up as the potent Mercurys have to go on the smaller surface. A hot fight throughout and it rates a sellout.

Many local lacrosse fans will be interested, too, in seeing some of the Mann Cup stars in hockey action. Bashing Harry Kazarian (No. 13) is a real rough hombre on defence. Tommy Burlington (No. 10) is a whale of a player who would be in the NHL except that he has but one eye. Then there's Bun White, Pat McReavy, Doug Gillespie—No. 8—Jack Ingoldsby (he's No. 11), and Bill Allum, who wears No. 15, among other aces with this fast, big team. The Petes figure they were too bashful in the opener but are ready to fight the Sounders right into the ice in this one to even the series. They'll have to or their chances of lasting are slim. First time ever an Allan Cup tilt was staged in this borough.

His Ludship Likes Judo

Possibly as a dress rehearsal for a Toronto main bout before some 9,000 mat fans, Whipper Bill Watson and Lord Athol did their ring stuff here last night before a hefty crowd. And it wound up in a sizzling draw without a fall in the hour time limit. But Whipper was definitely on the ropes and about all in from judo slashes when the bell went. In fact, he was carried upstairs and took some time to get his legs under him. However, he gave his ludship a rugged evening and both were sweating buckets in the hard grappling. A couple of top matmen in action, with the issue still in doubt. Tough Lee Henning won the semi-final o'er Sonny Kurgis, while George Scott and Jack Wentworth went to a prelim draw.

Some new officers elected this year to the men's City Softball League. The slate is: President, Bob Batley; vice-prexy, Harold Dormer; secretary, Johnny McPhee; treasurer, Frank Wood; executive committee, George Dormer, Percy Harrison, Johnny Legrow, Fred Scates and Pat Calladine. The latter decided to drop out as president after several successful terms, and Bert Bailey and Ted Naish found work interfering with their offices. Dave Leether acts as life member at meetings. Two teams in so far, Mutuals and UEW, with room for two more. Next meeting is April 1, with entries closing on April 15. The president, vice-president and secretary will take in the OASA annual Good Friday in Brantford.

Find Old Bomb

TOKYO, March 14—(AP)—A 1,000-pound aerial bomb of the Second World War was uncovered today within 100 yards of Gen. MacArthur's headquarters. It caused scarcely a ripple of excitement. The second bomb found in the area, it was removed by a disposal squad.

Mermaid Rivalry

COPENHAGEN— (CP)— The crew of the British warship Mermaid believes there is only one mermaid more famous than their own—the statue of Hans Andersen's little mermaid in Copenhagen—and the captain of the ship has asked for a photograph to hang in the officers' mess.

Leafs Wallop Britain; In 3-Way Tie

PARIS, March 14 (CP). — Canada's holding a tidy edge in goals in the world amateur hockey championships, rests today while her two main rivals fight it out for leadership in the point column of the standing.

Lethbridge Maple Leafs' 17-1 conquest of Britain Tuesday night put her in a three-way tie with Switzerland for first place. The two European teams meet today. One of them will take at least a temporary point lead.

But Canada's margin in goals scored—the deciding factor in the event of a tie—is far out of sight. She posts 36 scored for two against, compared with Switzerland's 19 for three and Sweden's 18 for three.

Meet Weak Team

Thursday the Leafs meet a weak United States team from Lewiston, Me. A win is almost certain and her goal average should shoot ahead.

Tuesday night's game was a walkaway. Britain fended off the Lethbridge attack for the first period, scoring her lone goal just before it ended.

Then the Leafs got under way with a vengeance. They scored seven times in the second period and 10 times in the finale.

The new line from the Kitchener-Waterloo, Ont., Dutchmen, brougt over just before the series began, was in action. Billy Flick picked up a pair and Micke Roth and Dinny Flangan scored one each.

Stan Obodiak and Dick Gray, stalwart performers throughout the pre-championship tour of Europe, each posted three goals. Don Vogan and Hec Negrello notched a pair apiece, and Bill Milroy and Tom Wood scored singles.

Peewee Semi-Finals

NORWOOD, March 14 (ENS)— The Norwood pee-wee league held their semi-final games in the arena here before a fair crowd. Black Hawks defeated Bruins 5-2 and Maple Leafs won over Red Wings 5-3.

The goal getters for Black Hawks were Scott, three goals; Hannon, one goal and one assist; Burthe, one goal, two assists; Smith, one goal. Scorers for Bruins were Heffernan and Leiper one goal each and Ferguson and Long one assist each.

Maple Leafs' goals were scored by Rusaw, two, and one assist; Smith, three goals; Paxton, one assist. M. Johnson, Bedore and Fredericks each got one for Red Wings.

Black Hawks: Goal, W. Ranson; defence, Hannon, D. Smith; centre, Burth; wings, Morgan, McNeely; alternates, Bongard; Hamblin, Johnson, Hinds, H. Scott, G. Millett.

Bruins: Goal, Nolan; defence, Ferguson, Brown; centre, Heffernan; wings, M. Millett, Lieper; alternates, Bland, R. Stewart, J. Stewart, R. Millett, Redden, Cronin, Chappell, Long.

Referees, Arthur Spring and Clarence Mainland.

Warsaw Gets First

HASTINGS, March 14 (ENS)— Warsaw Flyers beat Hastings 6-3 to open their best-of-five EPHL finals. Clements scored from Paterson and Andrews for the only goal in the first period. Stan Lonsberry got one from Sharpe and Andrews scored on Paterson's pass in the second to make it 3-0 for Warsaw, but Cobbledick and Crowley tallied in the same stanza for Hastings, Greenley and Petticrew each having an assist. Oliver got the final Hastings' goal in the third from Crowley and Edwards. S. Lonsberry hit the twine twice then and Paterson once for the Flyers, an assist each going to Smith, G. Payne, and Clements. Play was fast and marked by but two Hastings' penalties. Teams:

Warsaw: Goal, B. Payne; defence, G. Payne, Eadie; centre, Paterson; wings, Andrews, Clements; alternates, Watts, Sharpe, S. Lonsberry, E. Payne, Smith, Dennis, Batten, R. Payne.

Hastings: Goal, McKentry; defence, Brown, Petticrew; centre, Crowley; wings, Oliver, Edwards; alternates, Greenley, Laver, Thomas, West, Lockhart, Cobbledick, Mueller.

Get Win

OSHAWA, March 14 (CP). — Despite the loss of a regular goalkeeper through a protest and the near-loss of another who was struck by a flying puck, Orono Orphans defeated Aurora 5-1 Tuesday night to win their Ontario Hockey Association Junior C playoff series.

Watson and Layton Draw In Top Bout Of Mat Card

Whipper Bill Watson gained a draw with Lord Athol Layton in the main pro mat bout here last night, but he did it the hard way—being toted upstairs feet first to his dressing room right after the finish. The champion was in dire straits toward the end of the lively scrap and he collapsed en route to the dressing room, a police officer and three fans lugging him up. It took some time to revive the 237-pound Torontonian as many of the crowd milled around outside.

The bout went the full hour time limit without a fall. It was a good tussle, with plenty of mat work shown and enlivened in spots with open work. Near the conclusion they really opened it up, with the Whipper flung out of the ring once and both starting to rough it up after exceptionally clean grappling. The judo work of the 258-pound Englishman made a big difference. Both huskies had a lot of followers in the large crowd.

Two Good Men

They were equally fast and Whip offset the other's weight and reach —as well as youth and height— with his aggressive work and his all-around mat experience. He drove in all the time to hold his own till a few minutes before the final gong. He favored a toehold and a bear-hug, while the other went in considerably for headlocks. They were on the mat a lot but finally opened it up with Athol deciding to use all the judo he knew. He needed it and it finally paid off as the Whip gradually weakened under the slashes to neck and midriff and the pressure on his shoulders. He threw a lot of elbow smashes and finally worked in a few fists and knees as Layton kept slashing him in corners, both drawing warnings. They dished up hammerlocks, scissors, whip grips, toeholds and every hold in the book during their long session. Watson was being cuffed around and in trouble, but still battling, at the gong. They shook hands as the crowd gave them a round of applause.

Henning Wins

Rough Lee Henning, scaling 252 pounds, took the semi-final over 226-pound Sonny Kurgis in 17 minutes with two rolling body slams after throwing him twice into the ropes and catching him then with a knee to the stomach to soften him up. It was an unpopular fall and Lee was his usual villainous self. He pulled all sorts of illegal tricks—including a hidden cord in his trunks—while Kurgis went in for straight wrestling. Sonny, however, could hold his own most of the way and often had Henning in trouble, but the latter threw fists and emplayed choke holds despite the vigilance of Referee Bunny Dunlop, who yanked him off unethical grips several times. Sonny had to slug at times, too, and Henning headed for the ropes when in trouble for protection, later hoisting his hand as the crowd booed.

Jack Wentworth, 224, went to a draw in the prelim with 221-pound George Scott, of Hamilton. The Alabama grappler played it rough and was unpopular, while Scott showed improvement with his work. It was clean at the go-in but didn't last long that way when Jack began throwing the book at George. He threw him out of the ring but Scott battled back and had Wentworth outside the ropes in a series of hard exchanges. When Jack yanked Scott's hair, the referee jerked Wentworth back on the mat by pulling Jack's locks. They were both out of the ring finally with Scott chasing Wentworth around in hot and heavy going as the big crowd roared approval at the exciting action. Actually, the grappling was fairly even and a draw was a fair decision when they both lasted the 30-minute time limit.

Betty Pogue Leads

Betty Pogue rolled high single of 349 this week in the Girls' City Bowling League and tied with M. Hill with 770 for top three. M. Selkirk's 713 won the 720 blind score. Arcos hit high pinnage of 3099 as Cardinals led in single games with 1128. Collis blanked Marines and the Arcos whitewashed Aces, with 2-1 wins marked by Towne Togs, Brintons and Dickson's respectively over Curtin's, Cardinals and Sevenaires.

Good single games were marked by L. Crocker with 240, E. Penrose 243, M. Selkirk 247 and 301, M. Hill 248 and 310, D. Hendren 275, J. Brockley 308, M. Hawthorne 324, M. Rogers 248, and E. Flint 267. Neat triples were rolled by D. Hendren with 651, J. Brockley 656, M. Hawthorne 682, M. Rogers 700, and M. Selkirk 713.

Men's League Chooses Batley Prexy

Bob Batley was elected president of the men's City Softball League at last night's annual meeting. Harold Dormer goes in as vice-president, John McPhee as secretary and Frank Wood as treasurer. The executive committee comprises: Pat Calladine, Fred Scates, Johnny Legrow, Percy Harrison and George Dormer, while Dave Leether sits as a life member of the club. Pat Calladine stepped down this season after several successful years as president, and Secretary Bert Bailey and treasurer Ted Naish were unable to hold office this year, due to work. Jack Playford also left the executive scene.

The president, vice-president and secretary were selected to represent Peterborough at the annual OASA meeting in Brantford on Good Friday. Mutuals and UEW have entered again and it is expected two more local clubs will be in when entries close on April 15. The next league meeting will be held on April 1 in the AA hall.

Boucher Refuses Predictions, Race Uncertain

By MEL SUFRIN,
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

Frank Boucher, hockey's ace prognosticator, has given a good indication of the uncertainty there is in the fight for the third and fourth playoff positions in the National Hockey League.

He's done it in rather a negative manner—by refusing to predict the order in which his New York Rangers, Boston Bruins and Montreal Canadiens will wind up the schedule.

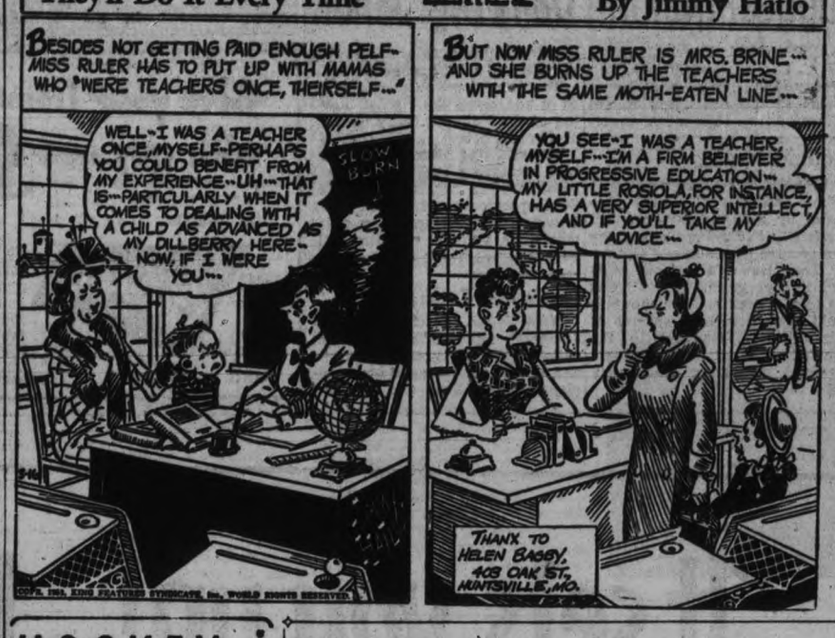
Anyone who has followed Boucher's career as a forecaster since he quit playing seven years ago will appreciate how uncertain a situation must be when the New New York general manager refuses to offer a prediction.

However, Boucher did show some signs of optimism.

At present the Rangers and Boston are tied for third place with Montreal setting a hot pace just one point back. Only two of these teams will wind up in the lucrative playoffs along with Toronto and the league-leading Detroit Red Wings.

Schedule Break

"The schedule favors us and has for the past few games," said Boucher, "but it hasn't worked out that way. The reason that is Canadiens are a hot club right now and as long as they stay hot, the schedule doesn't mean too much.



"However we're a point ahead, have a game with Chicago and they (Canadiens) maven't. That is almost a safe two points for us. I think we'll make it.

"Boston is in a pretty good position. Yes, Canadiens are in the roughest spot, but it's too close to start climbing out on limbs and we've had too much tough luck.

"Of the three teams I think we have a slight edge."

Biltmores Crush Teepees 29 Penalties Handed Out

By The Canadian Press.

The Ontario Hockey Association Junior A League stormed a day nearer its close Tuesday night as Guelph Biltmores fought down St. Catharines Teepees 8-1 and Galt Black Hawks demoralized Toronto Marlboros 5-1 in overtime.

In a wild game that featured two Teepees misconducts — a match to goalie Don Simmons and a 10-minute to captain Wayne Brown, in the same fray—Guelph jumped into second place and assured themselves of finishing no lower than third in the league standings.

Five Biltmore goals were scored against defenceman Orrin Gould, who took over the St. Catharines net in the second period when Simmons was waved off.

Twenty-nine penalties, 16 to Teepees, were handed out before the game ended.

Andy Bathgate and Ron Murphy scored two for Guelph and the others went to Aldo Guidolin, Gerry Theberge, Don Keith and Ken Laufman. Pierre Pilotte scored the only Tepees' goal.

The only other Tuesday night game was quite a comparison. Referees had given out only 12 penalties when the ice cleared.

Don Hogan banged in the first for Galt early in the game, but Marlboro Danny Poland tied things up just 23 seconds before the first stanza ended. And neither team could gain an inch during the last two periods.

Marlies buckled badly in the overtime go, however, when Jack Price broke the tie with a rising back-hand shot. Bill Wharram flashed the red light soon after, and solo efforts by Bob Carruthers and Pete Conacher in quick succession gave Hawks the game standing up.

Here And There In Sports . . .

By The Canadian Press

A. B. (Happy) Chandler, refused reappointment as baseball commissioner, said Tuesday he has no definite plans for the future.

There was an unconfirmed report that he might be a candidate for Governor of Kentucky in the fall elections. To make that race he would need to begin his campaign soon.

"I am free to do what I want to do," he said here Tuesday. "There is no pressure on me. I'm going to stand by and see what they are going to do."

By "they," Chandler made it clear he meant the big-league baseball club owners who voted not to review his contract at Miami Beach Monday.

The New York State Legislature approved Tuesday a bill increasing the maximum prison term from five to 10 years for anyone convicted of bribing or trying to bribe an athlete.

The measure was recommended by Governor Tom Dewey as an aftermath of the New York City basketball scandal in which several college players have been arrested for "dumping" games.

The measure continues the present $10,000 fine for convicted bribers or persons attempting to bribe.

Dates for finals in three divisions of the Ontario Minor Hockey Association were announced by officials Tuesday night.

In the juvenile B finals, Midland will visit Wallaceburg on Saturday and the teams will play at Midland Thursday, March 22 in a two-game, total-goal series.

In the deciding game of the bantam B division, Port Colborne will play at Midland Saturday afternoon. Bobcaygeon and Lucknow clash in the bantam B final at Wingham today.

Two promising young Canadian ball players have been signed to the Pittsburgh Pirates' organization by Dick Fischer, chief scout in Canada and Western New York for the National League club it was announced at Welland Tuesday.

They are Ted Morris of Toronto and Albert Gibb of Hamilton. Morris was a utility player with the Welland Stokes-Thermoid club of Niagara Senior Baseball League last season.

Gibb pitched the Guelph juniors into the Ontario Baseball Association finals last year. He is a student at McMaster University.

Western Canada Olympic ski trials will be held at Banff, Alta., beginning March 23 and finishing either March 31 or April 1, Dave Spence, president of the Canadian Amateur Ski Association said Tuesday.

Four women and 14 men will represent the west at the trials which will consist of four downhill, four slalom and four giant slalom events.

Coach Annis Stukus of Edmonton's football Eskimos Monday night offered little comment on a rumor that his team had been invited to play a pre-season exhibition series against Montreal Alouettes in Montreal.

"We (the Eskimos) have invited Toronto Argonauts, last year's Grey Cup champions, to play out here," he said, "but I don't know much about this Montreal deal."

Baltimore Eliminates Cobourg Tannery

COBOURG, March 14.—Baltimore Villagers, featuring several Cobourg Galloping Ghosts, including Art Jones, Pud Jamieson, Donny Ball, Bob Bevan and a Japanese-Canadian C. Ito, were too good for Cobourg Tannery here. Baltimore eliminated the factory hands from the Mercantile District Hockey League semi-finals with a 14-3 victory.

The Villagers took an early lead and were never headed. This was the second game of the two-game playoff, the Tannery winning the first game.

Ball with seven goals and Pud Jamieson with three led the parade for the Millers.

CANADIAN SPORTS PARADE

LOOKING around the Canadian scene, I have often noticed that many of those whose names once filled the sports pages are later equally successful in our country's commerce and industry. It seems almost a rule that men and women who excel in sport are outstanding also in the careers of their choice. Let us examine a few instances:

"Puck" Saunders:

Robert Hood Saunders, Ontario Hydro Chairman, was once one of the leading members of the Toronto Canoe Club. Nicknamed "Puck" Saunders, he was an active paddler from 1922 until 1928, when he turned to coaching the sport. Retiring as an active participant in 1931, Saunders can look back with pride as a crew member of the Canadian Champion War Canoe (1926) and of the International "Four" that same year.

A prominent lawyer, he served for four years as a Toronto alderman, then for another four years as a member of the Board of Control. In 1945 he was elected Mayor of Toronto, resigning three years later to accept his present post.

As Chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission, Robert H. Saunders finds corporation authority and responsibility to his liking, but he's never forgotten a lesson he once learned as official starter during a regatta. Sweeping up alongside a Montreal war canoe in the officials' launch, "Puck" Saunders disqualified it for illegal tactics during a race. Enraged, the Montreal crew sat and glowered at Saunders' back as the launch turned to pull away. Suddenly one of the crew stood up and, in a flash, a glistening paddle cut through the air like a scythe. Instinctively "Puck" Saunders ducked in time and probably saved his life.

"The moral," laughs the Hydro Chairman, "is never lose your head while in any official capacity!"

"Big Train" Lawson:

At the turn of the century and for a decade afterwards one of the most talked about football players in the Dominion of Canada was powerful Smirle Lawson. Over six feet tall and topping 190 pounds, he was the terror of the gridiron when he earned the title "Big Train" in the backfield for the University of Toronto. In the first Grey Cup football final at Rosedale Field in 1908, Lawson was the biggest name on the field. Fast breaking, spectacular and fearless, he was the first great football idol of Canada. Later a successful doctor, Smirle Lawson is now Toronto's Chief Coroner and Supervising Coroner for Ontario.

Champion Golfer:

Canadian sportswomen, too, win success in other careers. Outstanding among these is Canada's topnotch woman golfer, Ada Mackenzie, now a prominent women's sport clothes authority.

A calm perfectionist, Ada Mackenzie's ready sense of humor has seldom deserted her. In the early 1930's she went down to St. Louis, Missouri, to compete in the American Women's National Tournament, where she drew against the famous Glenna Collett Vare. Miss Mackenzie wore a smart, pale blue knitted suit on what promised to be a perfect summer day. She was two up at the 15th hole but then it started to rain. Then it poured, while the gallery all but vanished as Collett and Mackenzie continued their match. And still the rain came down. Ada Mackenzie's pale blue knitted suit became the perfect blotting paper for a gallon or so of rain. Her water-soaked sleeves grew longer and longer in a private race between themselves and her jacket and skirt as to which would first reach the ground!

She finished the course and lost the match but to this day Ada Mackenzie hesitates to sell a knitted suit for golf—without enclosing a weather report.

Yes, Robert H. Saunders, Smirle Lawson, Ada Mackenzie and many others are convincing proof that excellence in sport and successful careers go hand in hand.

Fair Employment Bill Gets Unanimous Approval In Ontario Legislature

TORONTO, March 14. (CP)—The Ontario Government's Fair Employment Practices Bill was given unanimous approval in principle Tuesday, although Opposition critics charged it "completely misses the point." By a vote of 45 to 34, Progressive Conservative members defeated a combined Opposition demand that the bill be rewritten by the Legislature's Labor Committee. The defeated motion, by H. L. Walters (CCF-Toronto Bracondale), called for legislation "that truly expresses the principle" of fair employment.

Leslie Wismer (CCF-Toronto Riverdale) said the bill failed to provide for an educational campaign aimed at prejudice which was based in ignorance. "We have to get at the roots of what causes discrimination—which is prejudice."

CCF leader E. B. Jolliffe said the bill would not suffer at the hands of the Labor committee, since all members agreed on its principle. Education against intolerance would help to end discrimination in restaurants and other places.

Agnes Macphail (CCF-York East) said the bill's main failure was the absence of provision to ban discrimination against women seeking jobs.

Protects Minorities

"The bill is to protect minorities, not to protect the majority of people in this province," Premier Frost replied. A provision for women had "no part" in the bill.

The bill provides that employers, employment agencies and trade unions shall not discriminate against individuals on the grounds of race, color or creed. It would also bar mention of discrimination in advertising for employees.

Maximum fines of $50 for individuals and $100 for companies and unions are provided, with prosecution on the consent of the Labor Minister.

Stress Conciliation

Premier Frost said the emphasis would be on conciliation, rather than on sanctions. "Penalties are reserved for the flagrant violations which we earnestly hope will not occur," he said.

Complaints by individuals or trade unions would first be referred to a conciliation officer and, if his attempts at settlement fail, to a commission. Prosecution would not be considered until the commission had reported failure to bring agreement.

The bill exempts an employer from prosecution if the Labor Minister believes the alleged discrimination was done in good faith in time of national emergency. It also exempts domestic servants, establishments with fewer than five employees, or to religious, charitable, educational or fraternal organizations not operated for private profit.

During debate on the bill, the Premier said he hoped to improve the citizenship status of Indians and planned to meet Prime Minister St. Laurent to offer Ontario's co-operation.

Worst Discrimination

Indians faced more discrimination than any other class, he said, and although they were the responsibility of the federal government Ontario would seek a joint plan with Ottawa. Indians could acquire voting rights only by giving up their treaty rights, Mr. Frost told reporters later, and he felt this was too heavy a price to ask.

Mr. Frost turned down a suggestion by C. H. Millard (CCF-York West) that the Legislature support a resolution asking the federal government to expand citizenship rights for Indians.

The Ontario government did not feel it should attempt to give orders to the federal government through resolutions, he said.

The Premier gave the same answer to Mr. Jolliffe, who asked whether the government would permit debate on his motion for a resolution which urged the federal government to reinstate price controls and subsidies.

Resolutions from the Legislature to Ottawa were "not good business," Mr. Frost said.

Want It Broadened

Members of all three opposition groups joined in the 2½-hour debate to demand that the fair employment bill be broadened.

"I am not finding fault with the government for limiting the application of the bill to employment," Mr. Jolliffe said, "but if there were provisions for education it might help prevent discrimination in restaurants, hotels and other places open to serve the public."

Mr. Wismer said the government had not tried to deal with the fundamental reason for discrimination and charged the bill "completely misses the point." It should have conferred with Canadian organizations which had first-hand experience in dealing with intolerance, rather than copying legislation from several states in the United States.

"You will never break down discrimination in employment by punitive measures or by conciliation of individual cases," he said. "Only by educating the people can you overcome prejudice and bigotry."

Miss Macphail said the failure to ensure against discrimination against women employees made them "nothing better than second-class citizens."

"Women spend a lifetime going around bolstering the egos of men," she said. "It's time men realized women have egos too."

Publication Delayed On Tomb Search

VATICAN CITY, March 14 — (Reuters)—Publication of the results of a 10-year search for the tomb of St. Peter under the high altar of St. Peter's basilica here has been postponed, it was learned Tuesday night.

A volume of the studies was originally scheduled to be published Monday, the 12 anniversary of the coronation of the Pope, but now it is not expected for several months.

No official explanation was available at the Vatican.

3,100,000 Pilgrims

ROME, March 14 (Reuters)—About 3,100,000 pilgrims came to Rome during the 1950 Holy Year and the Pope gave 6,041 audiences final official figures showed Tuesday. Seven pilgrims came from behind the Iron Curtain, three from Poland, including Cardinal Archbishop Adam Sapienko of Cracow, two from the Russian sector of Berlin and two from Hungary. The 1900 Holy Year brought 350,000 pilgrims to Rome, and 582,000 came in 1925.

Farmers Not Satisfied

WINGHAM, March 14 (CP).—An expected increase to $10 from $5 in the payment to farmers for each hydro pole erected on their land will not satisfy Goderich township farmers. Bert Harris, chairman of their organization, said Tuesday night that as soon as the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission announces its new rate the farmers will meet and decide what price they want. One thing was sure, $10 wouldn't be enough.

Price Rises

REGINA, March 14 (CP)—The retail price of margarine in Regina rose two cents Tuesday to 45 cents a pound. The price has risen from 39 cents since Feb. 15. Butter is selling at 78 and 79 cents a pound.

Suggest Uniform Dairy Legislation

SASKATOON, March 14 (CP)—W. C. Cameron, of Ottawa, said Tuesday the dairy industry in Canada should endeavour to get uniform dairy legislation in all provinces and increase the supply of milk and milk products.

The federal government's dairy chief addressed the annual meeting of the National Dairy Council of Canada here.

He said the domestic market was increasing and there was a possibility of regaining some of the lost export market. The dairy industry had arrived at a point where its volume was just sufficient for domestic needs.

Exclude Papers

ALBANY, N.Y., March 14 (AP)—The Assembly Tuesday approved by a 137-to-3 vote a bill specifically excluding newspapers from seizure provisions of Governor Tom Dewey's defence-regimentation program. The bill was sent to the Senate. The measure would have permitted seizure of communication facilities in the event of an attack. Newspapers were not mentioned specifically in the bill.

PETERBOROUGH EXAMINER

VOL. CII. No. 62 WEDNESDAY, MARCH 14, 1951

Place Vote $200,000 For Building

Parliament Asked To Revote Money For Federal Building

In this year's estimates the federal government has included the sum of $200,000 for Peterborough's proposed post office and customs building.

This sum is a revote of a similar sum put in the 1950 estimates but never spent. In itself it is no indication that work will go ahead this year, either.

Deputy Postmaster W. J. Turnbull has listed the new building as "very essential" in the eyes of the postmaster's department. It will include a staff college for the training of postal officers. New employees will take a year's course here—a month in winter and another in summer as a letter carrier, a period of sorting mails, and another period at the money order wicket.

A mechanical letter sorter of Swiss design, a transorma, will be installed in the new building. The large machine—the most modern method available of sorting mail—will be the first in Canada.

Through Gordon K. Fraser, MP the Examiner previously learned that Mr. Turnbull had unsuccessfully tried to get the Department of Public Works to go ahead with the new federal building. But he thought that actual construction would probably be delayed for some time because of the government cutback in building, and the shortage of steel.

Still Short $10,000

The Red Cross and Community Fund Campaign is $10,000 below its objective as reported to the Examiner this morning by the campaign headquarters. The total raised to date is $75,-114.46. The division totals are, Special Names, $22,500; Retail, $11,239.55; Women's, $6,289.55; Industrial, $34,552. The addition of the Penny Drive collection of $553.36 brings the total to the stated amount.

Chamber Shows Big Increase In Membership

Membership in the Chamber of Commerce was the highest during 1950 in the chamber's history. Number of members was just short of 400, an increase of more than 60 over 1949.

This was revealed in the annual report, presented to members at the chamber's annual dinner Tuesday night.

The report also showed that in the past year, the Chamber of Commerce was able to pay its own way with the aid of a grant from the city. In previous years, the chamber has been aided for the most part by city industries.

Receipts $16,078

Net gain for 1950 was $479.37, expenses being $15,599.56 and receipts $16,078.93.

Speaking at the dinner, Chamber of Commerce president P. D. Scollard said he believed the most beneficial project undertaken by the chamber was the group insurance coverage.

This, he said, provided insurance for smaller city firms which would otherwise have been unable to get insurance of that nature. The insurance covered life, sickness and accident.

During 1950, 41 members of the chamber took on this insurance, and policies taken out covered 193 employees.

Furnishing Data

Another of the chamber's bigger jobs was furnishing industrial and commercial data for firms and individuals looking for office, industrial, or store space in Peterborough.

The report showed 18,384 drivers licenses issued, and the following numbers of license plates for various classifications: pasenger car, 11,894; doctors, 61; trailers, 1,052; commercial, 2,144; motorcycles, 180.

In 1950, 40 fishermen qualified for the Order of the Kawartha Muskie—given to anglers catching maskinonge weighing more than 15 pounds.

2 Swimmers Present Sportsmen's Show Act

Ornamental Swimming Club members Mrs. June Storey and Mrs. Betty Walsh, performed Tuesday at the Sportsmen's Show in Toronto. With synchronized swimming acts from the University of Toronto and the Toronto Granite Clubs, the local duet will repeat the performance today.

Friday afternoon and evening another Peterborough pair, Mrs. Norma Delaney and Miss Joan Lynch, will present the four-minute duet, Goofus, at the Coliseum.

Two Elderly Women Injured In Falls

Two elderly women are in Civic Hospital today with injuries they received Tuesday. Mrs. Joseph Mills, 88, of 451 Hunter St., fell down a flight of stairs and injured her head.

Mrs. James D. Cameron, 77, of 571 Gilmour St., suffered a hip injury in a fall in her home.

This morning about 7:30 Arnold Fox had an accident while he was cranking a compressor at the Board of Works garage where he works on Townsend St. He injured his jaw, but it is not believed fractured.

Maori Little Known

DUNEDIN, N.Z. — (CP) — A United States scholar studying here started something when he complained that few New Zealanders know any Maori, the language of the native race. Inquiries confirmed that few knew more than a few words in Maori and those who have learned Maori songs seldom can translate them.

Lack Ample Supply Of Butter

Margarine Saved Day For Dairy Farmer; Would Be Rationing

"If it wasn't for margarine we'd be getting a ration of two ounces of butter per person, per fortnight, or something like that," said a grocer this morning.

It seems to me that the dairy farmers have closed up shop and gone out of business. A man said to me yesterday: "You'll pay 79 cents a pound for butter". There is no choice about that. It is either take or leave it. So I decided to sell it at 81 cents, that is when we got it. Later he telephoned that there was a mistake and the price would be 75c. At that I can sell it at 77 or 78 cents, and you can see for yourself how little is the profit at that rate.

47 Cents A Pound

I'd like to know how many farmers are buying butter at more than 80 cents a pound. And as for margarine, it's climbed up to 47 cents, ten cents a pound in the last month and a half.

Margarine came on to the market in the beginning around 45 cents, and gradually dropped to 27 cents. At the price of 47 cents you can use a ten cent coupon. That brings the cost to the consumer at 37 cents.

I don't want to hear any more beefing from the dairy farmers about margarine.

Advertise Products

Their whole industry doesn't appear to know where they are at from one month to the next. They build up a big fund last June in a cream levy, that is a cent a pound of butterfat at the creameries, to advertise Canadian dairy products. Now they haven't enough stuff to sell. Maybe I'm wrong, but it looks to me as if they are likely to be advertising New Zealand cheese and butter.

Any business firm going into an advertising campaign makes sure of one factor in the deal, namely that he has an ample supply of his product to put on the market.

This dairy farmer business of advertising a product without having enough of it to supply the public at a fair price, looks to me like a big joke."

Spend $75,000 Suburban Roads

Suburban Area Commission will spend $75,000 this year as reported to the city council by County Engineer J. D. Kean.

Maintenance items amount to $41,500; and in construction $10,-000 has been allotted to the Buckhorn Road, and $4,000 for mulch top in the village of Keene.

The Commission has ticked off $21,000 to be spent on a motor grader with snow plow and wing. Cost is $24,000 but there is a $3,-000 credit in trade-in value of an old machine bought 12 years ago.

The Commission's revenue will total $75,000 this year. The county and city each pay $18,000 and the Department of Highways $35,-250, and there is a further $3,750 from the county as the remainder of machinery purchase.

SIXTY-SECOND ANNUAL MEETING of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce was held on Tuesday evening during which the annual report was discussed. Direction Of Manpower Held Unlikely Within Next Year

Government direction of manpower within the next 12 months is unlikely, Morgan Reid, economist for a Toronto department store, predicted Tuesday night at the 62nd annual dinner of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce. While manpower would be one of the nation's great problems in the next few years, he did not believe it should be too great a problem for at least another year.

He said that at present there were 100,000 employed in defence activity, and 65,000 in the armed forces. This could be compared to 1,850,000 in defence activity in 1944, the peak year of the Second World War.

By the end of this year, he said, there will probably be 350,000 directly employed in defence work. This year "the manpower shortage will be specific rather than general." There would be some shortage of skilled labor, and professional men.

Honor Jim Dorris

One of the highlights of the evening was th presentation of a radio to James J. Dorris, retiring secretary of the Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Dorris has been with the Chamber 18 years.

Presenting the gift, Fred Overend, a past president of the Chamber, spoke of the "years of splendid service" Mr. Dorris had given the Chamber. Mr. Dorris had spent 16 years as secretary-manager and the last two years as secretary.

Mr. Reid said he believed that the possibility of peace was becoming greater. "It is our increasing military strength that makes negotiation possible." He said the democracies faced a period of "armed truce."

He said that the western world must continue to arm itself as "a little defence, like a little knowledge, can be a dangerous thing."

He urged the 100 members present not to be complacent, and said that every person would be required to make sacrifices.

"For if we are willing to make sacrifices for peace, then we shall have it," he concluded.

Mr. Reid was introduced by Meyer Cherney and thanked by Paul Irwin. Head table guests were introduced by president P. D. Scollard, and a sing-song was led by Clarence Corbett.

Court Dismisses Driving Charge

A charge of careless driving against Mervin Brown, 577 Harvey St., was dismissed in police court today when evidence revealed his car and a truck approached an intersection about the same time and Brown, as the driver on the right had the right of way.

The charge was laid as a result of an accident at London and Downie Sts. Feb. 17 about 6 p.m. Brown's car and a truck driven by Laverne Doxsee, 363 Holloway Drive, collided about the centre of the intersection. There were no stop signs at the corner.

Another charge of having inadequate brakes was adjourned to later today.

Doxsee said he was approaching the intersection about 20 miles an hour. About 20 feet away from the corner, he saw the car approaching from the west on his right. He said the collision took place in the south-east quarter of the intersection.

Paul Frise, Bonaccord St., a passenger in the truck, corroborated Doxsee's evidence. He said they both approached the intersection about the same time.

Constable Allen Edmison said Brown was a borderline drunk. When the constable drove the Brown car a short distance along the street, he found the brakes were very poor.

1948 Mark Surpassed In Cases Of Measles

Measles this year are rapidly nearing 1948's total of 1440, the last serious outbreak in Peterborough, and may exceed that mark this week. The department of health figures indicate that the number of new cases is decreasing but the daily average for the past week is sufficient to bring this year's total over the 1440 mark today or Thursday.

While the new cases are, declining, chicken pox is slowly increasing with 19 new cases reported in the past eight days. This brings the total for the past two and a half months to 69. Mumps are still circulating. Two cases have been reported in the past week and the total is now 17 cases.

Above, followed by riflemen, two volunteers carry a buddy back over a Korean log bridge. They are Pte. Bob Campbell, 20, of Calgary, in front, and Pte. Bob Bastien, 19, of Sudbury, in rear.

VACATION DATES

Vacation dates for the Peterborough works of the CGE were announced recently. The shutdown period will be the last week in July and the first weeks in August (July 20 to August 7).

DISPOSAL PLANT FIRE

A $25 fire that broke out at noon today in the new building of the sewage disposal plant, at the foot of Park St., was quickly extinguished. An overheated furnace pipe that passes through some wooden forms around the newly-constructed cement walls, ignited the wooden forms. Part of a wall and ceiling were burned. Three handpumps were used to snuff out the blaze.

EXHORTS LABOR COUNCIL

Monday night Dave Archer, executive-secretary of the Ontario Federation of Labor, said the Peterborough and District Labour Council (CCL) had a "big job" ahead of it. And that is to see that a "responsible, bona-fide trade union is put in at CGE." The exhortation was to the labor council as a whole, not to the Political Action Committee (PAC) as previously reported. No PAC has been formed here.

REPAINT COURTHOUSE

The property committee of the county council has given the go-ahead to repainting and redecorating the county courthouse. The county clerk and treasurer's office, the adjoining committee room, one of Judge S. L. Smoke's chambers, the halls and two other rooms are to be done immediately. In fact the clerk's office and the committee room will be completed today.

TEST OF UNION STRENGTH

A test of strength is now going on in CGE plants in Toronto and Peterborough between the United Electrical Workers and the rival IUE-CIO to see show many workers will leave the UE checkoff. For the last 15 days of the present contract between the UE and CGE, employees are permitted to leave the checkoff (i.e. the automatic deduction of dues by the company for the certified bargaining agent). The anniversary date of the contract is March 27. UE members are urging their fellow workers to remain on the checkoff and present a united front for negotiations on the new contract. IUE members are urging them to leave the checkoff as a gesture of repudiation for the UE.

Seriously Ill

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., March 14 (AP)—Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg (Rep., Mich.) was reported today in grave danger from complications that followed two major operations in the last 18 months. The 66-year-old Republican foreign policy leader has failed to rally from a serious relapse he suffered Feb. 26.

Rockdale Woman Reaches 90th Year

HAVELOCK, March 14 (ENS) —Miss Annie Young, a native of Rockdale settlement near Cordova Mines, quietly celebrated her 89th birthday Tuesday at the home of her niece, Mrs. William Smith, where she has been living since 1945.

Miss Young is the last of 12 children, 10 of whom grew to manhood and womanhood. She is the daughter of the late William Edward Young, a native of Perth county, Scotland, who settled at Rockdale in 1856. Her mother was formerly Maria Campion.

Miss Young followed school teaching as a vacation and most of her career has been spent in Western Canada. She is a graduate of the Ottawa Normal School.

Miss Young is a member of the United Church and as long as her health permitted was especially active in missionary work, possibly due to the fact that she had two sisters on mission fields. Her youngest sister, Grace, married Dr. William E. Smith, a missionary in China, and served with him there from 1895 to 1922. Her sister Hannah went as a missionary in 1896 to Coqualeetza, B.C., where she served among the Indians for many years.

Earth-Circling Satellites As Missile Platforms Mentioned In U.S. Spy Trial

Confessed Spy Testifies "Sky Platforms" Discussed Two Years Before Army Released Information In 1949

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON, March 14. (AP)—The idea of creating artificial satellites to circle around the earth out in space is getting continued attention from the American military. An Air Force spokesman, asked today if studies of the project first disclosed two years ago are continuing, replied only that "the Air Force is still interested." He could not discuss what, if any progress has been made. A reference to the project went into testimony Monday at the New York trial of three persons charged with conspiring to spy for Russia.

Mentioned Project

Former army sergeant, David Greenglass, himself a confessed spy and now a witness at the trial mentioned the satellite project. He said he had been told "one of the boys" had passed to one of the defendants information on a "sky platform." This was explained as a satellite. The information, said Greenglass, was obtained late in 1947.

That was two years before a department of defence annual report made a brief and curious mention of "earth satellite" studies in connection with guided-missile research. Thus, if Greenglass' testimony is accurate the United States appears to have been working at the theory for at least four years.

What would be the military use of an artificial satellite, shot into space as a rocket and held there by neutral gravity between the earth and the moon or some other body?

Some military scientists speculate that, at least initially, the sky platform would not be a place from which to fire guided missiles at targets on the earth as it rotated beneath the satellite. Instead, they suggest that it might be used for the control of long-range, trans-oceanic rockets.

There has been nothing to indicate that the earth satellite program has progressed much beyond exploration of its feasibility.

M. Storey Sells Canada Direct

Canada Direct, an eight-year old pacer owned for the past two years by M. J. Storey, 37 Dennistoun Ave., was sold last week to Edward Birtch of Smiths Falls. Only three weeks ago Mr. Storey bought the three-year-old pacer, Aprilway, from Mr. Birtch. Both were outright sales.

The Peterborough horse was bought two years ago in Vermont by Mr. Storey. Since then he has raced the horse at Batavia Downs, Hamburg, New York, and Thorncliffe in Toronto. In the 43 races last year Canada Direct placed well, nearly always in the money.

Canada Direct's best time is recorded at 2.07 1-5. The horse started last year at 2.14 and is now at 2.12.

Mr. Birtch plans to race Canada Direct this summer and next year use him as a stud horse.

Aprilway, Mr. Storey's new horse, is the gelded son of Royal Bars and Kantara and impressed observers at Saratoga Raceway, Saratoga Springs, New York, last year when he finished first, second or third eight times in 12 starts. He earned a record of 2.11 1-5.

Alberta Rejects Plan For Commission On Gas

By The Canadian Press.

The Alberta Legislature refused Tuesday to have a commission investigate the effects of natural-gas export on the province's economy before any export permits are issued.

And while Liberal Leader Harper Prowse said export of gas should not be allowed if it impaired Alberta's economy, Mines Minister N. E. Tanner opposed an economic survey and said a recent Conservation Board report took economic factors into consideration. The proposal was defeated 39-4.

All 10 Provincial Legislatures held sessions Tuesday.

Lloyd Stinson (CCF-Winnipeg South) introduced a Bill in the Manitoba Legislature, which would allow women to serve on juries in that province. Service would be optional, he said, remarking that British Columbia, Alberta and Saskatchewan already allowed women on juries and Ontario now has a similar Bill before the Legislature. Debate on the Bill was adjourned.

Near End of Budget

In Quebec, the Legislative Assembly neared the end of its study of the Union Nationale government's record $236,726,900 budget. Prorogation of the 1951 session was expected some time today. Yesterday the House approved the last of the government's legislation, including a Civil Defence Bill.

In Victoria, the biggest budget in British Columbia's history was brought down Tuesday, with expenditures for the year ending March 31, 1952, estimated at $118,269,000. Finance Minister Anscomb said a surplus of $234,000 is anticipated. No new taxes were announced. Increases in salaries were announced for top BC Government employees.

A current operating deficit of nearly $1,000,000 was revealed by information tabled in the Newfoundland Legislature in response to Opposition questions.

Opposition Leader R. L. Stanfield told the Nova Scotia Legislature the financial policy of the Liberal government "leads to a precipice."

Although Premier Macdonald, also Provincial Treasurer, announced a saving of $1,000,000 from last year's budget, Mr. Stanfield said it was not a true figure. Half that was a saving in expenditures and the other half was revenue "which was deliberately underestimated when forecast a year ago but was up nearly $500,000."

Freight Assistance

Agriculture Minister C. C. Baker told the Prince Edward Island Legislature that he had pressed for a long-term policy on Federal freight assistance on the movement of Western feed grain to the East.

In Regina, Attorney-General J. W. Corman told the Legislature that the Saskatchewan Law Society is opposed to the CCF Party. He spoke when moving adoption of the principle of a Bill which would give the government complete control over selection of King's Counsel in the province. Mr. Corman said the government had set up a committee of the society to pass upon appointments but was abolishing it because the committee was not "politically independent."

In the New Brunswick Legislature, the Throne-Speech debate continued with H. C. Greenlaw (L-York) reporting a large reduction in financial returns to the province's potato growers. G. W. Perry (PC-Carleton) repeated his suggestion of former years that the Atlantic provinces unite into a Maritime Parliament.

Hint Trouble Before Murder

COCHRANE, March 14 (CP)—Testimony suggesting there was some disagreement between Coleman Ferrigan and William Helmer was given in court here Tuesday at Ferrigan's trial on charges of murdering Helmer.

Ferrigan, 21-year-old youth from South Porcupine, is accused of shooting Helmer, 35, a garage and haulage operator in South Porcupine, last Hallowe'en.

Mrs. Irene Edwards, a companion of Helmer the night he was shot, testified Tuesday that she heard Helmer call to Ferrian telling him Hallowe'en was over and to come out and settle "this" like a man. She said she didn't know what Helmer was referring to.

Nineteen Crown witnesses were called at the first day of the trial. They included doctors, police who investigated the shooting, friends of Ferrigan who were present at the time of the shooting, and friends of the slain man.

Two Documents Included In Gas Company Case

WASHINGTON, March 14 — (AP)—A Federal Power Commission examiner Tuesday permitted the Union Gas Company of Canada Limited of Chatham, to include in its case two documents on defence co-operation moves between the United States and Canada.

Emory Woodall admitted the documents in the case in which the Canadian firm seeks to import 18,250,000,000 cubic feet of natural gas a year.

Lowyers for several of the U.S. firms represented in the hearing objected vigorously to acceptance of the documents.

Union Gas has a contract to buy the maximum quantity of natural gas it wants from Panhandle Eastern Pipeline Company of Kansas City, Mo. The contract is subject to commission approval.

One of the documents is an exchange of statements between State Secretary Dean Acheson and Canadian Ambassador Hume Wrong last fall. It sets out principles for economic co-operation between the two countries in defence mobilization.

The other is a national production authority regulation setting up a system under which U. S. defence priorities are honored in Canada, and vice versa.

Consider Defence

Edward Burling, Jr., lawyer for Union Gas, argued the documents "obviously bear on the question the commission must decide—whether the exportation of the gas is in the public interest."

Woodall said the public interest, on which the commission must rule, now is involved with the defence effort.

Charles Shannon, lawyer for Michigan Consolidated Gas Co., Panhandle's biggest customer, objected to admission of all exhibits offered by the Canadian firm. He said the only issue is whether the gas is needed in the U. S.

Woodall over-ruled Shannon, however, commenting that he was sure the commission would want to know details of the proposed natural gas operation in Canada.

Union gas now serves 67 communities in Ontario between London and Windsor and from Sarnia to Lake Erie. It proposes to serve all southwest Ontario west of Hamilton if the deal goes through.

Canadian Universities Must Have Assistance

SARNIA, March 14—(CP)—The federal government or "some other high agency" must come to the aid of Canadian universities, if they are to carry on, Dr. George Peel Gilmour, president of McMaster Alumni, Dr. Gilmour said day night.

Speaking at the formative meeting of the Sarnia branch of McMaster Alumni, Dr. Gilbour said there was not a university in Canada today which was able to close the gap between income and expenditure, without assistance.

Union Director Approves Policy

TORONTO, March 14—(CP)—Norman Allison, Canadian director of the United Rubber Workers (CIO-CCL), Tuesday approved the new policy of B. F. Goodrich Rubber Co. requiring a non-Communist oath from all new employees.

Ira G. Needles, vice-president of Goodrich, in announcing the company's invitation, said in view of the firm's defence orders, it felt it should protect itself against trouble from within in the event of war.

Mr. Allison said the union was vigorously opposed to Communism and the company's action was in line with union views.

See New Trend In Work Of Evangelism

TORONTO,—(CP)— The new evangelism program of the United Church stressed individual work rather than mass conversions, which many ministers refer to as "the old time religion."

The recent appointment of the Rev. W. G. Berry as associate secretary of evangelism and social service has given new impetus to the program, although home visitation and preaching missions are not new. Mr. Berry was formerly Western Canada secretary of the church and has held many preaching missions around Winnipeg.

"We are ready to support mass evangelism where the evangelist is in general agreement on principle with the United Church," he said, "but feel our genius is more in visitation and personal evangelism.

"Laymen actually do a better job of approaching people than minister. Some laymen reach people who can't be reached by ministers." He thought the reason for this is that people expect a minister to talk about religion, and are surprised when a layman discusses the subject.

31,000 Converts

The church reported 31,000 converts last year but the figure was termed disappointing by the Rev. Dr. W. J. Mumford of Hamilton. He said "we ought to stand in shame because it isn't three times as high."

Dr. Mumford's remedy for the situation was more preaching missions and more schools of evangelism. Seven schools of evangelism were conducted in the Maritime provinces last year by the Rev. C. Gardner Ward of Verdun, Que., and were extremely successful. These schools consist of intensive instruction to ministers and laymen on how to get converts, and the church plans expansion of this type of work.

To End Annoying Cough, Mix This Recipe, at Home

Here is the well known old recipe which thousands of housewives have found to be a dependable means of breaking up winter coughs. It takes but a moment to prepare and costs very little, but it does give quick relief.

From any druggist, get a 2½ ounce bottle of Pinex. Pour this into a 16 ounce bottle and fill the bottle with granulated sugar syrup, made with 2 cups of sugar and 1 cup water, stirred until dissolved. No cooking needed—it's easy. (Or use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.) Thus you make 16 ounces of medicine, and you get four times as much for your money. It never spoils and children love its taste.

This home mixture soothes the irritated throat membranes with surprising ease. It loosens the phlegm and eases soreness promptly.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, a well known and reliable soothing agent for winter coughs. Money refunded if it does not please you in every way.

FOR EXTRA CONVENIENCE GET NEW, READY-TO-USE, PREPARED PINEX.

DOUBLE CHAMPIONS — Jean Bardsley and Darryl Thompson of Vancouver, receive the Canadian badminton mixed doubles trophy from Dr. Ray Cramer of London, president-elect of the Canadian Badminton Association. Thompson also won the men's singles title at the Canadian championships held in Quebec.

CITY CARPETBALL

Legion No. 3 were at home to King Billie and the first game Legionnaires had to come from behind to tie the game in the seventh end at 6 all—but the Orangemen came back with a big five which proved sufficient to hold on to scratch finish in a 12-11 game. The second was a 25-4 victory for the Legionnaires with the LOL crew only scoring four singles. In the game between Legion teams No. 5 and No. 7, No. 5 finished strong in the first game but that big, first frame 6 was enough to give Big Bens the victory in a 16-10 game. The second was tied up three times but again the nod went Big Bens' way when they finished strong to take it 10-8.

St. Luke's Midgets went down to defeat twice against the Firefighters by scores of 14-7 and 17-9. St. Luke's have developed two cracking good lead men, Butch and Paul.

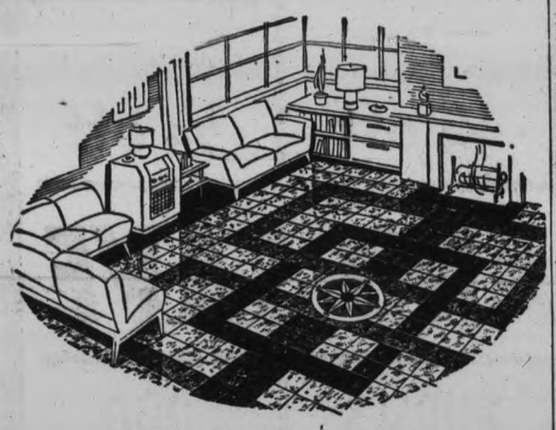
At the washrack St. George's, still smarting under that skunk of last week in the President's Cup, met LOL No. 2 and revenge was sweet. The first game was a 13-8 victory for the Southenders. The second was 11-0 for St. George's before the Orangesqueezers grabbed one in the sixth frame—but the LOL never scored another until the 11th end and that also was a single. So, St. George's swept the second game also, by an 18-2 score.

The game that held the position of three teams in the balance was played at the Fire Hall, Legion No. 3 being the guests. The first game went to the Smoke-eaters 14-7. The second was 7-1 for the Legionnaires before the firemen got back into the scoring with a 3 and a 1, making it 6-5 for the Legion; in the next two frames each team scored one each making it Legion's 7-6—but the next two ends were Legion by singles making the score 9-6 and the Smoke-eaters needed a three to tie the game and also to tie the league leadership or a four to go into top place alone. They failed—only succeeding in securing a couple and losing 9-7. The other postponed game was defaulted by Legion No. 3 in favor of St. Luke's.

Don't forget to push the Minstrel Show tickets for April 3 and 4 at the Collegiate.

The results of the third round of the doubles were: Rusaw and Douglas won their first frame 7-2 from Harrison and Whitehead and the second game went to the latter team 11-6. The third game was a nip and tuck affair, first one team ahead and then the other and in the seventh end it was 6-all. The final end was Rusaw and Douglas by a single or a 7-6 score.

The other match was also a three-game affair with the first game going to Robinson and McPhee by a 12-3 score. The second was a tight battle and it went to Bromley and Ralston 7-6. The third game was decided by a three and four end, and Robinson and McPhee were eliminated 11-3.



Semi-final round of the Memorial Doubles will be played at the Legion at 7.30 p.m., Wednesday, March 14, between Rusaw and Douglas against Read and Garette. The final round will have the winner from March 14 play Bromley and Ralston on Wednesday, March 21, at 7.30 p.m.

The final round of the President's Cup is between LOL No. 2 vs. Legion No. 7.

Manitoba City Marks Notable Health Record

ST. BONIFACE, Man. —(CP)—Through the efforts of Dr. Paul L'Heureux, director of the St. Boniface Health Unit, this city across the Red River from Winnipeg in the last 10 years has achieved an outstanding record in sanitary and health conditions. A booklet, recently published by Dr. L'Heureux entitled "Ten Years of Service," outlined the achievements.

About 10 years ago, the American Public Health Association rated St. Boniface as one of the worst communities in North America for the number of diphtheria cases. In the last three years not a single case has been reported.

The 45-year-old doctor was appointed health director in 1940, following a typhoid epidemic which swept St. Boniface and other communities east of the Red River. That year he took a 10-month public health course in Toronto. On his return he reorganized the entire health unit set-up.

Since then mortality has been reduced in the 10 leading causes of death, except heart disease.

Systematic Check

In 1945, Dr. L'Heureux established the Wetzel Grid chart system in St. Boniface schools. These charts, given to children starting in the first grade, are checked twice a year by the doctor. The charts show the slightest illness in a child.

Another introduction by the doctor was the telebinocular vision-testing machine. Every school child is checked once a year for color blindness, muscle balance and sharpness of vision. Defective vision in children has been reduced from more than 22 per cent in 1940 to 12.5 per cent last year.

The medical director also became the first registrar of vital statistics in a health unit; introduced the first tuberculosis survey in the cathedral city, and won two plaques awarded by the American Public Health Association.

Baron's Successor Arrives In Toronto

TORONTO, March 14—(CP)—J. Harold Daoust took over Tuesday as the new Canadian director of the Textile Workers' Union of America (CIO-CCL), succeeding Sam Baron, dismissed as a result of a feud with the union's international president.

Mr. Daoust was appointed by president Emil Rieve and came here from his post as director of the New Hampshire-Vermont region of the union.

Mr. Baron was dismissed because of what he said was his opposition to Rieve's attempts to oust vice-president George Baldanzi at the last international convention.

Orient Express Revived

BELGRADE, March 14—(Reuters)—The train that stopped for 11 years, the famous Simplon-Orient express, Paris to Athens, started again through Yugoslavia today. The long interruption was caused by war and civil strife. Only three passengers, all Americans, were making the full three-day trip in the train, which comprises one international sleeping car, a first- and second-class coach, and a freight car.

New Walkie-Talkie

WASHINGTON, March 14 (AP)—The Army is out with a new walkie-talkie weighing half as much, but with nearly twice the range of the radio set carried by troops in the Second World War. The Signal Corps demonstrated the new 22-pound apparatus on Tuesday. A spokesman said the sets "are in quantity production" but have not yet reached the soldiers fighting in Korea.

Only grades 11 and 12 students will be considered. Those in grade 13 must remain to write departmental examinations in June.

To be eligible, pupils must have attended classes regularly, be able to pass without taking finals in June and promise to remain in farm work as long as their services are required, but not later than the Saturday before school reopens in September.

DOROTHY DIX

These Days Some Women Spinsters by Own Choice

DEAR MISS DIX: Is it a disgrace to be an old maid? Can an old maid be as great a woman and as much admired as her married sister?

ESTELLE.

✧ ✧ ✧

Dorothy Dix

ANSWER: Your question, Estelle, sounds like something you had fished out of the hair-trunk in the attic. I did not suppose that anybody nowadays even dreamed of its casting any reflection upon a woman's character or even upon her attractiveness for her not to marry.

In former times, when marriage was about the only gainful occupation open to women and when every woman's livelihood and position in society depended upon her annexing a husband, naturally every girl married who could. Hence, for a woman to be an old maid led to the natural supposition that she was in some way inferior to her sisters, or else she would not have been passed over.

Times Have Changed

But, thank goodness, times have changed for women. They do not have to marry now for a meal ticket. They can go out and earn their own bread and butter and cake. They don't have to have a husband to protect them. They can take care of themselves. They don't have to be dependents who are unwelcome guests in the houses of their relatives. They can set up their own homes.

And so now whether a woman marries or stays single is a matter of her personal choice and taste, and nobody thinks that it is any more disgraceful for a woman to be an old maid than it is for a man to be an old bachelor.

No women are more admired or sought after socially than the smartly dressed, intelligent, up-to-date, humorous and philosophical spinsters who would be highly amused at the idea of anyone looking askance at them because they did not wear a wedding ring.

As to your second question, as to whether an old maid can be as great a woman and as much respected as her married sister, of course she can, and is. The list of old maids who have achieved fame in literature and the arts and who have headed causes is endless. Florence Nightingale, Clara Barton, Susan B. Anthony, Frances Willard are only a few of the old maids who have performed great services to the world. There are thousands of others who have given their lives to mothering humanity instead of their own children.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: We have a very good friend whose husband is going with a married woman. We have hesitated to tell her about it as we do not wish to hurt her or humiliate her by letting her know that it is common talk, but we feel that someone who loves her should tell her. This man has always been a philanderer, and we thought this would be just like his other affairs with women and not last. But it seems to be very serious, as he and the woman are together at every possible chance and appear to be very much in love. We feel that something should be done before it ends in disaster for both families. What should we do? FRIENDS.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Keep silent and keep your hands out of the mess. No good yet has ever been accomplished by meddling in an illicit love affair. There is nothing you can say to a married man and a married woman who are indulging in a liaison that they do not already know.

And do not be cruel enough to tell the wife about her husband's unfaithfulness. There is nothing she can do to make him loyal and stop him from roaming. And if she knows nothing of the affair leave her her peace and happiness as long as you can. She will have long enough to endure her heartbreak.

And if, as I strongly suspect, she already knows and her pretense of ignorance is just a bluff to save her face, pay her courage and her gallantry the tribute of respecting it. There are no women braver or more to be admired than those wives who suffer the humiliation they endure from unfaithful husbands in secret, and who keep up the fiction of being happy and contented wives in order to keep their homes together and to keep their children from knowing of the kind of man their father is.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: The other day I told my mother I would like to do something great in the world and have a career. She said the best career a girl could have would be to be a wonderful wife and the mother of fine sons who would do something great. Which career shall I choose BABY.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You can't choose to have a great career. That is as Fate wills and depends on the gifts God gave you. Neither can you decide that you will be the mother of geniuses. That is also luck. But, generally speaking, I think women are happiest who follow woman's predestined career of wifehood and motherhood.

Don't be HALF-SAFE

by VALDA SHERMAN

Many mysterious changes take place in your body as you mature. Now, the glands under your arms begin to secrete daily a new type of perspiration containing substances which will—if they reach your dress—cause ugly stains and clinging odor.

You'll face this problem throughout womanhood. It's not enough merely to stop the odor of this perspiration. You must now use a deodorant that stops the perspiration itself before it reaches—and ruins—your clothes.

As doctors know, not all deodorants stop both perspiration and odor. But Arrid does! It's been proved that the new cream deodorant Arrid stops underarm perspiration 1 to 3 days safely—keeps underarms dry and sweet.

Remember this, too. Arrid's antiseptic action kills odor on contact—prevents formation of odor up to 48 hours and keeps you "shower-bath" fresh. And it's safe for skin—safe for fabrics.

So, don't be half-safe. Don't risk half-safe deodorants. Be Arrid-safe! Use Arrid to be sure. Arrid with Creamogen will not dry out, and it's so pleasant and easy to apply. Get Arrid—Canada's largest selling deodorant—today!

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Suggest Onion Casserole As Special Purpose Menu

Apple Juice
Broiled Hamburg Patties
Onion Casserole (see notes)
Broiled Limas or Fresh Frozen Limas Boiled
Celery Hearts Carrot Sticks
Superior Rice Pudding
Coffee

✧ ✧ ✧

Directions

Onion Casserole

Since onions are one of the vegetables which are being imported at 1950 import prices we have been having them once per week.

I have been putting the whole raw onions, when peeled, in a buttered casserole and covering them with a can of condensed mushroom or tomato soup. I put on cover and baked them for one and one-half hours at 325 deg. Fahr. The family likes these. So do I.

(Incidentally, I went to the trouble of French frying some raw parsnip strips last night, because, previous to this I thought I was never going to eat another parsnip again in my life. I changed my mind quickly, for these French fried parsnips were better then good and worth all of the fuss and bother.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Superior Rice Pudding

In top part of double boiler bring ¾ cup of washed rice to boiling point in 3 cups boiling water with ¾ teaspoon salt. Place over boiling water, cover and cook 30 minutes. Drain if necessary. Mix with ½ cup washed and dried raisins, 3 large eggs beaten, 2 cups hot milk, ⅓ to one-half cup sugar. Turn into baking dish and stand in larger dish containing hot water. Bake at 325 deg. Fahr. for about 1¾ hours.

Since I have some space left and since I am plugging onions for economic reasons, I might add a reminder that they are also good for colds according to lots of sensible folk.

How about trying:

✧ ✧ ✧

French Fried Onion Rings

Ordinary cooking onions—about 6 or 8, 1 egg, 1 cup milk, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1½ teaspoons salt. Mix all ingredients in a bowl except the onions, and stir until smooth, or beat with rotary beater. Let stand 15 minutes. Slice onions crosswise in one-third inch slices and separate each slice into rings. Dip these rings in the batter. Have ready hot fat at about 375 deg. Fahr. Fry battered rings in this, a few at a time. Skim out when golden brown and crisp and keep hot in oven on unglazed paper, until all are done. Do not pile them or they go limp. serve as soon as possible. Wonderful with steak or roast beef or broiled hamburger.

I know one girl who makes a specialty of these. Her husband's immediate superior at the office invited himself for dinner "if Madge will have broiled hamburgers and French fried onions." A comparatively economical meal for guests.

Smothered onions are pretty good too if done without burning.

✧ ✧ ✧

Smothered Onions

Slice onions thinly and gently saute them in butter or margarine in frying pan uncovered, until light brown. Sprinkle with salt and paprika, cover, reduce heat as much as possible and steam about 15 minutes or until limp. If electric burner is used, it may be turned off for part of the steaming period.

Says Fortune Not Needed To Dress Well

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, March 14 (AP) This one is for the ladies. It's all about Eve Arden and how to be best-dressed without spending a fortune.

The actress claims it's possible. In fact, she has done it. Her name pops up on various best-dressed lists every now and then, yet she says she doesn't lavish her salary at the exclusive shops.

"Take this suit I'm wearing," she said. "It's five years old. Yet people are always complimenting me on my new suit.

"There's no reason why any woman should go broke in order to be a good dresser."

"Could a girl who earns $45 a week make the best-dressed lists?" I asked, struggling to maintain my interest in this feminine topic.

"I don't see why not," she replied blithely. I challenged her to lay down some rules. And here they are:

Rules for Dressing

1. Don't wait for the occasion to arise before you buy a dress. If you need a dress in a hurry, you probably won't find what you want and will make a mistake.

2. Do a lot of shopping without buying. Find out what is in the stores and then you will be able to buy wisely.

3. Have confidence in your clothes. Don't buy anything you don't feel comfortable wearing.

4. Have a basic dress, either black or navy blue. You can find many ways to decorate it so it seems like several dresses.

5. Learn to sew. For a small amount of money you can piece out your wardrobe with full blouses, peasant skirts and other things that are easy to make.

6. Don't buy cheap clothes. There's no economy in buying dresses that will fall apart in a month or so.

7. Don't spend too much money on evening clothes. You don't wear them as often as your other clothes.

8. Don't splurge on hats. Fancy hats can be okay with plain suits. But otherwise unnoticeable hats are preferred.

9. Don't wear fussy clothes. Fashion is not achieved by fussy little items but your over-all appearance.

Winnipeg Visitor Changes Mind On 'Cold' Toronto

TORONTO —(CP)— A Winnipeg girl, Ella M. Webber, was irked by what she called Toronto's "unfriendliness" and criticized Toronto's coldness to strangers.

But the day after her criticism appeared in the press, she changed her mind. Open doors, home-cooked meals, invitations to join church groups and a chance to play the piano, all offered by residents who read her remarks, were the factors that caused Miss Webber to revise her estimate of Torontonians.

Miss Webber, who came from Winnipeg two years ago, had charged that Toronto was "the most cold-hearted, friendless and even snobbish place" she had ever visited. During two years in the city, she said, she hadn't met one really friendly person.

It wasn't the city, she claimed, and not the mayor. It was the people. When she told them she was from Winnipeg they asked "you mean, out where the cowboys are?"

Thought of Leaving

The 31-year-old girl couldn't figure out whether to wear spurs and a 10-gallon hat or pull up stakes and head for Vancouver.

Miss Webber is an accomplished pianist and an enthusiastic choirsinger. Since leaving home, she said, she had attended many concerts but had never touched a piano or been invited to sing in a choir. In her two years in Toronto, she hadn't had a single invitation to a party, "not even a tea party."

She went to concerts alone, ate in restaurants alone and had no close girl friends. She even tried smiling at strangers to break the ice.

Now everything is changed. Miss Webber has received invitations to join church groups and one Toronto woman has offered a comfortable room and the use of a neighbor's piano. The woman, in making the offer, said she had the same trouble when she first arrived in Toronto.

"It just shows how wrong a person can be," Miss Webber said. "My telephone has been ringing constantly and I've got enough invitations to last me for months. I've certainly changed my mind about Torontonians."

What is this Thing Called Shine on Furniture?

Now you can give your furniture the amazing O-Cedar Dri-Glo beauty treatment — a smear-free shine that requires no hard rubbing and lasts for weeks and weeks — so hard, so dry, spills and fingermarks wipe off easily.

In polishing furniture and woodwork there are several kinds of shines—greasy shines that smear—shines that are here today and gone tomorrow — shines that require a lot of rubbing — oily, moist shines that attract dust.

Now with O-Cedar Dri-Glo you get a shine that has none of these faults. Entirely different, O-Cedar Dri-Glo contains magic, non-oily silicone.

Just wipe O-Cedar Dri-Glo on — let it dry — wipe it off! Thrill to the appearance of the loveliest shine you've ever seen. A mirror-like finish that lasts for weeks and weeks. A smear-free finish so hard and dry that dust cannot cling to it as it does with any ordinary polish.

Enhancing the natural beauty of your furniture, O-Cedar Dri-Glo Silicone Furniture Polish also preserves and protects it. The thrifty 98¢ container will last you a long, long time because you won't have to polish nearly so often. At grocery, department and hardware stores. SFP-01

Lingerie Styles Complimentary To Silhouette

NEW YORK — There are styles to complement every fashion silhouette: To wear with slim suits, the sheath slip or a brief and breezy chemise; blouse-top slip or dickey slips that can be worn with and without the dickey; petticoats, sometimes pleated and usually in bright colors to wear under fitted coat dresses; to complement the summer dress that's fitted over the hips and slightly flaring below, softer slips, sometimes bias-cut; strapless slips, for strapless summer dresses; and evening petticoats in lovely pastels to go with short summer evening dresses.

News for 1951 is the "double purpose" design in lingerie: The slip that doubles as a dress, sometimes trapless, and wearable on the treet with the addition of a belt; the short night shirt, wearable twenty-four hours a day in checked or plaid sheer cotton . . . it appears as a light coat over summer dresses, as a blouse-slip under suits, and alone as a summer dress.

Empire silhouette nightgowns with the softer bosom line, the molded bodice, elasticized midriffs and strapless gowns with elasticized tops are being shown.

Bright shades never before used in lingerie are new with every possible shade of rose, from palest pink to crimson navy blue, also sombre tones of grey, green and violet.

Prints vary from animal prints with leopard chiffons; cottons and satins; tiger taffeta; zebra terry cloth and butterfly chiffons. Stripes go from narrow pin stripes to bold candy stripes and flower prints are still good.

JEANNETTE ALTWEGG, British skating champion, added the World Title to her 1951 triumphs at Milan, Italy. She won the European crown at Zurich early in February. She will be a heavy favorite for the Olympic honors in 1952 at Oslo.

Of Interest to Women

'DAISIES WONT TELL'—A wreath of graduated gold daisies with enamel petals strung on a gold chain. The enamel comes in shades of mauve, pink and blue, with earrings to match. The double-banded bracelet has two large blossoms with smaller ones on either side.

Grown-Up Air In Styling Found Among Teen-Agers

They're restless about clothes, these teenagers, switching from one extreme to another. Mad about fads and fashions borrowed from the grown-up world, their bright eyes search more for colors and novelties than for fabric and utility.

Throughout the scene of teen-ager fashions you'll note a rather grown-up air in the styling . . . observe that there are many mixtures in fabrics such as wool with rayon, cotton with rayon, etc.

This satisfies the young fry's fashion yen, places the togs (usually very quickly outgrown) in a reasonable price bracket. Fine monotone tweed suits (in spuns), very adult-like, are styled for various types of still-growing young figures. There are jackets for the long slim young chick . . . others with smart tricks for the anxious little miss who has still to lose some waistline pudginess.

In these suits, skirts are mostly slim. There's vast array in separate skirts . . . in the corduroys and plaided pastels so dear to the hearts of the teens . . . and with a very nice gadget in the way of an adjustable belt, clamp fastened.

In Big Demand

Latest fad spreading like wildfire, are pastel cotton interlock jerseys with batwing sleeves . . . pretty cute, too, in all the pastels, black, grey and stronger tones like lime and tangerine. Middle teens, 15 or so, go for all-weather coats in delectable earthy shades . . . clear greens, raspberry and one honey we spotted. a gold corduroy complete with little matching cloche.

Following adult fashions in fabrics, there are fine cottons, sheer plaid ginghams, an especially pretty metallic cotton completely washable.

One love of a dress, navy rayon bengaline, had its demure round neckline outlined in crisp detachable daisies, ring-around-a-rosy like . . . remove the daisies, and there are the centres, tiny pearl buttons, transforming the frock into a more tailored style!

Another gadgety idea is a sharkskin suit, brown and white, which they claim can be worn 10 different ways. Sharkskin jacket, one skirt of sharkskin, another of brown gabardine, and a buttoned vest reversible in sharkskin and gabardine . . . mix it or match it . . . we counted it like cribbage and got 10 all right. And if we can add up to 10 on an outfit like that leave it to the gals who'll be wearing it to figure out at least half a dozen other ways of juggling it!

"I see that old Dior is streamlining the waist this season, Bert."

FIGHT COLDS THIS Easy WAY

Take a HOT MUSTARD BATH

Dissolve 2 or 3 tablespoonfuls of mustard in a little cold water and pour it into your hot bath. After the bath... a brisk rub-down... then off to bed for a good night's sleep.

Keen's D.S.F. MUSTARD

flannels, crepes in white and wonderful off-tones of beige with names like burnt sugar and champagne.

The important news about woollens is in the tissue lightness of weight....from fleeces and tweeds to sheers. Some of today's worsted suitings, for example, tip the scales at the same mark as did lightweight dresses 10 years ago....and a sheer wool chiffon (available here bofore too longz) weighs one ounce per yard.

Forms Shield

These new woollens, cloud light, they call them, take you comfortably and smartly from winter's cold right through intense summer heat....it's not the weight of a woollen that gives warmth, it's the shield formed by the wool fibres which give protection not only against cold, but against heat....sort of an insulation process.

Your woollen ensembles should be planned carefully because they are investments. If you take the long-term investment view, woollen fabrics are not worn for just a few short months, but from season to season....and during acute shortages back around 1946 it sometimes seemed for always.

You'll choose quiet colors and pure undiluted style rather than a blazing fad from fashion's highest peak. If you're purchasing yard goods, you'll know that there is a woollen fabric for each specific purpose.....coatings for shorties and coats, suitings for suits, special dress fabrics just for dresses and blouses.

Know where you buy....they will help you in what you buy. So that whether you're the career femme who needs lightweight crinkle-and-crease resistant togs for business or travel....or the busy housewife who wants a good-looking outfit for morning shopping or afternoon bridge, you'll have a fabric that really takes hard wear.

FOR SPRING—a breton of mauve shantung straw, bound with purple velvet. A garland of velvet pansies, mauve blossoms and green leaves is accented with a full-blown pink silk rose at the front of the crown.

Follow Professional Rules In Home Sewing For Spring

If you want your home-sewing for spring to have that smooth, professional look dont forget one of the most important rules — "Press as you go.' Here are some helpful hints about pressing from sewing center experts.

First of all, keep your pressing equipment near at hand and set up to use as you sew. Good equipment is a pleasure to use and is an economy in the long run. Have a regular ironing board and a good iron, a sleeve board, also a tailors cushion for shrinking fullness and pressing shaped parts of garments. A steam iron is a convenience, but if you haven't one use a clean, lintless press cloth. Keep a bowl of water at hand for dampening. A small damp sponge is convenient for seams. Another ingenious idea is to use a small paintbrush for dampening the seams on wool. A wire press board is a help when pressing velvet and napped fabrics.

And remember, always press each seam before it joins another. Another thing to keep in mind is to press rather than iron fabric. And the more carefully you press, the better your garment will look when finished. Pressing is holding the iron so that it glides lightly over the fabric, as opposed to ironing, in which you press down firmly and in long swathes back and forth over fabric in the direction of the grain. Press all seams, darts, tucks, etc., as you finish stitching. Always press cautiously and from the wrong side. Set heat of iron for fabric or test heat on a scrap or on inside seam of garment.

Synthetic fabrics require very little heat and usually should not be dampened. This is true, also, of silk, especially taffeta. If these fabrics are very mussed, use a dry press cloth next to fabric with damp cloth wrung dry and placed over the dry one. Your iron may then be a little hotter than usual. For woolens, use slightly more heat and pressure and a heavier, dampened press cloth. (Sewing center experts suggest especially treated press cloths. They save time and are a protection to fabrics.) Never press hard enough to make surfaces shiny. If, by mistake, you do this, sponge with rough, damp cloth or brush cautiously with fine wire brush.

If outer fabric is likely to be marked by seam, as with bound seam, lay a strip of paper under each side of the edge before pressing. Fabrics with raised design—embroidery, applique, trapunto work, etc.—should be pressed face down on terry cloth to prevent flattening design.

Metallic fabrics should be pressed as little as possible and then dry, with warm (not hot) iron.

Velvet, or any deep-napped or piled fabric, may be steamed. Set warm iron upright. Place damp cloth over iron surface; when steam rises, move fabric through steam, moving fingers along deftly so as not to leave finger marks on the fabric.

For small pressing jobs and for detail work in narrow places and corners and curves, get used to using your small sleeve board. It will save time and effort and make for a better pressing job.

Use a tailor's cushion to shrink out fullness at top of sleeve or to press the curve of a shoulder.

Sheep, Cotton Get Competition In Fabric Field

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Sheep and the cotton plant are getting lots of competition in clothing mankind and meeting his other needs for textiles, but it doesn't appear that they will have to worry for a long, long time.

For it would seem that it will be a long, long time before there will be enough fibres of any kind to meet the needs of the world.

The current monthly letter of the Bank of Nova Scotia is a study of the world textile situation, and part of it is devoted to "the battle of the fibres."

The review comments: "Over the longer term it seems certain that man-made fibres will gain an increasing place for themselves. The likelihood of their completely displacing cotton and wool is at present remote." However:

"Continued encroachments by the various man-made fibres into fields that have been regarded as the legitimate domain of the natural fibres are to be expected, at least on this continent. Nylon appears to have ousted silk permanently from its most important pre-war use—women's hosiery; high-tenacity rayon now has largely replaced cotton in cord, and wool is rapidly yielding to nylon in men's and women's summer suits.

"Another promising avenue for the development of man-made fibres is the blending of two or more fibres together so as to take advantage of their good qualities and offset their poor qualities. A blend of nylon staple with vicara, a corn-protein fibre for socks, is a case in point, the nylon contributing abrasion resistance and strength, which vicara lacks; and the soft wool-like vicara offsetting nylon's lack of absorbency.

"Possibilities along this line are almost limitless, particularly when blends of the new fibres with rayon and with cotton and wool themselves are considered."

SEEING DOUBLE—Thirteen sets of twins in one school is one way to confuse the teachers. And that is what they do at Regal Road Public School in Toronto. Mystery Origin Of Indian Potato

VANCOUVER (CP)— Indians in the British Columbia interior harvest a wild potato believed to have come originally from South America. But it may have come from Scandinavia.

The tubers are small and slender, and sometimes are called lady fingers. The flesh is yellow and the flavor resembles the sweet potato.

W. A. Faulkner of Lytton says that apparently centuries ago natives of Chile and Peru journeyed northward in their canoes to what is now B.C.

They brought their native foods and vegetables and introduced them to Indian tribes.

However, Dr. V. C. Brink of the University of British Columbia says he believes the potatoes were introduced about 1850-60 by Scandinavian trappers and miners.

Raise Mayor's Salary From $1,200–$2,200

KINGSTON, March 14 (CP)— City council Monday night increased the annual allowance of Mayor C. A. Curtis from $1,200 to $2,200 and at the same time Ald. A. T. Tugwood suggested that serious consideration be given to providing some remuneration for councillors.

Mayor Curtis said the suggestion may be studied "at a later date."

The increase for Mayor Curtis was questioned by Ald. A. E. Ross, who not only registered the lone opposition vote but also challenged the validity of the motion before council.

To Stand Trial

TORONTO, March 14 (CP).— Archie Markovitch, 39, was committed for trial Tuesday on a charge of murder in the fatal stabbing of his nephew, Lawrence, 20, during an argument in a gipsy fortune-telling establishment.

U.K. Festival May Influence Political Moves

LONDON, March 14 (CP). — A £12,000,000 ($36,000,000) attempt to prove that life can be beautiful, even in Britain, may help provide answers to some significant political questions.

Some even say the life or death of the Labor government may depend on the project—more conventially known as the Festival of Britain.

If the five-month Festival creates the picture of a booming, buoyant Britain, some politicians argue, Labor conceivably could stage a comeback in the country. If it flops, the Conservatives would be almost certain to clamber back into power.

This is over-simplifying. Such theories would be upset in the event of a snap election. But it seems reasonable to assume that the weird, skeletal shapes now rising on the south bank of the Thames will have some political significance.

The controversial element in the Festival arises from the belief, for which the Conservative party has been chief spokesman, that £12,000,000 for London exhibits only is too much to spend in a time of shortage and international tension. Labor's short answer is that the exhibits will prove Britain is a long way from finished, and will also boost home morale.

Untimely Now

Philip Fothergill, president of the Liberal party, has said the Festival may herald the dawn of a renaissance of British genius. Others have noted that the plan for the Festival started as an all-party project four years ago, and that it is just unfortunate that international events make it seem untimely now.

The Festival opens officially May 3 and ends late in September. Already its sponsors are deep in such problems as how to handle the expected influx of visitors—some 25,000 Canadians and Americans are anticipated—what to do about traffic, whether the exhibit will be ready in time.

Slightly Improved

MOOSE JAW, Sask., March 14 (CP)—Condition of three-year-old Gary Lynn Brown Tuesday was reported slightly improved. Gary is in Providence Hospital suffering internal bleeding. His blood lacked fibrinogen, a chemical essential to the forming of blood clots. A supply of fibrinogen was flown here from Boston last week and since its administration Gary's condition has shown slow but steady improvement.

Save Lives After Surgery Put Fat Into Bloodstream

By HOWARD C. HEYN

LOS ANGELES, March 14 (AP). —A Harvard scientist estimated today that half the deaths after surgery were caused by starvation.

But he told of a new method of safely introducing fat into the blood stream which may save many of them. The process is much like homogenization of milk.

Dr. Frederick J. Stare, head of the nutrition department at Harvard's Boston Medical School, said in an interview that remarkable results had been shown by some of 300 persons given fat intravenously.

Patients lose their appetites as a result of shock—surgical or otherwise.

"Doctors have to resort to venous feeding," he said. "But one thing doctors could not give in the past was an adequate amount of calories. Blood, sugar and protein administered intravenously provided, at the most, 800 to 1,000 calories a day. In normal health some 3,000 calories are consumed daily."

Now, he said, 3,000 calories can be fed by vein daily, in fat emulsions.

Change Now

Fatalities in the past, he said, were due to fat embolisms and the presence of pyrogens. He continued:

"Our problem was to provide a fat emulsion in which the particles were broken up so fine that no masses existed.

"Basically we produce our emultion. In principal the process is genized.

"Pyrogens we avoid by sterilization. In principle the process is similar to that of sterilizing canned vegetables."

"What we are thinking about now is that if we can give fat intravenously for feeding, we presumably can give drugs in fat solution," he said. "Many possibilities thus are suggested."

Indian Opera Opens In Vancouver

VICTORIA, BC, March 14 (CP) —"Tzinquaw," first native Indian opera in North America, begins a four-night stand here tonight.

The opera, which took more than eight years to bring to the stage, first opened at nearby Duncan in November. It has since played at Port Alberni, another Vancouver Island city.

Elmer Philpott, reviewing it in the Vancouver Sun, said: "I feel sure that the play will become a landmark in the cultural comeback of the original North American people."

The opera tells the legend of the Thunderbird and the Killer Whale. The Killer Whale, Quannis, has ravaged the fishing grounds of the Cowichan Tribe. They are unable to deal with the menace.

They then appeal to the Thunderbird, or Tzinquaw, for help. He descends and destroys the Killer Whale, restoring peace and plenty to the people.

Abel Joe of the Cowichan Tribe sings the leading role of Skeeculus, "The Sad One." The oldest member of the cast is 85-year-old Johnny Bear; the youngest a babe in arms.

Years of Research

The script, words and music were written by Frank Morrison, long-time teacher at St. Catharine's Indian School near Duncan, centre for the Cowichan Tribe whose peoples form the background and cast for the opera.

It required years of research to uncover and put on paper the old legends, chants and songs.

Morrison worked patiently for those eight years, gradually gaining the confidence of the Indians so they would allow their traditional songs and dances to be used for public performance.

The opera is produced and directed by Cecil West, associated with the Montreal Repertorial Theatre before coming to Victoria two years ago, and a Canadian drama award winner in 1936 for his contribution to Canadian drama.

Approve Statement

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., March 14 (AP)—High United Nations officials said Tuesday they approved Lt.-Gen. Matthew B. Ridgways statement Monday that ending the Korean war at the 38th Parallel would constiute a UN victory. The officials, who declined to be quoted by name, said the general's statement held "good potentialities" for a negotiated settlement of the conflict.

Say Dockers Weakening

AUCKLAND, N.Z., March 14 —(CP)— The New Zealand government Tuesday suspended the military training of 18-year-olds to make more men available to handle cargo on the strike-bound waterfront.

In the latest step in the government's showdown with the dockers, it announced that trainees will be sent home and the training staffs used at the docks.

Two warships have also been recalled from manoeuvres to make their crews available.

Meanwhile the dockers, who demand greater wage increases than those given in a recent arbitration award, showed signs of weakening from their position.

After 21 days of deadlock, Labor officials Monday night indicated willingness to accept conciliation under certain terms. The government today rejected the undisclosed terms outright.

The strike affects all New Zealand's ports.

The strike began Feb. 20, shortly after the government gave the dockers, along with most other workers, a blanket wage increase of 15 per cent. The longshoremen called it "inadequate."

Kingston School Rate Increased 4.86 Mills

A school rate of 20.60 mills, an increase of 4.86 mills, has been set by the Kingston Board of Education for 1951. The tax levy imposed on the ratepayers will be $582,975 compared with $439,262 last year. Teachers salaries increased $94,925.

Compared to Peterborough, this city's rate for education will be 16.12 mills an increase of two mills while the city council is being asked to supply $567,487 compared to $480,000 the previous year. Teachers' salaries in Peterborough increased $88,900.

Apsley Merchant 48 Years Duncan Brown 86 Years Old

APSLEY, March 14 —(ENS)— Duncan Brown, a general merchant in Apsley since 1903, celebrated his 86th birthday on Saturday. Though not now active in the business, he is still greatly interested in it.

Mr. Brown and his wife, the former Louisa Wilson, will be married 57 years this June 18. They were married in 1894 by the Rev. Butcher in the Charlotte St. Methodist parsonage in Peterborough.

From 1894 to 1900, Mr. and Mrs. Brown lived on their farm in Burleigh, then moved to Port Arthur, returning in 1902. In 1903, Mr. Brown started his general store in Apsley.

Store Burned

Burned out, store and contents, in 1920, he rebuilt the store on the same site. At present, his son Stuart and his son's wife are carrying on the business for him.

For 40 years, Mr. Brown was county constable. "That was lots of funs," he says of it today. He was also postmaster of Apsley for a period of years.

Mr. Brown was the son of Alexander Brown of Killin, Scotland, and Margaret Garrow of Stirling, Scotland, who came in 1862 from Scotland to lot 17, concession 12, Burleigh, where Mr. Brown was born.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown have one daughter, Mrs. W. Church of Mount Julian and two sons, Roy of Lakefield and Stuart of Apsley.

Three generations of Browns have served the townships of Burleigh and Anstruther as reeve —Alexander Brown, Duncan, and Roy. In 1937, Roy Brown was elected warden of Peterborough county.

In politics, Mr. Brown is a staunch Liberal, and in religion, a supporter of Trinity United Church, Apsley.

Ontario Plans To Regulate All Retail Prices Of Milk

To Pay 50% Down On All Cars New Abbott Curb

OTTAWA, March 15. (CP)—New restrictions on instalment buying will go into effect Monday—March 19. Finance Minister Abbott announced in the Commons Wednesday that the restrictions, part of the Government's anti-inflation machinery, will require buyers to make a larger down payment and pay off the remainder in 12 months instead of 18 months permitted now. In detail, here are the changes:

1. The minimum down payment for motor cars—whether new or used — will be one-half of the cash price instead of one-third. This will apply to motorcycles, but trucks are exempted. The trade-in value of the purchaser's old car can be used as part of the down payment on another car.

2. For all other commodities, the minimum down payment will be one-third instead of one-fifth.

3. In all cases, the minimum down payment will be not less than $10. Formerly it was $5.

4. The maximum period of credit will be 12 months instead of 18 and the minimum size of instalment payments will be $10 a month, or $2.50 a week, instead of $5 a month, or $1.25 a week.

5. Under what is known in the trade as revolving credit plans, the minimum initial down payment will be $10 and wherever new purchases are made under existing credits the minimum monthly instalment will be $10.

Mr. Abbott made his announcement at the opening of the brief mid-week sitting, devoted mainly to the discussion of private members' business.

Had Little Effect

In making the consumer-credit announcement, Mr. Abbott indicated that the restrictions brought into effect last November had little noticeable effect on curbing inflation. They had not made "any serious change" in the volume of instalment sales.

He described the new restrictions as "much stiffer" than those now in force. However, except in the case of motor cars, they will be no stiffer, and in some cases, not "quite so stiff" as those prevailing during the Second World War.

During the war, the government required a one-third down payment for cars and, if the amount remaining to be financed exceeded $500, the purchaser had 15 months in which to complete his payments. Now, the government is requiring 50 per cent down and the balance spread over 12 months.

Exempted from the credit restrictions are all books, fuel, uniforms, hearing aids, and similar appliances for invalids, building materials, but not plumbing fixtures, and tools of trade, such as carpenters' tools and surgical instruments.

Pats Sleep In, Decide Baths Peak Of Luxury

By BILL BOSS

WEST CENTRAL SECTOR, Korea, March 15 (CP). — The battle was far away and life was grand for the Patricias Wednesday.

They pulled out of the line on Tuesday and rested near the scenes of their recent action. It was their first chance to relax from hill-climbing, rugged living and soldiering since they left their training camp at Miryang.

Troop-carrying vehicles transported the men to a large riverside campsite prepared by Major Henry Tighe of Victoria, their second in command.

The men were given 48 hours of life on their own—they didn't even have to report themselves present. Everybody slept in Wednesday, using sleeping bags for a change. Breakfast was virtually forgotten.

Great Wash Begins

Then the great wash began. The men stripped to bathe in the stream, their first bath in weeks. The forests of beard growth were shaved and locks grown shaggy in weeks away from a barber dropped in bales.

Wednesday night they had a turkey dinner and free beer, followed by an open-air movie.

Life was grand—the men even enjoyed light music piped through the camp over an amplifier system rigged up by Lieut. Bill Campbell of Calgary, welfare officer.

The easy time will last until Friday morning when Lt.-Col. J. R. Stone, commanding officer, has decreed training will resume so the troops will remain fit until they are next called on for line duty. It is expected the battalion will have sufficient training to keep their leg muscles supple and shooting eyes sharp with the rest of the time devoted to sports, relaxation, re-equipping and mulling over lessons learned in action.

Rescue 6 Men Off Ice Floe

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, March 15 (AP)—Six Air Force men were snatched to safety from their floating camp site 130 miles north of the tip of Alaska in the Arctic Ocean Monday, the Alaskan Air Command disclosed today.

A big grinding iceberg which looked like its nickname—Cathedral—was blamed.

The camp—an experimental station—had been established Feb. 20 on a huge ice floe.

Sunday the icepack and an iceberg began to overlap, with huge chunks being broken off. When forced to depart, the men left behind all but a few items.

The station was an experiment to determine the feasibility of establishing a semi-permanent rescue station in the Polar area. The party plans to re-establish the camp "as soon as possible."

Elevator Doors Stick Princess Locked In

LONDON, March 15 (AP)—The elevator doors wouldn't open, so Princess Margaret was locked in the lift for five minutes today. She was gay about it.

It happened at Olympia, the big hall at which an Ideal Home exhibition is being held. The Princess was being taken down from the second to the ground floor. That's where the gates and the elevator refused to budge.

The operator began to shout for engineers. All he attracted was a crowd, which did nothing but stare.

"Maybe they'll feed us through the bars," the Princess suggested.

After a few moments, some men tugged around the elevator and the doors finally opened.

Margart walked from the elevator over to admire a bridal gown on display, thus opening a new field for gossip.

In Pursuit of Treasure

Duke Makes New Attempt To Learn Galleon's Secret

TOBERMORY, Scotland, March 15 (Reuters).—New attempts will be made here next month to wrest from the Atlantic floor the secrets of the $100,000,000 Spanish treasure galleon Duque de Florencia.

Divers last summer found an ancient hulk at the bottom of Tobermory's Island Bay. It may be the wreck of an armada ship—sunk 350 years ago after fleeing from Sir Francis Drake and the English fleet.

The man with the biggest stake in the new salvage effort is the Duke of Argyll, 47-year-old Scottish Peer whose family has long owned the bay where salvage operations were carried out last year by the navy.

"We hope to get going again at Tobermory in about a month", he says.

Air Vice Marshal Henry Thornton, the Duke's associate in the salvage venture, is at present in the United States on business. An announcement about a starting date for salvage operations is expected when he returns.

Last year's salvage operations yielded silver medallions, a stone cannon ball and other relice strengthening the belief that the craft buried under the waters of the bay is indeed the Florencia.

But whether her reputed hoard of gold plate, doubloon ducats and pieces of eight still remains on board has yet to be established.

The Spaniards blew the ship after trouble with a local chieftain, MacLean of Duart. Some of the sturdy islanders apparently feel that successive generations of MacLeans must have gone to considerable lengths to test the story of the treasure.

Island skeptics say they have seen more money poured into Tobermory harbor in the search than will ever come out of it.

They were temporarily silenced last year when the navy, with up-to-date scientific equipment, produced new evidence of the galleon after a grim struggle against giant natural forces 60 feet under the bay's surface.

Seoul Gives U.S. Troops Big Ovation

UN Army Keeps Eye On Chunchon Vital Supply Base

TOKYO, March 15. (AP) — Seoul's remnant population of old folks and children roared an ovation today to United Nations troops searching its torn remains for Communists.

Reoccupation by the Allies on Thursday marked the fourth time the Republican capital has changed hands since the war began last June 25.

The main Communist garrison quit the flanked city in the general Red retreat all across Korea. But Korean civilians said the bomb-blasted, fire-blackened and booby-trapped city still held a few Communist troops disguised in civilian clothing.

Of the normal 1,500,000 population, only about 200,000 remained to greet the returning South Korean and American troops.

East of Seoul, tank-led Allied columns ground slowly and steadily toward strategic Chunchon, the Reds' last chance for a foothold in South Korea.

At points along the advancing Allied line, UN units were less than 18 miles from Parallel 38, once the dividing line between Communist North and Republican South Korea.

Bloodless Capture

Recapture of the old Korean capital of Seoul was bloodless. Elements of the South Korean 1st Division and the American 3rd Division speared into the city on Wednesday night. The South Korean troops pulled out at darkness, but the Americans stayed on.

At first all was quiet. Then the timid, frightened people came out of their wrecked houses by ones, by twos, by groups as word spread that the United Nations soldiers were back.

In his temporary capital, President Syngman Rhee of the Republic of Korea almost wept with joy over the reoccupation of Seoul.

The capture of the capital was a magnificent morale booster to Republican Koreans. But the Allied command had its eye on a target of greater military importance.

That target was vital Chunchon in Central Korea, eight miles south of the 38th Parallel.

The Reds must hold that key supply base if they intend to remain in South Korea.

Air observers have estimated possibly 120,000 Chinese in ridge positions south of Chunchon.

Crack American divisions were advancing today toward the Red stronghold.

The US 1st Marine Division was at the gates of the no-man's town of Hongchon, 15 miles south-east of Chunchon.

50 Policemen Hunt Killer

ASHLEY, Pa., March 15 (AP)—Fifty heavily-armed state policemen searched a thickly-wooded area here today for a navy veteran of the Korean war wanted for killing his estranged wife, her father and brother-in-law.

Sgt. Charles A. Connolly said all officers assigned to the hunt for 22-year-old Edward Rovinski had been ordered to "take every precaution" because Rovinski was last seen carrying a rifle and an automatic pistol after the triple slaying late Wednesday.

Rovinski, Connolly said, opened fire on a car in which his wife was riding. The car stopped and Rovinski, calmly reloading his rifle, killed his 22-year-old wife, Margaret; her father, Andrew Stuka, 55, and her brother-in-law, George Tomko, 33.

Explosion On Freighter Startles Halifax

HALIFAX, March 15—(CP)—An explosion here Wednesday in the boiler of the British freighter Woodford sent Haligonians scurrying for their telephones.

The report broke a few windows in the south end of the city but no one was injured by the backfire, caused by an accumulation of diesel oil in a boiler.

Britain's Oil Wells Taken Over By Iran As Parliament Approves Nationalization

TEHRAN, Iran, March 15 — (AP)—Iran's parliament today unanimously approved a proposal to nationalize all the country's resources, including the wells of the huge, British-owned Anglo-Iranian Oil Company.

By a standing vote the Majlis (parliament) confirmed the decision of a special parliamentary oil commission endorsing nationalization, and gave the commission another two months in which to work out specific details.

(A Foreign Office spokesman in London said "nothing is likely to happen immediately." He indicated that Britain feels Iran hasn't the skilled technical men to actually operate the company.)

The vote was the climax of growing anti-British demonstrations in recent months. It came one week after Premier Ali Razmara, who opposed nationalization, was assassinated by a Moslem fanatic who accused the premier of selling the country to foreigners.

British diplomats and oil company officials, last fall openly scornful of the nationalization talk, now feel the situation gavely threatens one of Britain's major oil sources.

Canada Sparks Hot Issue At UK Conference Over Lower Sugar Tariff

OTTAWA, March 15. (CP)—Canada is negotiating with Cuba to reduce the tariff on sugar in return for a lower tariff on Canadian manufactured goods, informed quarters disclosed today. The negotiations form part of the hottest issues at the multi-nation tariff conference at Torquay, England. Australia, for one, has suggested to Canada that the negotiations with Cuba be broken off, fearing they would strike a blow against Commonwealth sugar sales in Canada.

Last year Canada imported about 1,260,000,000 pounds of sugar, mostly from the Commonwealth, at a cost of about $76,000,000. Among leading exporters, Jamaica got $16,000,000 worth of the trade, British Guiana $13,600,000 and Australia, $11,000,000. Less than $500,000 worth was imported from Cuba.

Reason for this big trade in the Commonwealth's favor is that Canada grants the Commonwealth a British preferential tariff of 28 cents a hundredweight on sugar. Cuba must pay $1.28 a hundredweight.

The negotiations at Torquay are aimed at lowering the difference, as part of Canada's policy to eliminate tariff discrimination wherever possible.

Cuba Could Undersell

Officials here believe that if the tariff is equalized, Cuba likely would be able to undersell the British sources of supply. That would cut down the British market for sugar in Canada. This would apply particularly in such cases where transportation costs are a big factor, such as the cost of hauling sugar from Australia to Canada.

On the other hand, Canada would like to explore the Cuban market for Canadian manufactured goods. At the moment she is at a disadvantage with the United States which has a tariff preference in Cuba.

If Canada can get the same tariff treatment as the U.S. in Cuba, it is felt here that Canada would have a better chance of selling more manufactured goods in that market.

Slight Mistake!

LONG BEACH, Calif., March 15. (AP)—A cheque for $990,012.56 came to Mrs. Mary X. Mason Wednesday. It was from an insurance company and represented a refund on a policy covering furniture which had been sold. "The amount seemed rather high," Mrs. Mason said in a conservative statement explaining the circumstances. She said she called the insurance company and learned the amount should have been $12.56. The company explained that its cheque - writing machine went haywire.

German POW's In W. Ontario During War Return As Free Men To Work Same Farms

LONDON, Ont., March 15—(CP) — German prisoners, brought to Western Ontario during the war, are returning here as free men to work on the same farms they tilled as captives.

Immigration officials said today they had received about 20 applications from district farmers who wanted back the young Germans who were placed on their farms as prisoners of war.

Under recent immigration legislation, German nationals may come to Canada as potential citizens.

So far only six of the former "enemy" have completed the journey to farms in the Aylmer and Chatham areas.

During the war the German POW's were held at Fingal and placed out on farms in the district.

"The farmers found them such good workers that we have been receiving a small but steady stream of requests for their return," an immigration official said.

The German nationals are screened closely before leaving their native land and several have been refused passage because they were considered unfit to become new Canadians.

Get 8 Years For Robbery

TORONTO, March 15—(CP)—Frank Delfabro, 19, of Sault Ste. Marie, and Roy Henderson, 20, of Toronto, today were sentenced to eight years in penitentiary for the armed robbery of the Rondon Hotel here. They also were given six years concurrently on two other charges of armed robbery.

Magistrate Robert Forsyth told Delfabro:

"There doesn't seem to be much redemption in you. Since 1947 you've spent your whole time practically in jail."

The youths escaped with $650 from the hotel. The other two charges were in connection with a $300 drugstore robbery and a $30 car livery holdup.

Delfabro was arrested in Sault Ste. Marie and Henderson in Toronto.

Louise Lariviere, 21, was acquitted Wednesday of aiding and abetting the youths in the drugstore robbery.

Father, Child Die In Blaze

BENTON HARBOR, Mich., March 15 — (AP). — Industrialist David Ross and his seven-year-old daughter Ruthe Anne, were killed in a fire early today at the family's palatial lake shore home. Evidently Ross, 54, lost his life in a vain effort to rescue the child.

Two other daughters and a son, along with the family's housekeeper, escaped the flames. The fire destroyed the home.

Ross, president of Progressive Industries, Incorporated, was a Zionist leader in Michigan. Several years ago he had visited Israel and returned to lead a relief drive in the state.

Free Coal Miners

GATESHEAD, England, March 15 (Reuters)—Rescuers Wednesday night freed seven coal miners trapped underground for nearly 30 hours by a sodden wall of clay. Throughout the digging—from rescuers above and the trapped men below—the seven could hear, talk to and even see the the rescue workers through the pipe which was forced through the clay wall.

Freeze Price At Rate Wednesday

Legislature Hears Goodfellow Introduce New Bill

TORONTO, March 15. (CP) —Power to control maximum retail prices of milk in Ontario was proposed today in a bill introduced in the Legislature by Welfare Minister Goodfellow, in the absence of Agriculture Minister Kennedy.

The bill will freeze retail prices as of midnight Wednesday and future increases will be under control of the Milk Board.

A new board will be established, with four members. The chairman, a judge, will have the deciding vote. The other members will be chosen to represent producers, distributors, and consumers.

The announcement was greeted with a barrage of desk pounding by all members.

Reading from a prepared statement, said that it was hoped under the 1948 Milk Control Act that free competition would control retail prices. Due to present conditions, it now was felt that commodity control should be carried through on both wholesale and retail levels.

Every factor would be taken into account by the Milk Board in public hearings, before setting any maximum retail price, the minister said. Two of these factors were the farmers' cost of production, together with a "reasonable profit," for distributors.

The bill also eliminates the present board of three arbitrators who settle wholesale prices when producers and distributors cannot agree on an area price. They would be replaced by a single arbitrator.

The bill is designed to encourage sound competition," Mr. Goodfellow said. Once a price was set for any area, milk could be sold in any other area having the same price.

In the event of a lack of agreement during price negotiations, the former agreement would be maintained until a new price was set.

In reply to a question by G. B. Ellis (CCF-Essex North), Mr. Goodfellow said that the recently announced retail increase in Windsor, going into effect later this week would not be blocked.

Both the former chief and deputy were retired by the present police commission which was formed following two police department investigations last fall, one by the former police commission and one by the provincial police.

Band's Instruments Smashed In Studio

TORONTO, March 15—(CP)—Richard Glums, producer of CBC's half-hour broadcast, Latin American Serenade, was glum today. His program Wednesday night had to be replaced with recorded music, "due to conditions beyond our control."

The reason, a person, or persons, sneaked into the CBC concert studio here and smashed $2,000 worth of the band's instruments.

"Clarinets, saxophones, all the drum equipment and many rare Latin American instruments were slashed or slammed on the floor," Mr Glums said.

Police were of the opinion a group of youngsters got into the studio through a back entrance while the band and other show members were absent, and ran wild.

McKee Awarded Son's Custody After 9-Year Fight

LONDON, March 15. (CP)—The highest court in the Commonwealth today decided in favor of Mark T. McKee, Michigan Airlines executive, who sought custody of his 10-year-old son in a legal battle with his divorced wife. McKee, who has a home at Linwood, near Kitchener, won his appeal to the judicial committee of the Privy Council. He had appealed against a decision of the Supreme Court of Canada which last June awarded custody of the son, Terry Alexander McKee, to the mother.

Terry, object of the legal battle for the last nine years, has been in his father's custody since the Supreme Court of Canada "froze" its decision pending the Privy Council appeal.

The decision of Canada's highest court reversed an earlier judgment of the Supreme Court of Ontario which awarded custody to the father. The Ontario Supreme Court decision was affirmed by the province's Court of Appeals before it was taken to the court at Ottawa.

Reserved Judgment

Final arguments in the case were heard by the law lords here and they reserved judgment Feb. 19.

Evidence before the law lords was that the mother and father had been married in Vermont in 1933. They were divorced in California where the boy was born. The California courts eventually awarded the boy's custody to the mother.

The father had taken the son to live in Ontario. The mother had followed them there and began the Canadian litigation.

The judgment of the Privy Council was given today by Lord Simonds.

Regarding costs, he said that the committee had decided to vary the order as to costs made by the Supreme Court of Canada. The effect will be that each party will pay his or her own costs. The lordships made no order as to the costs of the present appeal.

In outlining the reasons for the judgment, Lord Simonds reviewed at length the complicated legal processes which started after

Fear Queen's Star To Lose Sight Of Eye

KINGSTON, March 15 (CP).—Queen's football and basketball star, Maurice O. (Bo-Bo) Penner, may lose the sight of his left eye.

During a handball game March 3, hand of another player struck Penner's glasses, breaking them and driving a piece of the glass into the eye. Penner's home is in Fort William.

Dr. J. G. McBroom, eye specialist, who has been attending the injured athlete since he was admitted to the Kingston General Hospital, said today the injury is "very serious." Loss of the sight of the eye might almost be said "probable."

Believe Wilkie Masquerading As Contractor

BARRIE, March 15— (CP). — A man believed to be Melville Wilkie, a five-time escapee from a mental hospital, was being hunted near here today. He last escaped July 13, 1950.

Police in this town, some 60 miles north of Toronto, said they believe the 40-year-old man is masquerading as an electrical contractor. He is also wanted in nearby Collingwood on several charges of false pretences and fraud.

Search parties scoured the area Wednesday night, but failed to turn up a clue.

Wilkie was sent to the Ontario Hospital for the Criminally Insane at Penetanguishene 18 years ago, after his wife and child burned to death in their home at Owen Sound. He was charged with murder, but the case never went to trial.

With him in his last break was George Herman Woodcox, a Haliburton lumberjack. Woodcox was captured shortly afterwards. He was ruled insane two years ago.

Police said several residents identified Wilkie from pictures. They said he posed as a contractor. A restaurant operator said Wilkie tried to rent a cabin from him Wednesday night.

Transportation Report Tabled

OTTAWA, March 15 (CP). — The report of the Royal Commission on Transportation will be tabled in the Commons late this afternoon, Government officials said today.

Prime Minister St. Laurent is expected to give the House the 200,000-word report shortly before 6 p.m. EST.

In preparation for more than two years, the document is expected to contain findings proposing solutions for many aspects of Canada's transportation problem.

The commission — headed by Hon. W. F. A. Turgeon, ambassador to Eire—concluded its long study last summer. The report was given to the Cabinet early last month and has been in the hands of the printers since then.

Just Like Old Times

Old Men Cry, Women Kiss UN Troops Back In Seoul

By JIM BECKER

SEOUL, March 15—(AP)—Old men wept unashamed. Women hugged and kissed us. And squealing children fought to touch us as the first 19 United Nations men reached the heart of fire-blackened Seoul today.

Six were United States 3rd division infantrymen. One was a Korean interpreter. Eleven were an assortment of correspondents and photographers. The 19th was a British driver. A police dog named Buck completed the party.

We were the first to penetrate to the centre of Seoul after abandonment of the ancient capital by North Koreans. And we walked there without a shot being fire.

The streets were deserted as we moved cautiously from the outskirts. But the news began to spread.

At first, small groups of Koreans waved flags and shouted "manzai," the Korean equivalent of victory.

Then tiny children came scurrying from the houses like ants at a picnic.

Aged men and women with children on their back clustered about.

Kneel At Feet

Some of the women threw themselves at our feet and sobbed hysterically. Tears coursed down the cheeks of bearded old men. Most citizens wore tattered clothing.

The children shoved and pushed each other in a scramble for the right to grab our hands and touch us.

The shouts of "manzai" grew louder as our following multiplied. The noise was like that back home at a ball park when someone hit a home run with the bases loaded.

Women hugged and kissed us. Our hands were squeezed by hundreds.

Seoul was a sorry sight.

Buildings were demolished. Many were destroyed during the three previous times the capital changed hands. During the last month, it was pounded daily by 1,600 rounds fired by allied artillery into Red positions.

An infantry patrol found one enemy—a Chinese medical doctor. He was taken prisoner.

Civilians said some North Korean soldiers still lurked in the town in civilian clothes. But not a shot was fired in the first hours of Thursday.

Train Wreck Kills 3 Near Detroit

30 Others Injured In Derailment In Centre of Town

DETROIT, March 15. (AP)—Two women and the infant child of one were killed in a train wreck just west of here last midnight and more than 30 persons were injured.

Five cars of a Cincinnati-bound New York Central passenger train left the rails in suburban Trenton as the train felt its way through fog and snow. No Canadians were aboard.

The victims included a Michigan State College student's wife and child.

Early today the body of the second woman was still unidentified.

Crushed to death in one overturned coach were Mrs. Grace Allen, 25, East Lansing, Mich. and her year-old baby, Janet. The young husband, R. S. Allen, was slightly injured.

Rescuers and wreckers worked for hours in the fantastic glare of searchlights playing over upset and tilted cars.

Two cars lay on their sides. Three others, including a baggage car, were off the rails. The jumble was in the shape of a huge "U."

A fleet of ambulances raced with the injured to a hospital in neighboring Wyandotte.

Work In Muck

Crews of rescuers worked in the mud and muck left from two days of rain, sleet and snow.

The train, which left Detroit at 11:30 p.m. EST, was to have hooked two of its cars onto the NYC's Florida Resorter, Royal Palm, at Cincinnati this morning.

A light snow was falling as it reached Trenton, a little steel town 17 miles west of Detroit.

State police said the train apparently hit a split rail or open switch in the heart of the town. Two of the train's coaches toppled over.

Police reported the train apparently was not travelling fast. One passenger, Haskell Richard, of Detroit, reported he was getting ready for bed when he felt the car jolt—then come to a "lazy stop." Richard was not injured.

Taken Off Seat

The bodies of Mrs. Allen and her baby were removed from the crumpled seat of one of the coaches.

State Police Commissioner Donald S. Leonard, in command of troopers at the scene, said their deaths were a "pathetic sight."

Others told of the husband frantically calling "Grace, Grace, where are you?" and "My wife, my baby, they're under there."

A carload of Marines headed for induction were unhurt. Their car remained upright. All clambered out on the snowy right-of-way and assisted rescuers.

Some of the injured were half dragged and half carried from the cars. Others made it without help.

The wreck scene is not far from the Detroit River which feeds ore to steel furnaces in a string of down-river communities.

Ambulances from neighboring cities sped to Trenton.

Trenton, a city of 6,000 population, was not equipped to handle all the injured. Most were taken the seven miles to Wyandotte General Hospital.

Red Tide Again

FORT MYERS, Fla., March 15. (AP) — The "red tide" which killed millions of fish along the lower Florida west coast four years ago has been reported again. This time the site is near the lower Gulf coast of Mexico, however, several hundred miles from Florida. Scientists said the "tide" is a host of tiny organisms which choke fish to death by using up all the oxygen in the water.

Oshawa Man Sent For Trial On $300 Forgery Charge

Francis Sabotka, was committed for trial by a higher court in a preliminary hearing in police court Wednesday on a charge of forging a withdrawal slip for $300 against the bank account of Jan Jakubowski, Oshawa.

Because his English was poor, constable Edward Niziol acted as interpreter for Jakubowski.

The two men had boarded in the same room in an Oshawa house from about the first of November until Sabotka was arrested in February.

Jakubowski testified that for a time he worked on a farm near Hastings and had opened an account in the Royal Bank of Canada in Peterborough.

Short $300

February 9, he went to his bank in Oshawa to have his Peterborough account transferred to Oshawa and found that instead of about $350 he thought was in the account, there was only $57 and some odd cents.

Shown a withdrawal slip on which $300 was withdrawn from his account in January, he said the signature on it was not his.

He testified two others, one Pole and one Ukrainian lived in the same room with Sabotka and him. He said he had lost his bank book out did not know when. He first realized it was gone Dec. 9. He reported the loss to the bank and was told not to worry that he would not lose his money in the account as a result. He was not given a new bank book.

Not Same Signature

Lloyd Mistele, accountant of the Peterborough branch of the Royal Bank, produced Sabotka's bank signature card. Asked by W. J. Arthur Fair, KC, defending Sabotka, if the signature on the withdrawal slip with the signature on the signature card, Mr. Mistele said "if this (the withdrawal slip) were referred to me, I would say it wasn't the same signature."

Detective-Sergeant W. A. Clarke testified that he had obtained six specimen signatures of Jakubowski's name from the three men who had boarded in the same room with including the accused. He produced the samples in court.

John A. McKone, handwriting expert, testified he had examined the withdrawal slip and the specimen signatures obtained by the detective.

He concluded that Sabotka had written the signature on the withdrawal slip, although he said there were more dissimilarities in the two signatures than similarities.

However he said, he was not so interested in dissimilarities as he was in key characteristics.

Striking Similarity

Mr. Fair argued that there was a striking similarity between the writing of all the men boarding with Jakubowski and Jakubowski's signature.

He argued that in Jakubowski's specimen signatures he had broken one of his key characteristics pointed out by Mr. McKone in the last signature. In so doing—that is raising the last letter "i" of his name above the line of the writing—it looked just like the "i" on the withdrawal slip.

Gold Rush Town Mad At Ottawa

OTTAWA, March 15.—Formal action by Ottawa shifting the seat of government for the Yukon from Dawson to Whitehorse, caused howls of rage in the far north Wednesday night.

Dawson, the fabled gold rush centre, has dwindled from a roaring boom town of 25,000 at the turn of the century, to a little village of 800 souls today. But the population of Whitehorse has been increasing steadily and is now about 3,000.

And Dawson will shrink even more. It exists largely on the annual $100,000 government payroll which will be cut off and transferred to Whitehorse.

The formal action was announced in Ottawa by Resources Minister Winters who said that in the interests of efficient government the government seat was being shifted 250 airmiles south to Whitehorse. He shrugged off Dawson as a tourist centre because of its historic background, and mentioned, too, that it was also a mining centre.

The cries of rage that went up from Dawson echoed and re-echoed through the musty, empty saloons of the '99er's.

"Why, it's like shoving our last frontier nearly 500 miles to the south," thundered Ald. Jim Mellor.

"We'll show them back there at Ottawa that we're not going to be pushed around like a bunch of sitting ducks," said dentist William Joiner.

Germans Want UK Approval

BONN, March 15.—The German Government handed a note to the Allied High Command on Wednesday which in effect demanded British approval of the implementation in Germany of the Schuman plan, already endorsed by the United States and France.

Since Britain is apathetic to the plan and British officials here had indicated that they objected to the decartelization proposals for Germany under the plan, it was clear Germany was calling for a showdown.

A German spokesman said U.S. High Commissioner John J. McCloy had agreed to win the British over to the American-French-German view on the future setup of the steel and coal industries of West Germany.

An allied high commissioner meeting is scheduled for today, but there is no indication the heavy industry deconcentration program in Germany will be discussed.

Will Double Spending To Speed Recruiting

OTTAWA, March 15 (CP).—The government is preparing to step up sharply the already-intensified drive for armed forces recruits in an effort to keep manpower needs satisfied by voluntary methods. It will become nearly a $4,000,000-a-year proposition.

The estimates of government spending in the fiscal year starting April 1 indicate that the Defence Department, with parliament's approval, will be doubling spending on its recruiting program.

Under the heading, "films, displays, broadcasting, advertising and other informational materials" the estimates propose to spend $3,836,000 in the next fiscal year compared to $1,995,000 in the year ending with the end of this month.

A departmental spokesman said this means recruiting is going to become "a very big operation."

A recruiting official estimated that the tempo of the campaign, steadily intensified since Korea started, will be boosted between 50 to 60 per cent.

the couple was divorced in 1941, and said that on considering this the Lordships saw no reason for believing that the Ontario trial judge had "come to a wrong conclusion."

Won't Overrule.

It had been argued, said Lord Simonds, that the Ontario judgment ought to be overruled because the trial judge had decided to examine all the circumstances as the basis for forming an independent judgment. To their Lordships, this seemed a "negation of the proposition that the infant's welfare was the paramount consideration."

The Law Lords considered an independent judgment was warranted in the circumstances because "the facts of the case" had altered in the time that elapsed after the California judgment.

No longer was the choice between California and "a place not accessible, snowbound in winter"; no longer was the child under the care and supervision for most of the time of elderly employees hired by the father; no longer was he remote from adequate transportation and educational facilities.

"This conspicuous change of circumstances demanded an independent inquiry," Lord Simonds added. "Their Lordships therefore see no reason for thinking that the learned judge, whose full and exhaustive inquiry they have already recognized, came to a wrong conclusion."

Ready For Locusts

ALGIERS, March 15 (Reuters) Local authorities are standing by with DDT and flame-throwers to meet swarms of locusts reported by French Legion outposts in the Sahara to be moving northwards. They will reach Algerian date and cereal oases by spring if not stopped.

Don't Want Panic

WASHINGTON, March 15 — (AP).—The Civil Defence Administration wants to head off public panic over fear of germ-warfare attack, real or rumored. It started circulating today a pamphlet on "what you should know about biological warfare." The book is a companion piece to the previously-published official pamphlet "Survival Under Atomic Attack."

Prices Turn Lower In Quiet Trading

TORONTO, March 15 (CP).—Prices turned lower in extremely quiet trading as the session progressed on the Toronto Stock Exchange today.

Activity was almost at a standstill and volume for the first three hours of 622,000 shares was about 116,000 fewer than the same period Wednesday.

In industrials, losses ranged $2 but many issues were untraded and unchanged. Steels, papers, textiles, banks, liquors, manufacturing companies and retail stores showed a majority of losses. Foods, utilities, constructions and refining oils were ahead and the rest of the board was mixed.

Issues losing $1 or more were Traders Finance, Ford A, Aluminum, Consumers Gas and Bank of Nova Scotia.

Base metals posted a wide list of small declines. Key issues lower included Waite Amulet, International Nickel, United Keno Hill, Falconbridge, East Sullivan, and Steep Rock.

Western oils eased slowly. Polaris, Pacific Petroleum, Federated Petroleum, Calgary and Edmonton, Atlantic Oil and National Petroleum were off pennies.

Golds were fairly mixed with little trading.

Rob Bank of $10,000

MONTREAL, March 15—(CP)—Two armed men held up a north end branch of the Banque Provinciale du Canada early today and escaped with between $10,000 and $14,000. Bank manager J. L. Turcotte said the two men wore "dirty hankies" over their faces, leaving only their eyes uncovered.

Growing Weaker

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., March 15—(AP)—Seriously-ill Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg continues to grow weaker. The condition of the veteran Michigan Republican took a turn for the worse Wednesday, said his personal physician, Dr. A. B. Smith. Several hours after that, Dr. Smith would say only "no change."

MOSTLY NATIVE

There are more than 1,200 moving picture theatres in India but only a fifth of them show imported films.

Says 2 Words Missing On Train Order

PRINCE GEORGE, B.C., March 15 (CP)—A train dispatcher testified Wednesday that two vital words were missing from the order that Alfred John Atherton, 22, relayed to a westbound troop train involved in the November Canoe River crash in Northern British Columbia.

The order, typwritten on a flimsy square of light blue paper, was centre of attraction as preliminary hearing of a manslaughter charge was continued against Atherton, a former Canadian National Railways telegrapher.

Atherton is alleged to have relayed the order incorrectly, resulting in the Rocky Mountain collision which took 21 lives. A passenger train was also involved.

The order originated in the Kamloops office of dispatcher A. E. Tisdale, who testified that the vital words—"at Cedarside"—were included when he transmitted the order to Atherton.

Defence lawyer John Diefenbaker concentrated his cross-examination on the point that Mr. Tisdale himself omitted a word from the order by neglecting to end the message "at Gosnell" as he (Tisdale) said he transmitted it.

Mr. Tisdale said he transmitted the word "at" before the name, "Gosnell," but did not include it in his own written order.

Underlines Words

Further questions revealed that under railway rules the receiver of a train order must read it back to the dispatcher who then underlines each word of his own copy as it is read to him.

The dispatcher said he was in the habit of doing this.

Mr. Diefenbaker said: "I cannot understand a man in your responsible position telling the court you sent a message and underlined every word of it when in fact you did not underline the word 'at'."

He continued: "If you could have omitted the word 'at' could you not also have omitted the words 'at Cedarside'?"

Mr. Tisdale told the court that when Atherton repeated the message, he had included the words "at Cedarside" allegedly missing from the relayed order to the troop train.

Taxi, Trolley Collide, 6 Hurt

MONTREAL, March 15 (CP).—Six persons were severely injured early today when a taxi collided head-on with a street car in West End Cote St. Paul.

The injured are: Jean-Guay Lavigne, 22, driver of the taxi; Nora Holson, 22; Alfred Pilon, 19; Grant Greeg, 23; James Donald, 25; and Rita Keegan, 17. All are from Montreal.

Police said Lavigne was driving on the left side of the road at excessive speed. Only two Montreal Tramway's employees were in the street car which was slightly damaged.

The injured were taken to hospital where authorities described their condition as serious.

Delay Meeting About Kashmir

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y., March 15—(Reuters) — The security council meeting on the Kashmir question, scheduled for today, has been postponed until March 21.

No reason for the postponement were given by UN officials, but it is understood that consultations still are going on between Britain and the United States, as sponsors of the pending resolution, and other members of the council.

2 Stars Play Old Roles From 1928 Film

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, March 15 (AP) Hollywood will take a sentimental journey into the past March 26 when Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell again play their roles in "Seventh Heaven."

In honor of the Academy Awards March 29 the (Lux) Radio Theatre will present the drama with its original stars. Miss Gaynor won the first Oscar given to an actress for her role in it (and two other pictures, "Sunrise" and "Street Angel")

That was 1928. Today Miss Gaynor is the wife of Gilbert Adrian, the fashion designer, and Farrell is the successful operator of the Racquet Club in Palm Springs. But when they met to prepare for their radio stint, there was still evidence of the old magic that made them the top romantic team of 20 years ago.

Both joked about their former fame.

"You know me—star of stage, screen and television," laughed Miss Gaynor, whose beauty and baby voice are little changed. "Everybody tells me they see my old pictures on TV now."

How Times Change

"It's funny," remarked Farrell, grey but still slim and athletic. "When I was on a ship during the war, the boys heard I was in pictures, but asked 'who is he?' Some weeks later, after they had written home about me, their mothers and grandmothers told them who I was."

The pair reminisced about making "Seventh Heaven." Its filming took about six months, which would be unheard of now. Despite its fame, it was not particularly successful at the box office. Many of their other films —they made about a dozen together—made more money.

Send Medical Units

OTTAWA, March 15 (CP). — Canada is sending three small, mobile medical units to Korea with the 25th Brigade. There is no apparent intention of establishing a Canadian hospital there. The Defence Department reported Wednesday that the medical units going to Korea are half of those in the special force.

Can Wear Decorations

OTTAWA, March 15 (CP). — Canadian soldiers in Korea are free to wear all United States decorations which are or have been officially awarded to them, an army official said Wednesday night. He was commenting on an editorial in the London Daily Express in which the paper said it disagrees with the British Government for not granting permission for British soldiers in Korea to wear American decorations.

First 1,000 Bottles

OTTAWA, March 15 —(CP)— The first 1,000 bottles of blood plasma for Canada's armed forces will be presented tomorrow to Defence Minister Claxton by the Canadian Red Cross Society, the Defence Department announced today. Gift of blood donors from all parts of Canada, the plasma will be brought from the national headquarters of the Society in Toronto.

Stages Gun Battle

CANDOR, N. C., March 15 (AP) —A young student chased two truant officers from his home on Wednesday, then barricaded himself and engaged officers in a gun battle for an hour and a half before surrendering. The boy, Charles Bailey, 16, had been charged with assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill.

DR. PETER KIR

MRS. OLGA NEPORANY

Never Stayed With Olga Longer Than 2 Hrs.—Dr. Kir

TORONTO, March 15—(CP)— Dr. Peter Kir, defendant in an alienation of affections lawsuit, Wednesday asserted that he had never committed adultery with Mrs. Olga Neporany.

Mrs. Neporany's husband, Josephat, is suing Dr. Kir, for alienation of his wife's affections and for alleged criminal conversation.

Dr. Kir said in court that he reserved and paid for a room in a hotel in Windsor for Mrs. Neporany. He said he never stayed in the room longer than two hours or spent a night there.

Dr. Kir's lawyer, Sydney M. Harris, asked him:

"Have you at any time, in Toronto or Windsor or anywhere else, had sexual relations with Olga Neporany?"

"No."

Insisted Stay With Husband

"Did you at any time ask Olga Neporany to come away with you and leave her husband?"

"No, on the contrary, I insisted she stay with her husband.

The trial today enters its fourth day.

Cross-examined by Peter White, appearing for Neporany, Kir was questioned about Mrs. Neporany's first visit to Dr. Kir at the Bathurst St. clinic where he worked as a medical assistant.

"When you examined her for appendicitis, was that a physical examination?" "Physical and laboratory. I made a blood test."

"Was it necessary for the woman to strip for this examination?" She removed her outer clothing but had on her underclothes."

"Did that examination not reveal to you that the woman had had children?" "No."

Discovered Woman Married

"I think you told my friend that you learned at the end of February that the woman was married and had three children?" "I learned the fact later, when she came to Richmand St."

"You also told my friend that you gave her your phone number?" "Yes. She asked for it and I gave it."

"This was on the very first time you met the woman?" "Yes."

"Did you give her your phone number and address for professional visits?" "Yes."

"Did she ever make a professional visit to your room?" "No."

"What was the longest time Olga Neporany spent in your Richmond St. room?" "I would say at the most two hours."

The cross-examination will continue today.

Gambling Spots Remain

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., March 15 —(CP)— Police chief I. L. Robertson admitted here today that there are still "many places of gambling in the Sault," but said the police will not stop "until they are all wiped out."

Chief Robertson was commenting on the annual report of the Ontario Provincial Police which listed this Northern Ontario city among eight centres where big crap and rake-off games abound.

He said that numerous raids had been carried out lately, but that police had been unable to obtain enough evidence to warrant bringing anyone to court. One conviction was registered when the Provincial Police anti-gambling squad was here last year.

Study Estimates

OTTAWA, March 15 (CP). — The Senate will study the government's estimates of expenditures again this year. The committee will not start work on the estimates, forecasting a record outlay of $3,586,915,657 in 1951-52 financial year, until after the Easter recess.

COBOURG, March 15 (ENS). —A $20,000 addition to the Dominion Wheel and Foundry plant here has ben announced by Robert Holland, plant superintendent. Work will start as soon as the blue prints have been completed.

The main building, running east and west, will be extended to the west on property which was acquired some time ago for expansion purposes and will be 78 feet long and 56 wide, mainly of cement block and steel construction. This addition will be a finishing room where moulds will be cleaned and readied for shipment.

Also to be erected is a huge electro-magnet crane which will be 100 feet long and will operate 50 feet across. It will be employed in unloading scrap metal from railway cars.

Accepts Ouster

NEW YORK, March 15 (AP). —The Rev. Dr. John Howard Melish Wednesday gave up his fight against ouster as rector of a church. The 76-year-old minister spent a letter to the Rt. Rev. James P. DeWolfe, Bishop of Long Island, that he accepts the Bishop's ouster order. Dr. Melish carried to the U.S. supreme court his fight to retain his post at the Protestant Episcopal Church of the Holy Trinity in Brooklyn. But the court last month refused to review his case.

Mao Said Ill

TAIPEI, Formosa, March 15 — (AP)— The Nationalist defence ministry reported tonight that Mao Tze-tung, leader of Red China, is seriously ill in Pieping. The ministry said the information came indirectly from top Communist officials in Canton summoned secretly to Peiping.

Cobourg Plans $425,000 School

COBOURG, March 15 (ENS)— All members of the teaching staff of Cobourg Collegiate Institute are to receive an increase of $300 per annum, effective Sept. 1, it was announced yesterday by the secretary of the board.

Present annual increment is $200 and the result will be that teachers returning to their jobs at the start of the fall term will actually be getting an increase of $500. However, the board still has to decide on the matter of maximum salaries.

Name New Directors Campbellford Co-Op

CAMPBELLFORD, March 15 — (ENS).—Three new directors were appointed at the annual meeting of the Campbellford District Co-operative Service to administer the business of the service for the coming year. They are Clarence Grills, Ernest Irwin and Alex. McKenzie.

The financial statement was explained by Robert Ingram of the auditing service of the United Co-operatives of Ontario.

After the business portion of the meeting, the president called upon Mr. Ingram to introduce the speaker of the evening, William Nicholson, organization fieldman of the United Co-operatives in Ontario. Mr. Nicholson dealt with the growth of co-operatives throughout the provinces. In closing, he gave a brief outline of the credit unions being formed in many districts by the different co-operatives.

The president thanked the speaker for his inspiring and helpful talk, and the meeting was brought to a close.

Life Insurance TO PROTECT YOUR ESTATE

Long recognized as a great Estate builder, Life Insurance also plays an important role in protecting other assets of an Estate.

Succession Duties and Income Taxes, priority obligations of an Estate, must be provided for in cash before there can be any distribution to heirs. When funds are not readily available, it may be necessary to raise money by the sale of assets in an unfavourable market, at considerable sacrifice.

One way to avoid the danger of such a loss is to arrange now for Life Insurance to cover the expenses to which the Estate will later be subject.

The Western Wheat Subsidy

It is interesting that although there has been criticism of the Government's proposal to pay $65,000,000 to western wheat farmers to make up for the money which is not forthcoming from Britain, nobody has yet had the courage to say that it should not be done. No party wants to alienate the West. Mr. Pouliot has pointed out that Ontario and Quebec, which pay 80 per cent. of the country's taxes, will have to foot the bill. Mr. J. L. Gibson, after talking about the improvement in conditions in the West, expressed a hope that the cheques paid to the wheat farmers would not be negotiable in Florida or California — an oblique reference to the pleasant life which many wheat farmers are said to live. All parties appear to be reconciled to the notion that the Western wheat farmers should not suffer from the vicissitudes of trade, although people in other businesses are not offered a similar protection when things go badly with them. It is an old complaint of the West that it is pillaged by the industrial East; a statement of the various subventions paid to the Western wheat farmers during the past twenty-five years would make illuminating reading.

* * *

The Government appears to think that it must recompense the wheat farmers because it insisted on acting as their agent in selling the wheat, and miscalculated the market. There was no recession, as they had anticipated, and the intensification of the Korean war created a mild boom. Consequently the Government's wheat price was below the world wheat price, and the western farmers did not make as much as they might have done if they had not entrusted the Government with their wheat to sell. But it must also be pointed out that the Western farmers were very anxious to have the Government act as their agent; they needed little persuading on that score. The Winnipeg Free Press, always famous for its sensitive appraisal of the world wheat market, advised Western growers against this government agency in editorial after editorial, and suffered loss of circulation and of temporary influence as a result. But the Free Press saw matters more clearly than either the Government or the Western farmers, and it is to be hoped that the newspaper's strong counsel against bulk marketing by governments will be heeded another time.

* * *

Meanwhile, the country is apparently to be faced with a huge bill for the Government's bad guess. The Western wheat farmers, coddled and indulged as no other business group in the country can ever hope to be, are to have $65,000,000 from the public purse to soothe their wounded sensibilities. As Mr. Gibson pointed out, this is scarcely an encouragement to the Minister of Finance to seek methods of saving money; by one means or another he has saved $35,000,000, to be faced with an unforeseen expenditure of $65,000,000.

* * *

It is a lucky thing that Canada is a very wealthy country. Otherwise it would never be able to withstand the importunities of its more sensitive citizens and its chivalrous, open-handed governments.

"Too Much Money Chasing Too Few Goods"

The phrase is Mr. Garson's, Minister of Justice. He used it Tuesday in a speech appropriately delivered to the National Dairy Council meeting in Edmonton. He appealed to businessmen to help the government fight inflation and to refrain from increasing margins of profit at this time. "These actions and reactions reduce the standard of living and destroy confidence in the integrity of business and of businessmen. As time goes on they may also destroy the confidence of business itself in our free country." Mr. Garson's speech to the National Dairy Council was delivered the same day that butter prices rose suddenly by as much as fifteen cents a pound.

It is not only butter that has gone up. Margarine has risen in perhaps misplaced sympathy. Every product of the soil and factory has been touched by the fever, and every time prices rise the wholesalers and retailers take a larger cut because they reckon their profit margin on sale prices, not as a percentage of costs. The whole economy of the country is now under such strain that an explosion could occur. It will, unless very sincere, even stern measures are taken by business, industry (whose profits last year were enormous) and governments.

The difficulties are great, for now government is not having to lay schedules for a limited period such as the last war, but perhaps for a decade or two. The problems are so intricate that the same government financial and economic advisers who ten years ago planned and carried out a reasonably successful system of controls, priorities and the like, seem now to be oppressed by the difficulties and not able to get beyond them. Of course, these men are now ten years older, are not as fresh and perhaps as courageous in their vision as they were in 1940-41.

As Mr. Garson indicated, government alone cannot stem the inflation, which he defined as a condition in which "too much money is chasing too few goods." Agriculture, labour, business and industry, which are the chief agents for good or ill in this matter, must co-operate. They must do more; they must originate ways and means to check the inflation which, at its present pace, could damage not only the defence effort but also the very basis of Canadian economy.

Individuals used to believe that financial security lay in bank accounts, insurance and bonds. The way money values are depreciating, these represent insecurity. This is not a happy condition for Canadian society.

First Class Mail!

It is not yet April 1st, after which Peterborough expects to be put on the one-mail-a-day delivery schedule already established in many cities, including Montreal and Toronto, but the one delivery in outside points is already affecting Peterborough service. A letter posted in Peterborough, evening collection, used to be delivered to a Montreal household the next afternoon. Now the delivery is made on the second morning following its sending. Thus there is a lapse of two days between the time the letter is posted and when it is received in Montreal. The rail distance is 262 miles. The letter bears what is called first class postage. Is this first class service?

Toronto now has one mail delivery a day. A letter posted at the letter box at the Peterborough C.P.R. station Monday midnight and addressed to a Toronto resident was delivered Wednesday morning. The time lapse was 36 hours. The letter bore what must now be facetiously called first class postage. Is this first class service which puts Toronto a day and a half distant for evening letter-writers?

These are indications of how the one delivery a day outside Peterborough has disrupted, delayed and damaged postal service in Peterborough. How much greater will the inconvenience and time-lag be when incoming mail suffers from the single delivery system? This is rumored to begin on April 1st, All Fool's Day.

Matinee Idol

We read that sobbing women fought for sprigs of white lilac from the coffin of Ivor Novello, who was cremated on Monday. We are not in the least surprised. Women adored Novello. He was that very remarkable creature, a true matinee idol, an ideally handsome and attractive man over whom nundreds of women lost their heads. This was all the more curious, as Novello himself was not especially interested in women, except perhaps as patrons of his plays.

He was a man of many gifts. In addition to his astonishing personal beauty, he was an intelligent man, extremely shrewd in his understanding of the public. He knew that he was not a musical genius, but he also knew that he could write first-rate musical comedy tunes and sing them effectively. (His first hit was Keep The Home Fires Burning, written when he was sixteen.) He knew that he was not a great actor, but that he was an extremely effective actor in romantic and melodramatic extravaganzas. He knew that he was not much of a writer, but that he could tailor plays to fit his own personality. He combined these gifts so effectively that he was the only man—literally the only one—during the past twenty years who was able to fill London's great Drury Lane Theatre for months and years on end.

His musical comedies were mostly romantic hokum, but they were presented with great lavishness; the stage was filled not merely with people but with railway trains, horses, dogs and other surprising objects. Women attended them in droves, and many of them went to the same play again and again, to adore Novello.

Perhaps the most astonishing thing about him was the fact that, as the years passed, his personal beauty suffered no ravages of time. He was like Wilde's Dorian Gray, who did not know what it was to grow old. He died, at 58, as handsome as he was at 28.

Such men are extraordinary, and sometimes hard things are said of them, by less favoured men who are jealous. But the most unkind critic could not deny that Ivor Novello brought romance and a kind of beauty into many lives which otherwise would have lacked those graces.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Nobody has thought to suggest that our $1 a year men become $2 a year men, to take care of the drop in the value of the dollar.

A poll among the graduates of an eastern women's college shows that they have 3/5 of a husband each. What's that old saying about the preferability of half an oaf to no breadwinner?

What The U.S. Wants

by

SEBASTIAN HAFFNER

MUCH popular thinking on the present state of the world is determined, consciously or subconsciously, by a craving for symmetry, which is often confused with objectivity. Because America and Russia are the champions of two opposing camps people rush to the conclusion that similar judgements are applicable to them both. The "Big Two"—such is a not uncommon conception—are equal giants of strength; both, instead of accepting a balance of power between them, seek world domination; instead of agreeing to disagree, each tries to spread its own ideology and economic system throughout the world; and if world war results from their contest, both will be equally to blame.

❖ ❖ ❖

THIS seems a fair, though necessarily sketchy, description of the picture that is today in millions of minds. It is a totally and fundamentally false picture. There is no parallel between America and Russia, neither in physical power, nor in aim, nor in method; and the attempt to establish one is based on fiction, not fact.

It is not true, first of all, that the distribution of power in the world today warrants the division of the world between two equal giants. We are not living in a two-Power world today, as de Tocqueville, a hundred years ago, thought we should be by now. We are already living in a one-Power world. In terms of physical power America is today in a class by herself.

This does not mean that America could dominate and rule the whole world of today, as Rome ruled the Roman Empire. Probably she could not even if she wanted to—and she emphatically does not want to. It does mean that there is no other Power in the world today—including Russia and her empire—which could challenge America to war and conceivably hope to survive. No amount of fertility, hardiness, and fanaticism can make 30,000,000 tons of steel a match for 104,000,000 tons of steel, or 50 atom bombs a match for 1,000 atom bombs. The great paradox of the present world situation is that the one Power which could, on a reckoning of sheer physical strength, make a bid for world domination refuses to do so; while one of the lesser Powers, Russia seems determined to make such a bid.

❖ ❖ ❖

IT is fair—indeed, inevitable—to conclude from Russia's present policy towards non-Russian Communist Governments and parties that she does aim at a forcibly unified and centralized Eurasian Empire—and ultimately a World Empire—ruled from Moscow. If she persists in pursuing this aim, she will make world war inevitable; but not because her imperialist drive clashes with a rival imperialist drive by America, but because America is determined to create and maintain a system of world peace and world law between sovereign equals—a system of which the United Nations' Charter is the present, however imperfect, embodiment.

It is at this point that European understanding of American policy usually breaks down. European thinking, conditioned by a thousand years first of dynastic, then of nationalist, power-politics, finds it almost impossible to conceive of power not seeking domination, and not bent on extending its domination to the utmost possible limits. There is no precedent in European history for such an attitude, and so we think instinctively it cannot happen. If America proclaims her dedication to world law, we think this must be either meaningless cant or a cover for different aims. But then there is no precedent in European history for the United States of America; and, seen from inside this astonishing and unparalleled political entity, the American quest for world law instead of world domination seems the most natural thing in the world. It is the exact projection into the international sphere of the American refusal, in 1776 and 1788, to imitate Europe by setting up a State based on kingship and a hierarchical aristocracy.

❖ ❖ ❖

THE internal American experiment in equality, democracy, and federalism was as Utopian at that time as the international American experiment in world rule by the United Nations is today. The success of the first should make us careful about too rashly writing off the second.

To understand the American attitude, it is well to remember American isolationism. The psychological motives which made America isolationist up to ten years ago are not dead. All that has happened is that most Americans have come to realize that mere isolationism does not give them the undisturbable peace they seek.

❖ ❖ ❖

IT is as if a rich and peace-loving business man, living in an under-policed and gangster-ridden community, has repeatedly on the way from his home to his office become the unwilling victim of street brawls, not of his making. Although in the end he has always given his assailants a terrible beating, he does not like the experience, and he does not want to repeat it again and again, so he is now insisting that his town gets a proper police. He even, reluctantly, lets his sons enrol in it. But he does not for this reason want to set himself up as the lord of the place. That is not in his line at all.

America is not an imperialist Power, seeking world domination. Nor is she a missionary and crusading Power, seeking to make the world democratic or capitalistic. Indeed, one of the most striking traits of American foreign policy is its extreme ideological tolerance and neutrality, in spite of so many ideological pressure groups at home. Again, this can be understood only against the background of American history.

For about the first hundred years of its existence, the American Republic was the only major State of its type on earth; so it necessarily had to get used to putting up with the co-existence of very differently constituted States. Nor has this habit changed. In 1945, capitalist America offered Communist Russia full partnership in world leadership; today, her closest ally is still Socialist Britain. Nor is she squeamish in seeking arrangements with Communist Yugoslavia and Fascist Spain. She does not demand from any State that it should conform to the American domestic pattern; what she demands is that every State should conform in its international conduct to the world law laid down in Article 2 of the United Nations' Charter.

EVEN today there is nothing in American policy to make peaceful co-existence with a Communist Russia impossible. What is impossible in the long run is peaceful co-existence with an imperialist and aggressive Russia. Even today Russia can make her internal Communism safe against any disturbance from outside by renouncing her external imperialism. But if Russian persistence in imperialist and aggressive policies should result in war, then probably America's ideological tolerance would be at an end, and the war would be carried through to unconditional, surrender and the total destruction of the Communist system in Russia itself.

There is no more relevant chapter in history today than the genesis of the American Civil War. Southern slavery was a hateful thing to the majority of Americans, but Southern slavery was not itself the cause of the Civil War. The issue was whether the Southern States were to be allowed to spread slavery beyond their borders into the new States of the recently opened West. Even that issue was for a long time fought by cold war rather than by actual war. War broke out only when the South, having lost the political battle, seceded from the Union and resorted to violence. But once war had broken out, the gloves were off. Slavery was abolished by constitutional amendment in the Southern States themselves, and the first total war in modern history ended in the first unconditional surrender.

❖ ❖ ❖

READ Russia for the South, Communism for slavery, Europe and Asia for the American West, and the United Nations for the American Union, and you see the pattern which governs and conditions the American approach to the problem of today. All concerned will be wise, during this year and the next, to study it deeply; none more so than Marshal Stalin.

STILL "ACTIVE"

Letters To The Editor

MUCH TO BE SAID ON BOTH SIDES

Sir: I have been interested in the recent correspondence from British immigrants, and I fully agree with "Proud Scot" that Canada is a wonderful country. However, I have also felt the same emotions as the English lady who grumbled a little. We too, have been very troubled in getting somewhere to live with two children and now pay far too much because we have no alternative. I should like to remark, however, that I came up against the same thing in England in a more terrible degree. My children were then very young, my husband in North Africa, and I was trying to get away from London bombs. Believe me, I paid there as here. Much as I deplore the "no children" rule, it is simply human nature at fault, capitalizing on the other fellow's misfortune.

To help things along I tried to get a job and came up against the "no married women" policy, which I consider is wrong when there is a genuine need for extra money.

I had the misfortune to need a major operation and I cannot speak too highly of the attention I received from the Peterborough doctors and hospitals. Regardless of the fact of financial difficulties they were wonderful and I feel very thankful that I was here in Canada.

We also expended well over $1,000 in fares to come here, confident that our sons would have a better chance to make something of themselves through their own efforts, rather than they would in England where, in our opinion, people are inclined to lose their initiative by relying too much upon state welfare.

Yours very truly,
INDEPENDENT.

MR. TULLY REPLIES

Sir: I daresay certain people in this city are chortling to themselves after having read the letter from "Proud Scot", in this evening's Examiner, and saying words to this effect—well, that's telling that so and so of a so and so Englishman where to get off! Ah, well, how fortunate it is that one of the chief characteristics of the English people is they do not give a t.d. what the rest of the world thinks! I suppose we get the blame for almost everything that happens including the current flu scare!

In looking through my recent letter, I fail to find any reason for P.S. to think that I have a superiority complex, but thanks for the compliment just the same. I was always rather shy in self-advertising!

However it would be rather too much to expect the Scots to have any love for the English, regardless of whether they are right or wrong, or they would have sent the Stone back long ago!

Frankly I would not have bothered writing again, but for the fact that my name was mentioned in this evening's paper.

I may say categorically that I have no intention of backing down from the statements I made in my own letter.

P.S. seems to think the last paragraph in my letter regarding "draft dodgers", should have been deleted, but regardless of whether some "spivs", in England did likewise, the fact remains, that when one of your correspondents wrote that they bring the English out to Canada to take jobs from Canadians, and then when a war comes those Canadians have to do all the fighting—I feel that I cannot protest too strongly.

I have no intention of returning to England just to satisfy P.S. Having been over here for 21 years and 9 months today, exclusive of two visits home during that time, that should speak for itself.

Personally I am quite satisfied with my sojourn in Canada and on the whole have been used pretty well. On the other hand, my mother, and relatives live in England—as for my father his death was due to enemy action in 1944—so why shouldn't I stick up for my own countrymen?

If P.S. would condescend to read some of the various English periodicals that appear from time to time, he may discover the advertisements regarding free passages to the Antipodes. Now, I cannot say definitely, whether any mention was made concerning married men, but I do know that skilled men, such as plasterers, for instance, were badly needed. "Nemo me impune lacessit!"

Yours faithfully,
GERALD TULLY.

MEMORIAL TO THE MEMORIAL

Sir: I hold what is called a temporary receipt for money I paid in 1944 and this is the only date on it, which reads as follows:

"The Peterborough Memorial Centre for Health, Culture and Recreation. Temporary receipt. Received from M. E. Ketcheson the sum of ten dollars. Signed Jean R. Anderson, canvasser."

At the time of this donation no doubt many thought as I did that we would prefer to see if we were to receive value for our cash before making larger donations. On the reverse side of this receipt appears the following: "Your subscription is exempt from income tax. Keep this receipt until official acknowledgement is received from the Peterborough Memorial Community Centre fund office." I am still waiting for this official receipt.

On the face of the whole translation it does not have quite the sweet odour of violets.

True the amount some put into this fund is not large but any amount is too large to be flim-flammed out of. Not only ourselves but our Federal Government lost an amount on income tax reductions for which I believe should be charged and collected from those people who, as it would seem put one over on them, and the citizens also.

It would not have surprised me if another group of people would not before this late date have started a fund for a Memorial to the Memorial, something like an amendment to a motion at some sort of a meeting.

Now citizens what are we to do about this sort of thing? If you or I did half as much bluffing and put over a small transaction such as this wholesale affair, we would be classed as swindlers.

Are there any others beside myself who are willing to test this out in the courts?

I ask the question and I will be pleased to receive letters from those who would do this.

We can at least try our luck to sue for the amounts, including interest.

MAURICE E. KETCHESON.

HEED DR. CORRY'S WORDS

Sir: In some circumstances good intentions may be as dangerous as evil intentions. No one would question the good intent of our federal government leaders in framing the new emergency powers law. However, the history of Ottawa's actions in the recent war established that a government invested with authority to rule by order-in-council decree rather than by permission of parliament becomes reluctant to submit its acts to the slow-paced examination of the membership of the House. That is the danger that threatens Canada today—that under the threat of war abroad our government will endanger the fundamental freedoms here at home by delegating to the executive of government authority that belongs to parliament.

Dr. J. A. Corry, professor of political science at Queen's University, speaking at the annual meeting of the National Liberal Federation's Advisory Council, offered advice that members of every Canadian political party should heed well. The main point of Dr. Corry's suggestions on means of maintaining the influence of parliament over government policy and administration is that if Canada is again to suffer order-in-council government, then parliamentary committees should be established to examine the effects of government orders on individual rights and freedoms.

Canadians would do well to actively support Dr. Corry's suggestion. With nothing but the best of intentions our federal government leaders could do irreparable harm to parliament and its guarantee of Canadian freedom.

C. J. HARRIS,
Secretary,
The Canadian Unity Council.
Toronto, Ontario.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

The Lord shall judge the people: judge me, O Lord, according to my righteousness, and according to mine integrity that is in me. (Ps. 7: 8.)

❖ ❖ ❖

Have mercy upon me, O God, according to they lovingkindness: according unto the multitude of thy tender mercies blot out my transgressions....Behold, thou desirest truth in the inward parts: and in the hidden part thou shalt make me to know wisdom...

Create in me a clean heart, O God; and renew a right spirit within me....Restore unto me the joy of thy salvation; and uphold me with thy free spirit. (Ps. 51: 1, 8, 10, 12.)

❖ ❖ ❖

Now I Paul myself beseech you by the meekness and gentleness of Christ, who in presence am base among you, but being absent am bold toward you: but I beseech you, that I may not be bold when I am present with that confidence, wherewith I think to be bold against some, which think of us as if we walked according to the flesh.

For though we walk in the flesh, we do not war after the flesh: (for the weapons of our warfare are not carnal, but mighty through God to the pulling down of strong holds;) casting down imaginations, and every high thing that exalteth itself against the knowledge of God, and bringing into captivity every thought to the obedience of Christ....

Do ye look on things after the outward appearance? If any man trust to himself that he is Christ's, let him of himself think this again, that, as he is Christ's, even so are we Christ's. (II Cor. 10: 1-5, 7.)

Social Disorder

(The New Yorker)

The Newark police arrested a very interesting woman the other day—a Mrs. Sophie Wienckus—and she is now on probation after being arraigned as disorderly.

Mrs. Wienckus interests us because her "disorderliness" was simply her capacity to live a far more self-contained life than most of us can manage. The police complained that she was asleep in two empty cartons in a hallway. This was her preferred method of bedding down. All the clothes she possessed she had on—several layers of coats and sweaters. On her person were bankbooks showing that she was ahead of the game to the amount of $19,799.09. She was a working woman—a domestic—and on the evidence, a thrifty one. Her fault, the Court held, was that she lacked a habitation.

"Why didn't you rent a room?" asked the magistrate. But he should have added parenthetically ("and the coat hangers in the closet and the cord that pulls the light and the dish that holds the soap and the mirror that conceals the cabinet where lives the aspirin that kills the pain.")

Why didn't you rent a room ("with the rug that collects the dirt and the vacuum that sucks the dirt and the man that fixes the vacuum and the fringe that adorns the shade that dims the lamp and the desk that holds the bill for the installment on the television set that tells of the wars")? We feel that the magistrate oversimplified his question.

Mrs. Wienckus may be disorderly, but one pauses to wonder where the essential disorder really lies. All of us are instructed to seek hallways these days (except school children, who crawl under the desks), and it was in a hallway that they found Mrs. Wienckus, all compact.

We read recently that the only hope of avoiding inflation is through ever increasing production of goods. This to us is always a terrifying conception of the social order—a theory of the good life through accumulation of objects. We lean toward the order of Mrs. Weinckus, who has eliminated everything except what she can conveniently carry, whose financial position is solid, and who can smile at Rufus Rastus Johnson Brown. We salute a woman whose affairs are in such excellent order in a world untidy beyond all belief.

Gets Paid To Watch Clock, Has Bad Time If Tower Timepiece Off

CLOCK-WATCHER—John W. Smith, 50-year-old chief electrician of the Parliament Buildings, is a clock-watcher and proud of it. He gets paid for it. These five central control clocks in his Centre Block office regulate the time for the buildings. The centre clock is the "master," controlling scores of other clocks in the buildings and "Big Ben" in the Peace Tower (inset). The other four share responsibility with the master clock for sending corrective impulses through the system of 173 controlled clocks in the building. The familiar Tower clock seems to be 20 minutes fast, but actually is right on the dot. The photos were taken 20 minutes apart.

OTTAWA, March 15—(CP)—Most workers have been scolded at some time or another for clockwatching. But there's one person in the capital who gets paid for it—and ticked off if the clock goes wrong.

He is John W. Smith, roly-poly five-foot three-inch chief electrician in Parliament Hill. He looks after 173 electrically-operated clocks, all governed by master instruments. However, the big pob is ensuring that the clock atop the Peace Tower keeps time.

Usually you can set your watch by the clock, 225-feet high in the Tower with four 18-foot dials and an eight-foot minute hand. But not always.

Sometimes it stops, runs slow or fast. Then, as the easy-going Ottawa-born electrician says, "I've had it."

Love to Break News

The phone in his office deep in the bowels of the centre block begins to ring. People for miles around want to be the first to chortle: "The Peace Tower clock is stopped," or "The clock's haywire."

He recalled one instance—the day parliament returned from the 1951 session Jan. 29 last. As formalities were due to begin, the clock went on a slow-down. It was 10 minutes behind time. Then the calls started.

The fault couldn't be blamed on snow or ice or changes in temperature. The dials are protected by glass and the machinery room is kept at an even temperature.

"I coudn't waste time answering all the calls and went looking for the trouble," he said in an interview.

First he set the clock manually as it appeared that the clock was not getting the control signals from the master clock in the basement. The trouble finally was located on the fourth floor. It was a short circuit.

Suburban Check

Sometimes he gets calls even if the clock is on the dot.

"One chap miles out in the suburbs, and I am sure he must use a telescope, phones in when the tower clock disagrees with his own timepiece. I tell him to take another look—but I usually too, to make sure everything is take a look at the clock myself, right."

There are five "grandfather-size" control clocks in Smitty's subterranean basement office. One, the master, gets the corrections electrically from the intermittent signal from the Dominion Observatory which obtains the correct time from the stars.

As long as the master clock varies no more than four seconds, it is placed back on the track by the observatory signal automatically. The master clock controls the tower clock mechanism and 26 other clocks around the parliament buildings, as well as the companion control clocks. These four share control of the remaining 173 electric clocks.

Smitty will tell you all about the big Peace Tower clock without urging. It was made in Croydon, England, and installed in 1927. It was fashioned along the lines of Westminster's Big Ben, and is reputed to be the biggest in Canada.

Strikes Hours

It strikes the hours on the 22,000-pound bronze tenor bell of the carillon, high in the Peace Tower, and the quarter hours on smaller bells.

The works are mechanical and there are no springs. Everything is regulated through an 85-pound pendulum which obtains the impulse electrically.

Other clocks in the building may be wrong or stop altogether and no one complains. But let the tower clock vary a minute and the calls start.

"Brother, that's when I've had it," reiterated Smitty.

Give Final Approval

OTTAWA, March 15. (CP) — The Senate Wednesday gave final approval to the Government's emergency-powers bill, but Senator John T. Haig, Progressive Conservative leader, said he didn't like it. During debate on legislation giving wide powers for Government regulations Senator Haig could not see the need for the act since the Government had not seen fit to declare an emergency. If an emergency arose, the War Measures Act, giving much wider powers, would be invoked.

TORONTO, March 15—(CP)—The Ontario Fruit and Vegetable Growers' Association, in a step toward expanding its sales promotion efforts, Wednesday decided to hold a "salad week" next summer.

Owen Sound Edges Petes In Overtime Of Fine Fray

Owen Sound Mercurys had to labor overtime here last night to yank out an 8-7 verdict over the Petes before nearly 1,800 cheering fans. It was the second win in as many starts of the four-in-seven Allan Cup series, third one being here Friday and fourth in the northern town on Saturday. Tommy Burlington broke the 7-all deadlock at 8:20 in the extra inning. Flashing their old fighting form, the Jopling squad battled to a 3-1 lead in the first frame, but the fast-stepping Mercurys outscored them 4-2 next heat to go into the third with a 5-5 tie. Each side tallied once then, but Owen Sound pitched two into the twine in overtime to one for the homesters. Play was fast, close and exciting from start to finish and quite clean, the visitors drawing six of the eight penalties handed out.

Both Starred

Outstanding for the winners were Tommy Burlington and Jack Ingoldsby, the latter scoring four and aiding on another as the one-eyed ace tallied twice and helped on three more. Buck Forslund had a goal and an assist, bashing Harry Kazarian aiding on a pair, as Doug Gillespie scored one, and Bill Allum assisted on a marker. Goalie Gilson did not give away any, but he was kept quit busy in every chukker.

Chum Fryia was leading lamplighter for the Petes with three neat corners, Curly Mason also going well to score one and help again. Ron Horton was in on a pair. Arn Dugan, Gus Leonard, and Honey Tompkins hit the twine once each, Jake Wade and Jack Mortimer having an assist apiece. Ray Harding was sensational at times in goal and not an easy one beat him all night. Tompkins turned in a whale of an effort on defence, and the whole team worked hard and deserved a better fate in the keen contest.

Nifty Hockey

It was one of the best hockey games seen here this season, the Senior A visitors showing plenty of class but having to fight their heads off in overtime for the narrow nod as the Petes put up a scrappy display. Early in the second period, the homesters had a 5-1 margin, but Owen Sound struck fast to ram in four goals in a row before the period finished for a tie, and it was just a tossup from there on in.

After some pressure in the first by the Sounders, Fryia broke away fast and finished off neatly to make it 1-0 at the 4:35 mark. It was hot and even for a space, but Dugan blasted a dilly of a passout from Mason by Gilison for a 2-0 edge. Ingoldsby got that back on his own rebound with Harding down, but Gus Leonard broke away speedily to pull the goalie out as the visitors ganged up, and it was 3-1, with the crowd cheering wildly. Hayward went off for holding, but they threw up a smart delaying defence the rest of the period.

A Quick One

Just 40 seconds elapsed in the second—Hayward still being off—when Tompkins' blazing angle shot caught a corner on Horton's pass. Hayward returned and Mason scored a neat one on fast inclose combination with Horton and Wade to make it 5-1. Hayward served an interference penalty and was back when Forslund counted a nice one from Burlington and Ingoldsby. The latter added another seconds after right in on Harding, Kazarian and Forslund building up the play. Ray was booting them out from all sides as they pressed, and Gillespie whittled it further in a scramble on Allum's forward pass through a maze of legs. Ingoldsby then tied it at 5-all from Burlington with Harding down after one save. Burlington drew a holding penalty near the end.

Horton was gated early in the third for tripping and was back when White got the nod for holding. Fryia batted the disc home after Mortimer circled the net neatly with it. Kazarian went over for roughing in a corner and they were shy two for a space. Both were back when Collins got it for interference, and Burlington scored in close from Kazarian. It was hot up and down as both sides tried desperately to break the deadlock in regulation time, but the goalies kept booting them out. Ingoldsby climbed the wall for tripping, but the Petes put on little extra pressure in his absence.

Right at the start of overtime, Ingoldsby took a long forward pass from Burlington and flew in to pull Ray out and score. Fryia tied it again two minutes later in a scramble and both goalies were on the hop as it looked likt a 7-7 draw on the night's work. With less than two minutes left, Burlington stickhandled fast through defence to backhand a hot one into the corner of the cage, and that was that.

Bratton Gains Boxing Crown

CHICAGO, March 15 (AP)—The National Boxing Association's new welterweight champion, Cinderella Kid Johnny Bratton, has a tentative May 4 date to defend his title against Cuba's Kid Gavilan at New York's Madison Square Garden.

But it will be a long time before Bratton forgets the bloody 15-round battle with game-to-the-core Charlie Fusari which gave him Sugar Ray Robinson's vacated crown at Chicago Stadium Wednesday night.

A sparse stadium crowd of 6,954 and millions who viewed it on television saw Bratton gain a split decision over Fusari in a thriller bout.

The fight appeared finished when Bratton whistled a right that knocked Fusari flat on his back in the 10th round. But Fusari rolled over, clutched the referee's shirt and hauled himself to his feet at the count of nine.

Although Bratton plainly ran out of gas after flooring Fusari in the fourth round for a four count and almost ending the fight in the 10th, it was a great night for the 23-year-old Chicago Negro.

Fusari paid dearly for five months of idleness. It was his first bout since he had stopped Tony Pellone at the Chicago Stadium last October. His timing was bad, and although he had Bratton in trouble frequently, he could never get a left-right combination going.

Hi-Y Defeats Gaels As Y-Knots Get Tilt

A 15-point scoring spree by Jim Grant in the second half enabled the Hi-Y quintet to edge the Golden Gaels 26-23 Wednesday night at the YMCA in the men's city league. Ted Curtis went one point better than Grant with 16 points to lead the Y-Knots as they submerged the Normals 43-22.

The Golden Gaels took a 13-9 score in the first half with Hi-Y with Galvin dropping in three baskets and a foul shot for seven points, Jack Richardson a basket and two foul shots for four and O'Neill a basket. Grant, English, Morrison and Prest combined for the Hi-Y's nine.

Jim Grant then went on his scoring spree in the second half and pulled the curtain down on the Gaels. Hamblin added the other basket for the Hi-Y's, this time with eight points on four field baskets. O'Neill and Richardson each added a foul shot point. Grant edged the Gaels' Galvin by a point for the scoring honors with 16.

Just Five Chaps

Playing with only five players the Y-Knots had little trouble polishing off Normals. All five took part in the first half's scoring as they rocketed it up to 29-14. Ted Curtis slipped in four field baskets and two foul shots for 10 points while teammates L. Butcher had seven, Ken Batchelor six, Pat Doherty four and Bob Jameson two. Normals' scoring was divided between Schram, Almey, Bellamy, Foster and Battersby.

Normals strengthened enough in the second half to hold the Y-Knots to a 14-8 score. Curtis continued his pace with six points while Butcher dropped in three field baskets for six. Bob Jameson scored the other basket. Battersby, Bellamy, and Schram tallied for Normals. Ted Curtis matched Grant's effort in the first game with 16 points as Butcher followed up with 13. Battersby led the Normals with eight.

Lineups:

First game—Golden Gaels (23)—Feeley, Ryan, Galvin 15, Quinlan, Jones, O'Neill 3, Richardson 5.

Hi-Y (26)—Grant 16, English 4, Hurle, Deyell, Hamblin 2, Morrison 2, Gandy, Prest 2.

Second game—Y-Knots (43)—Batchelor 6, Curtis 16, Jameson 4, Doherty 4, Butcher 13.

Normals (22)—Schram 6, Almey 2, Bellamy 5, Waite, Foster 1, Battersby 8.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

PCVS junior girls and boys, and the senior boys, are off to Toronto this week-end in COSSA playoffs, playing semi-finals in the afternoon and finals, if they reach 'em, in the evening. Church of Messiah cagers of Toronto tackle the Marines at eight Saturday eve in the "Y" here, return of their OABA intermediate "B" semi-finals, the visitors toting a seven-point lead. They may have Don Crowe with them this game. Meantime Friday, PCVS bantams open lakeshore finals in Bowmanville, while the girl hoopsters of the YW finish their quarter-finals. They start at eight, Black's vs. CGE, and then Nurses vs. Lindsay.

* * * * * *

St. Catharines oppose the Marines at eight tonight in Civic Arena, starting their two-game OMHA midget "A" semi-finals. The good squad handled by Al Watkins and Ed Woodcock hope to pile up a fair lead for the return next week in St. Kitts. They rate fan support as it's a most important melee and ought to be a hot one. Our bantam Eaglets fell recently to Barrie in semi-finals, while Coach Johnny Godfrey's hustling juvenile IOOF-ers put up a stiff scrap in St. Kitts but lost out in their semi-final series. However, Prexy Les Mountney and his cohorts of the PMHA made an excellent job of it this year. We believe Lakefield and Clapper's still have one playoff.

More On Ace Bailey

Discussing Ace Bailey further, Mike Rodden—whose puck memories go much further back than ours—says Ace signed in '27 for at least $19,500 for three years with Toronto in the NHL. He says: "In 1926 the Petes won the senior OHA crown. In the finals, they beat London 7-5. A long bounding shot by the late Frankie Collins settled the issue in London. The Petes of '26 were a solid, precision-like team but, without Bailey, they probably wouldn't have become famous. He was the star and sparkplug of the machine though he became a bit exhausted debating NHL salaries with Montreal Maroons and Toronto St. Patrick's.

* * * * * *

"Maroons who gained first right to Bailey's services, offered him just $11,000 for three years, being loath to believe that any Petes' player could be worth more. In gaining that first right they paid Bailey the huge sum of $100 and it was only after a heated discussion in Montreal that they relinquished the claim to enable St. Pat's to talk terms with the Ace. The fact that Maroons erred needs no stressing. They unwittingly snared one of the brightest gems on the hockey horizon but couldn't credit the news. Later, their regret was pathetic, especially when the suspicion grew that with Bailey in the fold the Maroons might not have lost the Stanley Cup they captured the previous season."

But A Toughie To Drop

You couldn't ask for more exciting hockey than that Allan Cup playdown tilt here last night. A swell scrap all the way but it ended up in an 8-7 overtime win for Owen Sound. That gives 'em a 2-0 lead on the best-of-seven serial, so the Petes really have to get in there Friday night at Civic Arena and grab one or they've just about had it. Another big crowd should pack the place as it could be the final senior struggle seen here this semester. The Jopling squad had as much of the play and gave their classy opponents a dandy battle all through. The free-wheeling Mercurys are good—they have that tireless relaxed way of skating like the pros, and many of them saw AHL service — but the fight shown by the Petes nearly knocked them off.

* * * * * *

Goalie Ray Harding was solid as ever in the cage, and Honey Tompkins was brilliant on defence. Up front, Chum Fryia was most effective, with Arn Dugan, Curly Mason and Gus Leonard going well, too. They all made it a scrap, though some weren't as consistent over the route as those mentioned above. Garvey's hustle might have made the difference. Burlington and Ingoldsby turned in a swell job to lead the visitors on the attack. Forslund and Kazarian were others, but the team as a whole is strong and fast. A good goalie, too. Well, tomorrow tells the tale—this one the Petes have to win. Or else.

Canes Whip Arms 6-4 Advance To Final

COBOURG, March 15.—The district's most famous non-OHA team, Canes, advanced to the final of Cobourg and District Factory Hockey League here when they defeated Cooey Arms, 6-4, for the second straight time. The first game ended 8-4 for the family team who are all Canes, brothers and nephews.

Neil Cane, Cobourg's starry juvenile team centre, led his relatives in the scoring end, whipping three goals by Pete May, veteran Cooey netminder. Bob, Bus and Ray Cane split the other three markers for the Family Compacters. Kenny Cane in the winners' cage had a rough night, but turned the Cooey team aside in good fashion in the closing moments when they rallied for two goals.

Tigers Down Irish 5-3 In Overtime

By The Canadian Press

Toronto Marlboros, last year's senior Canadian hockey champions, were dumped in the playoff discard without lacing on skates Wednesday night as Hamilton Tigers downed Toronto St. Michael's 5-3 in overtime. Both teams remain in the Ontario Hockey Association major series final playoffs.

Marlies needed a Hamilton loss to keep in the race. The double round-robin playoff system finished with St. Michael's holding a three-won, one-lost record and Hamilton showing two victories and a loss to Marlboros' three defeats. Hamilton plays Marlboros Saturday in the last game.

To boot, Marlies face the fact that the sponsoring Toronto Maple Leafs have announced there will be room only for one senior team in Toronto next season—and that means either Marlies or St. Michael's must go.

Handwriting On Wall?

For Marlie coach Flash Hollett, the handwriting may be on the wall.

Peanuts O'Flaherty, stocky (Holler Guy) who coached Monarchs to the league finals despite Wednesday night's loss, tried to get that victory, too, by yanking goalie Phil Hughes in the last minute of overtime.

But Hamilton's surge that netted two third-period goals and a tie, forcing overtime, was too hot to handle as the two winning overtime goals indicated.

Johnny Ubriaco scored two and Dusty Blair one for the losers. Murray Comfort, Johnny Conick, Tom Smelle, Jim Russell and Paisley got markers for the winners.

Three junior "A" games—last of regular schedule—were layed Wednesday night. Oshawa Generals ended in fifth place by defeating Galt Black Hawks 6-1. The junior Marlboros ended the season in second place, trimming Stratford Kroehlers 7-1 and Waterloo Hurricanes, league doormats all season, walloped the ninth-place Toronto St. Michael's Majors 10-3.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

Montreal Maroons set a rapid-fire scoring record in the National Hockey League when they slammed three goals in 24 seconds against New York Rangers 19 years ago tonight. The marksmen were Dave Trottier, Hooley Smith and Babe Seibert, and the goals came in the last minute of play to give Maroons a 4-3 victory.

Playoff Dates Drawn Up For NHL Teams

NEW YORK, March 15—(CP)—National Hockey League magnates drew up a list of playoff dates at Wednesday's meeting.

It was agreed that a rotation system for two referees will be used in the two semi-finals. Two referees will be assigned to each series, and will take turns working the games.

The semi-finals will as usual be best-of-seven series, with the first-place team meeting the third and the second meeting the fourth.

The dates are based on the assumption Detroit will finish first and Toronto second. Boston, Montreal and New York still are battling for the third and fourth spots and dates are listed for all three of these teams.

New York Rangers, if they make the playoff grade, again will only play two games before home fans—March 28 and April 1. Then the circus takes over Madison Square Gardens and the blueshirts have to play all games on their opponents' ice or a neutral rink.

In last year's final against Detroit, the orphaned Rangers played two of their "home" games in Toronto.

Proposed Schedule

Series A—(If Boston finishes third): Boston at Detroit March 27, 29, April 5, 10; Detroit at Boston April 1, 3, 8. (If New York finishes third): Detroit at New York March 28, April 1; New York at Detroit March 31, April 3, 5, 8, 10. (If Montreal finishes third): Montreal at Detroit March 27, 29, April 5, 8; Detroit at Montreal March 31, April 3, 7.

Series B—(If Boston finishes fourth): Toronto at Boston March 27, April 1, 5; Boston at Toronto March 29, 31, April 3, 7. (If New York finishes fourth): Toronto at New York March 28, April 1; New York at Toronto March 31, April 3, 5, 7, 10. (If Montreal finishes fourth): Montreal at Toronto March 28, 31, April 7, 12; Toronto at Montreal April 3, 5, 10.

Dates for the best-of-seven final will be set on completion of the semi-final series.

Toronto Trips Rangers 3-1 Playoffs Still Snarled

By CRAIG ARMSTRONG,
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

Two of the National Hockey League playoff berths are as snarled as ever, but tonight's games could juggle the standing.

Detroit Red Wings and Toronto Maple Leafs are assured of a spot in the profitable post-season play. New York, Boston and Montreal are fighting it out for the other two niches.

New York missed an opportunity Wednesday night to pick up some badly-needed points in the night's only action. Toronto Maple Leafs downed the Rangers 3-1 in a dull, listless, Madison Square Garden game before 7,403—including the league's board of governors who are meeting in New York.

The victory moved the Leafs to within eight points of the league-leading Wings, but left New York and Boston knotted for third place with 59 points. Montreal is fifth with 58.

The Canadiens are hosts to the Rangers tonight while Toronto meets the last-place Black Hawks in Chicago and Boston clashes with the Wings in Detroit.

A victory for any of the trio fighting it out for third and fourth spot, coupled with defeats for the other two, would send the victor into undisputed possession of third place.

Spoils Shutout

In Wednesday night's game, Toronto had New York down 2-0 before Zellio Toppazzini spoiled what would have been Leaf goalie Al Rollins' fourth shutout and the team's 10th. Sid Smith started the scoring in the first period on a play which had been set up by linemates Tod Sloan and Ted Kennedy.

Late in the second stanza Joe Klukay scored Toronto's second goal after taking a pass from Ray Timgren. Jim Thompson scored an unassisted tally in the dying minuntes of the game after Rayner was pulled. Rayner then was sent back to his nets.

Only two penalties were called by referee Red Storey — one against each team. However, New York centre Don Raleigh's penalty gave Toronto the chance to score their first-period goal.

At the NHL governers' meeting the magnates put off any decision to retain or cut the length of the campaign—this year its highest at 70 games. If the schedule is shortened it will revert to the previous 60-game season.

TURKISH MARCH — Hard-shooting Turkish troops pump a steady fusillade of small arms fire into the enemy as they push forward in the wake of an M-4 tank on the western end of the front. U.N. troops enlarged their bridgehead on the northern bank of the Han River, as the Allies advanced all along the front.

Wolves Menace Deer Population

SAULT STE. MARIE (CP). — Algoma district sportsmen say they want the wolf population reduced so that the number of deer can increase in this part of northern Ontario.

They say the timber wolves slaughter countless deer every winter. The toll is particularly heavy during winters when deep snow makes it extra hard for the deer to flee from the marauding packs.

Elwood Epps of Clinton, Ont., Canadian pistol champion in 1948 and 1949, recently visited some district hunting camps and told sportsmen he agreed with their contention.

In an interview at Thessalon, 60 miles east of here, Mr. Epps, who has hunted over the north country for years, said that neighboring sections of Michigan have more deer to a square mile than Ontario, yet are hunted more heavily. He said the reason for that situation there and in Pennsylvania is that there are practically no wolves in those regions.

Mr. Epps said that at Lynn Forder's camp in this district, he was told of the slaughter of 18 deer by wolves at Mashagama Lake. At another camp, sportsmen told him of five wolves moving into a spot where deer had sought shelter and slaughtering a herd of 15 deer.

Milk Question Badly Handled–Thompson

TORONTO, March 15 —(CP)— Walter Thomson, Ontario Liberal leader, Tuesday night accused the Ontario government of "bad handling" of the milk question.

Speaking of a projected increase of one cent a quart in the retail price of milk in Toronto where it is expected to go to 21 cents, Mr. Thomson said that "everybody was consulted regarding the price of milk except the producer and the consumer—the two most directly concerned."

He told a dinner meeting attended by Liberal members of the Ontario Legislature and their wives, that distributors were able "to raise the retail price of milk almost at will because there is no proper board, truly representative of the producer, the consumer, the distributor and the government, to rule on milk prices."

WORKMEN at Houston, Tex., railroad yard are dwarfed by the heaviest piece of petroleum refinery equipment ever shipped by rail. The 601,236-pound monster, loaded on three flat cars, is a 49-tray depropanizer, 13 feet 4 inches in diameter and 120 feet long.

Cold Propriety Attitude Of Hong Kong Guards

By WILLIAM PARROTT

HONG KONG, — (Reuters)— Cold, uncordial propriety is the social order of the day along the Hong Kong border, Britain's only territorial frontier with the Communist bloc.

Police and customs officials of Hong Kong and China stand within inches of each other under the Union Jack and the Communist five-starred red and gold flag and never exchange a word.

Hong Kong officials were long ago rebuffed when they attempted to be friendly toward their Communist opposite numbers. The Communists remained "correct" in their ideological manner which seemed to argue that, though Britain had recognized Peiping, the people's government had not reciprocated and they, the officials, were not going to be contaminated by any improper associations.

This unfriendly atmosphere has deepened in recent months. But actual "incidents" have been few.

The change in atmosphere is noticeable, for instance, at Sha-Tau-Kok, a village on Mirs Bay at the eastern end of the 17-mile frontier, where the boundary between Hong Kong and China runs down the middle of the main street.

Before the Chinese entered the Korean war, westerners could walk down the British side of the street without being molested. Now the British authorities forbid them to do so owing to the belligerent attitude of Chinese on the other side of the narrow thoroughfare. The only Europeans who now use the street are armed uniformed police.

No Photographs

Halfway along the frontier, at the Lowu railway crossing and the Man-Kam-To road crossing, the British authorities discourage anyone taking photographs of the Chinese side because of the resentment shown by the Communists.

Increased tension is also reflected in the fact that the police will not permit visitors to travel along the military road which runs parallel to the border unless under armed escort.

But there are few signs of warlike activity on either side of the frontier by the two powers whose troops have been "unofficially" fighting each other for the past three months in Korea.

Careful Moves

On the British side, none of the 25,000-strong garrison is stationed closer than two miles from the border which, for the greater part of its length, is formed by the small Shum Chun River.

Few Communist regulars are seen on the Chinese side although there are plenty of uniformed public security service men about.

The British are completing a nine-foot wire mesh fence along the border which is primarily aimed at controlling smuggling and the entry of Chinese to the already overcrowded colony.

At the same time additional border posts have been built on high hills which have the defensive advantage of commanding a view well into Chinese territory but have the immediate purpose of keeping the border fence under constant visual observation.

Trade Declines

Trade across the border, although still considerable, is nowhere near the volume it was before Hong Kong prohibited the export of strategic materials and, particularly, since the United States and other countries put an embargo on all exports to the Communist bloc.

Hong Kong was included in this ban on the grounds that it provided a channel into Communist China.

Yet the fall in exports from Hong Kong to China across the border has been only about half the drop in imports due to retaliatory prohibitions by the Communists.

Imports by the railway running through Lowu have decreased by about 50 per cent through Communist refusal to export wood, oil, sesame and other commodities of which the United States has been the chief purchaser.

In round figures about 4,000 Chinese are passing in each direction daily across the border with a slight excess of arrivals in the colony over departures.

Arrivals include young men who are seeking to escape impressment as "volunteers" for the Chinese armies in Korea. Among those departing are businessmen who fled such cities as Shanghai in front of the advancing Communists but are now taking the risk of going back because they cannot face the high cost of living in Hong Kong.

Two Chinese Priests Arrested By Reds

HONG KONG, March 15 (AP) Radio Peiping today indicated the Chinese Communists had extended their anti-church campaign to include parishioners as well as pastors. The Red's official New China News Agency said authorities at Tientsin had arrested two Chinese Roman Catholic priests and 17 converts on charges of sabotaging Red China's campaign to divorce the Catholic Church from foreign missions.

Under the Reds' recent purge regulations, conviction would be punishable by death.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Light - heavyweight Joey Maxim may follow lightweight king Ike Williams' example and sign for a title shot against a "list."

Both titleholders were given until April 1 by both the NBA and New York Commission to contract for title defences or face loss of their crowns.

Williams beat the deadline by signing a New York contract to meet one of five opponents in Madison Square Garden May 11. Meanwhile Ike will fight John L. Davis, top-ranking contender in the Garden, March 23.

Maxim, who has a good chance to get a crack at Ezzard Charles' heavyweight crown this June, can get under the wire by doing the same thing.

At Sun Valley, Idaho, three members of the Canadian women's Olympic team will compete this week-end in the Harriman Cup ski races. They are Mrs. Rhoda Wurtele Eaves of Montreal; Lucille Wheeler of St. Jovite, Que., and Carolyn Kruger of Montreal, Dominion junior champion.

Most of the skiiers in the field of 65 are candidates for the 1952 U.S. Olympic team, which will compete at Oslo, Norway.

The New York Senate Wednesday voted to authorize a $25,000 State investigation of laws and regulations affecting running races and harness racing in New York.

The investigation was proposed as an aftermath of a court of appeals decision declaring unconstitutional the State's present licensing system for horse owners, jockeys and trainers.

The function had been performed by the Jockey Club, a private organization.

Johnny Evans, star football tackle for the last three seasons with the University of Toronto Blues, has been awarded the George M. Biggs Trophy, it was announced Wednesday night.

The trophy is awarded annually to the undergraduate judged to have contributed the most to athletics at the University of Toronto on the basis of leadership, sportsmanship and performance.

Manager Al Anderson of Edmonton Eskimos said Wednesday night the possibility of his team playing a pre-season exhibition series against Montreal Alouettes in Montreal had been discussed "but that was all."

Anderson was commenting on a report that Eskimos, runners-up in the Western Interprovincial Football Union last season, had been invited to participate in two exhibition games in Montreal this fall.

Kiner Likely To Keep First-Baseman Job

By GAYLE TALBOT

SAN BERNARDINO, March 15 (AP).—It would be a fairly safe bet to say that Ralph Kiner has seen the last of the outfield.

The Pittsburgh Pirate slugger looked really good in his debut as a first-baseman against Cleveland here Wednesday.

"He's just a natural-born glove man, that's all," beamed Manager Billy Meyer after watching the big star scoop a low throw out of the dirt.

"We need badly to move him over there so we can get some more power into the outfield, and Ralph is willing to do anything that will help. He's a team man."

Kiner is going to try it for at least two weeks in exhibition games, and then a decision will be made. He had no especially-hard fielding chances Wednesday, but he handled everything thrown at him with ease and grace.

Freight Rate Boost

WASHINGTON, March 15 — (AP).—The United States railroad industry Wednesday won approval for a new $200,000,000-a-year freight rate increase — the ninth since the Second World War—despite protests by federal inflation fighters. The Interstate Commerce Commission authorized the boost, over-ruling objections by the economic stabilization agency, half-a-dozen other federal bureaux, and a long list of state utility commissions.

Hear Playoff Series Reduced By OHA

GANANOQUE, March 15. — Word was received here Wednesday from George Panter, OHA secretary-manager, that the intermediate A best-of-seven playdown series between Bowmanville and Gananoque has been cut to a best-of-five. The third game has been slated for the Gananoque arena on Saturday night. Bowmanville has been ordered to ice a full team.

Prior to this ultimatum issued by the OHA the Bowmanville Imperials contemplated forfeiting the series which now stands at two games to none for the Gananoque G-Men, who won the opener last Saturday here, 16-4, and the second at Port Hope last Monday, 12-1.

No Decision Made

WASHINGTON, March 15 — (Reuters).—Michael McDermott, state department spokesman, Wednesday said no decisions have been made about the crossing of the 38th parallel in Korea. Press reports from Lake Success said a decision was made at informal United Nations meetings to refuse Gen. Douglas MacArthur the troops he required for successful operations in North Korea. McDermott said the reports "seemed to be speculation."

Ontario To Spend $25,000 On Civil Defence, Wait Ottawa Clarification

TORONTO, March 15—(CP)—The Ontario Legislature has approved spending $25,000 on civil defence and Premier Frost says the government will spend more if it is needed. The Premier said during debate on a budget estimate Wednesday that the $25,000 was only a "token" amount. Actually the province would spend whatever was considered necessary to set up an organization to cope with a situation arising from enemy attack.

Mr. Frost answered opposition attacks on his government's civil defence policy and, in turn, criticized Federal authorities for what he called lack of direction in civil defence work.

"We are frankly in doubt as to what the Federal government wants us to do," he said. "We are not going out to spend a barrel of money without orders from the Generals in charge."

Preliminary talks on civil defence were held between Federal and Provincial officials last month. Mr. Frost said a further discussion is scheduled for the near future. He and Provincial Secretary Welsh, in charge of Ontario civil defence plans, will meet with Health Minister Martin, whose department has supervision over civil defence across the country.

Concentrate On Cities

E. B. Jolliffe, C.C.F. Opposition leader, said that, until provincial responsibility in civil defence had been clearly determined, the government should concentrate its attention on certain cities that seemed likely targets for bombing.

"Certain places must be told 'you're it' and other places must be told 'there's very little danger to you'," he said.

Mr. Welsh said 30 persons from Ontario municipalities are taking a two-week course in civil defence in Ottawa. They will return to their home communities to train others in civil defence work.

George I. Harvey (CCF-Sault Ste. Marie) said his community rated first or second in Canada as a target, since its ship canals carry 85 per cent of the iron ore used in North American steel production. He said attempts at organizing volunteer workers had met with a poor response in that city and he blamed lack of provincial leadership.

Poor Response

Attempts at organizing volunteer workers had met with a poor response in Sault Ste. Marie, because of the lack of provincial leadership, Mr. Harvey said. There was no immediate need of a county-wide defence organization, but certain cities should be listed as having chief priority.

W. L. Houck (L-Niagara Falls) said the province is already indirectly spending money for civil defence of Hydro-Electric installations, and had hired "dozens of special constables" at Niagara Falls.

F. O. Robinson (CCF-Port Arthur) asked that municipalities be told exactly how far they should go in civil defence, in the light of their importance as potential targets.

Not Satisfied

Opening the attack on civil defence, Mr. Joliffe said he believed that no member of the House was satisfied with the information disclosed at the federal-provincial conference in February. The House had not been given any significant information on what proviciat responsibility should be.

Until that was determined, the Government should concentrate its attention on certain cities.

It was "absolute nonsense" that civil defence arguments should be the province had not been sufficiently aggressive in seeking leadership from Ottawa, or in accepting certain responsibilities of high importance, Mr. Joliffe said.

Too Much Military

Premier Frost said that federal civil defence planning had suffered under military leadership, but he thought it would "get on the track" under Health Minister Martin, who had been appointed to supervise it only a few days before the February conference in Ottawa.

The Ontario Civil Service Association had made a "very fine move" in suggesting that all its members be given a blood typing. The former Hospital for Sick Children in Toronto was being used by the Red Cross as a blood bank, the Premier said, and the civil service effort would be developed in conjunction with that.

In a private members' period, the Legislature voted down a bill sponsored by Eamon Park (CCF-Toronto Dovercourt) which would limit the Consumers' Gas Company of Toronto to paying dividends of not more than five per cent. on its capital stock. At present it can pay 10 per cent.

Director's Show

TORONTO, March 15—(CP)—Red roses wired by playwright J. B. Priestley from aboard the Queen Mary to the cast of his play, "Dangerous Corner," Wednesday night brightened the third night of the Central Ontario Drama Festival. Opening his remarks at the end of the performance by Oakville Arts and Crafts Inc., adjudicator Robert C. Newton felt "Dangerous Corner" was a group play and as such, "more of a director's show than an actor's." For this reason he discussed individual performers only briefly.

UN Diplomats Hope Negotiation

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y., March 15 (CP).—United Nations diplomats Wednesday viewed the approach of UN forces to the 38th parallel with renewed hopes for a negotiated settlement in Korea.

It was a hope that had been blasted before when Chinese and UN troops crossed and recrossed the border which separated the UN-backed South Korea from Communist - dominated North Korea.

Wednesday, however, the diplomats were bolstered by the possible effect of the statement two days ago by Lt.-Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, Eighth Army commander. He said flatly that ending the Korean war at the 38th parallel would constitute a UN victory.

Besides, informed sources said that secret, high-level talks are under way between the United States and Britain concerning what UN strategy should be, if and when UN forces again reach the 38th parallel.

Some UN delegations view the UN objective of stemming Communist aggression in Korea as repelling the Communists from the borders of South Korea. Their view is that unification of North and South Korea should come through a political rather than a military settlement.

Trent Union Disavows Baron 'Rump'

Textile Workers Head To Toronto Meeting Under New Director

The Trent Valley Area Joint Board, representing 1,400 members of the Textile Workers' Union of America (CIO-CCL), has lined up with the international president, Emil Rieve, in the union feud that culminated last week in the firing of Sam Baron, Canadian director.

Albert E. Johnston, director of the Trent Valley board, will be the local representative at the staff meeting Friday morning in Toronto. At that time the TWUA directors and organizers will meet their new Canadian director, Harold Daoust, formerly director for New Hampshire and Vermont.

The dispute and other organizational problems will top the agenda.

Last Friday Mr. Johnston was one of three directors who signed a resolution disputing the legality of an Advisory Council meeting called by Mr. Baron.

"Rump Meeting"

Others who signed the resolution were Ray Ruggles, Toronto Board; Gerald Rancourt, Montreal Board; and Edward C. Cluney, assistant Canadian director.

They described it as a "rump meeting," not legally constituted and not binding on any one taking part. They declared it was a move to embarrass the international president who had the constitutional right to fire anyone serving on the union staff.

They charged that Mr. Baron dictated the agenda at the "rump meeting" and denied them the opportunity of presenting their declaration and resolution condemning his actions.

United Support

It is understood, officially, that Mr. Johnston has the united support of the eight locals in the Trent Valley area. They include two in Peterborough, Local 822, representing some 250 production workers at the Brinton-Peterborough Carpet Co., and Local 1112, representing 45 employees at Fannings' Launderers and Dry Cleaners.

Other Locals are in Lindsay, Campbellford, Trenton and Cobourg.

Mr. Baron, the ousted Canadian director, has received support of Boards in London, Hamilton, Cornwall and the Maritimes. The split became obvious when Mr. Baron backed George Baldanzi as vice-president while the international president backed another candidate.

Poultry Hits New Low 1950 Proudction

Ontario's 13,000,000 chickens at the end of December was the low ebb of production for sixteen years, as indicated by the review of the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

On the basis of June, 1934, which was taken as 100 per cent for purposes of comparison, the poultry population of the province at the end of last December was 60.3 per cent as against 20,556,000, or 95.3 per cent at December 31, 1946. The pendulum of production moves regularly in the same direction year after year, increasing from January to June and then gradually declining through the second half of the year.

The top figure for the recorded period from 1934 to 1950 was 29,438,200 birds at June 1947, for the high percentage of 136.5.

From 1934 to 1940, the June total moved narrowly in the 21,000,000 odd number brackets; then expanded substantially through the war years up to 27,000,000 in 1945. The momentum of that business carried it to almost thirty million in 1947.

Gradual recession was down to 22,500,000 last June, a drop of eight million in four years.

People who are wondering why farm produce prices should have climbed to such altitudes as at present will find numerical clues in the review of the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

Fewer Cattle

The number of cattle in the province was 2,781,400 at the close of 1950 as compared with 2,807,300 six months earlier, at the end of June.

In Peterborough county the 52,050 of June was down to 45,200, suggesting that there must have been a fairly heavy liquidation or culling of herds in the second half of the year.

The eleven counties in Central Ontario, York to Durham and up and including Prince Edward and Parry Sound, were down from 524,900 to 505,000 in six months; but the Bruce to Wellington group of ten had climbed from 879,000 head in June to 936,920 at the end of the year. It was the only section of the province showing increase in the number of cattle.

Peterborough was up in swine by a slight margin, from 29,600 to 30,600; and there was only small decrease in the whole of Ontario. 2,213,100 hogs last June and 2,207,300 at Dec. 31 last.

Much the same story of shrinkage in livestock production is continued in the sheep columns.

Ontario's total at the end of June was 504,100 and only 306,500 at the end of December.

Peterborough could count 5,630 sheep in December as compared with 7,230 in June.

Hits 3rd Coach Of CNR Train 2 Men Escape

COBOURG, March 15 (ENS)—Richard P. Wellman, 58, and James Hutchinson, 24, both of Peterborough, escaped with a few scratches when their car skidded against the northbound passenger train out of Port Hope at the Dale crossing about 4.15 p.m. Wednesday.

Mr. Wellman reported to Provincial Constable Meadows of Cobourg that he had noticed smoke off to his right as he approached the railway crossing on his way home to Peterborough, but did not recognize it as a warning sign of a train.

The Wellman car was badly damaged. Back on No. 2 Highway he had picked up James Hutchinson, and they were continuing in an easterly direction toward the turn into No. 28 Highway at Dale. When the train appeared almost in front of the car, Wellman applied his brakes, going into a skid and fetching up against the third coach of the train.

PRESENTED WITH COMPACTS

Mrs. June Storey and Mrs. Betty Welch, representing the Ornamental Swimming Club at the Sportsmen's Show in Toronto, were presented Wednesday night with compacts after their evening performance. The compacts have the Sportsmen's show crest and their initials. They were well received by the capacity crowd in the Coliseum after their fourth performance of the duet, Nola. Friday Mrs. Norma Delaney and Miss Jean Lynch will perform at the afternoon and evening shows in the Coliseum.

Catholic Youth Organization Presents Maytime In Erin

Just three days before St. Patrick's day was Maytime in Erin for the audience who went Wednesday night to see the first showing of the farce comedy put on in the Collegiate auditorium by the Catholic Youth Organization. The play had everything to give its audience from slapstick buffoonery, boy-girl situations, and romantic songs, to old-time melodrama.

The theatre-goers had seen much the same thing before, but they welcomed it like an old friend—an old Irish friend.

Story Of The Play

The comedy set off at a fast pace outside the home of gay young bachelor Miles O'Dowd, played by Neil Plumpton. Together with his two unmarried friends, Timothy McBride (Ted Lynch) and John Nolan (Gerald Dyrun), he pledged "To dodge the call of chain and ball."

But it is obvious from the start at least one of them is going to have the chain wrapped tightly around his neck and he's going to like it. A sweet-talking man-hungry young "merry widow," Mrs. Lucy Murray, played by Peggy Bowen, is on the prowl for a husband. But the biggest threat comes with the arrival of Pat O'Neill (Betty O'Neill), whom O'Dowd expects to be orphaned son of an old family friend, but turns out to be a pretty young girl who quickly contracts spring fever.

Stalking into the midst of the lively young people's shenanigans comes Harlow Kenzar (Michael Anblesey), a first-class villain in thin disguise if there ever was one. He spends his time muttering threats about jailing counterfeiters, but in his spare time he is a rich new arrival to the village and also a magistrate.

The other characters in the play are Molly Flynn, played by Rose Marie Creally, half sister of O'Dowd who spends her time trying to bully her idle brother into practising law, and Shaw O'Neill (Herbert Masterson) who supplies the melodrama to the play.

The comedy's clown is Corney Bray (Jack Hallihan) who is part-time village idiot and part-time village constable.

Off To Good Start

The first act reeled off rapidly with scarcely a hitch, the second and third acts a little slower. The pace of the play demanded a good deal of energy from amateur actors.

Each of the actors came through with some fine efforts on particular occasions, but the most consistently entertaining was Ted Lynch. Playing a relatively minor role, he showed a good sense of timing, naturalness, a sense of fun and a good voice that could be heard easily.

The girls had some trouble, especially at the beginning, coping with the noise of the air conditioning system in the auditorium.

All in all, it was good fun for the young people who put on the comedy and good fun for the audience of all ages who went to see it. The play is running two more nights, Thursday and Friday.

During the intermissions, there was also entertainment. Helen Hajnik, soprano soloist, sang with authority and naturalness. She had a fine, clear, flexible voice.

Girls of St. Mary's School put on an Irish folk dance, Kevin Leahy played on his violin a medley of Irish tunes. Olive and Margaret Chretien sang a duet.

Harold Garner President Air Cadet Body

SEIGNIORY CLUB, Que., March 15 (CP)—Harold L. Garner, general manager of the Peterborough Examiner, Wednesday was elected president of the Air Cadet League for 1951.

Mr. Garner, associated with the league since its formation 10 years ago, served previously as chairman of the Ontario Provincial Committee and member of the national executive. He succeeds M. Banker Bates, of Hamilton.

Executive members include R. Scott Misener, Port Colborne, Ont., honorary treasurer.

Court Returns Car To Feeley

Geoffrey (Gyp) Feeley, former city tax operator, had his seized car returned to him by Magistrate W. R. Philp KC in police court today.

The magistrate refused to grant a confiscation order applied for by provincial police. The car was seized the night of Nov. 3 when Kenneth Thompson, driving for Feeley, was arrested on a charge of selling beer illegally.

Thompson was found guilty of the charge and sentenced to two months. Feeley was also charged with bootlegging and was acquitted on the charge on an appeal.

Feeley testified at the time that he knew nothing of Thompson's selling beer and had never authorized him to do so. He also testified that he was out of town on the day of the arrest.

Among other reasons for not granting the confiscation order, Magistrate Philp said there was no evidence that the provincial police had taken the beer from the car nor had they seen Thompson take it from the car.

Rambling Reporter

Next time eight-year-old Donald Woodcock of RR 7, Peterborough, starts out for his aunt's place in Peterborough he'll take a map and he won't pick a school day to do it. He was found by a local resident Wednesday afternoon, soaking wet and sniffling, at Hunter and George Sts., completely lost.

It was a couple of hours before the sympathizer had him warmed up sufficiently to tell his tale and then have him taken home by Provincial Police Dispatcher Ray Pope.

The story began at 11:30 a.m. when his mother, Mrs. Earle Woodcock, left him on his way to school on the sixth line of Otonabee. She was leaving for Peterborough to look after the young lad's sick aunt, Mrs. Bruce Simpson, 176½ Simcoe St.

Donald suddenly decided he wanted to see his aunt, too. Through the heavy slush and wet snow he walked the seven miles to Peterborough from his Otonabee home.

All the way he pulled the wagon he got as a Christmas present.

When picked up at Hunter and George he was just about at the end of his tether. When he got home he was given a hot bath, plus "a good warming." Anyway, he is all right today and went to school.

Welfare Costs $17.80 Person

City's welfare bill in February was $17.80 per capita as compared with $14.90 a year ago. The number of persons was down from 258 to 246. Heads of families were the same number at 49, but their dependents were 140 last month, 20 fewer than a year ago; single men were down from 15 to 9, but single women were up from 54 to 68.

Welfare chargeable to the city for the first two months was $4,379.28 as against $3,845.04 last year.

Cobourg Board Asks $425,000 For School

COBOURG, March 15—(ENS)—Cobourg public school board decided to ask the town council to bring in a bylaw for the purpose of providing $425,000 for the proposed new east end high school, at regular meeting of the board Wednesday night. The request is still in the nature of a formality to set up the required legal machinery.

First step was selection of a site, followed by an application to the town for the closing of some unopened street allowances which were located on the land required for the site.

However the bylaw to close the streets in question still has to be passed and the matter of a debenture issue to cover the cost of the site and the school will be one that will run into weeks of deliberation and will be subject to a vote of the people.

Tight Credit On Car Sales No Local Stir

Higher Down Payment Shorter Paying Period May Cut Sales Slightly

No immediate reaction to the tightening of credit on sales of new and used cars effective Monday next was reported by dealers interviewed by the Examiner today. "The public may not yet understand the restriction in purchasing terms announced by Finance Minister Abbott yesterday," was the comment at one place. "They should realize it by the end of the week." General practice has required a down payment of the 40% on cars of 1942 production and earlier. The change calls for 50%, and the period of payment is cut from 18 months to 12 months.

An example of effect was quoted at East City Motors in the illustration that on an $1,800 car, within the 1949-50 range, the down payment of one-third or $600 would now be increased to $900, and the period of payment one year instead of a year and one-half. First payment on a $1,200 car moves up to $600 from $400.

Irwin-Godson reported no enquiries today, "at least not yet" following closely on the announcement from Ottawa.

Trade opinion was generally that there might be fewer sales for a while, and also the prospect of fewer repossessions.

Dealers expect that the demand for used cars will be very strong once the effect of restrictions on steel are felt in automobile factories. The new credit regulations apply to used car sales.

Suffers Severe Bite From His Pet Dog

Robert Johnson, 276 Park Hill Rd., suffered a two-and-a-half inch gash in his right cheek Sunday afternoon when he was bitten by his dog, Nibs.

Mr. Johnson was holding the dog on his lap, and may have squeezed it too hard, his wife said. The dog turned on him and grabbed his right cheek. Mr. Johnson was taken to Civic Hospital.

The Johnsons bought the dog, a two-year-old Boston Bull, when it was a pup. Mrs. Johnson said the dog had always had "sort of a mean streak in it."

Mr. Johnson is still in hospital, where his condition is described as "good." He was treated by Dr. C. M. Scott.

Charged With Forgery

Mother Gave Son Permission Sign Her Name On Cheques

He signed his mother's name to some cheques and cashed them for himself, but it wasn't forgery said Marvin Armstrong, Smith township, on trial in police court Wednesday facing the first of 21 charges of forgery and false pretences.

Judgment was reserved to Tuesday on the charge and on another charge of false pretences involving the same cheque. Evidence on the forgery charge was applied to the false pretences charge in police court this morning.

He said his mother, Mrs. Mabel Armstrong, had given him permission to write her name to cheques to take money from her account.

Armstrong was being tried on a charge of forgery of a cheque for $25 which he used to buy $5 worth of gas and obtain $20 in cash from John Loughton of Norwood.

He said he did not know whether he had signed his mother's name to the cheque or whether she had signed it herself. Mrs. Armstrong took the witness stand and said she had signed the cheque. She also said she had given her son permission to sign her name to cheques and take money out of her account.

Loughton, a service station operator, was called as a witness for the crown. He said at 10 p.m. one night about the middle of January, Armstrong presented the cheque and he decided he would cash it. The next day he presented the cheque to his bank and in a day or two, the cheque came back marked not sufficient funds.

Account In Bank

Gerald Royes, accountant for the Peterborough branch of the Imperial Bank, testified that Mrs. Armstrong had an account at the branch.

He produced the bank's signature card for Mrs. Armstrong. Asked by J. C. N. Currelly, defending Armstrong, to compare the signature on the card and on the cheque, he said he believed they were not written by the same hand.

However he said "If that cheque were presented to the bank and the account had funds, we would probably pay it." The writing was quite similar he said.

Not Written By Same Person

John A. McKone, handwriting expert, compared the signature on the cheque with a sample of six signatures admitted as being written by Mrs. Armstrong, said they were not written by the same hand. He pointed out as some of his reasons that in four of the six sample signatures, the name was broken two or three times. In the three names on the cheque, two on the face and the endorsement on the back, there were no breaks in the word Armstrong.

He said, in each case on the cheque, the letter "s" was written with a sharp point. In the sample signatures, the "s" was rounded. He said the letter "g" at the end of the name, each time Mrs. Armstrong wrote it, looked like the figure "8." This was not the case on the cheque.

Mr. McKone said each time a person wrote his name, there were many differences in the shape of the letters, but there were certain key characteristics in each person's writing which were always present.

Mr. Currelly argued with Mr. McKone that a person who had reached only about Grade III in public school had not developed any characteristics because they did not write often enough.

Provincial Constable Lorne Stinson testified that he and Chief Garnet Samis of Lakefield arrested Armstrong Feb. 7.

Armstrong took the box and admitted he had given Loughton the cheque and received gas and cash in exchange.

"Is it your habit to give out cheques on your mother's account?" Mr. Currelly asked the accused.

"Any time I needed money, yes," said Armstrong. He said as a rule his mother signed the cheques.

"As far as I knew there was plenty of money to cover the cheque," said Armstrong. He said he had put money in the account on several occasions. He and his mother had had this arrangement since his wife left him and his mother opened an account in the Imperial Bank about three year's ago. He said he had then put everything he owned in his mother's name, including his money.

He said he had written about as many of the cheques as his mother had in the past year on the account.

Cross questioned by Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw, KC, Armstrong said he thought there was about $350 in the account, but the bank had never let him know the account was overdrawn.

"How many unsatisfied judgments are there against you in the sheriff's office?" the crown attorney asked. "Would it be fair to say two or three?"

"I don't know for sure," Armstrong answered.

"You were never given permission to use your mother's account to the knowledge of the bank, were you?" Mr. Bradshaw said.

Armstrong said he didn't know whether his mother had told the bank or not.

"Are you aware there are perhaps 50 NSF cheques of yours floating around this district?" the crown asked.

"No, I don't think so," was the reply.

He said he had deposited $51 in the account in December and $35 in January. He said a man for whom he was working owed him $200 and had promised to deposit the money in his mother's account. However the man had failed to do so.

"You never went to the bank to see how much money was in it, did you," Mr. Bradshaw asked. Armstrong said he hadn't because it was his mother's account.

Asked if he told the officers who arrested him that his mother had signed the cheques, Armstrong said he had.

"Did you further state that your mother could go to jail better than you could because she was old and couldn't work?" the crown asked.

"No," said Armstrong. He stated that Chief Samis had said Armstrong wouldn't want to drag an old woman into the affair, that she might end up in jail.

To that Armstrong had said "She would rather go to jail than see me go to jail. I know she would too."

Writer Charges Subsidies Paid Rugby Amateurs

By EDWIN S. JOHNSON.

LONDON (CP).—Charges that under-the-counter payments are being distributed among amateur rugby players in Britain and allegations of other shady practices, have provoked a storm of trouble for G. V. Wynne-Jones, top-ranking sports commentator for the British Broadcasting Corporation.

The charges, made in "Sports Commentary," a recently-published book by Wynne-Jones, brought quick action from rugby authorities. The author, assigned to broadcast a running account of the international match between Wales and Ireland at Cardiff (March 10) was barred from the grounds by the Welsh Rugby Union. The decision was taken after the BBC refused to withdraw him.

Needs Explaining

It was a chapter entitled "back room boys of sport" that offended the rugby chiefs. This is what the author said:

"We know . . . that many a player has drawn expenses in excess of his actual outgoings. We know, too, as indeed do members of the rugby union, that some clubs make a habit of remunerating their players.

"In Wales it does happen with certain clubs and in England too, it needs a bit of explaining why, at some periods, there has been a great influx of Welsh men to some western clubs of England.

". . . Things I have said may be difficult to prove, but I aver that I have seen money change hands at the end of games in such quantities that it far exceeded expenses."

Union's Reaction

After the book was published Rugby Union officials called on Wynne-Jones to produce the names of the clubs involved.

He offered to disclose the information in confidence.

The Union, replied, however, that such an undertaking could not be given as the purpose was to investigate the allegations openly and take strong action should they be substantiated.

Indignant over the ban imposed and the stand taken by the union, Wynne-Jones protested he was being pilloried for telling the truth.

"I do not wish to bring anyone into trouble or Welsh Rugby into disrepute," he said. "What I have written I stand by and I am still willing to meet the union and give them the information they require in confidence."

A union spokesman said the question would be dealt with further at the next meeting of the organization and added: "It is easy to make such allegations but they must be proved."

British Rose Show Has Canada Beauty

LONDON —(CP)— London's National Rose Society says it is being "bombarded" with letters from prospective visitors to this year's Festival of Britain, asking where the best roses may be viewed.

One suggestion is Queen Mary's Rose Garden in London's Regent's Park. Already the superintendent, W. Austin, has received 2,000 trees from rose growers in Britain and is laying seven new beds.

A two-day show will be held by the Rose Society June 29-30. One of the exhibits will be an orange-pink rose from Canada's west coast, last year's gold medal winner.

Called the "Gordon Eddie" it comes from a British Columbia nursery.

Northern Flying Romantic, But Also Tough, Hard Work

TORONTO —(CP)— Flying in Canada's northland, long regarded as one of the few romantic occupations left, is tough, hard work, says Phil Lariviere, big, grey-haired bush pilot.

It's a hard way to earn a living, he insists. A man must be tough to stand the rigors of the north. There's no room for soft-palmed ledger-keepers.

And he should know. He's been cloud-hopping in the Chibougamau district in Northern Quebec for the last 21 years.

"You curse it every day," he says. "You don't want to do it, but it seems to get under your skin."

Here for a four-day convention of the Prospectors and Developers Association, he told an interviewer that piloting a heavily-loaded Husky or Norseman aircraft over strange and often unmapped territory required considerable skill and training.

"A pilot must not only be able to fly, but he must also be his own mechanic, engineer, meteorologist and radio operator combined. Flying alone is lonely work. God really is the co-pilot of the bush flier."

Veteran Flier

Lariviere has been flying in various parts of Canada since he was 17. He started as a grease-monkey at $5 a week and worked from 5 a.m. until 11 p.m. He doesn't know when he first learned to fly or how many hours he's flown. He stopped keeping a log-book years ago.

He has flown in temperatures as low as 55 degrees below zero and often landed quickly and camped alone on a lake for three or four days when the weather changed suddenly. This was never too much of a hardship because most planes carry enough rations and equipment to last five men for a month, but for a person who was not acquainted with the northland it could easily end in disaster.

Bush flying at any time, over any type of terrain, is dangerous work. Lariviere, now 38, has never had a crash but he can name personal friends who cracked up.

Tall, handsome Phil Lariviere has never married. The way he puts it, he has never stayed in one place long enough to get married.

Report Grants Total $289,210

TORONTO, March 15 —(CP)— The Atkinson Charitable Foundation today reported cash grants of $130,410 to several organizations in 1950. Another $158,800 scheduled for future payment brought commitments of last year to $289,210. The total summarized grants previously announced. Grants prior to 1950 amounted to $7,000.

The Foundation owns the Toronto Daily Star and the Star Weekly. It was established by the late J. E. Atkinson, owner of the Star, who died in 1948.

Howe Believes It Will Take 5 Yrs. Complete Defence Plan

OTTAWA, March 15 —(CP)— Trade Minister Howe said Wednesday he believed it will take a full five years to meet present targets in the huge defence production job Canada has set for herself.

It was true Canada's $5,000,000,000 defence buildup envisaged a three-year program, he told the Senate's banking and commerce committee. But legislation setting up a department of defence production with wide powers for the stockpiling and production of defence materials should have a five-year life.

With the minister's explanation that the departmental staff should be "entitled to some permanency" and it would take two years to wind it up once its job was done, no change was made in the bill.

"If nothing happens," the minister said, "there would be no renewal of the powers. If we settle this Korean thing and have no fighting for two years I think we can consider the emergency over."

Mr. Howe, who said he was "in the running" for the post of minister of defence production, noted that the bill gave the right to set up corporations for defence production. There had as yet been no need for this "but if this thing gets tough we may need them."

Dealing with a section giving power to obtain information as to the channeling of essential materials, Mr. Howe said the government was using similar power in other legislation now with regard to steel.

"We are having a lot of trouble with steel getting into black market hands," he said. "And we have the power to ask where the steel is sold."

The minister told the committee he could not anticipate what orders and regulations might be issued under the new legislation "if things get really tough."

Argentine Newspaper Settles With Union

BUENOS AIRES, March 15 —(AP)— The big independent newspaper La Nacion made a financial settlement with the pro-government news vendors union today in an apparent effort to avoid the fate of the other independent, La Prensa, closed 48 days ago by a boycott.

La Nacion and the union declined to give details of the agreement. It is known, however, that it involved a large monthly cash contribution by La Nacion to the union's welfare fund.

The union asked La Nacion for only a small fraction of the demands it made earlier upon La Prensa, the world's biggest Spanish-language newspaper and a consistent critic of the policies of President Juan D. Peron.

Ask For Action Against MP

LONDON, March 15 (Reuters) The case of a Church of England minister who wrote a sarcastic letter about world affairs to a member of parliament today promised the House of Commons one of its hottest controversies in recent times.

The minister, well-known for his leftist tendencies, is Rev. O. Fielding-Clarke, vicar of Crockham Hill, Kent. His letter was addressed to John Rodgers, Conservative MP for the district, who sent it along to Fielding-Clarke's bishop with the comment: "Is there anything we can do about this?"

The bishop then asked for Fielding-Clarke's resignation.

Sydney Silverman, peppery Labor MP, charged in the Commons that Rodgers had violated his parliamentary privileges by breaking confidence placed in him by a constituent.

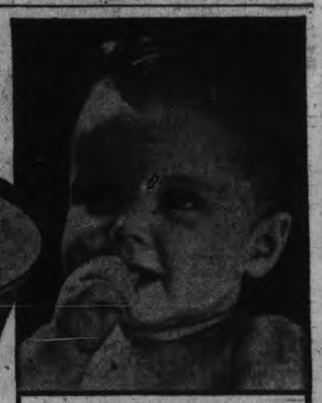
The Speaker took the charge under consideration, and decided yesterday that Silverman was too late in raising the question—it had already been discussed in the press.

His ruling was promptly challenged by Silverman, who later introduced a motion asking the Commons to bring Rodgers before its committee of privileges, which could take disciplinary action if it thought necessary.

The matter probably will be debated after Easter.

Fielding-Clarke has done nothing about resigning. He has been vicar of Crockham Hill for 10 years. His most distinguished parishioner is Conservative leader Winston Churchill.

Miners Will Vote On Choice Of Union



KIRKLAND LAKE, March 15 —(CP)— A vote has been ordered among some 270 employees of the Macassa Gold Mine to decide whether they wish to be represented by the United Steelworkers of America (CIO) or the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers. It is the first vote in this gold mining area in which workers will choose between the two unions. Date has not been announced.

Mystery Radio Urges Revolt Against Stalin

LONDON, March 15 (Reuters) A mystery voice came over European radio channels today for the second day running with a Russian-language appeal to all Russians to revolt against "the criminal Stalin clique."

The high-pitched drone of powerful jamming stations interrupted the broadcast.

The station, apparently situated somewhere in central Europe, was picked up by Reuters monitors for the first time yesterday.

The broadcaster today indicated an anti-Stalin movement is under way inside Russia.

Scattered sentences picked up between bursts of jamming included:

"The National Labor Institute in Moscow appeals to the people of Russia to carry out a people's national revolution . . . remember your duty to your country . . . accept the first battle instruction of the revolutionary headquarters . . ."

Lists Instructions

The voice then began listing a series of instructions for the planned uprising:

"1. Destroy . . . (Jamming drowned the rest.)

"2. Transmit to your closest friend, whom you trust implicitly the text of the appeal, and work with him . . .

"3. Take up such a position in the army, in the state setup, in the party . . . which would enable you to make use of your position for the aim of fighting . . .

"4. Ensuring your complete safety, inform . . . concerning your existence and activity . . ."

The broadcaster went on to say, "we are in the first stages . . . the time for the decisive battle will come . . .

"Down with the criminal Stalin clique—down with Bolshevism . . . we are marching."

At this point the screech of the jamming transmitters blocked the wavelength and the rest of the broadcast was unheard.

Writer Sends Cugat Duel Challenge

CALI, Colombia, March 15—(AP)—Xavier Cugat, a fast man with a baton, was challenged Wednesday to a duel. The challenge came from an angry journalist. Bandmaster Cugat is pretty angry, too.

The journalist, Hernan Mateus Becerra of the Bogota newspaper El Tiempo, apparently is wrought up because Cugat denied a story he wrote. Cugat apparently is wrought up because the story said his songstress and current heartbeat, Abbe Lane, was cooling toward him.

The dispatch also made some remarks about the divorce suit in which Cugat's present wife is charging that he misbehaved with Abbe in a Florida hotel.

Cugat telegraphed El Tiempo that the journalist disgraced the newspaper profession by writing the things he did and that he and Abbe were getting along just fine.

This, responded journalist Mateus injured the Mateu's reputation in the newspaper world. Back went a telegram to Cugat The denial, it said, was an aggravation that required satisfaction, and would Cugat please name his seconds?

Nothing was said about what weapons at how many paces.

Canadian Factories Ship 39,204 Vehicles

OTTAWA, March 15 (CP). — Canadian factories shipped a total of 39,204 new motor vehicles in January — a new high for the month—compared with 30,738 in December and 28,527 in January, 1949, the Bureau of Statistics reported Wednesday.

January shipments were close to the monthly peak totals of 41,383 units in June and 40,131 in July last year.

Shipments of vehicles imported from the United States totalled 1,238 units in January against 1,067 a year earlier, while the sales of British-made vehicles amounted to 5,157 units.

The bureau gave no comparison on the British-made vehicles, which in January included 4,731 passenger cars and 426 commercial vehicles.

Anglican Clergyman Suggests Women Nag

TORONTO, March 15 —(CP)— An Anglican clergyman from Victoria last night urged Church of England women to go on a nagging campaign to get the men to go to church.

"We need the support and aid of every man in each parish," Rev. William Hills said in a Passion Week mission service sermon. "Too many men leave the work of the Church 'to the missus' and tend to the gardens on Sunday themselves."

But he warned women against a move to allow them a place in lay synods of the Church. "You are just giving the men another excuse to stay home and avoid their duties."

More Refrigerators

OTTAWA, March 15 (CP). — Canadian plants turned out more electric refrigerators in 1950 than the previous year, but fewer washing machines. A Bureau of Statistics Wednesday showed the 1950 output of refrigerators was 346,608 units compared with 117,854 in 1949; 281,643 washing machines were produced against 350,884 the previous year.

UK Children Get Holiday Because Editor Made Error

ZURICH, Switzerland, March 15 (CP).—A group of needy British children will have a free vacation in Switzerland this summer because a Zurich editor infringed on Winston Churchill's copyright.

Walter Bernay, editor of Wir Bruckenbauer, reproduced Churchill's famous painting, "Chartwell," as a front-page illustration in the weekly's New Year edition.

When Bernay realized he had infringed on the copyright, he wrote Churchill, enclosing a cheque for £2 ($6), "the usual fee paid to Swiss artists."

Back came a letter from Churchill's lawyers with a claim for £100 damages.

Bernay then offered to double the figure if Churchill would consent to use the money so some needy young Britons could vacation in Switzerland. Churchill consented.

Democrats Rally Save RFC Bill

WASHINGTON, March 15 (AP) Truman Democrats, rallying support from the southern wing of the party, turned back in the House of Representatives today a Republican effort to block reorganization of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, No. 1 lending agency of the federal government.

A roll-call brought 200 votes to disapprove the reorganization proposal submitted by President Truman and 196 for the plan. But the issue came before the House in a way that required a majority —218 votes— to kill the proposal.

The President's plan is to replace the RFC's present five-man board of directors with a single administrator.

The House division was generally regarded as the first test in a developing battle over the question of abolishing the huge lending agency, now under fire on charges of yielding to influence in making loans.

Unless the Senate should block it, the plan will go into effect on April 20.

Build Big Plant For Plane Engines

OTTAWA, March 15 —(CP)— A multi-million-dollar aircraft engine plant will be established in Montreal soon as one of two new developments placing emphasis on a sharply accelerated aircraft production program in Canada.

Informed quarters Wednesday disclosed that the Montreal plant will aim at the production of 300 radial Pratt and Whitney piston engines a month to fit the new modified Harvard trainer.

The Harvard has been adopted as standard equipment for the training here of Canadian and other North Atlantic fledgling airmen. The pool of about 100 North Atlantic airmen likely will grow to more than 1,000 in the next year or two.

The other major development is the construction soon of a blade forging plant in Toronto to produce blades for jet turbines.

This will be the first time that such a plant has been established in Canada and because of the problems involved a United States firm likely will be asked to do initial construction.

Smooth Tan Luggage Most Popular

Men are becoming more interesting in good-looking luggage, according to a Toronto authority on the subject. He attributes this interest in the increasing business trips between Canada and the United States.

When a man goes away on a business trip he realizes that luggage he carries is an indication of character. The luggage expert suggests that a man walking from the hotel's reservation desk to the elevator is noticed by people sitting in the lobby. And the luggage comes in for consideration if it is battered-up, brand new or outstanding.

Men like tan-colored luggage best. They like smooth textured bags in preference to grained bags. They prefer leather to plastic, cloth, canvas or imitation leather bags. When they purchase a Gladstone single suiter (the top seller) they are interested in appearance first, practicality second.

It's an amazing fact that a man is vain when he's buying luggage, said the luggage official. "For some reason all a man's hidden vanity comes out when he's buying a bag. He will look for serviceability in other things, but in a suitcase he wants smartness.

A Big Seller

Lightweight luggage, in a variety of styles and sizes, is a big seller. It ranges from two to seven pounds lighter than similar sizes in other type of bags. However, men are not as interested in lightweight luggage as women are. A woman will carry her bag, whereas a man will call a redcap or bellboy for his bag.

When a man goes abroad he usually takes a Gladstone two-suiter and a smaller bag. But if he goes with his wife he may share a wardrobe trunk. If he takes his own trunk it is a small one which is carried like a suitcase.

Some of the newer pigskin and cowhide bags on the market feature curved ends and sides tapering toward the top. This tapered style is seen also in the new cloth-covered waterproof fold-up bag. Popular for train and car travel, the case can be undone and the three suits which the bag will hold can hang in place without mussing

One of the most durable cases on the market today is the plastic bag. Looking like pigskin or tweed-type leather, the plastic luggage will not scratch or lose its shape. This luggage comes in all standard sizes.

There's one thing no luggage salesman can deny, the ever-present popularity of the canvas duffle bag. This zippered case goes to the cottage in the summer, skiing in winter, and in-between times holds old shoes in the cellar.

FASHION AS WELL AS EASE on the golf course may take form as this shirt and skirt ensemble. A leather belt laces through loops on the shirt and slits in the skirt waistband to complete the one-piece look.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Reducing Charts In Demand It's Scientific Business

If I did not know that Canada was the Land of Plenty before I know it now. Is everybody overweight? If all of the readers who write to me for calorie charts stick to their reducing diets we will soon be known as the Land of Beautiful Figures.

✧ ✧ ✧

Reducing is a scientific business and if you intend to adhere to a strict reducing routine you should ask your doctor if there is any reason why you should not—before you start.

Generalities on Reducing

Bread: Eat three slices per day—but these should always be whole wheat—not just cracked wheat.

Milk: Drink at least one pint (20 ounces) skim or buttermilk per day.

Butter: Use one pat butter or margarine measuring one inch square by one-quarter inch thick per day.

Eggs: Eat one per day.

The four above suggestions are musts if you are to maintain good health and food balance throughout the reducing campaign. Indeed they are good common sense for everyone—especially when you have reduced to your desired weight too.

✧ ✧ ✧

Breakfasts

(1) One eight-ounce glass freshly prepared orange or grapefruit juice.

One poached egg on half slice unbuttered whole wheat toast.

Two cups coffee without sugar or cream but with 2 ounces cold or 4 ounces hot skim milk.

(2) One-half grapefruit or one whole orange.

One coddled egg or egg cooked in shell, with one-half slice unbuttered whole wheat toast. Do not cheat on the thickness of the slice—one-half inch is average thickness.

Cafe au Lait without sugar. (Cafe au Lait is strong coffee served with an equal quantity of very hot whole milk. Delicious too.)

(3) Four-ounce serving of any of the fresh fruits as they come in season—without sugar.

One egg scrambled, served on half-slice whole wheat toast unbuttered.

Eight-ounce cup cocoa sweetened with saccharin and made with skim milk. Tea with skim or whole milk is optional. But no sugar.

✧ ✧ ✧

Lunches

(1) Six or eight ounces of thin soup. (Not pea or bean soup or homemade soup rich with meat fat and starchy ingredients.)

Salad of lettuce, tomato, cottage cheese, celery, carrot; 1 teaspoon mayonnaise.

One slice whole wheat bread; one-half pat butter.

Eight ounces skim or buttermilk.

(2) Sandwich of two slices unbuttered whole wheat bread with thick slice lean meat and leaf of lettuce.

Eight ounces skim or buttermilk.

One banana, ripe.

(3) Unbuttered toasted cheese sandwich on whole wheat bread.

Celery hearts and carrot sticks.

Eight ounces skim or buttermilk.

One apple or orange.

✧ ✧ ✧

Dinners

(1) Lean beef—four ounces; hamburg, roast or Swiss. Do not fry this meat—the fat adds too many calories.

Four ounces each diced cooked carrots and Brussels sprouts.

One-half grapefruit. Cafe au Lait.

(2) Broiled steak of salmon, cod or halibut weighing four ounces.

Stewed tomatoes or chopped spinach with lemon juice; and kernel corn or canned peas or baby limas.

Baked large apple without sugar. Cafe au Lait or eight ounces skim milk.

(3) Broiled baby beef or calves' liver—four ounces.

Six ounces broccoli or cauliflower with lemon juice or grated skimmed milk cheese and diced canned or sliced new beets.

Six-ounce bunch malaga grapes or fresh pear or ripe banana.

Tea or coffee without sugar and with skim or whole milk.

✧ ✧ ✧

Those are strict diets but the way they can be varied is to replace one of the vegetables with a fresh salad which has no mayonnaise on it. During one day you may have one pat butter as mentioned above—but this can be stretched so you can have half of it on some of your bread, the other half on your dinner vegetables. If desired your one teaspoon of allowed mayonnaise may be used for a spread for your bread at noon or on your salad.

If you become unbearably hungry at four o'clock in the afternoon drink a 6-ounce glass of tomato juice with 1 rye wafer as an nibbling accompaniment.

If you have will-power enough to do this watch for more reducing talk in the near future.

Also the Hungarian people have requested the Presbyterian missions to serve them. They are an educated people. God has not asked us to do a task without giving us the strength to perform it.

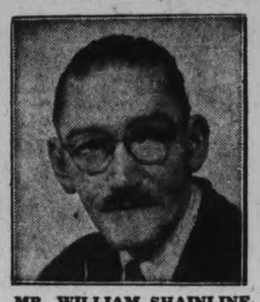
Rundown, Felt Tired-out Full of Aches and Pains



Had No Pep; Nerves on Edge; Stomach Rebelled Says This Man. Tells of Good Results He Got By Taking Syntona.

There is scarcely a person who at one time or another has not suffered functional disorders of the stomach, kidneys, liver or bowels, making them feel rundown, tired, nervous and full of aches and pains. No claim is ever made that Syntona will relieve these troubles in every case, but it has proved that it is a medicine well worth trying and in thousands of cases it has given really remarkable results.

For example, here is the case of Mr. William Shainline, 625 Talbot Street, London, Ontario, who said:

"I was rundown, suffered from constipation, headaches, nerves all on edge, and had no pep or energy to do my work, my back, arms, muscles felt sore and many days I was full of aches and pains. My stomach was also acting up pretty badly, giving me acid-risings, belching up of hot, sour liquids, and heartburn.

"I felt better on the very first bottle of Syntona and since continuing the treatment my bowels are acting regularly, nerves are calmed down, headaches and other aches and pains are gone away. Now the trouble with my stomach is cleared up and appetite is greatly improved. I can work better, feel full of pep, sleep more soundly and get up in the morning feeling fresh and not all tired out as I did for so long."

MR. WILLIAM SHAINLINE

Syntona is sold and recommended in Peterborough at Eli- it can help you, too. (Advt.)

Hostile Method Of Teaching Retards Child

Parents of the Sacred Heart and St. John's schools met jointly in St. John's School to hear the last of a series of lectures on child psychology by the Right Rev. Bishop Gerald Berry.

In his address Bishop Berry took two concrete examples from life, the Rev. Thomas Shields and Oliver Goldsmith, revealing that hostile methods of teaching often retard the child from his proper place in life.

He explained that Thomas Shields was taken from school at the age of nine, because he was considered a dullard by his parents. At 14, through the advice of a friend he was sent back to remain for only a few weeks. Through his own ability and books from a lending library, he learned reading and mathematics. In this way he surmounted the difficulties in his path and became a graduate of Hopkins University where he became an educator, biologist a[illegible]chologist.

Oliver [illegible]h, the Irish writer, ha[illegible]nferiority complex about his appearance, was dull and had no feeling of responsibility, and was completely carefree and happy, which made his philosophy of life sadly deficient. But at 36 he drifted into writing and wrote several books, and plays. His works to this day retain a high position in virtue of his kindliness, simplicity and gft of humour.

The speaker urged parents in consistency and persistency towards their children, to be happy in spite of limitations and to be able to deal with temptation and sin that they may be better able to serve.

Delegates were appointed at the meeting to attend the Parents and Teachers Association convention in Toronto March 26.

Pre-School Children Love Activities In Test Classes

ST. CATHARINES — (CP) — Forty-six four-year-olds are being used in an experiment in a St. Catharines kindergarten and the children love it.

The kindergarten was set up last November and now the Board of Education is trying to decide if similar projects will be instituted in various schools throughout the city. It is located in a large, bright room in a new part of Edith Cavell School and is a veritable children's paradise. Educational authorities who have visited the kindergarten say it is one of the best in the province.

The new kindergarten is painted a soft shade of blue, has large windows which let in plenty of sunshine and special fluorescent lighting for dull days. The floor is covered with blue and white rubberized linoleum and all tiny furniture is painted to harmonize with the general color scheme.

Large murals, fantastic and garish in both design and color, line the walls. This is the children's art. They work at miniature easels, painted blue to match the furniture.

Collegiate Products

The kindergarten is equipped with all types of toys, both educational and otherwise, designed to meet the needs of younger children. There are parallel bars, a junior-sized jungle gym, a teeter-totter, and two streamlined rockers, all made in the vocational department of St. Catharines Collegiate. There are also wooden blocks, a tricycle, wagon, dolls and doll carriage, books, balls and just about every other kind of toy a child would want. Every toy is used during some part of the day.

The kindergarten prepares the children for a senior kindergarten level. By the time they reach the primary kindergarten for five-year-olds, they are socially adjusted and can handle scissors, paste and can do a lot of things for themselves.

M. F. Pummell, superintendent for schools in St. Catharines, is pleased with the result of the experiment to date. "I am very happy about it," he says. "These youngsters are getting a fine training socially which will benefit them in their behaviour now and in the senior kindergarten. To my mind, it is money well spent."

Apparently the parents of young children in the city also think it is money well spent, although the kindergarten cost them and other taxpayers about $25,000 originally and $2,000 a year to maintain. There is a waiting list now of other youngsters whose parents want them to have the benefits of this type of kindergarten when they are old enough.

DOROTHY DIX

200-lb. Husband Resents Olive And Lettuce Meals

Dorothy Dix

DEAR MISS DIX: Can anything be done to a wife who has suddenly become a food faddist? I am a strong, 200-pounder and having led an active life, am all bone and muscles. I have a heman appetite to which, up to now, my wife has catered. But recently she has joined some sort of a circle and the diet fad she has picked up there she is trying out on the family dinner table and especially on me. She scrutinizes with a hawk's eye every morsel of food that is introduced into my mouth. The bread slices are as thin as paper napkins and the butter patties are transparent. I can't have potatoes if I eat bread.

Some evenings when I go home after an active day's work all I find is a note saying that she and the children have had their supper and gone to an early movie and that I'll find my supper in the refrigerator. When I open it up, all that I discover are several thin slices of tomatoes and a lettuce leaf guarded on the side with a few ripe black olives.

All this is wrecking my home and my wife's nerves and reducing my mental as well as physical powers. Don't you think this diet stuff is all tommyrot? I wish you would tell my wife so.

E. P.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I certainly do agree with you and am against the whole diet racket, especially as practiced upon husbands by wives.

Upsets Home Life

It isn't just merely a coincidence that domestic life isn't what it used to be, and that husbands and children won't stay at home evenings as they did in the dear gone days when women prided themselves upon their housekeeping and had never heard of calories. Always the centre of a happy home has been the dining room. Our ideal of family life has been father and mother and children gathered about a table that groaned with its load of good food.

But no imagination is strong enough to picture a happy family gathered about a table sparsely furnished forth with a dab of spinach and a fragile lettuce leaf or two and some gosh-awful mess warranted to be nonfattening but to include the proper vitamins that will sustain life, though why anybody wants to sustain life under such conditions remains a mystery only a dietitian can fathom.

Of course, it would be all right for a vitamin hound to starve herself if she wanted to—and the quicker the better—if she could do so without martyrizing her unfortunate husband and children, and if it didn't reduce her amiability even more drastically than it does her figure; but, alas, such is not the case. When a woman suffers she never wants to suffer alone. I can offer you no help in solving your problem. Only sympathy.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My daughter has been going with a young man for some time. I presume they are engaged. Every time he comes over, even if there is company, or if I or the remainder of the family are in the room, she is either playing with his hair or fixing his necktie or touching his cheeks. I don't object to them petting a little but I wish they would do it privately, not when other people are in the room. It is embarrassing to us.

MOTHER.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Right you are, Mother, and I never see a couple who are doing their lovemaking in public that I do not wonder that they do not realize what figures of fun they are making of themselves and how everyone is laughing at them.

But everywhere you see it being done, regardless of how ridiculous it makes the performers or how sick it makes the observers. At the movies you can hardly keep your mind on the romance depicted on the screen for the snugglers who are sitting right in front of you and distracting your attention. On the roads your life is endangered by drivers who are being embraced by amorous young people and who are trying to mix kisses with gasoline.

And, curiously enough, it is mostly the girls who are indulging in this shameless display of their affections. Mostly the boys are sitting up as straight as ramrods with "damn" written all over their faces while the girls are encircling them with their arms. Which goes to prove the fact that men have a greater sense of humor than women. For the men at least realize what a laughing stock they are making of themselves. Surely if girls could know how cheap and common and vulgar they look when they caress the boy friend in public they would refrain from doing so.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My husband has been called back into the army. He has been gone three months. My old boy friend from out of town wants to start in where we left off before I married my husband. Since I may never see my husband again and am not getting any younger, do you think it would be all right for me to go out with this man?

S. M. H.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Well, I think you are about the most easily consoled war widow I have ever encountered, and that your ability to love the man who is nearest when t'other one is away, entitles you to take the medal among unfaithful wives.

Apparently you are not giving even a casual thought to your husband who may have to risk his life to defend you. You are not asking yourself how he will feel to know that you could not be true to him even for three months. Pretty shabby treatment, I'd call it.

What's Right

You are so self-conscious that you hate to stand up in a meeting and express your ideas.

WRONG: Give in to this feeling, always avoiding such painful experiences.

RIGHT: Make yourself overcome your shyness by doing the thing you fear to do.

New Hairdo Swept Back, Hair Longer

Don't let them scare you—the know-alls who say that you have to let your hair grow shoulder length or you might as well go bald!

Hair-styling experts say you can go right on wearing last year's hair cut only you'll let it grow down a bit further on the nape of the neck and, instead of the forward cap look, you'll sweep it back in a petit chignon effect.

The haid-do most likely to succeed is a shortie, evenly curled all around brief and close to your head, brushed high up off the ears—kept as narrow as possible through the temples and off the forehead to conform to the small, level and forward trend in hats.

Longer hair—yes. Long hair definitely no! Modern woman is much too busy to fuss around with all the problems which long tresses present.

Oh, admitted, you'll see on display all kinds of glamour pictures of gals with twisted, coiled, tortured buns, rolls and curls hanging down their necks like horses' tails. You may even feel a faint stirring of adventure to try one out—if you already have long hair. But if you do be prepared to visit your hairdresser each morning—and to have him follow you three paces in the rear, all day long, armed with comb and bobby pins—darting in every few minutes to make repairs. Otherwise you'll end up looking like last year's bird nest.

What's more with summer just around the corner, one thing guaranteed to put a crimp in your style will be a heavy hank of hair clinging dankly to your neck when the thermometer hits the 90's.

Swan Like Neck

And so, if you're the chignon type—that means if you have a swan-like neck and classic features, keep your hair short, but switch to a switch.

Achieving a long-haired look isn't a question of growing hair, but of adding hair. You can buy beautiful buns of real hair to match your own whether you're a platinum blonde, ebony black, ginger red or just hair-colored hair. And those pin-on jobs stay put. No danger of most-embarrassing-moment-of-my-life episodes. You can tote your store-bought chignon to the hairdresser, have it braided, coiled or made into a figure eight while you finish up your shopping, then return and have your hair set and the chignon fastened on if you're planning a gala evening.

That's what chignons are for—gala evenings. Keep them wrapped in a hankie between times. And when you do appear in a false bun you don't have to pretend it's real—any more than you try to fool the public that costume jewelry is made of precious gems.

It's all fun and whimsy to put you in a gay, poetic mood for a party. And, don't forget a hair ornament to pin smack on top of the bun. It can be made of colored beads, rhinestones, pearls or bunches of flowers.

With joy in our hearts, we write the obituary notice of last year's wind blown butcher bobs—the spiked, lacquered peaks that hung over the forehead. Carol Channing made them famous in Gentlemen Prefer Blondes—on her they looked fine, but on most of us they looked as though we'd gone back to second childhood, stolen grandma's scissors and chopped, snipped at random.

Quebec Legislature Ends Its Eight-Week Session

By The Canadian Press.

The Quebec Legislature Wednesday ended a brisk eight-week session to become the first provincial house to complete its 1951 session.

Prorogation followed a business-like session devoted to the needs of the booming province. Laws passed during the session authorized new hydro-electric power projects, financial expenditure for an increased circuit of winter highways and increased credits for farm loans and housing assistance. Also approved was a record budget calling for expenditure of $236,726,000 during the fiscal year starting April 1. A surplus of $1,044,100 was forecast.

There was no sign of prorogation in the legislatures of the other nine provinces.

At St. John's, Nfld., Ronald J. Fahey (PC-Harbour Main-Bell Island) accused Premier Smallwood's Liberal government with failing to keep election promises. Mr. Fahey, speaking in the throne speech debate, said the Liberals had promised that the cost of living would go down, that there would be no extra taxes, and that Ottawa would keep buying Newfoundland fish indefinitely. None of these promises, he said, had materialized.

The throne-speech debate also continued in the legislature of Canada's other island province, Prince Edward Island. However, there were indications the debate would end some time today as most members on both sides of the House have already spoken.

School Changes

Education Minister F. C. Large told the House that changes are planned in PEI's high school system to bring the province in line with the remainder of the Maritime Provinces. The practice of permitting students to enter university from Grade 11 would be dropped and an additional grade would be added to high schools now lacking a 12th grade.

At Fredericton, opposition leader Hugh Mackay said New Brunswick's crown lands are being operated at a loss, and suggested that pulp and paper companies in the province be compelled to pay higher stumpage rates.

Increased royalties for Nova Scotia coal was urged in the legislature at Halifax by James E. Ruthledge (L-Halifax Centre). Premier Macdonald has already told the House that the situation would be studied anew but that the government is bound by agreements in the matter.

At Winnipeg, Works Minister William Morton said Manitoba will carry on with its 1951 highway construction program, which includes additional work on the trans-Canada highway.

At Regina, Premier T. C. Douglas withdrew two government motions in the Saskatchewan Legislature. The motions asked approval for constitutional amendments to allow the province to collect a three-per-cent indirect sales tax and the federal government to legislate for old-age pensions. Mr. Douglas said the motions would be re-submitted in more general form to conform with "representations from other provinces" to the federal government.

Attorney-General Lucien Maynard told the Alberta Legislature that police should be given authority to tap telephone conversations only where offences against the state are suspected. He gave treason as an example.

Go After Rats

The Alberta Legislature also took the first legislative step to maintain the province's reputation of being the only rat-free area in North America. The rodents are reported to be at or near both the Alberta-Saskatchewan and Alberta-British Columbia border. The Legislature gave first reading to a bill facilitating control of rats.

On the west coast, opposition leader Harold Winch said British Columbia's Coalition government was too open-handed with the water rights agreement it signed with the Aluminum Company of Canada. He accused the government of allowing Alcan to reduce the resources of the province without proper compensation.

FINAL TRAINING—Riflemen of the 3rd Battalion, P.P.C.L.I., move to the starting line in the final phase of training for the Canadian Special Force at Fort Lewis, Wash. Troops are scheduled to sail soon for Korea.

Don't Want Elizabeth To Pay Pope Visit

LONDON, March 15 (AP)—The National Union of Protestants said Wednesday night it would be "dangerous to the safety of the British Empire" if Princess Elizabeth were to visit the Pope when she goes to Rome in the spring.

About 60 of the 20,000 union members in Britain attended the meeting which passed a resolution expressing grief at newspaper reports that the Princess might call on the Pope.

Bishop's Wife Dies

MONTREAL, March 15 (CP)—Mrs. John Dixon, 63, wife of Rt. Rev. Dixon, Bishop of the Anglican diocese of Montreal, died today. Mrs. Dixon was the daughter of the late Rev. Thomas Bailey of Ottawa, and granddaughter of the late Senator Francis Clemo.

Gets 5 Years In Manslaughter

COCHRANE, March 15 (CP)—Coleman Ferrigan, 21 of South Porcupine, was sentenced Wednesday to five years on a sharge of manslaughter in the Hallowe'en slaying of William Helmer, 35, also of South Porcupine. The charge was reduced from murder by the jury out for 1½ hours.

The verdict ended a three-day trial in which the evidence of 21 Crown witnesses was heard. No witnesses were brought to the stand by the defence.

Three witnesses said they saw Ferrigan go into a lane beside a restaurant where the shooting took place and heard him yelling up to the time the shot was fired.

In passing sentence, Mr. Justice W. Spence told Ferrigan, "the world is filled with killing and it is an unhappy place because human life is taken so loosely." He said he thought he was being "just and merciful" in sentencing him to five years.

Keep Social Security

HULL, Que., March 15 (CP).—Veterans Minister Lapointe said Wednesday that the Canadian Government, in carrying out its defence program, does not intend to "abandon anything essential in its long-range social security and economic programs." It would serve no purpose for Canada to contribute to the defence or economic welfare of other countries if in doing so she upset her internal economy and lowered her social security standards, he said in an address.

These flowered hats are special bonnets for Easter Sunday. Mago Hayes uses pale blue hair braid (upper left) to make a tiny cloche sprinkled with forget-me-nots. Sally Victor's wide-brimmed rough white straw sailor (lower left) blooms with large red poppies. A vivid turquoise balibunti by Walter Florell (above) has a brim full of red velvet flowers. Chartreuse forget-me-nots trim a bonnet (upper right) by Lenesta. Jonquils provide charming balance for a rippled brim bonnet (lower right) in jonquil yellow by Sally Victor.

Easter Bonnet, Special Hat Gorgeous With Flowers

NEW YORK —(NEA)— An Easter bonnet, as every woman who's ever worn one knows, is a special hat. Even in a spring such as this, when hats are relatively simple and uncluttered, the Easter hat is gorgeous with flowers and ribbons, and 1951's top designers have made them real confections.

Sally Victor, for instance, does an unmistakable Easter bonnet in jonquil yellow and gives it a rippled brim. She places small clusters of jonquils under and over the brim to make a flower frame for a pretty face.

A dramatic Easter hat by Walter Florell is in turquoise balibunti straw, its wide brim covered with huge red velvet flowers. A coarse mesh face veil is in the same brilliant turquoise.

A fragile cloche from the hands of Mago Hayes is pale blue hair braid covered over with tiny forget-me-nots in various shades of blue. It's banded in velvet ribbon in a deeper shade of blue.

Another true Easter bonnet, this one by Lenesta, is hand-woven chartreuse haid braid, its rippling brim finished with a flange of hair braid. The trim for this hat is chartreuse forget-me-nots.

Even the wide-brimmed sailor will appear in the Easter parade bedecked in flowers. Sally Victor does one in rough white straw braid, gives it large, raggedy red poppies as trimming. The brim is literally loaded with these poppies, to create an effective hat that will turn many a head on Easter Sunday.

All foundation fashions place emphasis on the narrow silhouette that demands the slim look and the flat-look, front and back.

Girdles are softer yet firmer and give control where needed . . . high waist girdles and one-piece foundations . . . all with a minimum of boning are the mainstays of the spring foundation story.

Black Patent It Is Spring

Black patent is the surest sign of spring since the red robin and the hurdy-gurdy man. And, this spring, black patent is the surest sign of fashion, too. Every well dressed woman will want a pair of black patent pumps or sandals and a black patent handbag among her spring accessories. She will wear them with her prints, her gabardine suits, her new silk coat.

In the Easter Parade you'll see plenty of shiny black straw hats complementing black patent accessories; you'll see black and white checks polished with patent accents. In fact, if you want to shine in the Easter Parade, you'll be wearing jet patent accents.

Striking!
by Elizabeth Arden

And striking it is! Its clear, pure red goes everywhere, touching brunettes and blondes alike with its vibrant magic. The lipstick texture is pure cream — the nail lacquer stays on and on.

Hat, Gloves And Scarf Add Much Color to Spring Costume

Give a splash of color to your spring costume by arranging a tie-up between hat and gloves or scarf and gloves or corsage and gloves. This year's colors are sharply vivid in burnt orange, apricot, tangerine. They're delicately soft in pastel shades, and very dressy in oyster white or snow white.

What is happening to fabric gloves makes exciting news. If you haven't already done so, better take a look at their exceptionally smart styling, their wide range of colors. Fabric gloves have the added advantage of being easy on the pocketbook and practically foolproof to launder.

Nylons are also making headlines in the glove industry. Their extreme sheerness makes hands appear very lady-like — and they're just right for silk suits and light dresses.

The long nylons are beautifully shirred so they crush gracefully on your arm. For formal affairs where etiquette demands that you don't appear bare-handed, there are fingerless mitts of either nylon net or nylon fabric so you'll be free to nibble a sandwich or trifle with a canape without peeling off your gloves. And, of course, nylons can be washed and dried while you're putting on fresh make-up and giving a few deft touches to your hair-do.

This year, long 16-button gloves have the right fashion look when they're worn with short sleeves or push-up sleeves. They can be crushed casually down the arm with a brilliant jewelled bracelet at the wrist.

Along with long gloves you'll need plenty of wrist-length ones to be worn with full-length sleeves. And smart novelty cuffs are the highlights of these shorties. They come with plaid cuffs, with lattice-work cuffs, with oblique cuffs that flare off to one side gauntlet style. There are also detachable cuffs so that one pair of shorties can have two or three different changes. One day you can wear them with plaid, the next with white pique and, as a third choice, you can have cuffs of the same material as the glove. The flick of a dome or the twist of a button does the trick.

Clever Design

It's also the clever detail of design that puts this season's gloves 'way up front — hand stitching, openwork, flower designs appliqued on cuffs, scalloped edging and bold embroidery patterns.

If you're looking for leather gloves, the glace kid and suede, imported from France and Italy are beautifully fashioned. Naturally they're in the higher-priced group and must be cleaned at your most reliable dry-cleaning establishment. One Canadian manufacturer has brought out a new processed leather capeskin which prevents the palms of your hands from becoming moist—a great boon if you're keeping on your gloves over a period of time.

English doeskin which comes in white and chamois is the only one in the non-fabric group which is washable. But take care how you go about it; or you may have the same alarming experience as one woman who returned a pair of doeskins to the store where she bought them, complaining that they'd shrunk to size where they wouldn't fit a kitten's paw after the first washing. When questioned further she admitted to having dried them in the oven.

When washing doeskin, use pure castile soap, lukewarm water and dry them in room temperature away from direct heat.

With Easter just around the corner, a box of spic and span new gloves in latest styling is as traditional as the Easter bunny himself.

Fashion Formula For Spring Will Be Determined By Good Taste Wearer Uses

Ingredients for a lovely and practical Spring and Summer wardrobe are suggested in these pages of The Examiner's annual Fashion Edition. Thriftiest buys are in a whole range of wonderful new fabrics and styles. Be sure to read the articles before setting forth to shop even for a hankie (if you would shop wisely and well).

This is the era of the all-in-one piece or ensemble look. It is simply being well-put-together from head to foot with fabric, color and type of clothes all in harmony.

There is no "new look", no daring new skirt length — the rightness of this year's Spring fashions is determined by discrimination and good taste. The general effect is more femininity — achieved in a variety of ways.

The suit you choose is bound to have either a fitted jacket that looks as though it were molded right on you or else a losely. cut short box jacket that reaches to just the top of your hip bones. The fitted is dressier and will look particularly new with its own stole.

No Sharp Lines

Dresses follow the current, slim, straight, but tubular rather than sharp line. A basic dress in a dark color or neutral is a "must,"—the vivid color accent to be added in scarf, belt and costume jewellery. A pretty printed silk with evening top to be covered with a matching jacket will see the Peterborough Miss through most any occasion.

Definitely a "must" also is the separate skirt to be worn with a wardrobe of blouses varying from the tailored sport shirt to the rhinestone studded evening blouse.

Last but by no means least when Easter comes so early, is the topcoat. Its newness will show in the sleeve and collar treatment, whether short or full length, straight-lined or pyramid style.

Adequate Shopping Centre

The merchants who have advertised herein combine to present to their public a thoroughly adequate shopping centre. No need whatever to "out of town" to have the smart clothes the magazines are featuring.

No way that we know of will halt the rising cost of living, so pick something new from these pages and derive fortitude to carry on from the feeling of well-being it will bring.

New Color Note In "White Wine"

With the effervescent sparkle of a good champagne comes "white wine" to exhilarate the spring scene.

It's a dreamy, creamy white shade cued to reflect the shocking brilliance of the spring fashion spectrum.

You'll see this vintage white picked up for background against startling black in huge block plaids...in clearly carved prints ...in patterned tweeds...in basic frocks and glamour dresses from fore-noon to after sundown...and in every accessory line from dramatic suede pumps to sleek leather, tailored gloves.

From your toe-tips to the top of your head, you're in the vogue with the champagne sparkle of winter wine...the white that's right for spring and summer.

Add to these the brilliant extras for smart white emphasis to dark classics...in crisp, white birdseye piques...in frothy laces and filmy sheers...and voila, you can't help make your toast to the wonderful new season of fashion with...white wine!

Looking Glass Fashions For A Modern Alice

These are "Alice in Wonderland" Easter fashions for a small girl. One coat (left) in taffy-colored all-wool flannel has a detachable cape trimmed with self-color lace. There's a matching hat. Another Alice coat (above) is gray-and-white all-wool worsted check with choir boy collar, bell cuffs and a half-belted back.

Handsome Coats In Good Fabrics

By GAILE DUGAS

NEW YORK —(NEA)— When Sir John Tenniel picked up a pencil and made his first charming sketches of Alice for Lewis Carroll's new book, he started something. Alice in Wonderland fashions have been loved and worn by little girls ever since that time.

This Easter, there are new adaptations of Alice fashions for small girls. The original Alice wore ruffled white aprons, little capes, white socks and one-strap shoes, a bow in her hair and the color blue. So will little girls this spring.

For Easter, Alice fashions take the very practical form of handsome coats in good fabrics. One such coat, in all-wool flannel, is taffy-color. It has a detachable cape trimmed in self-lace. The coat has a side peplum effect. A matching hat has the lace trim that is seen on the cape.

Another coat, in all-wool worsted, is in gray-and-white check. It has a choir boy collar, bell cuffs and a half-belted back. Metal buttons trim collar and the front.

HERE ARE THREE EASTER COSTUMES for different parts of the country. For a chilly or uncertain Easter Sunday, there's chiffon-like wool flannel (left) fashioned into a silver-and-grey two-piece dress by Coppola. For a cool to warm Easter, cloud-light wool milateen is used (centre) by Monte-Sano for a slim dress with modified peplum. A black-and-gold print surrah dress (right) might go to church in a warm climate. It could be accessorized with shining black patent leather.

Spring's An Ensemble Match Any Climate

By GAILE DUGAS

NEW YORK —(NEA)— What you wear on Easter Sunday is largely determined by the climate in which you live. But there's something for everyone in fashion this Easter.

Since it's an ensemble spring, the dress ensemble provides the perfect answer to the problem posed by an uncertain spring climate. In sections of the country where Easter Sunday is likely to be cool, if not downright chilly, the ensemble looks fashion-right while it wards off spring breezes.

Chiffon-like wool flannel in silver and steel gray has been cut by Coppola into a dress ensemble composed of a short-sleeved dress topped by a capelet. The neckline buttons high or low to reveal contrasting facings. A glimpse of under-panel shows at the centre hemline. The cape, which is reversible, has turned-back cuffs. The two tones are used to make the belt.

Monte-Sano likes cloud-light wool milateen for a dress to be worn on Easter Sunday in a climate that's mild. A low Regency neckline is edged in cloud-burst pleating that is also used for a deep hemline on the narrow skirt. A modified peplum is just slightly flared.

In a really warm climate, a dress in silk surrah is ideal. Eisenberg has designed just such a dress in a black-and-gold print. There's a small, rolled collar, a trim, fitted bodice and straight skirt with a slight side drape. Sleeves are short and cuffed. Shiny black patent is used to cinch in a neat waistline.

Silks In Solids, Prints For Spring

Pure silk returns to the fashion fold, this Spring, in many guises and at modest prices.

Print, solid and sheer dresses are all featured in this luxury fabric, along with coats and boxy jackets lined in a silk print or plain and a wide selection of floral, geometric and striped blouses, some of which are part of a dress ensemble or a costume suit.

Bright Shocks Of Bold Color

New brilliance runs rampant in the color themes for spring into summer. They reflect the trend toward the exotic, and pick up their cues from East Indian and Oriental inspirations.

Glowing with a bright intensity, they are the colors you'll find in brilliant combination with basic neutrals, dark-toned blue, purples, blacks and smart whites.

You'll wear them as bright notes in blouses, millinery, scarfs, shoes and handbag accessories.

They're bright, right and glow with neon-luminescence in pink, blue, green and gold. They're the shocking colors of spring and summer.

SPRING leaps forth

SMART HEADS are letting their hair grow again. Chignon, soft waves, more flattering hair-dos have pushed the close-cropped head out of fashion picture. Letting your hair grow now can be practically painless — as the yound lady above found out. A leading manufacturer of home permanents has developed a new type curler —good for all lengths of hair. The curler features a non-slip tongue to hold hair ends more easily. With a twirl of the fingers, the curler rolls the hair firmly and smoothly —gets it closer to the scalp. For wisp ends and short, stubborn pieces, this manufacturer packs in the same box short strand twist curlers to catch wisps.

Shop Wisely, Travel Light Easier Way to Enjoy Holiday

Women who want to enjoy their holidays, making it easy on both their pocket books and their nerves, should travel light with a wise wardrobe.

A small but well chosen wardrobe will make the trip much more pleasant. Try it. The average woman can get along nicely on a fraction of what she usually carries along. Should porters be scarce, then you can cope with your own luggage. One large suitcase should be ample for all your needs.

To simplify the cosmetics situation, buy the new plastic bottles and jars, also a plastic bag for soap flakes. It requires very little room and of course lightens the bag.

There is no need to make your vacation a burden financially by investing in a lot of new clothes. Two or three carefully chosen outfits will see you through an average trip without additional accessories.

For example, when I flew to France for three weeks, I carried only one average size suitcase, which I kept 30 pounds under the air weight limit. I had everything I needed and could still have reduced the number of articles I carried.

Basic Item

The basic item for any trip is a suit. By varying the accessories, you can have several outfits at small cost in money and space. Mine was gray and I had two sweaters (black and green) and six blouses. Were I doing it again, I would cut the blouses to three nylon ones and that would be more than adequate. The two other dresses that completed my outfit were a tailored grey wool with a bolero, plain enough for every day wear and yet smart enough for an evening out and a "party" dress of non-crushable black crepe. I could have managed with two dresses and not been rationed too severely.

Part of my success in being able to conserve space was with accessories. Because of choosing color combinations carefully, I took only two pairs of shoes. On the trip I wore a pair of black suede pumps which doubled for dress-up occasions. In the bag, I carried a pair of black suede, low heeled walking shoes and a pair of lightweight cloth Chinese slippers. These answered the shoe problem.

Getting the right hat created a more difficult problem for the suit demanded something plain, yet it was desirable to have something smart enough to set off the party gown. I finally compromised by having a black hat made here. The hat itself was a small, black straw shaped like an inverted saucer. This was plain and yet light on the head for a long trip. A loose, flowing veil that fell to the shoulders was plain enough for the suit, but added the touch of glamor for the black crepe. Thus need for an extra hat was eliminated.

Other Articles

You will need only two or three sets of underwear—you can only wear one at a time—six pairs of hose and a lightweight dressing gown (cotton for summer).

In addition to these items in my one bag I managed to include: my plastic bag of toilet articles, contents of two boxes of tissues, 12 films, notebooks, 200 sheets of onion skin paper, air mail envelopes, small box of costume jewellery, gifts for my friends, and several books.

For summer or winter dark suits are equally good and with basic colors, several smart combinations can be produced at little cost. Five changes are possible with the following:

Navy wool suit, navy novelty skirt (navy background), navy and white skirt, navy twin sweater set, white blouse (navy cotton camisole top), red belt.

To the foregoing combination you might add the possibility of other changes:

Pale blue wool or shantung suit, blouse or sweater to match (use red belt).

Something In Brown

For those who prefer brown, preferably a light sable or cocoa brown in a cotton or linen suit, the following might be used: Brown and white pique camisole or halter top, beige print blouse, brown, blue striped cotton skirt.

For those who feel an evening dress is a necessity, a two-piece evening gown of lace might help out. If you can also purchase a print skirt, then you can wear the lace skirt over the print and again put the red belt to use. Be sure the belt is on the dressy side, for example one with brass heads all around it.

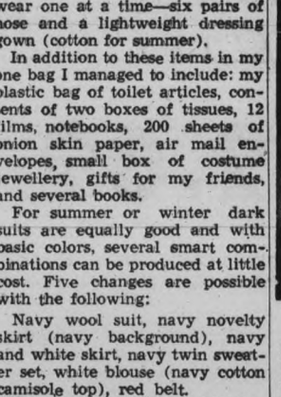
Your accessories for the navy wardrobe could include: navy shoes, hat and purse, and red shoes and purse. If you prefer the brown, then brown shoes, hat and purse and also the red accessories.

If you are the type of person who can play around with colors successfully, you can have the fun of playing with the ideas and colors offered here. While other women struggle and steam over nine or ten frocks, always packing or unpacking, getting them pressed, you can relax and enjoy your smaller wardrobe in comfort and look twice as smart.

Skirts Shorter Spring Formals

The shorter length formal for spring is an accepted part of your gala occasion wardrobe.

It appears in many glamorous guises: exotic sheers such as organzas and chiffons over special net and crisp taffeta petticoats; all lace styles, some rhinestone trimmed and rustling taffetas in exciting grey and apricot colors.



Many of the new shorter length dance dresses have matching stoles and some even have fur trims adding to their elegance.

BIG ISLAND

The island of Borneo contains 284,000 square miles with a population of about 1,840,000.

A TRADITIONAL COSTUME for the Spring bride could be this gown of rayon marquisette styled with a flowing bouffant skirt and a fitted bodice.

A "SWEETHEART SAILOR" of chalky white straw, with white lilac blossoms massed at the back, falling lightly over the hair on narrow green velvet ribbon streamers.

Versatility of Frock Found In Its Complete Simplicity

Most of us have a place in our lives for a frock whose versatility is in its complete simplicity, its virtues good fabric and a clean-cut slender sheath silhouette. Its color may be black or white, or your own particular pet neutral.

This frock is at its most useful best when you keep it in a quiet shade. It offers the most possibilities if you're the lucky who's a whizz bang at the sewing machine, or next best can rely on a fine dressmaker.

Choose your pattern in a slim style which may be strapless, halter neckline, low-necked, cap-sleeved or sleeveless. Then browse through the fabric counters with your imagination going full speed and see just how versatile one dress can be.

Because black and navy are good throughout the year, true basics, let's think about black crease-resistant linen. Plan to have a matching jacket, either boxy or fitted, to convert your linen into a casual dress, good anytime, anywhere. You'll find wonderful colors in these linens, lime, tangerine, burnt sugar, good blues, true pastels, all waiting for you to plot into two-toney reversible boleros. Like lime and tangerine, for bright emphasis, blue and burnt sugar for unusual effect.

If your bolero has a circular swing, two colors will show. But have it straight cut if you wish it kept strictly reversible.

Look over the checks and plaids in the new cottons for even more variety. If your basic frock is strapless or halter-held, think about silk organdie or a well-defined lace, some sheer in your frock's shade for a circular capelet to fasten with one huge rhinestone button.

Strictly for summer late-afternoon - on - to - evening, a very full black net overskirt with a matching stole will magic your slim-as-a-reed linen into a piquant dinner and dancing number. Put your fancy work on fabrics, linen, failles, cottons or tissue-like woollens. Plan a frock versatile day-in and day-out, your answer to business, weekends and summer vacation.

Bead Jewelry Appears In All Colors

Beads and more beads—that's the spring - into - summer news about jewelry.

Beads made of rose and jade quartz; iridescent stones; boroque pearls.

Beads in every possible color combination; mauve, sapphire, canary yellow, coral, turquoise, pastels, smoky greys black and white.

This craze for beads is Paris-inspired as the perfect complement to dressmaker suits, afternoon and evening frocks, summer linens, cottons and silks.

Bead jewelry comes in matching necklace, bracelet, pins and earrings. But use discretion. Wear either necklace and earrings, bracelet and earrings or pin and earrings. Enough's enough even in beads.

Stone set jewelry is another hit of the season—so cleverly designed that only the little man with the magnifying glass in his eye can tell fake from real—particularly as the stones have a rather subdued look following the lady-like trend in clothes.

Even our most conservative types have come to recognize costume jewelry as part of costume planning. The important thing is to use good taste in choosing what jewelry to wear with what clothes.

Large medallions enamelled crests and insignia, heraldic designs in antique gold or silver finish are just right for tailored suits, sports clothes, sweaters and skirts. They look so very aristocratic you can wear them with a stately-homes-of-England feeling — even though your family tree shows an ancestor who had the ill-luck to be hanged for sheep stealing.

Big and Splashy

Earrings are big—splashy and bold. There's special good news for girls with tender ear lobes. Jewelry designers have an ear-encircling type that puts the weight of the earring around the back of the ear, rather than pulling down the lobe. Also, these are extra decorative as they pretty-up the whole ear. There's a flash of rhinestone on top and a cluster at the bottom.

Necklaces have adjustable chokers — to fit comfortably around your throat—prevent semi-strangulation, yet have no droop. You adjust the size of the choker with links in the back fastening. Chokers come in rhinestones, bead and pearl combinations and in metal chains.

Glamour pins are outsize too. Favorites are ballerinas — dainty little dancing girls made of gold and glitter; butterfly pins that fit all over your costume; huge "ice" pins made of solid, glowing quartz; rhinestone clusters of three to a set. You'll wear these pins on lapels, on pockets, on blouses, on your hat, on your fabric handbag and on the cuff of your suit — not all at once of course, or you'll be lit up like a Christmas tree, but just a day-by-day change of pattern.

Ever heard of third dimensional jewelry? You're sure to sooner or later. Pins, necklaces and earrings are raised and rounded, giving the illusion of depth rather than the conventional flat look. This is achieved by a background of tiny colored stones with narrow bands of gold, silver or enamel curving out from them

No doubt about it, this is a season to glitter and shine.

COLOR AND NOVEL DESIGNS captured the spotlight at the Canadian Men's Apparel Fair in Montreal. You could almost hear the skirl of the pipes as the model trod the runway wearing these Canadian-designed shoes with wool tartan inserts. Older men gasped when they saw the startling Canadian 'wedgies," in blue brushed leather and calf combination (right) and the fancy oxford with ventilated vamp.

Jacket Ensemble For Spring Dress

Slim as a sapling is the sheath of a dress...trim as a tailleur is its companion jacket. Together they add up to the most versatile of spring dress fashions — the jacket ensemble.

Dress it up or down with accessories; its simple, classic styling invites variations.

Of course you will have more than one jacket ensemble for spring...but your favorite will be of silk or rayon print, in one of the neat, new textured patterns.

...You will first wear it under your spring coat; you will enjoy it as a late spring suit complete in itself.

Comes summer, and you will pare it down to its scooped-neck, cap-sleeved sheath.

Not only a fashion stand-out, but a wardrobe stand-by, the jacket ensemble is a fashion to buy early and enjoy late.

Little Fur Notes

Hat and scarf combinations in soft-hued furs . . . little fur fringes in palest mink and black-tipped ermine . . . long-haired fur scarf fashions . . . cape stoles . . . wide stoles with pocket ends . . . small fur collars in silver-blue mink and ermine, too . . . these are the little notes of fur for fashion importance.

SACRED CITY

The sacred city of Benares in India has a population of around 260,000.

Fashion Dramatizes White For New Spring Look

The "White Look" is the right look for the Easter parade this year, as white comes to the fore in all of the new exciting fabrics from cottons to woollens.

White breaks into print with black and deep-hued overtones . . . discreet geometric patterns . . . navy, green or red dots . . . or exotic florals.

Black and white checks—large or small patterns . . . bold or sedate plaids; stripes from fine-lined stripings to brilliant multi-colored wide stripes, go on white grounds.

Short White Coat

The short white coat is destined to top everything this spring for 'round the clock wear and you'll find it in suede cloths, tweed mixtures and fleecy woolens.

Look for flip white linen dusters to make fashion headlines in smart wardrobes again; this year they're enhanced with velvet trimmings at sleeves'-end and necklines.

Dressed-up Looking

Daytime suits are excitedly dressed-up looking with stiffened hipline jackets over slender skirts and they make real news in fine white flannels, crisp failles and rich shantungs.

Deep-hued long-coat ensembles with either silk or cloth coats, top simply-detailed all white frocks or white ground prints.

Little white jackets, capelets, and boleros . . . bright in faille, taffeta, linens and others, give a crisp, brisk look to jet and jewel-toned tailleur frocks.

White and off-white silks in crisp and tissue-weight shantungs, honans, silk shirtings with white grounds for sharp, keen stripes and lots and lots of white sheers in stiff, and soft, filmy fabrics—are all destined for spring smartness.

Novelty Piques

The newest cottons wear that white, bright look in textured fabrics . . . with extra emphasis on novelty piques . . . batistes and voiles . . . dotted swisses and other perennial cotton favorites.

For nights, too, white takes on a fresh sparkle and vivacity in bouffant, draped or slender formal wear. White lace gains dramatic impetus over jet faille, taffeta, or velvet underskirts. There are gay, billowy cocktail-length and long-gown classics scored and dramatized with glitter...braid...fringe and other high-fashion notes.

White lends itself well to the colorful accessory groups of the new season and invites itself into every woman's wardrobe for around the clock, around the season wear.

Recognizing Hat Flattery Places Stamp of Fashion

Let the men laugh at our hats. But watch their eyes follow a pretty girl who's wearing a fabulous one. and you'll note that the hat's color and shape are pure flattery . . . it's right with the hair-do (or hair-do with hat). . . and it's in perfect harmony with the rest of her costume. It's that knack of recognizing hat flattery along with its costume harmony which puts the signature of fashion awareness on your ensemble. Consider the hat for your suit.

This spring there's wide choice in pert little numbers called "suiters," planned just for suits. Generally speaking, suiters are shown in two shapes. First are smallish head-huggers, cloches, pillboxes (plain or with pointed crowns), mushroom brims, rollers and berets. They're shaped at the back for longer hair or chignons and may be almost bonnet small at the front or extend right to the forehead.

Worn On Level

Second, sailors and bowlers worn straight on the level, never at an angle. Whatever a suiter's shape, we're given wide choices in color. Many are of the fine felts . . . good for any season . . . and for right now, gorgeous straws that look like and are spring '51. White, navy, black . . . dull or shiny . . . there's nothing like straw hats to give that lilting note to spring suits.

Very versatile, wonderfully becoming are the luscious wheat-colored straws called burnt sugar this season. There's a burst of spring flowers and veilings, to blend or contrast in trim.

Especially feminine and ladylike are the bands of softly folded silks, or velvet trim in bands or facings. You'll find rhinestones winking at you unexpectedly from the heart of a flower or centering a leaf. One of the prettiest cloches we've ever seen was stark white covered with rhinestone-studded green leaves.

Pastel felts, large and almost untrimmed are shown with sport clothes, and will follow into summer with hot-weather dark lines or sheers. Away from suits your head may wear what your heart fancies. Perhaps a romantic little nosegay of a hat made entirely of violets or daisies . . . completely enchanting.

Prettied Up

Then there's taffeta pleated or folded or crushed into frivolous pouffs . . . or faille, prettied up with roses or lily of the valley. Lush roses muted from pink into dark rose appear as chignons, wonderful for hiding stray wisps of growing-in hair.

White pique is used everywhere not only as a trim or facing on straw or fabric, but in minute all-pique versions, faced back or otherwise dramatized with black velvet.

Very extreme high fashion, yet useful too, is the two-in-one trick. A little head-hugging cloche or bonnet (which may be of flowers polka-dotted silk, velvet or stitched layers of veiling) is worn as a companion to a suit or daytime frock, and has a wide detachable brim of stitched taffeta or straw which can be snugged on right over it for late afternoon wear.

Hats . . . they're wonderful fun to look at, great fun to try on. The whole secret in finding YOUR hat is to search for it when you're not in a rush or in desperate need of it . . . and never be talked into a hat you're only lukewarm about. When you try on a hat . . . and you love it . . . that's YOUR hat.

Light Blue Favorite

Light blue shirts have all the earmarks of being the spring's most popular colored sports' shirts. Interest in light blue shirts, says one manufacturer, is greater than at any time during the past five years.

THERE'S STYLE IN RAINWEAR for small fry this spring. This little girl (left) wears, with her hooded raincoat, rain boots in white rubber. By means of zippers, the boots open up wide so that she can slip them on herself. The little boy and girl wear (right) bright yellow raincoats for higher visibility and therefore, greater safety. The boy has a rubber patrol raincoat, matching hat, and yellow, four-buckle rain-tight boots. His little sister's raincoat has a plaid collar and plaid lined rubber hood. Her rubber boots are bright red.

Use More Flower

Say it with flowers this Easter —the kind of flowers you buy on the main floor of your favorite store.

They may be carnations, violets, roses or field flowers. They may be lilacs—new flower favorite of the season. It's the way you wear them that really counts.

It's definitely 1951 to tuck your flowers right into the neckline of your suit at centre front, or into a hip or breast pocket.

It's daring to pin a posy to the centre back of your collarless or Mandarin collared coat neckline.

It's pretty to thrust a spray of flowers through the belt of your dress or suit.

So important are flower boutonnieres that they can be the highlight of your costume. This year you can match other accessories to them — scarfs, jewelry, gloves and, of course, millinery.

Pink Tones In The News

It's a light-hearted mood . . . this, 'in the pink' for spring fashion mood!

From the palest pink, hardly more than a blush, to pink with an underlying purple tone, pink is picked for popularity.

Cashmere steps out in fleecy, cuddly coats and toppers in a subtle roseate hue.

Watch the magic of the lovely, pink tones of the silk suitings . . . in rayon gabardine 'round town suits . . . in classic frocks . . . and in cocktail frocks for dress-up moods.

You'll find a passport to that spring-feeling in the elegance of formal bouffants, in glowing pink tones excitingly expressed in frosty organdies, organzas . . . in the swirling, draped sorcery of chiffon and other soft clinging fabrics.

Get into the pink in the most exciting fashions of all—the wonderful new sun fashions. Pink for play-clothes, pink for swim wear, and pink in every beguiling variation for day-in, day-out town and travel dress-up.

Let your fancy be your guide to pleasure in pink. Add a glowing pink scarf to a grey, navy or black suit. Charm glowing purples with a pink-rose touch. Put pink confection to periwinkle blue . . . frost a sedate dark suit with pink flower icing at the lapel . . . or show your color at the neckline with an in-the-pink blouse.

Slip into a wonderful linen duster, or choose it in sheer wool or heavy nubby silk . . . but by all means choose it in pink.

To complement and compliment your pink mood, choose your gloves in all the pink variations, you'll find them in suede, glace and fine double-woven cotton in all your favorite, classic and dress-up styles.

UNEVEN INSERTS of lace trim Lady Esquires cameo pink blouse. Tucking at either side of the lace adds the detailed look.

Rainwear Is Bright, Gay For Small Fry This Spring

By GAILE DUGAS

NEW YORK —(NEA)— Most of us think of children's rainwear as being fairly static year after year. Actually it is styled to keep pace with adult rainwear fashions. Often adult fashions are adopted for youngsters.

Colors, however, are not fashion-cured in children's rainwear. The primary concern is to give children bright colors they'll like, colors that will help keep them safe from accidents because of their high visibility on a dark and rainy day.

The conscious use of color for safety is fully demonstrated in children's rainwear for this spring. A hooded raincoat for a small girl is shown, for instance, in bright red. It's double-breasted, worn belted, with deep pockets just like big sister's. To wear with it there are white rubber boots that zip open so they're easy for a small girl to handle herself.

Bright yellow is used for rainwear sets for both little boys and little girls. It makes an all rubber raincoat with matching hat and rainlight boots for a small boy. Both coat and boots fasten by means of four buckles.

It also appears in a hooded, four button raincoat for a little girl. This coat has a plaid collar and plaid-lined rubber hood. Worn with it are bobby boots in bright red rubber.

Hosiery Becomes Definite Accent

This spring, hosiery takes on a sharp note of emphasis and flattery and becomes, more than ever, a significant part of the spring costume.

You'll find clocked hosiery for dressy and cocktail wear and decorative heel styles for more tailored costumes. The sandal foot and the shell foot stocking takes to the simple sheath lines of airy pumps and strapwork sandals.

And, you'll be amazed at the gossamer sheerness of the 60 and 66 gauge hosiery the ultimate in sleekness, yet with new wearability and longer-life span.

The new hosiery shades are specifically designed to keynote the tints and tones of spring ready to wear.

Check This Color Guide

For cocoa, red, melon, peacock, purple and vibrant pinks . . . choose clear beige.

For greys, corn flowers, rosy reds, soft violet, turquoise . . . chose greyed tones with a mauve tint.

For tans, gold, citrus colors, white and chrome yellow . . . choose light sunny beige.

Box-Like Bag Popular With Women

The box bag is stealing the show this year, Particularly the oblong type.

Reason? It brings confusion-control to that old catch-all, a woman's purse.

The box bag opens wide, has no corners for keys, car tickets or cosmetics to slip into. You press, you open and you see at a glance just what's inside. Also it has extra roominess.

It's taken a long time to win Canadian women to this kind of bag. Well, you know us, the conservative type — preferring to cling to the pouch purse and accepting the hurly-burly inside as just one of the trials of being a woman. But, at last, we've succumbed to the practical good looks of the box bag.

That is—most of us. For the diehards there's still a wide variety of pouch purses which are pleated, softly gathered and charmingly feminine.

Here To Stay

The shoulder bag is here to stay. It will never lose its appeal for the business girl and the parcel-toter. But the envelope flap has been replaced by a neat frame opening; the straps are shorter, so it can be slung over the shoulder and clutched with the elbow—just to make sure it's still with you.

Calfskin is still tops for tailored bags. But it's getting awfully high in price, and there's an English leather, aqutan, which makes a fine substitute and which also has the advantage of being color-fast and proof against rain spotting.

Other tailored types are made of morocco—a goatskin with a special grain—and, for matching bags with shoes, there's a group that sounds like refugees from a zoo—water snake, cobra, python, lizard and alligator.

Suede and antelope are perennials. They don't come with shoulder straps as color is apt to rub off.

For dress-up times there are charming little afternoon numbers in faille, taffeta, crepe and bengaline. These materials can be softly draped and pleated. They take on an extra air of elegance with rhinestone trim and with delicate gold filagree frames.

Petit point is like eating oysters—you either go for it or you don't. For those who do there are exquisite afternoon and evening bags imported from Austria.

Sequin bags are on the wane—so we're told, because of the limited color choice. The smart woman is very particular about the shade of her party bag, prefers brocade, beauvais, satin, seed pearls and rhinestones where there's a wide variety of colors. These bags are beautifully framed in pearl trim.

Spring Suits, Coats Boast Silky Elegance

Something new has been added to your spring-into-summer wardrobe—the full length coat and the figure-molded suit of silk or silk-like fabrics.

Faille and ottoman are the favorite textures—both so crisply ribbed, sleekly supple. Often they combine rayon or silk with just enough wool to give them a firm, tailor-trim "hand."

Over a printed or solid color afternoon dress, the long silken coat achieves that expensive "costume look." With a dress-up blouse, the slim silken suit can go anywhere, any time in perfect style.

In black, navy, champagne or toast—these silken coats and suits are the sophisticated background for your loveliest accessories—the glitter of rhinestones, the witchery of a veiled hat, the luxury of longer gloves, the grace of classic opera pumps or of stripping sandals that are a mere symphony of strings.

Many of them have fitted silhouettes and button up like dresses—or have loose mandarin lines with full, wide kimono sleeves that carry deep cuffs that begin at the armhole.

Many of these coats are lined with exquisite solid-color fabrics . . . some have print linings . . . others have reversible construction for versatility.

With their return, fashion recaptures the elegance of another era—an era of top-hatted dandies and beautiful women.

Extreme Styles Doomed In Men's Suit of the Year

Acclaimed as the suit of the year is the American lounge. In the next few months, men's shops across the country will be featuring it, and by next year most new suits worn by men will be the American lounge, or modifications of it.

This suit, conservative in style, was chosen as the most appropriate for 1951 by designers at the recent International Association of Clothing Designers' convention in New York City. Basically, the suit is a controlled one. That means there is no exaggeration of line anywhere in the suit. Wide shoulders, fullness in the back and trouser legs are out. The American lounge is a neat suit. The shoulder line is clean, with shoulders of medium height and width. Lapels tend toward narrowness with the gore line high. There is a moderate amount of fullness in the chest, with a slightly suppressed waistline. From the shoulders down, the back is straight. The jacket is much the same below the hips. Coats are single-breasted, with two buttons placed low and close together. The upper button is done up; the lower button remains undone. Pockets on the coat are narrow, with flaps. Proponents of the American lounge are suggesting a ticket pocket above one of the side pockets. Vests are eliminated to a large extent.

No Baggy Trousers

Trousers are tidy, not baggy approximately 19 inches at the botton, with 23 inches at the knee. The cuff is one-and-three-quarters inches.

Reaction to the American lounge has been much the same. Salesmen and designers agree that it is a trend. Few top tailors or designers will use the name American lounge.

Said one tailor: "I guess I'm a militant Canadian, but no garment going out of my shop will be called an American lounge." This tailor felt a more appropriate name should have been chosen for the suit.

A designer in a more exclusive men's shop said: "There is little if any difference between the American lounge and Mr. T. styles that appeared last year." He explained that the American lounge is the death knell to exaggerated suits of postwar trend toward slimness.

Change The Name

"The American lounge" suggested the designer, "will be seen on all average and good income dressers in a year or so, but the suit will not be called an American lounge."

Bearing out these views was another designer who said each men's shop would interpret the American lounge, but not use the name. "The shoulders in this suit are something to be desired. The modified square-look of the shoulders is particularly good if a man had sloped shoulders. And the slimming look all the way through the body is important."

At the New York convention, most US designers were wholeheartedly in favor of both styles and name, according to a designer who attended the occasion.

Since that time there has been some reaction in different cities throughout the States. Most violent reaction is due to the fact that the American lounge would be sold on all price levels, in varying materials. Some designers objected to this, feeling the American lounge should be confined to more exclusive shops.

Collars and cuffs should be dipped in warm water (with a little bleach added) and scrubbed lightly but firmly with a soap-rubbed brush before they are placed in the washing machine.

Piano-Tuning Chef

SOUTHSEA, England —(CP)— A hotelman complained at a meeting of hotel officials that the labor ministry sent him a chef who turned out to be a piano tuner. He said the "chef" carried "a battery of carving knives such as I have never seen before."

THE SPRING TOWN DRESS has a dressy, costume outlook. This sheer rayon version is designed for the woman with a fuller figure.

Royal Dressmaker Likes Combined Hues

LONDON, Eng.—Norman Hartnell, Queen Elizabeth's dressmaker, emphasizes color combinations. In his evening gowns, colors are delicately blended. More vivid tones are used in his daytime clothes.

Green and pink were combined with white in a harlequin pattern picked out with pearls, in one of his evening gowns in a fashion display. Another was of green tulle with sprays of white syringa. He combined pastel shades of blue and deep violet with turquoise.

One of her suits was dark green with a waistcoat of old rose in a wool with silky finish. Reds and blues, yellow and purple, or green or black were other combinations for daytime wear. He also showed printed summer fabrics, with dots of all sizes predominating among the prints. Hats shown with garden-party frocks in these light materials were sometimes transparent straws but were also of piques and other fabrics. All were flat-crowned cartwheels.

What a correspondent termed "star piece of the whole collection" was a wedding group called "St. Margaret." The bridal gown was rich white satin embroidered in pearls, with a shell-pink bridesmaid gown cut on classic lines.

Women Big Buyers Of Men's Clothes

Men's wear experts reckon that women, directly or indirectly, have a hand in the selection of 75 per cent of all the clothes that men buy in Canada.

This is confirmed in a survey made by the Men's Fashion Council of Canada in a number of stores ranging from Victoria, B.C., to Yarmouth, N.S. In the west coast city, one noticeable 1950 sales trend in the best shops has been to plaid sport jackets. In Yarmouth, on the other side of the continent, which is frequented by big game tuna anglers from all over the world, a coming trend reported is the collarless sports jacket, which goes well with the sports shirt.

One thing the women of Victoria and Yarmouth do agree on when they set out on a buying spree for their menfolk . . . his pyjamas should be gaily and boldly striped.

More Hats, Bright Ties, White Shirts, Socks Are Plainer 1951 Prediction

Ralph M. Edwards, editor and manager of the trade publication, Men's Wear in Canada and national authority on men's dress, last year made style predictions for 1951. He agreed to do the same this year. Here are Mr. Edward's trends:

Control is the keynote for 1951; less exaggeration in everything, from hats right down to shoes.

Hats . . . there will be more and more of them. We are becoming a hat-conscious nation. Summer will see more straw hats. The Tyrolean hat, with its big brush, in place of a feather, is news. Hats will be in keeping with this year's theme, lighter and brighter. Four top shades will be Birch Tan, Claro Brown, Sea Haze (a misty, light green) and Regal Blue. Crowns in hats will be a fraction higher; brims will tend toward narrowness.

Ties . . . bright colors, but not flamboyant. Large patterns still will be very much in evidence, but a growing trend toward small geometric patterns . . . ties will be narrower, not flaring and bulbous . . . knots will be neat . . . there is a slightly stronger tendency toward bow-ties, perhaps due to Lester B. Pearson's bow-tie habit.

Shirts . . . white is still tops. There is a tendency back to stripes, regularly spaced, not shaded or clustered. Stripes will be on white ground, or light grey or pale blue. There is a positive swing away from pastel shades, such as lavender, yellow and greens.

Nylon remains the wonder shirt, living all day on a man's back, and re-vitalized in a few minutes in soapy water . . . but it is going to be hard to get in the next year.

Viscose rayon is new material in shirts. With a silky appearanre, this shirt will retail around $5.95, lower than nylon shirts and comparable to cotton broadcloths. The collar is fused. (Like all rayon, this shirt needs ironing.)

There may be a few silk shirts seen, but actually a "dead issue all the way down the line." There's a swing toward French or double cuffs.

Cuff Links . . . more and more with the double cuffs. They are ornamental, man's chance at jewelry and color. They will be seen in metal designs and colored stones. Men will be buying several pairs of cuff links to wear on different occasions.

On the subject of ornamentation, jewelled stick pins, like spats, are "dead as a dodo." Collar pins are worn where needed. Tie slides are worn low, and the tie is not puffed up above the slide. The thing to remember about the slide is that it is not an ornament, but a utility piece.

Suits . . . a slight drawing in of the shoulder line will be seen; lapels not as wide; waistline slimmer. There is a slight tendancy toward the return of vests with suits. More men will be wearing striped suits. Blend materials will appear in more moderate-priced shops. You can still get all wool suits, if you can pay for them.

Socks . . . More plain colors will be seen in socks this year; there is a trend away from gaudy patterns. Nylon hose, though in short supply, will remain popular, due to its shrink-resistant long-wearing qualities. Wool socks with nylon heels and toes are in great demand for the same reason.

Shoes . . . Will be neater, lighter and more comfortable. There is a definite swing away from the bulbous-toed shoe with its thick, triple sole. A tendency toward suedes is noted.

Sportswear . . . More sports headwear, plaid caps, vivid-colored and Tyrolean hats will be seen on fishing and hunting trips and on the golf links. A positive move toward washable sports shirts.

A NEW LIGHTWEIGHT all-worsted suit for business or dress-up in the men's fashion theme for Spring. The "natural" lines give more comfort. The lighter colors give more "lift."

Korean War Subtly Effects Oriental Trend In Design

PARIS —(AP)— When Schiaparelli took the wraps off her new creations in clothes she showed the eager onlookers an exotic fresh batch of open-chested, bare-backed beauty.

Her clothes must be beautiful, for you find yourself looking at them almost as much as you look at her models. That, friends, is the acid test.

After nearly two hours of solid staring one could report a subtle but startling development in the clothes that are destined this sprink and summer to adorn some of the finest female forms in the world.

Leans Toward Orient

The development—which perhaps Schiaparelli herself may be unaware of—is the effect of the Korean war on the new frocks and frills and the lush hats and gadgets that go with them.

They are, for instance:

Quilted—like Chinese uniforms—coats, quilted jackets and even quilted skirts.

Coolie hats and hats that look like pagodas.

One piece of cloth resembling a rice paddy in design.

Glasses With Lashes

Other startling aspects of the show were: Glassless sun glasses.

Sun glasses that have four-inch- long lashes, for what reason only Schiaparelli must know.

A gown whose front consists of simply a bow.

Persimmon-colored pieces of ribbon that tie on milady's legs just below the knees and dangle down like misplaced pieces of parlor lampshade.

COAST SALMON

Salmon canneries on the Pacific coast began to vie with Atlantic fisheries as early as 1880.

Men's Fashion Styles Slow To Change Said Due to Conservative Dressing

Greatest criticism of men's fashions in that they are unchanging. "Men wear the same thing, year in, year out; the styles never change," is an often-heard remark And it is untrue.

It is valid to say that men's clothing is slow to change; that men are conservative dressers and hate to rush into anything. That is all true, but it is far from honest to say they are stalemated. Just take a look at history:

Those Final Instructions

In 1825, when pop went to his tailor for a new spring suit his final instruction could be this:

"Now see to it, tailor, that the slash cuts in the sleeves of my doublet come not closer than two finger lengths from the shoulder. And remember that I want the left sleeve to be of stripes of the canary yellow and the scarlet red, while the right is to be of oak leaf green and yellow. Keep in mind, of course, that the main body shall be of the sky blue. My breeches, which shall be full and loose, according to the present taste, shall be of royal indigo. Forget not to use the wide scarlet red ribband for the rosette at the knee I wish it to appear pleasingly with my yellow hose. And as I have afore mentioned, use only the best Flemish lace of white for my cuffs and Van Dyke collar. Oh yes, and see that the collar comes in the proper flowing manner to the top of my sleeve and is well down in front."

After his sojourn at the tailor's, pop had to make a trip to his hatter, to decide on color, size of crown, width of brim, color of band and plume.

As time and the years went by, pop's son and his son had just as many problems, for the style of men's clothes changed repeatedly.

Fitted To Waist

In 1700, his coat was fitted to the waist, and hung in a full skirt to the knee. The tight sleeves were set off by wide-flowing cuffs of the finest lace The gold or silver-plated buttons on his coat reached from the top of the garment to the bottom. At his throat he wore a full ruffle of lace. His breeches were billowy, tied tightly at the knee with bright ribbon. Of colors there was no end. His shoes with high red heels could have matching ribbons to tie them, or a contrasting color could be used. His hat was three-cornered. Whether to have a full or only a half-finger-length cleft in the front—ah, there was a point for debate!

By the time the First of the Georges had come to the English throne, the coat, still worn long, had developed a collar. And it had cuffs on the sleeves which reached almost to the elbow. The many buttons must have the highest lustre, the scalloped fringe must set off the ruffled shirtfront to advantage. The full lacy cuffs indicated wealth and position.

When George II ascended the throne, men of the western world found that their coats were changing. The fashionable male began to tack back the front of the garment—to result eventually in the swallow-tailed coat. The waistcoat came into being. It reached from the knee to the throat, with many buttons. The lace ruffle gave way to a small black cravat. The deep cuff fitted snugly at the wrist, exposing only a little lace.

In 1759, not many years before the American Revolution, the man who was to play an important part in the union of the States (George Washington) ordered from his tailor a new greatcoat. These were his instructions: "A new market greatcoat with loose hood to it, made of Blew Drab or broadcloth with straps before, according to the present taste—let it be made of such cloth as will turn a good shower of rain."

In 1773, a New York paper advertised men's suiting in the following colors: "Scarlet, buff, green, blue, crimson, white, sky blue, and other colored superfine cloths."

Color was a thing of joy to the dandy of the day, and he used it profusely. In telling of the clothes worn by one man of the late 18th century, a writer has left the following record: "Red velvet skull cap lined with white linen which was turned over the edge of the velvet about three inches deep. A blue damask dressing gown lined with silk, a white stock-satin-embroidered waiscoat, black satin breeches, white silk socks to his knees and red Morocco slippers."

Breeches Going Out

In France, in 1789, Napoleon was coming up and breeches were going out. That year an angry crowd of men ran down the streets of Paris wearing trousers instead of breeches, as they stormed to the Bastille. It was not for another thirty-odd years that the gentry of North America saw fit to cover their shanks in pantaloons. But the time did come, and by 1820 the Beau Brummell of the day was walking in a swallow-tailed coat of green broadcloth, collar of black velvet. For the first time he wore trousers. They were of white Kerrysmore satin, stiffened at the cuffs. The collar of his pleated shirt was high and he wore a small white cravat at his neck.

Not many years later, when dad approached his tailor to replenish his wardrobe, he found that his knee-length tailcoat was cut to fit snugly at the waist, then flared fully behind. His wing lapels were faced in shiny satin or silk. Green and brown, popular colors of the day, were brightened by a checked tight-fitting waistcoat surmounted by a full silken cravat. His hat was stovepipe style of the finest beaver. When the snow flew, the greatcoat was worn. Its fur collar and wide lapels exaggerated the narrow waist which fell away to a full ankle-length skirt.

In the '60's, fashioned dictated that pop wear a frock coat with a small lapel only slightly gored. The stiff shirt collar was the vogue, and his necktie was a small black cravat.

The progress of industry played an important part in father's fashions in the '70's. With the smoke of factories came darker colors. Style made a big change too. The short suit coat came in, and the tailcoat was relegated to more formal wear. In keeping with the times, the world's best-dressed men followed the example of the Englishman, who, was still influenced in his dress by the extreme morning period which followed the death of Queen Victoria's beloved consort, Prince Albert. With the whirl of business came the need for extra pockets for papers, pens and pencils. From the business tycoon to the clerk, the waistcoat was a necessity, and to fit snugly under the short suit coat, they wore them double-breasted.

Now the gay '90s were at hand, with fashionable rumblings of the Edwardian era ahead. It was a time for sporting weekends. Poppa cut a dashing figure with his checkered cap in the city or with his grey or brown bowler with curled brim. It was a time for Sherlock Holmes. To the devil, by jove, with the confounded topper!

The Swallow-tailed Coat

Dawned the 20th century . . . bringing new and wonderful things.

For the well-dressed man, it meant a swallow-tailed coat and striped grey and black trousers for church. For street and business he stuck to his short-fitted suit coat and narrow-kneed trousers. While working, he had begun to confine his color to his necktie and hose.

The world war over, the roaring twenties upon us, and what happened to us was reflected in our clothes. We wore our sports clothes for everyday wear. Plus fours, tweed jackets, checkered hose and caps told us that life was gay. The flapper came in and so did bell-bottom trousers. Bow ties bespoke the "sport." Women even smoked in public!

In 1930 . . . Not many of us were so very happy and we showed it in our dress; dark blue serge with shinny seat and elbows. With better times, came brighter colors and a more casual out to men's clothes; sports jacket, white ducks and navy blue blazers; gabardine topcoats and even zoot suits—for the drug-store cowboys. Suddenly—for men—it was khaki and navy and airforce blue. As indeed it was for women: for the first time in history, the sexes were completely one in their clothing!

1945 . . . that was a great year. War over and the uniform hung up in the cupboard. Let's get into something loose and loungy, said dad. The long one-button roll lapel came in, coats were finger-tip length for the younger set, vests were worn by few and the color began to come back.

In 1950 . . . Blue is the Hue for Men said the fashion experts, and they offered over 160 shades to prove it. By the fall of last year, a new term had come to men's clothes . . it was trim! The tall, trim look is the style, and colors are going even lighter and brighter. Yes, a man has plenty to think about when he picks his new clothes.

HERE'S A NEW DESIGN for Spring in a lightweight wool gabardine topcoat with more "natural" lines for greater comfort. Sporty tweed topcoats are also popular.

Designers Answer Figure Problems

Whatever the size or figure problem, designers have worked out fashions to show women off to their best advantage. There are half-size fashions for the mature figure, junior petites for the very tiny and junior or misses for those in between.

Have you a mature figure—short waist, full hips and bust? Trimly becoming in half size fashions is the soft suit dress with belted jacket in dazzling white and dark checks with solid skirt, slim but easy. Another look for this figure is the redingote over crepe dress with the long look of buttons to the hem. Confetti dots and narrow stripes can be diagonally worked to make the waist look narrow.

Have you a long waist, medium hips, overage bust? Then you take a misses size. If you have a short waist, tiny around, small bust and fuller hips, then its junior for you. And junior petites are for those willow-wisps, flat-hipped and flat-chested. Unpressed pleats are a feature of these designs.

EMERGENCY HAIR-SET

Going out on a date and the curls are a bit on the droopy side? Use toilet water or cologne instead of setting lotion or water. Your tresses will dry in double quick time, and a subtle fragrance will surround your pretty head.

Blue On Escort Beautifies Girl

U.S. men's fashion expert, Bert Bacharach of New York, says this about blue for men: "A blue suit on her escort makes a beautiful woman look more beautiful. To a well-dressed girl, blue on the man is as good a foil as a cushion of black velvet is to a diamond ring."

A man buys a blue suit, says Mr. Bacharach, because he feels that it will see him through any situation. The man in blue is perfectly groomed for business, inconspicuously turned out for pleasure and, when evening clothes are not exactly obligatory, he is properly dressed for dinner.

Woven Ties Next

A neckware fabric producer predicts there will be a sharp increase in the sale of woven ties. Woven ties will owe their popularity, says the producer, to the "sameness" of other neckware. Bold printed ties are losing popularity, he suggests, and men will turn to the woven ties for a change.

Women Notice Clothes First Ties Are Ever Apparent

When a man enters the room the first thing a woman notices about him is his clothes. So say more than half the women polled in a recent nation-wide survey in the United States.

The same story is true in Canada. In a cross-section survey a dozen women were asked what caught their eye when a male appeared on the horizon. Seven women noticed clothes first; five women noticed general good grooming.

Ties were top article of clothing noted; shirts and hats were next. On the general good grooming side, women notice well-pressed clothes, haircuts and clean nails. Here are some of the answers:

Notice His Linen

A music and art critic: "Quality of his linen is the first thing I notice. Whether it is well-laundered or cheaply done. At a glance across the room I can see whether a man has his shirt done at home or in a laundry. No woman can do the job as well as a laundry."

A waitress in a cafeteria: "I look at the expression on a man's face first, I guess. If he looks grouchy, I say to myself, this isn't my day. Then I say "Tea or coffee? But if he's smiling, then I say: 'How are you today?' In my job it's the expression that counts."

A woman newspaper columnist: "Right off I notice whether a man is wearing a hat or not. Hats are an open diary to a man's character. A bowler means a young man who's trying to get somewhere. Whether his brim is turned up or down means something too." This lady discounted ties. Said she: 'They are probably a Christmas gift that he feels he should wear."

A young housewife, married two years: "Shirts, whether colored, or striped, or plain." This woman added that she noticed also the type of tie he was wearing, and the cut of his suit around the shoulder.

A churchworker: "Ties, whether they are lively or dull; whether they suit the wearer or not." She added: "I notice also if his suit is neatly pressed."

Posture First

Mother of two grown-up daughters: "Posture, I look at first. If a man is slumped, I think it shows that his mind is not alert. I like to see a man stand up straight." Clothes, she thought, were noticed on second glance, and she classed quality of material before correct fit.

Society reporter: "Brightly colored ties. A man needs a bright spot of color, and I look to see if a man realizes that."

Secretary in a downtown business office: "I notice whether a man needs a haircut or not. And a lot around here need it."

A social worker: "Good grooming is all-important. I notice his teeth, whether they are well-cared for or not; his hair, and his eyes." She added that she studied a man's eyes and whether he accepted or avoided her glance.

Young mother: "Material in a suit, whether it is tweedy or plain. I notice whether a suit is too flashy, and also run-down heels and fingernails."

NEW PYJAMAS are designed for 'round the clock wear. The set shown above can be worn for sleep or lounge. The gay plaid shirttail top can be mix-matched with skirts, slacks and shorts.

NEW COLOR ACCENTS appear in men's fashions for Spring, as on this light-weight rayon pullover with its three-toned chevron stripe across the chest and in the knitted waistband.

SPRINGTIME HOUSEHOLD NOTE

When you change your windows from heavy drapes to sheer curtains, hang a sachet bag on the hook that holds the tie-backs. The soft spring breezes will bring a subtle fragrance into the room.

Lighter, Brighter Colors In Men's Spring Wear

Lighter and brighter is spring's theme in the men's wear field. Across the country shops will carry lighter tones and brighter colors. It is a cheerful clothing forecast: Color, with care.

How is the lighter and brighter slogan interpreted in stores? Says one dealer: "Each year over the past 10 years the demand for lightweight suits has increased. This year we expect an even greater demand, and we are preparing for it." He said grey, tan and green would be the favorite colors, but the tones would be higher than in the past.

Another dealer sees it this way: Blue will still be a top seller, but it is a brighter blue; not dark navy, but light navy. There will be a lot of royal blue. Ties, he said, would be neat, small patterns, with vibrant colors worked into them. Shirts, he felt, were not a part of the lighter and brighter theme. These formed a background for the suit and tie.

Interest in Tweeds

Several store managers expressed a great interest in tweeds. These will be popular in the spring, and because of their texture, several shades can be woven together. This will give the effect of lighter and brighter. Caps of the same material will complete the ensemble.

Gabardines, worsteds and serges will be seen with an iridescent overcast. Depending upon the way in which light strikes the garment, it will reflect different colors. For example, a mushroom-toned suit will have highlights of purple and green in it. An official in one store was pleased with the effect of iridescents in herringbone suitings.

One salesman expressed the sentiments of all when he said: "This is a shot in the arm to men's clothing. Neat patterns with brighter colors will give suits a sparkle. It takes the drabness out of men's apparel."

Spring ties are always bright, said a partner in the furnishing house. It's the season for colorful ties, he said. Experience had shown him that men buy neater patterns around Easter, and then in late April switch over to stripes and bolder patterns. This year, he said, patterns and stripes would be more emphatic.

Blue and Wines

Most popular color for ties in the spring is blue, with reds and wines a close runner-up. Green, also, is a favorite color for ties at this season. As spring progresses into summer, men prefer varying shades of browns in their ties.

Tartan jackets will be seen this year, as last. And nobody can deny that they are bright. Some dealers have poo-poohed the jacket as a flash in the pan, or a sartorial injection of adrenalin. A few claim it is a big seller.

A point made clear by all dealers was that the lighter and brighter theme would not in any way conflict with the present trend toward conservative clothing. Conservative apparel, in this sense, means neatness and non-exaggeration of dress. A man will be conservative in style, yet bright in pattern design this spring.

Bright And Singing Colours Usher In Days Of Sunshine

"In the spring a young man's fancy"—turns to things romantic like gals and gay times. And what could be more attractive than a young miss in fashions from the new bouquet of colors for spring 1951!

A collection of high fashion colors for spring and summer is keyed to "fancy free" days, bringing bright and singing colors to usher in the days of sunshine—shades that follow fashion's latest whimsy yet lead in the Canadian fashion parade for spring and summer.

There is a new clarity to colors this spring, with occasional touches of high brilliance, like splashes of sunshine and soft shadow on a garden. New trends are seen in the prominence of the mauve collection, "Corsage" like a bright crocus, "Thrill" a staccato violet for a brilliant entrance, "Lady Love" a shadowy mauve. Tangerine and melon tones are high on the list of fashion favorites, with "Cracker-"Barbeque" a spicy brick shade.

Watch for basic color favorites with a new slant like "Caress" a soft putty shade, "Bouquet Blue" stolen from the petals of a delphinium, "Butterfly Kiss" a light airy grey, "Heart Throb" a warm pulsing rose, "Freckle Face" a rich tan, "Chaperone" a silvery grey and "Shady Nook" a soft aqua. The young heart will welcome "Shy Sky" palest of aquas and "Popcorn" a rich creamy white.

Of the twenty five shades there will be many favorites but probably most predominant will be the perennial navy successes "After Dark" and "Town Blue." This year also sees black bidding for popularity as a sharp contrast to the brilliant shades that label "fancy free colors" the season's favorites.

Synthetic Textiles Popular As Wool Price Soars

TORONTO, March 16. — This spring a man will pay from 25 to 30 per cent more for a new woollen suit than he did last year according to Peterborough Synthetic retailers. And this increase is a reflection of price rises in raw wool of more than a year ago. Since that time, wool has risen even higher. That greater increase may be felt in 1952.

Faced with steadily soaring prices, wool is meeting increased competition from synthetic materials, such as rayon and nylon. More materials appearing on the market are blends; that is, they are a combination of wool and synthetic fibres.

Wool manufacturers feel that the customer still is willing to pay more for the qualities of wool and these manufacturers think the customer will remain that way.

Turn To Make Synthetics

On the other side of the fence are manufacturers who are retaining some of their wool business, but starting synthetic and blend production because of high prices. According to one wholesale tailor, there are at least a dozen mills in Ontario which are producing exclusively rayon material. Two years ago all these mills were turning out wool.

A large utility and sportswear manufacturer says that his firm now makes 70 per cent of its garments from the man-made fibres. "Last year it was 50-50; this year it will be 70-30," he stated.

"More intricate patterns and twists can be made in synthetic materials. Also they can take printing better than wool." Then the manufacturer sighed: "After all this we'd rather work in wool, but prices won't let us. The average person will pay $5.95 for a rayon sports shirt, but he won't pay $10 for a wool one, that may look almost the same."

No Great Resistance

Salesmen in stores state that they are not meeting any great resistance to rayon garments. All agree it is a case of money in the final analysis that determines the buying. Summer stock is roughly on a 50-50 basis, half is rayon, half is wool. These stores are going slowly on rayon buying for winter wear.

The more exclusive men's wear shops are strong endorsers of wool. A designer in an established tailoring firm said that his shop would never use anything but wool as long as it was available. "Synthetics don't tailor up well; they don't have any spring, they are a dead weight on a man's shoulders." He explained that customers their firm catered to would never accept anything but wool.

A wholesale tailor admitted that his firm had gone into blends during the past year, but he added quickly, "99 per cent of the business is pure wool."

He said there was no comparison in quality of wool as opposed to synthetics or blends. "However," he said, "just take a look at prices. This year the cost of wool is at the highest price level in world history. At the time of devaluation we were paying $3.50 to $4 for a yard of wool; today we're paying $7.50 to $8 a yard."

"On top of that," he continued, "you've got costs rising all along the line. More money for wages, for dyes, for transportation, for machinery and everything else. When it's all totalled up we're paying $20 or more above what we paid in 1949 for a single wholesale suit."

Though wool leads the race in textile price increases, blends have risen from $2.55 a yard in 1949 to $5 or more today. This is explained by the fact that a blend has a varying amount of wool mixed with the synthetic fibres. Even synthetics have increased in price, to a dollar or more a yard.

Wary of Synthetics

A menswear retailer for 28 years doesn't know exactly what to do, order synthetics or not. This shop owner is typical of many, who have tried synthetics, seen them sell rapidly, then heard complaints. "I had a dozen suits of high quality rayon," he said, "They disappeared rapidly, but then customers returned saying the suits bagged or sagged or wrinkled."

What is this retailer going to do? "I guess I'll buy more rayon suits. I understand techniques have improved even in the last year. I think they're turning out crease-resistant materials now. So I'll try again." And that's what an increasing number of shop owners—who deal with the average man—are doing.

Midway Heel New

NEW YORK — Heels tell their own story. Coming into greater prominence is the midway heel—giving shoes, from the most lighthearted to the most practical, a sound base of operations. Last makers report a constantly growing demand for shoes with this moderate heel.

It measures about 1¾ inches; and, as manufacturers seize their opportunity and put these heels on dressier shoes, new possibilities open up for their customers and for the walking public.

THERE WAS A TIME when fashion shows were reserved strictly to show off styles and trends for the female species. The Men's Fashion Council of Canada has changed all that and the most recent glittering display of male attire was exhibited for all branches of the clothing industry at the Men's Apparel Fair, in Montreal, reputed the largest of its kind in the world. Photo at left shows the latest suit style for the well-dressed man, a miniature check in light grey and blue, in single-breasted two-button lounge. Trim, what! In the centre photo, Mr. Man-About-Town steps out with milady in the correct morning suit attire. Don' look now, but the apparel in the photo at right is a male negligee! Sleeveless and collarless to be worn over pyjamas, this creation comes in two tones.

Men Know Your Type When Buying A New Hat

There are hats and hats. But no man should rush into a store and buy "just any hat." For each type of man there is a certain kind of hat, so the best rule in hat-buying is to know your type.

The tall, slender, lean-jawed fellow should look for a hat that will break up the long, lean lines of his face and figure. Also he should find a hat that will not make him look "all hat."

First of all, he should choose a tapered crown, rather than a full, square crown. It will balance the lean jaw and make the hat look like part of the face. A medium-height crown is best, enough to keep the hat in proportion without making him look like a steeple. Most becoming hats with this crown are: the pork pie and the homburg.

The brim should be medium-width though if the wearer is tall, he can carry a wider brim. A medium-width band is usually best, with the band in a contrasting color. If the hat is in worn at a slight side-tilt, it breaks up the long straight lines of the body.

Needs a Big Hat

Then there is the big man in the crowd. He needs a hat which balances his 200 pounds. He wants a hat that isn't skimpy.

The crown should be full and square, not tapered. There is no need for a high crown and exaggeration of his height. A medium-height crown is quite adequate. If the face is full, avoid pinching the crown to a point at the front. It may make the hat look too small.

The big man can wear a wide brim, almost as wide as he likes. Be sure the brim is snapped full across from side to side, not just bent down in the centre. He can wear a narrow band becomingly and a matched band. There is no danger of making the crown area look too big. Best hat for this type is the full-crown homburg, with fairly wide brim, flat-set on the sides.

The short slender man looks best in a hat, because when he's wearing one, he takes on added stature. The crown should be tapered. It will balance the slender face and figure; he can wear a crown of reasonable height, hence building him up.

The turned-up brim is the best bet for making him look taller. If snap-brim is wanted, it should be rather flat-set; the deep snap over the eyes is undesirable. A brim should be moderate width—too wide will be out of proportion, and too narrow will make him look like a little boy. The band should be of contrasting color.

Look Taller

The short plump man usually wants to look taller and thinner. By choosing a hat—with moderation in mind—he can achieve this to some extent. A medium-height crown with a very slight taper is best. If the plump man wears a full crown it will make the figure look squatty, while an extreme taper would emphasize the full face.

A medium-width brim is the answer when it comes to brims. If the brim on the hat is turned up, it makes the wearer happy, because he looks taller. When a homburg is worn, it should be flat-set, avoiding extreme high roll at sides. It is suggested that when a snap-brim is worn it should be moderately well back on the head. If pulled down over the eyes it shortens the face and squats down the figure.

For Irregular Faces

There are other hints for irregular faces:

The top-heavy face: That is the man with a big head size, a wide brow and narrow face and chin. He should avoid the high full crown; the wide flat brim, and the wide, highly-colored or conspicuous band.

The pear-shaped face: This describes the man with a small head-size and wider cheeks and jowls. He should steer clear of a tight-brim and narrow front snap.

Big ears: This man should beware of the homburg and off-the-face effects which leave the ears standing out by themselves.

Long nose: To break the long line from the top of the crown to the tip of the nose, this man should wear his hat on a side tilt and avoid the high tapered crown and the very narrow front brim.

Receding chin: The hat should be worn fairly level from back to front. Stay away from high full crowns and the deep snapped brim.

Prominent jaw: Hat should not be worn pulled forward or pushed back too far; wear it fairly level, with a side tilt. Avoid the full high crown and extreme narrow brim.

Drop That Glove

When washing leather gloves, such as doeskin and chamois, do not put them on your hands. Wash them in warm sudsy water and rinse in soapy water. Then, while they are still damp, put them on and soften with your fingers.

Transparent Buttons

LONDON, Eng.—Digby Morton complemented his tweeds and checks with transparent plastic buttons rimmed in plain color, which reveal the color and texture of the fabric through the transparent top. His jackets are shorter than last year, and skirts 15 inches from the floor.

Buttons, collars and cuffs, and lapels march around the clock this season. Collar and cuffs and pocket flaps of corde embroidery are accents on a softly glowing chiffon redingote in Digby Morton's collection.

Straps on Shoes Designed To Add Interest, And Ease

Straps ranging from spaghetti thin cords on after-five shoes to wide sabot straps on casuals and wedges have been designed to add interest and ease to this spring's popular bare - minimum styles, without detracting from the pretty, lighter look of the season. Pumps are still stripped down to mere shells this year, have added detail interest, say the U.S. National Shoe Institute.

On a shell-cut high-heeled pump of dark linen etched with pinpoint white nailheads, a tapering strap is draped assymetrically across the toe and buttoned to one side. A walking shoe of bright brown suede with the favored midheel height, has a narrow self-strap across the instep which also buttons on the outside of the shoe.

T-Strap Returns

Interest in strapped shoes has revived an old favorite, the T-strap. Newest version of the T-strap is slightly off-centre, surprisingly flattering, and also in keeping with the assymetrical cut of the shoe.

Anklestrap sandals have been tastefully handled this year for dressy afternoon and after-five wear—these in a variety of bright and pale kids, sparkling patents and fabrics like shantung, silk crepe and linen.

Straps become mere strips in the bare sandals of this spring and summer. Strips of kid, patent and linen are contrived in pretty patterns which look delicate and feminine, with short light-colored party dresses and have the added boon of coolness.

Not A Vest To Be Seen In Showing Of New Suits

MONTREAL—Trim, light and bright, that's the nutshell description of garments to be worn by the fashionable male in the next 12 months, as revealed at the glittering style show in Montreal recently.

The show—the first big splash in Canada of the new style cycle for men—features the single-breasted, two-button, notch lapel coat.

Officially the style is known as American Lounge, as explained by Charles B. Stibbard of Toronto, chairman of the style show.

Some 40 garments, the product of leading Montreal and Toronto manufacturers, were displayed here. With few exceptions, the cloth in all costumes was wool.

Not a vest was to be seen in the array of business and town suits, all of which had the high, square effect at the shoulder and the front waist suppression. The absence of vests, it was pointed out, was still further evidence of the trend toward trim comfort.

Among business suits, pattern highlight was the use of miniature checks, with greys predominant. These checks will be carried into topcoats for spring. And, among spring topcoats, was the return of the old favorite; the raglan coat with balmaccan collar.

Tasteful Combination

The lighter and brighter aspect of men's clothing will find full sway in summer suitings and casual outfits. Women fashion experts at the style show were especially enthusiastic about the tasteful color combinations submitted at the fair. With one exception—a mohair and wool fabric—all lightweight suits were tropical worsteds. Every model was single-breasted.

Unusual casual coat combinations included the following: An ocelot-designed fabric which resembled velveteen; a banana yellow jacket with contrasting coat with a dog chain belt, worn in this case with a light navy coat. There was a rayon shirt, called the Souvenir Shirt; it bears a photomontage of scenes dear to the tourist's heart in Canada.

There will be no lack of unusual clothes available for the man of style who entertains at home or in the country club. He can have a white single-breasted coat, wearing it with a tartan cummerbund, paired with cruise-blue dinner trousers in which the trouser stripe on each pant leg is of Mardhing tartan.

Another interesting ensemble was a miniature check dinner coat with a fine cord silk lapel. Underneath this one-button garment was a vest-style cummerbund. Regular dress trousers and accessories complete dthe ensemble. All these dinner clothes have one thing in common: the single-breasted shawl collar.

Footwear in a variety of colors, ranging from deep green to blue and brown combinations, complemented the new day and evening attire. Highlights were the first all-Canadian wedgies, with neat, built-in heels tartan-trimmed casuals to go with tartan jackets, and an increased use of nylon meshes for summer shoes. Almost the only tribute to tradition was the standard patent leather evening shoe which is still considered correct, even with white dinner jacket and black trousers.

Shades of Caesar In New Sandals

NEW YORK— If you look over play shoes you may easily fancy yourself back in ancient Rome. Caesar himself could not have had sandals with more varied lacings. But he must have worn sandals without the comfortable rubber soles which give bounce to the summer lines for 1951.

Colors play their part in the sandal broadly and range from orange ond coral to turquoise, to lilac, to chartreuse. It's easy to sell yourself on the necessity for several pairs, particularly as the rubber soles of sandals to come may be less bouncy, shall we say now that the army has begun its heavy rubber stockpiling again.

Left Accident Scene, Police Charge

John Dinsdale, 30, 537 Armour Rd., was charged in police court today with leaving the scene of an accident following a collision at Sherbrooke and Aylmer Sts. Wednesday night about 11 o'clock. He was remanded one week on $200 bail.

Police were called Wednesday night to the bus depot parking lot on King St. near Aylmer St. where they found Dinsdale's car beside a car owned by Lauri Hainonan, 297 McDonnel St.

Hainonan told police he had been involved in an accident with Dinsdale at Sherbrooke and Aylmer Sts. a short time before.

He told police he had to chase Dinsdale's car after the accident to the King St. lot before Dinsdale stopped.

Hainonan said he had been driving north on Aylmer St. and noticed a car stopped on Sherbrooke St. waiting for him to pass. As he passed in front of this car, another car shot out beside the stopped car going east on Sherbrooke St. and swung left in to Aylmer St.

Police fixed the point of impact north of Sherbrooke St. near the centre of Aylmer St. There was a deep gouge on the rear of the right front fender of Dindsdale's car.

Police reported Dindsdale said he didn't know there had been an accident. They also reported that Dinsdale had been drinking, but was not drunk.

Constables Andre Dalton and Sherman Keliele investigated.

Missionaries Deny Direct Pressure

LONDON, March 15 (CP). — Four Canadian missionaries who abandoned their work in Communist China said Wednesday night their departure was not the result of direct pressure from the Reds.

The Canadians were in a group of 29 adults and 16 children that reached Britain by chartered plane. The group, which also included seven Americans, represented six countries.

J. David Harrison of Toronto, said the Chinese remained friendly to them right up to the time they left.

The Toronto missionary said at least 300 colleagues still are in China but hope to be able to leave soon.

Harrison was accompanied by his wife. Other Canadians in the group were Henry Owen, his wife and three children, of Montreal; Albert Grant and his wife and child of Three Hills, Alta.; and John Posno, a Dutch citizen who has lived in Canada most of his life.

Richard C. Fife Dies In Edmonton

News was received today of the burial of the late Richard Carter Fife, of Edmonton, on March 5. The Rev. R. Hinchey, of an Edmonton United Church officiated and burial was at Mount Pleasant cemetery.

He leaves his wife, the former Elizabeth Ferguson, one daughter, Mrs A. Brown (Ethel Agnes), and a son, John Fife, all of Edmonton. A sister, Miss Phoebe Fife, and a brother, Charles, both live in Peterborough.

Push-Button Microscope

DURHAM, N. C., March 15 — (AP).—A push-button microscope to speed cancer research was announced Wednesday at Duke University. This instrument makes it possible to look at 4,000 cancer material slides a day where the previous limit was about 1,000. The slides are stacked like playing cards at one side. One push of a button and the instrument does everything except the looking.

Woman's Leg Broken When Struck By Car

Mrs. Melville Mackie, 418 Water St., was knocked down by a car driven by Vincent Eastwood, Sr., 408 Belmont St., and had her right leg fractured about 2:40 p.m. Wednesday at Water and Simcoe streets.

Eastwood was driving east on Simcoe St. Mrs. Mackie was walking south across Simcoe St. on Water St. in the crosswalk. Constable Louis Rodreque reported that the woman was hit about 11 feet six inches from the south sidewalk.

Eastwood and Carl Maloney, RR 9, Peterborough, picked up Mrs. Mackie and carried her into the police station.

Dr. John H. Fraser was called and he ordered Mrs. Mackie taken to Civic Hospital. Authorities reported today that her condition was very much improved.

One of the largest funerals in the Sacred Heart Church filled the church to overflowing on Wednesday morning when requiem high mass was said for the late John Baptiste O'Dette of Lock St., who died on Monday at the age of 88 years. Floral and spiritual tributes from relatives and friends marked the respect to Peterborough's master boat builder.

The Rev. Dr. F. M. Grant was celebrant of the mass and in the sanctuary were Rt. Rev. Msgr. P. P. Butler and the Revs. W. C. McCarney and Vincent Corkery.

Pallbearers were Girard and James O'Dette, Robert and William Jones, Barry Thirnbeck and John Sweeney. Graveside prayers were said by Revs. Grant and McCarney and burial was at St. Peter's cemetery.

Canadian Writers Should Be Encouraged

MONTREAL, March 15 (CP)— If encouragement is not forthcoming for Canadian writers they can not be blamed for trying to make their living in the United States, R. D. Hilton Smith, deputy chief librarian of Toronto Public Library, today told the Rotary Club of Montreal.

In an address prepared for delivery before a luncheon meeting, Mr. Smith said that 172 Canadian authors reported to the insurance tax collector in 1948. Of these two earned over $10,000 while 10 earned $8,000 and up; 30 from $4,000 to $7,000; 10 from $3,000 to $4,000; while more than 50 per cent of the remainder earned less than $2,000.

Police Take Over

BERLIN, March 15 (Reuters)— The West Berlin newspaper Der Telegraf, says today that strong forces of East German police have been sent to 20 villages in Thuringia after "serious differences" between villagers and communist officials over compulsory food collections.

Frankfort People Phone For Time, News, Lunch Tips

FRANKFORT, March 15 (AP). —When a housewife in Stuttgart, Germany, runs out of ideas on what to cook, she simply dials 995 on her telephone.

She is given a complete, well-balanced menu for lunch or dinner, and advice on how to cook it.

This is the latest development in a fad of automatic telephone programs sweeping Western Germany.

It's done with tape or wire recordings, which play constantly, over and over, any bit of information or entertainment you want to put on them.

Telephone subscribers can dial a given number, listen as long as they like, then hang up.

In Berlin, a twist of the dial brings the latest news, compiled by the official U.S. radio station, RIAS.

This is especially handy for Germans living in the Communist sectors of Berlin who don't want to be caught listening to American news broadcasts.

Speaking Course In Sixth Week

At the mid-term point in its 12-week effective speaking course the Junior Chamber of Commerce launched into speaking assignments for course members.

One - minute speeches were given by Frank McDonald, Peterborough's Summer Theatre; Ron Balaam, My Job; and Bruce Edwards, Community Chest Canvassing.

The Governor signed the measure a few minutes after labor forces in the Nevada Assembly had lost a last-ditch attempt to recall the measure from the governor's office on the basis of a technical error discovered in the legislative procedure.

False Pretenses Case Dismissed

A charge of false pretences against Marvin Armstrong, Smith township, involving a cheque given to Percy Archer, operator of a service station in Lakefield, was dismissed in police court today. This is one of 21 cases of forgery and false pretences being heard.

Archer said he gave Armstrong about $5 worth of gas, oil and anti-freeze and about $20 in cash for a $25 cheque, Armstrong said was signed by his mother. A few days later it was returned to him marked not sufficient funds.

Defending Armstrong, J. C. N. Currelly, argued that the crown had nbt established a case because Archer did not swear to the date the cheque was presented by Armstrong. It may have been a post-dated cheque, said Mr. Currelly. If that were the case, no charge of false pretences could stand up.

Archer's testimony concerning the date Armstrong presented the cheque to him was "I would say it was the day it was presented. I wouldn't exactly swear to it, but it would be my records."

"I think that's a good defence," said Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC.

Dairy Industry Fails To Back Research

SASKATOON, March 15 (CP) The Canadian dairy industry has spent practically nothing on reseach, a federal government official said yesterday.

D. B. Goodwillie of the Federal Agriculture Department spoke in a panel discussion at the National Dairy Council of Canada convention.

Other speakers expressed similar views, the consensus being that manufacturers of dairy products had largely let the universities and the federal agricultural agencies think out the moves to benefit the industry.

Mr. Goodwillie said that if the dairy industry operated like some industrial concerns in using half of one per cent of the value of the goods sold for this purpose it would be spending about $3,000,000 a year on research.

He said the industry could not even list any major problems that researchers might take up for the benefit of the industry.

Otonabee School Teachers Get Salary Increase

Public school teachers in the Otonabee school area have received an increase in salary. Increases have also been approved in Norwood and Belmont School Area, No. 2.

Minimum scheduled salary for the 13 Otonabee teachers is now $1,800 with an increment of $100 after four months, and then an annual January 1 increment of $100 until the salary is $2,100. The increment is then boosted to $200, with the maximum scheduled salary of $2,300.

An extra $100 is given when the teacher obtains a first-class certificate.

The new schedule is retroactive to January 1.

Modified schedules have been adopted for the six teachers in the five schools in School Area No. 2, Belmont, and the six teachers in the Norwood public school.

In both, the minimum and maximum salaries are the same as Otonabee, but the increment after $2,100, unlike Otonabee, remains at $100 a year. A first-class certificate nets a Belmont teacher an extra $100, but in Norwood the amount is $50.

In all cases allowance is made for experience at a rate of $50 a year up to six years.

Youths Bailed On Theft Charge

Two youths, Clifford Johnson, 16, 650 Armour Rd., and Paul Thompson, 18, 125 Hazlitt St., were charged in police court today with stealing tires and rims and breaking into a service station.

Two other youths, Douglas Johnson, Armour Rd., and Kenneth Meeks, 18, 332 Euclid Ave., were arrested Wednesday night in Toronto in connection with the same offences. They are being brought to Peterborough today.

Thompson was charged with stealing tires and rims on March 5 from Nick Peconi, Lansdowne St. used car dealer.

He was also charged with breaking into the Hec Gray service station on Reid St. Feb. 18. He was remanded on $500 bail to March 22.

Clifford Johnson, was charged with breaking into the same service station with Thompson. He was also remanded on $500 bail.

Criticizes New Law For Equality Of Pay

GUELPH, March 15 (CP). — L. T. Splading of Hamilton, secretary of Ontario Urban and Rural School Trustees' Association, Wednesday criticized provincial legislation designed to give women equality of pay with men.

At an association zone rally here, he said, the new legislation "is going to give trustees and educators many headaches. The Minister of Education should be asked to determine the formula for evaluating this asinine piece of lawmaking."

The meeting also called for blacklisting of teachers who participate or threaten to participate in mass resignations.

WHILE THE SUPREME SOVIET DEBATES on its highest budget in history—including more "defense spending" work goes ahead on the great industrial chain which Russia is forging from the boundaries of Eastern Europe to the North Pacific coast. The Newsmap above gives known highlights of the Soviet program, much of which has been built in great haste since the end of World War II. Military secrecy shrouds most of what is going on in Northern Siberia, but it is known that the Reds have been converting the vast Arctic wasteland into a great military bastion.

See Eskimo Population Up

WINNIPEG —(CP)— A big increase in Canada's Eskimo population is foreseen by James W. Anderson, manager of the Ungava section of the Hudson's Bay Company fur trade department.

In an address here, Mr. Anderson said the population will grow as the white man's medical services move in to counteract the Eskimo's diseases. Only the high infant mortality rate had held down the population up to now.

Mr. Anderson said the federal government accordingly is establishing man-and-wife teams through the north, with the man teacher and welfare officer and his wife a nurse.

Addition of Newfoundland to the Canadian Confederation has brought some 2,000 Labrador Eskimos into Canada's Eskimo community to make the total about 10,000.

Mr. Anderson said 700 or 800 Labrador Eskimos live inland off Caribou. The remainder are coast dwellers, depending on the seal fisheries.

To these Arctic natives the seal means food, clothing, heat, light and transportation. Their only commercial commodity available for sale in quantity to the rest of Canada is the white or Arctic fox.

Canadian's Girl Waiting After "23 Missing Years"

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON, March 15 —(CP)— A Canadian cattle farmer who came back to Britain to catch up on 23 missing years goes home to Winnipeg today convinced that patience has had its just reward.

In 1917, shellfire tumbled 19-year-old Walter Keenan into the mud of Passchendaele and dotted his spine with shrapnel. Complications developed and Keenan, a kilted infantryman in a Toronto regiment, spent hours gazing at the ceilings of hospitals in Ontario and Monitoba.

In 23 years, the soft-spoken soldier, who was born in Stoney Point, Ont., and now farms near Winnipeg, was outside hospital only three months. He lost touch with Ruth Cork, the English girl he met in Folkestone the year he was wounded. Other friends stopped writing. But Keenan promised himself that if he ever got well he would go back.

Girl Still Waiting

He finally made it this year, two years after his final discharge from hospital. He renewed most of his old acquaintances. Even Miss Cork was still there, still single and still willing to marry him.

"I certainly caught up on the lost years," said Keenan. "We haven't decided when or where we will be married, but when we do we hope to settle down in Winnipeg."

The "man who came back" has other things to compensate for the 23 years away from the world. He went to the races at nearby Lingfield one day and stood just a few feet away from the Queen. "Everybody in Winnipeg," he says, "would have given $100 to have stood where I was."

In a way, the old soldier feels that he has a special link with royalty. He has never forgotten "that wonderful moment" in 1919 when he was presented to the Prince of Wales, now the Duke of Windsor, at Toronto city hall.

Romance and royalty apart, Keenan will never forget his two-month holiday in Britain. On the boat from Canada, he shared a cabin with Russell Dawson of Cartwright, Man. The two had never met before and were going to different countries. Last week, on London's Fleet Street, Keenan paused to ask directions. The man he asked was Dawson, back in London from a trip to continental countries.

Government Bills To Get Priority

OTTAWA, March 15 —(CP)— Prime Minister St. Laurent informed the Commons Wednesday that measures advocated by the government soon will occupy most of members' time.

He placed on the order paper notice of a motion to give priority to government measures on Wednesdays, starting a week from today. This move traditionally is a sign that the session is really getting into stride.

It will remove another period in which measures advocated by private members have held sway in recent weeks.

The House now will have only two hours a week for business advocated by back-benchers. In past weeks, that business has occupied the House for considerably longer periods.

Truck Drivers Corner Purse-Snatcher, 24

TORONTO, March 15 —(CP)— Two department-store truck drivers captured John Deveault, 24, of Thessalon, Ont., Tuesday night, shortly after the cashier of a car-washing firm had a shoulder bag containing $99 ripped from her arm.

Deveault was charged with robbery with violence. He told police he had been robbed shortly after his arrival in Toronto last weekend and had only a ham sandwich to eat in three days.

The truck drivers cornered Deveault in a lane on mid-town Hayter Street shortly after they were attracted by the girl's screams. Her purse, containing petty cash funds belonging to her employer, was recovered.

Daley Seeks To Settle Strike In Flour Mill

PORT COLBORNE, March 15 —(CP)— Labor Minister Daley of Ontario today moved to attempt a settlement of the strike of United Packing House Workers of America at Robin Hood Flour Mills Ltd. He instructed the company and union to send representatives for a conference at his Toronto office.

The strike involving some 160 men, started two weeks ago in the midst of negotiations for a new contract. On two occasions the men returned to work for brief periods and negotiations were resumed, but efforts of A. C. Dennis, Ontario Labor Relations Board conciliator, failed to bring about an agreement. The strike has continued uninterrupted for the past week.

Chinese Reds Say Russia May Help

TAIPEI, Formosa, March 15—(AP)— The Chinese Nationalist defence ministry today asserted Russia might give the Chinese Reds air and naval support in Korea to hold at the 38th parallel.

The ministry said 600 Soviet fighter planes and bombers had arrived in Manchuria, but had not been thrown into the Korean war because of a fuel shortage.

The shortage was being remedied, it added, by shipments via the Trans-Siberian Railroad.

It also asserted the Communist supply system was being reinforced by 5,000 heavy Russian trucks, of which 2,500 were reported in Manchuria.

Per-Pupil Grant Asked From Ottawa

TORONTO, March 15 —(CP)— The Canadian Teachers' Federation today called for federal aid to correct inequalities in the Canadian school system.

In a 15-page brochure, the federation urged that Ottawa pay the provinces a per-pupil grant to improve school standards. At present, some provinces could not afford to spend as much on education as others and rural districts were unable to spend as much as cities.

The result was "an educational patchwork," with the quality of a child's schooling depending on where he lived.

Proud of Uniform

REGINA —(CP)— A private of the Princess Patricias, discharged for medical reasons, appeared as a witness in a court case here and counsel asked if he was proud of the new civilian clothes the army gave him on discharge. "Not as proud as I am of this khaki suit," he said with a glance at the uniform he was still wearing.

Saris Copied In Cottons

Not all the news that emanates from the East and the Orient is grim and forbidding.

There's dramatic, exciting fashion news from these mysterious spots of the world, that make other headlines, too.

Fashion points up bright notes from India, China and other Near-and-Far Eastern regions.

Persian and Javanese prints... bayadere stripes and Balinese prints are played up in bright colors and exciting fabrics.

The "choli" jacket of India is a favored blouse influence. The fine saris of India have been copied in cotton prints, and the superlative silks of Siam are used for play and dress fashions.

The world of fashion knows no political boundaries...for fashion is an international language that speaks only of beauty and excitement!

Both Cripples, Pair To Wed

NORTH BAY, March 15 (CP)—Gren Barton, a 26-year-old divisional clerk with the Ontario Lands Department, and Katherine Cassels of Toronto, secretary of the Canadian Paraplegic Association, will be married in June.

Gren was paralyzed from the waist down at the age of 15 by dermatomyocitis, a rare muscular and nerve disease. Katherine, daughter of Hamilton Cassels, Toronto lawyer, has used crutches ever since she suffered an attack of poliomyelitis at the age of 10.

They met two years ago, towards the end of Barton's 10-year stay at Lyndhurst Lodge, Toronto's rehabilitation centre for paraplegics.

At the Lodge, Barton learned how to use a wheel chair, how to lift a cigaret to his lips, and received a practical and classical education that taught him how to make the best use of his body and mind.

His fiancee, a frequent visitor to the Lodge, met Gren there. He invited her to go to a play, and their friendship grew.

"We decided nothing was going to stop us," said Gren.

Back in North Bay in February of last year, trained in business practice, and "everything that can be done in a wheel chair," he got a job with the Department of Lands and Forests.

He has bought a house in nearby West Ferris and it needs only minor adjustments to make it "perfect" for the couple.

THE CHARMING MODEL from EATON'S Ready-to-Wear Department, Mrs. A. Stewart, is shown in a combination of two of the season's most fashionable colours . . . grey, in the darker tones, and violet! The suit is in grey wool flannel with top in two-tones of grey stripe — double breasted. Carrying out the plain grey of the skirt are cuffs, collar and lapels. The flowers and straw hat are in matching violet — purse and gloves are black kid leather. The new silhouette "Pyramid" Coat featuring little shoulder padding, sweeps full from the stand-up collar, and is of the same violet tone in soft, textured wool.

Pyramette Tops In New Toppers

"Pyramette" is the topper version of the "Pyramid", the flaring, swashbuckling coat silhouette that was born in Paris and is having such a successful career here.

"Pyramette" goes to any length to please you and to complement your spring wardrobe. It may be barely waistlength — or it may be the newest length of all: seven-eighths length, showing just a few inches of your skirt beneath.

It looks newest with rounded shoulders, deep arm-holes, and sleeves that may be pushed up to three-quarter length. It looks most Parisian when it has no collar at all, or a narrow stand-up cuff of a Mandarin collar.

Of all the good mixers in your wardrobe, "Pyramette" is the most adaptable. It goes to town over your spring suit or dress; it goes to parties over your formals. No wonder "Pyramette" is the darling of two continents, the topper of the year.

Peruvian Girl Singing Marvel

NEW YORK (AP)—The Peruvian singing marvel, Yma Sumac, goes into a kind of self-hynosis when she sings. She comleptely forgets the audience and those around her on the stage.

"I do not see the theatre at all," she says. "I sing and am at home among my own people. I see only the mountains and my own tiny village. This is the only way I know how to sing."

It's a pretty good way. Her record of "Voice of the Xtabay" has been among the top three because of the remarkably wide range of her voice

The singer explained that her range covers five octaves—all the way from "B natural" three lines below the staff to "A sharp" four lines above the staff.

Miss Sumac says that is her natural voice; she's been singing that way since she was 10 and never had a musical lesson. It's just as easy for her to sing contralto as to sing a coloratura soprano.

She is 23 years old, a native of the tiny village of Ichocan high in the Peruvian Andes. She was married at the age of 14 to Moises Vivanco, a composer who realized her great talent and brought her down to the cities. She has toured South America, appeared at the Hollywood Bowl and performed on radio and television in the United States. She is the mother of a two-year-old son.

New BOND CLOTHES Appointments

In line with their basic policy of continuous improvement in the quality of BOND Tailored-to-Measure clothing, Mr. George Scott, President of BOND CLOTHES SHOPS, announces the appointment of Mr. Maurice Fogel (left) as the new head of the enlarged Designing and Styling Department, and Mr. Hyman Ashkenazy as Plant Supervisor in charge of quality control. Both men have extensive clothing experience and have been well known in the industry for many years.

Matching Clothes For Men, Women

NEW YORK—Spring has suddenly become the mating season for men's and women's wardrobes.

There are more "look-alike" clothes for lover-or-like couples than ever before in fashion history.

For instance, a man and his mate may now have matching sport suits, in tweeds, worsteds and gabardines.

They may buy identically printed ties (four-in-hands for the men, bow-ties for the women) in a variety of price ranges.

They may also show mutual-mode affections in sweaters, cufflinks, pyjamas, belts and skirts.

And for business couples, there are even ladies' handbags matched to men's briefcases.

THE "SILKEN LOOK" is a spring fashion feature. Here it is presented in a cardigan jacket suit of men's wear suiting.

US Troops Crush Desperate Reds In Artillery Duel

TOKYO, March 16. (AP)—United States troops overwhelmed desperate Communists in a roaring artillery duel on the Korean front today and then crashed ahead for new gains. The Reds threw their heaviest artillery fire of the war. Americans answered with a barrage that out-thundered the Reds, 50 shells to one. The drive carried an American division onto high ground north of Hongchon, an important road hub 20 miles south of Parallel 38.

Earlier Friday the Reds abruptly halted their eight-day retreat on the Central front. They turned on the Allies with their heaviest artillery barrage yet.

Then came the roaring American echo. United Nations warplanes joined in the blasting with rockets, firebombs and machine-guns.

The Allied answer to the Communist stand boomed throughout most of Friday.

Front dispatches did not give the distance of the American advance.

Throw In Reserves

But they said that Chinese Communists had thrown reserves into the fight north of Hongchon. Elements of the Thirty-Ninth and Fortieth Chinese Communist Armies were identified in action there. The units last were reported farther east in February.

The defence line the Reds were trying to set up was roughly 20 miles south of the parallel that used to separate Communist North and Republican South Korea.

It stretched across Korea for 30 miles. Its keystone is the Chinese field headquarters at Chungchon.

Elsewhere along the fighting front, Red opposition crumbled, allied infantry moved northward.

On the central front, the Reds gave up Hongchon to the allies without a fight.

American tanks and infantrymen rolled into almost-deserted Hongchon Thursday against light, scattered small arms fire.

Only five civilians were on hand to greet the Americans. Last week the city, normally of 15,000 population, held 40,000 Red troops.

Plan Suggested To Put CNR On Financial Feet

OTTAWA, March 16—(CP)—A multi-million-dollar financial reorganization aimed at getting the debt-burdened Canadian National Railways back on its financial feet was recommended Thursday by the Royal Commission on Transportation.

In its findings submitted to parliament, the Commission largely rejected a C.N.R. sponsored $1,000,000,000 plan for recapitalization and devised a scheme of its own which it said should give the government-owned company a stable capital structure.

The plan would sharply scale down the C.N.R.'s deficit-producing fixed charges, though not to the extent of $31,000,000 a year as sought by company president Donald Gordon.

Basic difference is that the Commission's plan would leave the company obligated to pay interest charges on its government debt in surplus years, while the company's would have improved its position by about $31,000,000 every year with no interest at all paid the government.

Change In Newfoundland

However, the Commission's proposals would free the company of the deficit on its Newfoundland services, estmated at about $4,000,000 a year, and also would permit it to retain part of any annual surplusses which now are turned over wholly to the Federal treasury.

The C.N.R.'s original scheme had been fought by the Canadian Pacific Railway on the ground it might eventually endanger the financial standing of the privately-owned company, and the Commission said its revised plan would give the Canadian Pacific the protection to which it is entitled.

It threw out a proposal of the C.N.R. that the government set up for it a capital fund of $300,000,000 bearing three-per-cent interest in recognition of the government's "indebtedness" to the company in assuming the burden of unproductive and debt-laden lines.

Debt Conversion

Cornerstone of the Commission's scheme would be the conversion of the government-held CNR debt of $734,000,000 from fixed-interest securities to "income bonds." The fixed-interest provision now makes a demand of about $22,000,000 a year on the CNR's annual revenues.

The income bonds would bear three percent interest—also about $22,000,000 — but this would be payable only in years when it was

To Decide Fate Of Newspaper

BUENOS AIRES, March 16 — (AP).—The Argentine Congress, dominated by President Juan D. Peron's Peronista party, goes into special session this afternoon to decide the fate of the party's chief newspaper critic, the independent La Prensa.

There were widespread reports Congress would attempt to legislate the newspaper out of business, either through expropriation or through some form of intervention.

A resolution by a member of the radical party minority condemns the closure as a violation of press freedom.

Most of the radical party members were caught out of town by Peron's decree yesterday calling a special session. Previously Congress had not been scheduled to meet until May 1.

Strike Paralyzes Traffic In Paris

PARIS, March 16 (AP).—Traffic was snarled hopelessly at some Paris intersections this morning as the city tried to carry on its business without bus or underground lines. First reports said the tie-up was complete.

Employees of the government-owned transport systems Thursday voted to walk out in support of their demands for a 6,000 franc (about $17) a month salary increase.

Well-informed political observers predicted the strike will last several days, perhaps a week.

Gun Fight Ends Prison Break

ST. JOHNS, Ariz., March 16—(AP)—A wildwest-style gun fight has written the final chapter in the career of Dewey Battershaw, widely-known Omaha, Neb., jailbreaker.

Battershaw, 21, fell before the guns of sheriff's deputies in a battle eight miles west of here late Thursday. His two companions, Clifford Battershaw, a 17-year-old younger brother, and Victor Sweet, 24, were captured.

All three were wanted for a jailbreak at Omaha March 4. The younger Battershaw, wielding a pistol, aided the other two in gaining their freedom.

Their fight with police here ended in a battle from tree to tree across cedar-studded countryside.

Explosion On Ship Kills 7, Injures 51

NAPLES, March 16 (AP). — A violent explosion aboard the 10,000-ton Italian ship Montalegro in Naples harbor split the vessel in two and killed seven persons. The first count of injured totalled 51 with 20 sent to hospital.

The blast was believed to have been caused by a bursting oil tank. The ship was undergoing repairs and about 100 workmen, besides the crew, were aboard at the time.

Inquiry Causes Bigger Stir Than Old Gangland Wars

NEW YORK, Feb. 16—(CP)—A widely-publicized, highly-televised quiz of big-shot racketeers has caused a bigger stir in New York than any gangland episode in the swashbuckling days of prohibition.

Since the senate crime investigating committee met here Monday to put a string of top gamblers on the grill, many housewives have left the dishes in the sink and forgotten their Easter shopping to watch the TV screen.

Television cameras and microphones in the tiny courtroom where the committe is meeting have brought into thousands of homes the images and voices of some of the men who are called the overlords of America's underworld.

Some business men have neglected their offices to watch TV screens in nearby bars. Street sales of newspapers, bulging with pictures and testimony about big-time gambling have zoomed. There are 2,500,000 TV sets in the New York area.

Cause of all the fuss is Senator Estes Kefauver's committee which started across the United States 10 months ago to investigate organized crime.

A fortnight ago it reported evidence that mobsters have bribed and threatened their way into all levels of government to gain protection for their rackets. Now it is sitting in New York to extract more information on the operations of crime syndicates. The day gambler Frank Costello appeared before the committee, one group of New York stores reported a 23- per cent drop in sales.

His refusal to be televized only heightened interest. The cameras, turned away from his face, focussed on his twitching fingers and TV viewers saw what newspapers described as "the ballet of the hands."

5 Policemen Fight Speed Charge

Not Properly Clocked Judge Told, Case Poorly Handled

LONDON, Ont., March 16. (CP) — Charging that they were not properly clocked, five Toronto policemen today pleaded not guilty to speeding charges in county magistrate's court.

They were charged following a Provincial Police crackdown earlier this month on drivers convoying new cars from Windsor to Toronto.

One officer said he felt the investigation had been handled improperly and not in the manner he "had been taught" as a Toronto police officer.

Magistrate E. J. R. Wright reserved judgment until March 20.

Charged are Robert Edwin Cooper, Frederick T. Wootton, Norman Hall Hukish, James Lawrence Keay and Roscoe Davidson.

Provincial constable Alex Patterson said he followed six cars from Lambeth toward London and estimated their speed by his speedometer at between 60 and 65 miles an hour, over a two-mile stretch. He said that at only one point did their speed drop below 50 miles an hour.

Fireman Pays

A Toronto fireman who had been similarly charged paid a $5 fine out of court Thursday.

The officers testifying in turn said that a speedometer was hooked up on only one of the five cars, but all estimated their speeds at not more than 50 in 50-mile-an-hour zones and not more than 30 in 30-mile-an-hour zones.

Keay said the car on which the speedometer was operating was supposed to be the pace setter but that he had passed it at one point.

The officers said they left Windsor at 8:25 a.m., stopped for breakfast for almost an hour, and were stopped in London at 12:05 p.m.

To questions by Magistrate Wright, Cooper said he felt Patterson's investigation was "inefficient and improper."

71 mph Gale Rocks Calgary

CALGARY, March 16 (CP)—A howling gale that at times reached speeds of 71 miles an hour roared into Calgary from the Pacific coast late Thursday night.

The winds brought traffic to a standstill, blew down the wall of one building and telephone and electric light wires, and isolated hundreds of people throughout the city. Many residents spent the night with the friends they happened to be visiting when the storm broke.

Transportation was hardest hit with city transit system buses bogged down and most taxi firms pulling their cabs off the streets as driving snow cut visibility to a few feet.

Insist International Court Settle Oil

Britain Tells Iran She Has No Right To Nationalize UK Holdings

LONDON, March 16—(AP)—Britain has told Iran that any dispute over the rich Anglo-Iranian Oil Company concessions must go before the International Court of Justice.

In a note delivered to Iranian Premier Hussein Ala Wednesday, Britain also asserted that Iran legally could not nationalize the holdings of the Middle East's largest oil concern.

The note was made public today by the Foreign Office. It was delivered to the Iranian Prime Minister the day before the Majlis (parliament) of Iran voted to nationalize the country's oil resources.

The Anglo-Iranian Company, controlled by the British government, which owns 52.5 per cent of its common stock, holds a 100,000-square mile oil concession which expires in 1993.

Britain obtains about one-third of its civilian oil requirements from the Iranian fields and a far greater percentage of fuel oil for its navy.

The note says that the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company is prepared to discuss a new concession agreement "on the basis of an equal sharing of profits in Iran."

Britain's note said that the company agreed in 1949 to increase its royalty payments to Iran. The Iranian Majlis never has ratified the agreement.

Britain also expressed its regret "that public opinion in Iran has not been adequately or correctly informed regarding the operations and intentions of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company."

"The fact is that as your excellency's government are well aware the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company have no desire other than to carry on legitimate business in association with the Iranian government," Britain's note said.

Belleville Dairies Said Showing Huge Profits

TORONTO, March 16 (CP). — With the retail milk price pegged at 20 cents, representatives of Toronto milk drivers will meet today with dairy officials to discuss a $3-a-week wage boost awarded to the drivers by a Conciliation Board.

The Toronto Milk Distributors' Association indicated earlier this week that it would grant the increase and put the milk price up to 21 cents a quart to cover it, probably by he end of the week.

However, provincial legislation Thursday blocked the price rise and dairy spokesmen said Thursday it might be necessary to delay the pay ...st. The drivers said they wo... insist on implementation of the award.

Another development today was a statement by Ontario Government officials that Ontario Milk Board auditors investigating dairies in the Belleville district have found "startling" profits by some dairies.

The auditors are said to have reported that milk could be sold in Belleville for 18 cents a quart, instead of the present 20, with a profit to the dairies.

Waiting Word From Kremlin

PARIS, March 16 (AP).—Word from the Kremlin was awaited today on whether the Big Four can discuss arms for Germany as part of the whole European problem or whether Moscow will insist the question be taken up separately.

It is believed the Russians will continue to insist on separate treatment. This decision was foreshadowed by Russian Deputy Foreign Minister, Andrei Gromyko, at Thursday's session of the Big Four deputies trying to draw up an agenda for a foreign minister's parley.

France, Britain and the United States contend the tense European situation has led them to think about German defence and that they cannot properly discuss the result without the cause.

Gromyko, however, has been harping on the importance of the 1945 agreement at Potsdam to disarm Germany.

To meet his objections Philip Jessup of the United States offered a new statement of the first point the western powers want the ministers to discuss.

Will Decide If Batory To Dock In Canada

OTTAWA, March 16 (CP). — A spokesman for the National Harbors Board said today the board is considering whether it will allow the Polish liner Batory permission to dock at ports in Canada. A decision is expected in a week.

The Batory, on which Communist Gerhart Eisler fled the United States has been refused permission to dock in New York. The Marine Commissioner, Edward F. Cavanagh, Jr., has said he considers the Batory "an undesirable occupant" of New York City piers.

The board controls eight ports in Canada: Halifax, Saint John, N. B., Three Rivers, Quebec, Montreal, Vancouver, Churchill and Chicoutimi. If the board decides against the Batory, it would be refused permission to dock at all eight ports.

The Batory is expected to make another crossing from Europe at the end of the month.

14 Killed In UK Wreck As Express Jumps Track

DONCASTER, England, March 16. (CP)—Thirteen adults and a baby were killed today in the wreck of an express train. It jumped the track at a switch and smashed into a highway overpass. A soldier aboard the train said it was travelling "dead slow" when nine of the 13 coaches jumped the rails.

At least 20 persons were injured, 13 seriously. Four hours after the wreck, rescuers still were digging into one of the coaches in the belief more dead or injured people might be in it.

A spokesman said nine coaches of the Doncaster-to-London Express ran off the rails just south of the Doncaster station, 150 miles north of London, in Yorkshire.

Ambulances were rushed to the scene.

The wrecked train was made up at Doncaster with two London-bound trains, from York and Hull.

Strikes Pier

The spokesman said the train consisted of the locomotive and 13 coaches. Of these the locomotive, the first two coaches and the last coach stayed on the tracks.

First reports said the third coach—first to leave the rails—smashed into the stone pier of a bridge.

Telegrapher To Stand Trial

PRINCE GEORGE, BC, March 16. (CP) — A young telegrapher who allegedly relayed a train order incorrectly, resulting in a collision which took 21 lives, will stand trial for manslaughter.

Alfred John Atherton, 22, was committed for trial Thursday after a three-day hearing during which 20 crown witnesses were called. The Supreme Court Trial will likely start May 4.

At the time of the tragedy Atherton was employed as a CNR telegrapher. He is alleged to have omitted two vital words—"at Cedarside"—when he relayed the order to the troop train. Cedarside was where the trains were supposed to pass.

A key point in the defence at the preliminary hearing was the wording of the CNR rule book. Atherton's defence counsel, John Diefenbaker, Progressive Conservative member of Parliament for Lake Centre, Sask., told the court:

"The crown alleges that if Atherton had listened to the repeat given by another operator he would have caught the error. But the rules do not say he must listen to the repeats."

Baby Girl Born On RCAF Plane

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., March 16—(CP)—A baby girl was born on Thursday night aboard an RCAF Canso amphibian plane high over the south coast of Newfoundland.

Flying Officer Mike Pearson, the pilot, lost his race with the stork in an effort to get Mrs. Margaret Cox, St. Alban's, Nfld., to hospital in St. John's.

The mother named the child Elizabeth in honor of Mrs. Betty Robbins, department of health nurse, who delivered the baby and used an RCAF flying jacket as swaddling clothes.

Cpl. Steve Trent of Pathlow, B. C., grinned with relief as nurse Robbins worked deftly.

"I'm sure glad that nurse is along," he was reported as saying. "I'm the first aid man and if she wasn't here . . ."

The flight was arranged at the request of the Newfoundland Department of Health.

Airman Takes Holiday On Canadian Cruiser

AT SEA WITH H.M.C.S. ONTARIO, March 16 —(CP)—It's costing him $1,000 and two months' leave to do it but a lone airman is making the cruise to Australia with this Canadian cruiser.

His name is Lum Gee Wai, his age 26, his RCAF rank leading aircraftsman, his home town Vancouver. The air force calls him Stanley Lum.

He likes to travel so he talked himself aboard the Ontario on her 3½-month training cruise to the antipodes.

"The only way I could go," he says, "was to take the two months leave coming to me and pay my own way to Esquimalt, BC, from Rivers, Man., and then back from Sydney, Australia, to Rivers. It will cost me nearly $1,000." But he feels it's worth every cent as he goes about the cruiser living the life of a sailor.

Attlee Plans Enter Hospital

LONDON, March 16—(Reuters)—Prime Minister Attlee will enter hospital for a medical check-up next Wednesday, it was announced today.

The Prime Minister is to be examined for an old duodenal ulcer complaint, and because of the heavy strain he has been under during the last few months.

The announcement said it is uncertain how long the Prime Minister will remain in hospital, but that he hoped to make a political broadcast March 31.

Quarters close to the Prime Minister said there was no reason for concern over the decision.

Police Arrest Suspect Not Melville Wilkie

BARRIE, March 16—(CP)—Alexander Cebeyke, 46, who police said was wanted in Collingwood on several charges of false pretences and fraud, was arrested Thursday night. His arrest ended a hunt for a man believed to be Melville Wilkie, a five-time escapee from a mental hospital.

Search parties scoured the area 60 miles north of Toronto Thursday after residents reported that the man was believed to be Wilkie. He escaped last July 13 from the Ontario Hospital for the Criminally Insane at Penetanguishene.

Charge Soviet Feeds Dogs Better Than Slave Workers

SANTIAGO, Chile, March 16—(AP)—Russia's police system has kept slave laborers on near-starvation diets in prison camps while directing better feeding for dogs used to hunt them down, the United Nations was told today.

Documents in Russian, described as authentic, were presented to the UN economic and social council by representatives of the world's free labor unions in another phase of what appeared to be a western offensive on the slave-labor issue.

The presentation followed a British-American challenge to the Soviet Union to approve a world-wide investigation of slave labor in the Soviet Union or, by silence, confess the USSR's guilt. U.S. delegate Walter M. Kotschnig in a speech accused Russia of starving and torturing millions of slave laborers, and quoted from what he said was a 1941 Russian plan which showed "more than 14 per cent of the capital construction planned for the USSR in 1941 was to be the work of forced labor."

Kotchnig said estimates of the number of slave laborers in the USSR now ranged from a cautious figure of 2,000,000 or 3,000,000 to 20,000,000.

The International Federation of Free Trade Unions presented the Soviet documents—one of them a set of orders for a slave labor camp issued in 1937—as proof of the west's repeated charges that the Kremlin rulers enslaved and tortured millions.

Expect Freight Rate Equalization Across Dominion

OTTAWA, March 16. (CP)—Sweeping changes in Canada's transport setup proposed by the Royal Commission on Transportation will be partly implemented at the current session of Parliament. First move, according to informed officials, likely will be legislation paving the way for cross-country equalization of freight rates—a major demand of the west. Equalization of rates to level off the difference between the eastern scale and the higher western tolls was one of the chief recommendations in the 200,000-word report of the commission, submitted to Parliament yesterday after an investigation into transportation problems lasting more than two years.

Another key recommendation of the three-man commision—the long-talked-of financial reorganization of the Canadian National Railways—also appeared due for parliamentary action at this session.

Other Recommendations

Other major recommendations of the commission expected to lead to legislation either at this or a later session of parliament included:

1. A new national tranportation policy under which all forms of federally - controlled transport would be placed under a single directing body for co-ordination of their functions in the national interest. Three boards now do this job.

2. A federal subsidy of around $1,000,000 a year to help bear the cost of moving goods between east and west over the unprofitable rail link running across northern Ontario.

The co-ordination proposal, if followed out on the lines recommended by the commission, appeared likely to stir up warm controversy.

Can't Get Co-ordination

In a report to parliament it recognized that it is impossible now to get co-ordination of federal transport with inter-provincial highway traffic, clearly under provincial jurisdiction.

In view of that, it recommended that the only highway transport to be taken under federal regulation now should be interprovincial and international movements, in which about 1,500 trucks are engaged.

The federal government considers it has jurisdiction in that area but has never exercised it. Several provinces contest this, and the issue now is before the Supreme Court of Canada.

Baron Accepts Job With Hamilton Union

TORONTO, March 16 (CP). — Sam Baron, recently dismissed as Canadian director of the Textile Workers' Union (CCL-CIO), announced today that he has accepted a position as a staff member of the union's greater Hamilton Joint Board.

At a meeting Sunday, delegates representing 5,000 union members in the Hamilton area criticized Mr. Baron's dismissal.

Mr. Barron was dismissed as Canadian director because of what he said was his opposition to attempts by International President Emil Rieve to oust Vice-president George Baldanzi at the last international convention.

His successor as Canadian director is J. Harold Daoust, who took over Tuesday.

3 Ottawa Men Charged In Bank Holdup

SUDBURY, March 16 (CP)—Three Ottawa men have been charged with armed robbery in connection with holdup of two Canadian Bank of Commerce clerks on the Capreol Road, three miles north of here, last Friday, provincial police announced today.

Under arrest are two brothers, J. Marcel Tremblay, 24, and Clifford Tremblay, 26, and Jack Prefontaine, 24. Marcel Tremblay, and Prefontaine are in the Sudbury district jail, while Clifford Tremblay is under police guard at the nearby Copper Cliff hospital where he is recovering from a minor operation.

Marcel Tremblay was arrested in Ottawa late Thursday and Prefontaine in Sudbury Thursday night.

The trio have been specifically charged with the armed theft of $3,463.48 in cash, a number of blank cheques and a pistol from bank clerks Phillip Belcourt and George Schmidt.

Part of the stolen money has been recovered, police said.

"It was one of the toughest cases we have worked on in a long time," said Provincial Police Inspector R. L. Taylor who was called from Toronto to direct the investigation.

"We have a good case against them," was as far as Inspector Taylor would go in revealing what led to the arrest of the trio.

The three today were remanded without plea until March 22.

West Germany Receives Bill

FRANKFURT, March 16 (AP) —The West German government today was handed a bill for 6,595,000,000 marks (about $1,569,000,000) as its share of the allied occupation costs and defence expenditure for the next fiscal year.

This is an increase of about 21 per cent over the charge for the current year.

The bill represents only 6.3 per cent of the estimated West German national production.

Thus the West German "financial effort involved is less than that which is being made by the other western nations for the defence of Europe," the allied high commission said in its letter to the West German Chancellor announcing the charge. The United States, it said, is spending 15.7 per cent of its national income for defence.

There were immediate loud cries of protest from West German officials.

"Far too high," said Dr. Robert Pferdmenges, Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's financial adviser. He said it would lower the German standard of living and swell the ranks of the unemployed.

US. Dairy Goods Get Price Support Boost

WASHINGTON, March 16 — (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Charles Brannan Thursday announced increases in price-support rates on dairy products in a move to bolster milk production.

The new rates, effective April 1, are designed to support producer prices of milk used for manufacturing purposes at a national average of $3.60 for 100 pounds and butterfat at 67.6 cents a pound.

The present rates are designed to support this milk at an average of $3.07 and butterfat at 60 cents.

Market prices now are averaging slightly above the new support figures, but this is the season of the year when milk prices—reflecting a seasonal upturn in production—usually decline.

Pick Judge Currey To Be Head Of New Milk Board

TORONTO, March 16. (CP) — Ontario consumers are guarded against changes in the price of milk for an indefinite period under a measure introduced in the Legislature Thursday. A bill brought in by Welfare Minister Goodfellow put an immediate freeze on the price of milk and provides for a four-man board to regulate the sale of the commodity in the Province. Judge A. B. Currey of the Manitoulin District Court will head the board. He will have final say over the maximum price of milk in all parts of Ontario.

The legislation freezes milk prices at levels in effect midnight, March 14. Penalties of from $50 to $500 are provided for failure to comply with the law.

Since no price changes will be permitted until authorized by the four-man board in open hearing, it is expected to be some time before any adjustments are made in milk prices anywhere.

Among provisions of the bill is one aimed at producing greater competition in the industry.

Under present legislation, anyone wishing to become a distributor of milk must have experience as well as financial backing, proper equipment and a fair prospect of success.

Eliminate Experience

The new bill eliminates experience as a necessary qualification.

Another change will permit anyone to sell milk anywhere in the province, providing they sell it no higher than the maximum for the area.

The four-man board will have a consumer representative in addition to members from producers and distributors.

Judge Currey will have an assistant, probably a junior judge, and together they will become arbitrators with full authority to act in collective bargaining deals between producers and distributors if negotiations between them should break down on basic prices to the farmer.

Introduction of the bill was made during a sitting which developed into the longest of the current session.

Gamble Costs Firm $500,000 Weekly

VANCOUVER, March 16 (CP). —Spadework on a gamble has cost the Aluminum Company of Canada $500,000 a week during the last month.

Without assurance of a United States market, Alcan has spent in the neighborhood of $1,000,000 in acquiring equipment and supplies for its proposed development in British Columbia.

Added to this is the more than $2,000,000 spent in surveys of the Tweedsmuir Park area, a chunk of wilderness 400 miles north of Vancouver; in erecting experimental electric towers on coast mountain peaks and other preparatory work.

Since the company first began to look into the province hydro-electric potentialities more than two years ago, it has spent nearly $5,000,000. By the time the project is completed, the aluminum ingots rolling, the cost will have soared to $550,000,000.

Two Cars Collide Missed Red Light

Two cars collided at George and Charlotte Sts. Thursday at noon, because one, said police, went through a red light.

Arthur Wells, 372 George St., was driving north on George St. He said he started across Charlotte St. with the green light. About half way across, his car and one driven by Fred Doherty, R.R. 4, Lakefield, collided.

Doherty had been driving east on Charlotte St. behind another car that turned right at the corner. Police said Doherty went on across the intersection against a red light.

The left front fender, grill, hood and left front door of the Wells car were all damaged. Doherty's car had no right front fender, but the grill and front bumper were damaged. Constable W. A. Scott investigated.

St. John's Choir To Sing St. Mark's Passion

The choir of St. John's Anglican Church will sing for the first time in Peterborough on Sunday evening the Passion of Our Lord according to St. Mark for which the music was composed by Dr. Charles Wood.

Dr. Wood was for many years Professor at Cambridge University and the Royal College of Music and was the teacher of England's greatest contemporary composer, Sir Ralph Vaughan Williams.

Fred G. Mann, organist and choirmaster, will direct the choir in this recital of St. Mark's Passion. Copies of the words have been procured in book form for the congregation.

Palm Sunday announcements make special mention of this feature of the Easter season, and it is hoped that the members of St. John's and others interested in the spiritual values of this work will attend. It will be sung at Evensong beginning at 7 p.m. earned. If the company did not earn enough to cover it, the unpaid balance would not be regarded as deficit and would not be carried over to next year.

The CNR's fixed interest charges — now $46,000,000 a year — would be chopped down to $24,000 000, the amount owing on securities held by the general public.

Anaesthetists Meet At Two City Hospitals

Forty anaesthetists, mostly from Ontario, gathered at Civic Hospital before 11 a.m. today to make a tour of the hospital before their 1951 meeting officially began.

The forty are members of the Ontario Medical Association's anaesthesia section. Their annual meeting lasted all day today and will continue Saturday morning.

Lecture sessions, which will take the form of round table discussions for the most part, will occupy most of their day-and-a-half stay here. First lecture—"Recent Advances in Anaesthesia, Recovery Rooms"—was given at 11 a.m. by Dr. Virginia Apgar, professor of anaesthesia at Columbia University, New York.

Other lectures are: obstetrical anaesthesia, post-operative care, block therapy, abdominal surgery and emergency anaesthesia.

Tonight, there is a banquet at the Empress Hotel, and tomorrow the doctors go to the classroom in the nurses's residence at St. Joseph's hospital for their remaining three lectures.

Deer Hunting Law Changed

TORONTO. March 16 (CP).—Ontario hunters will be permitted to shoot one deer—a buck or a doe—next fall under an amendment to the Game and Fisheries Act introduced in the Legislature Thursday.

Lands Minister Scott said the bill, in effect, abolishes the so-called "buck law," which has existed for several years. Elk in Ontario's north country also may be hunted the same as deer.

In the past, a hunting party was required to shoot an equal number of bucks and does or have two licences to cover a female deer shot.

Other amendments call for inspection of any camp occupied by hunters and anglers and abolition of the necessity of having a gun licence by persons holding a trapper's licence.

List Highlights Of Report On Transportation Methods

OTTAWA, March 16 — (CP) — Highlights of recommendations of the Royal Commission on Transportation:

A national transportation policy calling for co-ordination of all transport agencies—railways, aviation, shipping, pipelines—under federal jurisdiction, including perhaps interprovincial and international highway traffic.

General equalization of freight rates between all regions of Canada.

A new federal subsidy of an estimated $7,000,000 a year to help cover the cost of moving goods between east and west across thinly-settled northern Ontario.

A recapitilization plan for the government-owned Canadian National Railways to give it a more stable financial structure.

No change in the federal statute guaranteeing the west its low, fixed "Crow's Nest Pass" freight rates on grain and grain products.

Modification of future freight-rate increases to lessen the impact of long haul traffic and some commodities—of particular benefit to the west and the maritimes.

No public ownership of all railways or railway amalgamation.

No major change in the maritime freight rates act giving that area sub-normal rates.

Extension to prairie points of part of the benefits of low "transcontinental" freight rates between eastern Canada and British Columbia.

Action to speed up the disposition of railway revenue (rate-increase) cases, with interim increases being granted where justified.

Closer scrutiny of co-operative economy measures taken by the two big railways.

No change in the existing system of the railways and their labor unions negotiating their disputes.

Greater freedom to be allowed the railways in abandoning unproductive lines and making other economies.

No change in the method of setting freight rates—as proposed by the CPR—to make that company's investment value the basis of rates.

Expect Freight

The commission's proposal is expected to stir up opposition from "for-hire" truckers, who have insisted this is a provincial field.

The commission proposed that the Railway Act be amended to take in the border-crossing truckers and co-ordinate their operations under a single federal regulatory agency that also would control railways, aviation, shipping and pipelines.

Touches on Rivalry

Touching up the sharpening rivalry between the railways and trucks, the commission said its control proposal would still leave the trucks as competitors, but they would be "regulated competitors."

Whether this would work out to the advantage of the railways remained to be seen.

"The regulation of the railways," the report said, "can best be exercised by combining it with the regulation of the other agencies of transportation.

"It is true that parliament's lack of jurisdiction over intra-provincial transportation presents a major obstacle to the full attainment of this most desirable object. It is, of course, permitted to hope that the provinces will some day agree to co-operate with the federal authority in the carrying out of a common policy of co-ordination.

"Until that day comes, however, there is no reason why parliament should not proceed as far as its authority extends toward the establishment of a national transportation system functioning under the control and regulation of an efficient supervisory board."

The Northern Ontario subsidy—which won approval of the national Liberal convention in 1948—would go primarily to reduce the freight costs on goods shipped from Eastern Canada to the West, the commission said.

The subsidy is favored by cabinet, it is understood. Because the Royal Commission report was not turned in until after the new year, it may not be put into effect until the results of 1951 railway operations are known. The subsidy would be based on maintenance costs of the Northern Ontario lines and these costs for 1950 will not be known until early 1951.

Part In General Plan

It would play a part in the general rate-equalization plan, which also would contain a provision for the easing of freight charges on certain basic commodities and on long-haul shipments which serve to send up the freight bill of the Maritimes and Western Canada.

The long-haul shipments would be given protection through the imposition of dollars-and-cents ceilings on this type of traffic in any percentage increases that might be granted the railways in future.

This action will not require legislation, but other phases of the rate-equalization scheme will call for amendments to the Railway Act.

Prime Minister St. Laurent, telling the Commons Thursday that some legislation at this session will be based on the commission recommendations, did not indicate what the Government would tackle first. But it was learned the equalization legislation would be high on the agenda.

Some Left Untouched

A point emphasized in the equalization plan is that it would not touch sub-normal rates given the West and the Maritimes by statute.

These exceptions are the West's low "Crow's Nest Pass" rates on grain and grain products moving for export and the federally-subsidized reductions of 20-per-cent. on some traffic hauls in the Maritimes.

Nor would equalization touch certain other types of rates such as "competitive" charges, which the railways set at low levels to meet competition from other carriers.

Some other features of the report included:

1. A recommendation that the Prairies and Interior British Columbia be given part of the benefits of low "transcontinental" rates between Eastern Canada and the B.C. coast. These rates were put into effect because of water competition by way of the Panama Canal.

2. A recommendation that freight-rate cases be disposed of more quickly by the Board of Transport Commissioners, with the board granting "interim" increases to the railways where advisable.

3. A recommendation that national transportation policy should ensure efficient operation of the Canadian Pacific Railway as a private enterprise. All forms of railway amalgamation were rejected.

Reject Proposals

The commission rejected a wide variety of proposals including:

The proposed $100,000,000 Chignecto Canal in the Maritimes; various types of subsidy assistance for the railways apart from the Northern Ontario proposal; new and drastically-changed methods of setting freight rates proposed by the British Columbia government and the CPR; proposals for setting up local advisory councils for national ports; government regulation of cargo rates on coastal steamships.

The commission, appointed in 1948, was under Hon. W. F. A. Turgeon, ambassador to Eire and former Saskatchewan Chief Justice. The other members were: Dr. H. F. Angus, of the University of British Columbia, and Dr. H. A. Innis, of the University of Toronto, both well-known economists.

Gas Company Completes Presenting Case

WASHINGTON, March 16 — (AP)—The Union Gas Company of Canada Thursday completed its case before the Federal Power Commission. It seeks an annual allocation of 18,500,000,000 cubic feet of natural gas from the United States.

The Chatham company has a contract for this maximum amount with Panhandle Eastern Pipeline Company of Kansas City, Mo.

However, Union Gas must get approval of the contract and an export license from the Power Commision before it can buy the fuel.

A decision is not expected for several weeks.

The final day of testimony by the Canadian witnesses was taken up with cross-examination by the Commission and by representatives of U.S. companies which also are bidding for the new Panhandle gas.

Thomas Weir, general manager of Union Gas, testified that his company is willing to take some restrictions on the export license, but that it cannot get along with the type it has now.

The Canadian firm was granted a license in 1946 to take up to 5,500,000,000 cubic feet per year of natural gas from Panhandle, but only in the summer months. It never has had more than 3,000,000,000 cubic feet in any year.

Need Continuity

Weir said the new permit would have to provide for some continuity of service throughout the year. Otherwise, it would be difficult to finance an expansion program needed to handle the US fuel.

Also, Weir explained that other Canadian firms which plan to buy Panhandle gas from Union Gas could not be expected to convert their system to natural gas if they were not assured of a continuous supply through the winter.

The Canadian Retail Coal Dealers' Association opposed granting of the licence.

No Recommendations On Passenger Fares

OTTAWA, March 16 (CP). — No recommendations in train passenger fares were included in the report of the Royal Commission on Transportation made public Thursday.

The Commission had been asked by the British Columbia government to recommend elimination of a surcharge of a half-cent per mile on B.C. fares, imposed because of mountain operation in part of the province.

The Commission termed this an "anomaly," but said the province should apply for rectification to the Board of Transport Commissioners, which regulates the railways.

Great Day For Irish Also Princess Pats

OTTAWA, March 16 (CP). — Tomorrow, March 17, is a great day for the Irish. It's also a big day for men of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry.

The date marks the birthday of Lady Patricia Ramsay, Colonel-in-Chief of the regiment.

Army headquarters today released the text of a message which has been forwarded to Lady Patricia from Lt.-Col. J. R. Stone, commanding the 2nd battalion of the Patricias in Korea. It read:

"Best wishes for your continued happiness and good health on this your birthday. May we assure you of our resolve to uphold the traditions and reputation of your regiment."

9,000 Dock Workers Stop Work In Protest

LONDON, March 16 (Reuters) —Nine thousand London dock workers stopped work today for the fifth time in protest at the prosecution of seven colleagues appearing in court on charges of conspiring to incite wildcat strikes.

Many of the strikers went to Bow Street police court where the seven men were appearing before a magistrate.

Lines of trucks loaded with goods for export jammed the roads in the dock area and work on many big ships came to a complete standstill, although 17,000 men were still at work.

The prosecution arose from a strike by several thousand dock workers in the northwest ports of Liverpool and Birkenhead over a wage award.

Invited To Paris On Three Conditions

PARIS, March 16—(Reuters — The French government decided today to invite the United General Assembly to meet in Paris this autumn—on three conditions.

Information Minister Albert Glazier said the conditons are that the session does not start before Nov. 6; further discussion of financial details is held; and all offices needed for the Assembly's work are set up in Paris.

The French government originally turned down a suggestion from Secretary-General Trygve Lie that the General Assembly meet in Paris. Reasons were believed to be of expense and the French general elections due this year.

Janice Marie Mahoney

Graveside prayers for infant Janice Marie Mahoney, daughter of Walter Mahoney and Genevieve Gilbert of 322 Mark St., were said on Thursday at St. Peter's cemetery by the Rev. J. O'Sullivan. Funeral arrangements were made by the Anglesey Funeral Home. Pallbearers were Douglas Leggett, Clare Leahy, Patrick McGarrity and Francis DeNoble. Burial was at St. Peter's cemetery.

Union Calls Off Strike After New Violence

ST. GEORGES, Grenada, Mar. 16 (Reuters)—Eric Gairy, Grenada labor leader, scalled off the island's 20-day agricultural workers strike Thursday night after a new outbreak of violence by strikers.

He broadcast an apeal to workers to return to their jobs Monday "without fail" and told them to stop pillaging and burning.

Much of the violence, he said, had been done by "gangsters" and "hooligans" who were not union members.

Police opened fire Thursday, wounding two men and four women, when attacked by demonstrators just outside the city.

February Revenue Exceeds Expenditure

Civic hospital showed an excess of revenue over expenditure for February, it was revealed in the monthly report of T. T. Rodger, treasurer, at a meeting of the Board of Governors Thursday night.

The excess was $5,930.15, but for the first two months of 1951, the excess of expenditure over revenue was $181.76.

"I'm glad to see we're not very far in the red," remarked Mr. Rodger.

Total revenue for February was $69,461.68, against expenditures of $63,531.53. Revenue for the two months was $138,078.20, against expenditures of $138,259.96.

Blames Contract Clauses For Inflation

Escalator clauses in labor contracts are heading the country for inflation J. C. Adams, KC, told the Personnel Association of Peterborough Thursday night. Mr. Adams is general counsel of the Central Ontario Industrial Relations Institute.

If every company granted a wage increase to offset each rise in the cost of living index the effect would be nullified, he said, because the companies would pass this extra cost along to the consumers. And the consumers are the employees who just received the increase.

This leads to inflation, said Mr. Adams.

Only by management and labor steering a more sensible course can the country avoid inflation and controls more drastic and far-reaching than in the Second World War.

Mr. Adams spoke on collective bargaining in the future defence economy, salary and wage controls, the effect of the escalator clause, cost of living and wage openers. Also on how United States' controls will affect Canada.

The speaker was introduced by Len Woodman and Reg. Reid, president of the association, was chairman.

Prices Pushed Up On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, March 16 (CP). — Renewed support pushed prices upward over a broad front in quiet trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange today.

Industrial gains ranged from fractions to more than a point. Papers led the board with a wide list of issues higher and steels, utilities, agricultures, refining oils, liquors and manufacturing companies showed a majority of gains.

Issues up $1 or more in industrials included McColl Frontenac, Aluminum, Abitibi, Canada Wire B, C. P. R., Canadian Vickers, Consumers Gas, Consolidated Paper and International Paper.

Consolidated Smelters jumped 1⅞ and International Nickel added $1 in an otherwise fractionally higher base metal section. Pacing the list were United Keno Hill, Sherritt Gordon, Quemont, Quebec Manitou, Noranda and Golden Manitou.

Western oil gains ranged from pennies to 35 cents.

Golds barely traded and when they did price changes were small and mixed.

Victoria Board Votes Teachers $600

LINDSAY, Mar. 16 (ENS) — Minimum and maximum salaries for teachers at the Lindsay collegiate were raised Wednesday at a meeting of the Victoria County High School board. The minimum salary increased from $2,400 to $2,500 and thee maximum by $600, to $4,600 for non-specialists and $4,800 for specialists. The principal's salary was increased to a maximum of $5,-700.

T. H. Eberles, Lindsay Collegiate principal, pointed out the salaries offered by other boards and said that if Lindsay collegiate lost one or more teachers, the board would have to enter this market and bid against other schools for teachers.

Board members reminded that the Teachers' Advisory Board had proposed the minimum of $2,500 but had been lowered to $2,400 at the request of the teachers.

When the Bobcaygeon school closes in June, the enrolment in the upper school at Lindsay collegiate will increase by 25 and the Fenelon Falls school by 40 or 50.

Dr. W. D. Thomas of Bobcaygeon asked the board for assurance that there would be accommodation at Lindsay and Fenelon Falls for the Bobcaygeon students. He said that Bobcaygeon residents would prefer to have the older students attend Lindsay and the younger Fenelon Falls.

Mr. Eberlee said that Lindsay could accommodate about 25 in the uper school and a Mr. Brandon from Fenelon Falls, added that the school there could accommodate 40 or 50.

Approve Plans For Area School

HAVELOCK, March 16 (ENS) —Norwood area High School Board were informed Tuesday that final plans for the new High School have been approved by the Department of Education. Approval came in a letter from C. A. Brown of the department.

Tenders will be called, to be received not later than 5 p.m., April 2.

Belmont and Methuen Townships have objected to the debentures for the new school in a letter from G. Dafoe, clerk for the townships.

The board's secretary was instructed to inform Mr. Dafoe that the board could not concur in the notice from Belmont and Methuen and ask him to take the matter up again with his council, with the view of reconsidering the matter.

C. Chard, who operates the school bus between Cordova, Havelock and Norwood, asked the board for extra financial assistance. He was granted $25.

Principal Breckon of Norwood High School reported attendance down to 89 per cent because of illness. Principal Caskey of Havelock also reported attendance down because of illness to 89.5 per cent.

Accounts totalling about $1,900 were passed.

The Bill To Survive

Two years ago the Budget reached a post-war low of $2,176,000,000 and Canadians could look forward to federal expenditures being kept at the level of about two billion dollars. This was very high in comparison with peacetime budgets before the war; for instance, national expenditure in 1939 was $553,063,098, a quarter of the figure of ten years later. But times had changed and so had values. The two billion dollar budget, including as it did expanded social services, was the new 'normal' expenditure and was a big drop from the wartime budgets which exceeded five billion dollars. But the two billion dollar new peacetime normal did not stick. The Chinese and Russians intervened. The estimates of Government spending for the coming fiscal year which Mr. Abbott made in the House of Commons at the first of the week totalled $3,587,000,000. Supplementary estimates will raise that figure, very probably to a total in excess of four billion dollars when the accounts are closed next March. Thus the budget will be twice as great as Canadians might have expected it to be in 1949. The rate of spending has doubled in two years.

* * *

The reasons for the increases are plain. They are the cost of our effort to survive the Communist imperialism. It is our bill for self-defence. The chief increase is of course in defence spending; a rise of $894,000,000 over the 1950 estimates. The Budget which Mr. Abbott will bring down after Easter will be by hundreds of millions of dollars the highest peacetime budget Canada has ever had. The Ottawa Citizen finds this a backhand tribute to Canada's enemies: "The estimates provide a statistical yardstick of the determination of the Canadian people to prepare and mobilize to deter aggression in the world, a task undertaken in partnership with good and powerful allies."

* * *

This newspaper and many others across the country have urged the Government to reduce its ordinary spending to alleviate the tax burden of defence expenses. This the Government has done in its estimates for 1951-March 1952. It has curtailed ordinary expenditures by an estimated $35,268,292. It has managed to do this despite higher wages for civil servants and higher costs of government in an inflationary period. It is a sizable cut. But how little it seems in comparison with total defence increases of nearly nine hundred million dollars. A reduction of $35,268,292 is infinitesimal contrasted with the huge armament bill. The fact is that all government services could be reduced to nothing, all welfare projects stopped, and all civil servants fired from departments other than Defence and Defence Production, and the new Budget would still have to be millions of dollars greater than the expenditures of last year. The preparation of defences and the waging of war are costly.

* * *

Whatever surplus the Government is able to show when the national accounts for the fiscal year just ending are tabled, it will not be enough to pay more than a part of the new defence bill. Taxes will have to be increased. More than a billion dollars in new tax money will have to be found. The chief question which the Budget will answer is not how much the tax increases will be, but where they will be levied.

Seoul Regained

The capital of South Korea has been re-entered by U.N. and South Korean troops. It was taken without fighting.

The Chinese seem to be retreating steadily, and under great pressure, behind the 38th Parallel. Again is posed the problem of whether or not U.N. troops should go beyond that dividing line between the North and South Republics of Korea, a line which, recognized in fact, was never admitted in principle by the two Korean factions or their supporting nations. If, as many senior military men have said, the Korean war must end in a stalemate, the 38th Parallel would be a logical line on which to stand without stirring new and even more violent warfaring responses.

The apologists for the Korean war and for the U.N. advance last autumn to the Chinese Manchurian border have an argument which present success and the devastation of the Chinese fortify. The Korean war may indeed be the war which, for the first time in history, has prevented a war.

The Chinese have taken a fearful beating, particularly from American shelling and air bombardment. They have not ventured into Formosa. They have drawn in their horns at the gates of Indo-China. And, perhaps most important of all, the unexpected heavy opposition of the U.S.A., the unanimity of opinion against them as shown by the representative troops of a dozen nations in Korean battlefields, and the terrible cost to China in men and materials, may have convinced the Chinese leaders that Russia is not the great white Asian father on whom they should depend. The Chinese incursion into Korea, obviously taken at the behest or with the approval of Soviet Russia, may have soured China on Russia.

The United States and other nations have thrown much money, material and manpower into the Korean war. But the strain on them has been nothing compared with the strain on China, reports from Asia lead western observers to believe. The Korean war has also achieved what two years of talking and dire warning could not have done. It has resulted in the heaviest and speediest rearming of the western world that the Kremlin could have dreamed of in its most nightmarish moments. The war in Korea has convinced the West of its danger, and the present re-armament is not designed primarily to support Korea or ward off attack in Asia. It is re-creating a powerful bastion in Europe itself with the great arsenal of this continent geared to stop Russia in her tracks, even in Europe.

Canada's New Capital Town

The Yukon has a new capital. Whitehorse has risen over Dawson to become, by Ottawa decree, the seat of Yukon government. The rage of the sourdough descendants is reported to be as wild and lurid as anything Dangerous Dan McGrew would ever have uttered from its saloons in the bustling gold-rush days when the town was Dawson City. The sourdoughs have gone, giving place to an aldermanic dentist and 800 other souls, most of whom live on government business in one way or another. Gold has not panned out well for Dawson, boisterous, swaggering town of 25,000 long ago. The sound and fury of the 800 present inhabitants carry no conviction against the claims of Whitehorse 250 air miles south, and on the Alaska Highway.

Size, the nearness to the equator and convenience of communication are not necessarily decisive in the selecting of a capital. Queen Victoria chose northern, colder, tiny and remote Bytown to be the capital of Canada, over the claims of York, Kingston and Montreal. But then Bytown was on the boom and there was the threat of American invasion haunting border towns. Now Dawson has petered out, and it is nearer the Russian border than Whitehorse. What we are hearing now from protesting Dawson are the last cries of a carcass.

Alice In Post Office Land

As yet the Post Office Department at Ottawa has offered no explanation of its curious behaviour in reducing the postal delivery service. Even for government behaviour, it is fatuous beyond belief. Postal deliveries are to be cut to one a day in residential districts, in order to save money; letter carriers are to be laid off, in order to save their wages; but the government announces that the 1,200 postmen thus laid off will be absorbed in other government work. Where is the economy in this? And why does the Post Office—the one government department which makes money—contort itself to make this futile dab at economy? It suggests that Canada is that Wonderland where Alice found herself, and where she was told that "here, you see, it takes all the running you can do to keep in the same place; if you want to get somewhere else, you must run twice as fast as that!"

The effect of the Post Office's Wonderland gesture will be to keep just about the same number of people on the public payroll, while reducing an important service. As we have pointed out in a previous editorial, it establishes a dangerous belief that the letters which people send to one another at their homes are less important than those which they send to one another at their places of business. It means that a four-cent stamp placed on a business letter is worth at least twice as much as a four-cent stamp placed on a friendly letter. It is, in fact, tomfoolery of a new and rare variety, never previously achieved by a Canadian government department.

As the Calgary Herald says: "Let us have economies which affect the bureaucrats and not just the people they are supposed to serve."

NOTE AND COMMENT

The Kitchener Record says that a good test for intelligence is to give a man $100 and watch what he does with it. A smart fellow, of course, will spend it as fast as he can, for it is losing value every minute.

From Denmark comes news that pigs respond to kind treatment by yielding better pork. In future we shall try to detect, every time we bite a sausage, whether the pig died happy.

The postmen who have been laid off by the one-delivery order will be, we read, "re-absorbed into the civil service, thus preventing unemployment." That animal which swallowed itself until there was nothing left of it but the points of its shirt-collar sticking out of its eyes was obviously the model for our government economists.

Notes And Queries

By ALPHA

Questions are solicited for this column particularly those relating to local lore and tradition.

SIR: I am one of those Englishmen who have come out here in the last three years. Today, I had forwarded me from home a notice to register for military service (reserve). I got this even though I was in the army for 4½ years during the war. I want to tell them that they can go and "jump in the lake" and that I will serve if they can find me. I've done my stint. How do I become a Canadian citizen? How long do I need to be here before I can apply for citizenship papers?

ANSWER: As a British subject you have full voting and citizenship rights in Canada. For all purposes in Canada you are, on coming here, a Canadian citizen. Other people, for instance, central Europeans, are not. However, you may wish to be issued with Canadian citizenship papers, in accordance with the Canadian Citizenship Act which came into force January 1, 1947.

To get this certificate that you are a Canadian, you must have resided in Canada for a total of five of the last six years, and have lived here continuously for the last year of the five. That is known as "legal residence". These are also the terms that apply to any non-Canadians seeking Canadian citizenship papers. Non-British subjects, however, must, at the outset, file notice of intention to become Canadian citizens five years (I believe) before they are granted the papers. Applications are made to the County Court Clerk, in the County Court House building on the hill above Water Street. You can get any information you need from the County Court Clerk.

A British subject who is not a Canadian and is resident in Canada, may have his British passport renewed at the Canadian Passport Office, Ottawa, or he may be issued with a Canadian passport there, which will state that he is a British subject, though not a Canadian. Citizens of Eire or the Union of South Africa, even though resident in Canada, will not be issued with passports by the Canadian Passport Office.

ALPHA: Must a person be a resident taxpayer of Peterborough city to be a member of the Peterborough Public Library Board?

ANSWER: According to the regulations, yes.

✧ ✧ ✧

IN response to the question several Fridays ago about a remarkable cast-iron bridge over the Otonabee at Hunter Street, which was said to have been cracked by frost, and to have fallen, Mr. Duncan Drummond, a nonagenarian native of this district now in hospital recovering from a broken bone, sends in this information:

"The old bridge was burned. It was wooden and I remember driving over it with my father when I was a small boy living in Otonabee. The firm of White and Davis (White was an old countryman and had a foundry on Simcoe Street where the Lock Works are) built a two-span bridge. They did not make any allowance for the frost coming and going and one morning they went out to find that the bridge was buckled, up, not down. Of course it was never used for a bridge thereafter. I guess this would be 75 or 80 years ago.

"Then a trestle bridge was built to carry a team. It was not wide enough for two wagons to meet on it. I have seen the river so low there that fellows crossed the river on horse-back. It seemed to be great sport.

"The trestle bridge was south of the old iron bridge and it came out on the east side at Clarke's tannery just south of where Hunter Street bridge is now. On the Peterborough side was Mowrey's Foundry.

"The first bridge I remember was a covered bridge. The reason I remember it is this: One Jimmy Fife came into town on a Saturday and found that the wooden bridge was burnt. He went back and told the people there that the bridge was burnt. Nobody believed him. Then he said later that it was the only time he had told the truth, and since nobody would believe him then, he would not tell the truth again."

I have had a preview of an instalment of Mr. Pammett's history which will be published shortly, in which he discusses the bridges in Peterborough. This fixes the dates. The Hunter Street bridge had become badly battered by logs and ice by July, 1871, when fire finally destroyed it. A cast-iron bridge on a limestone pier in midstream was completed in February, 1872. (This would be the White-Davis bridge to which Mr. Drummond has referred.) The cost was $8,000, half paid by the town, half by the county. Mr. Pammett says that in January, 1875, the eastern span gave way and there was much local anger about it. The Canton (Ohio) Bridge Company built a new steel bridge in the same year (1875) for $30,000.

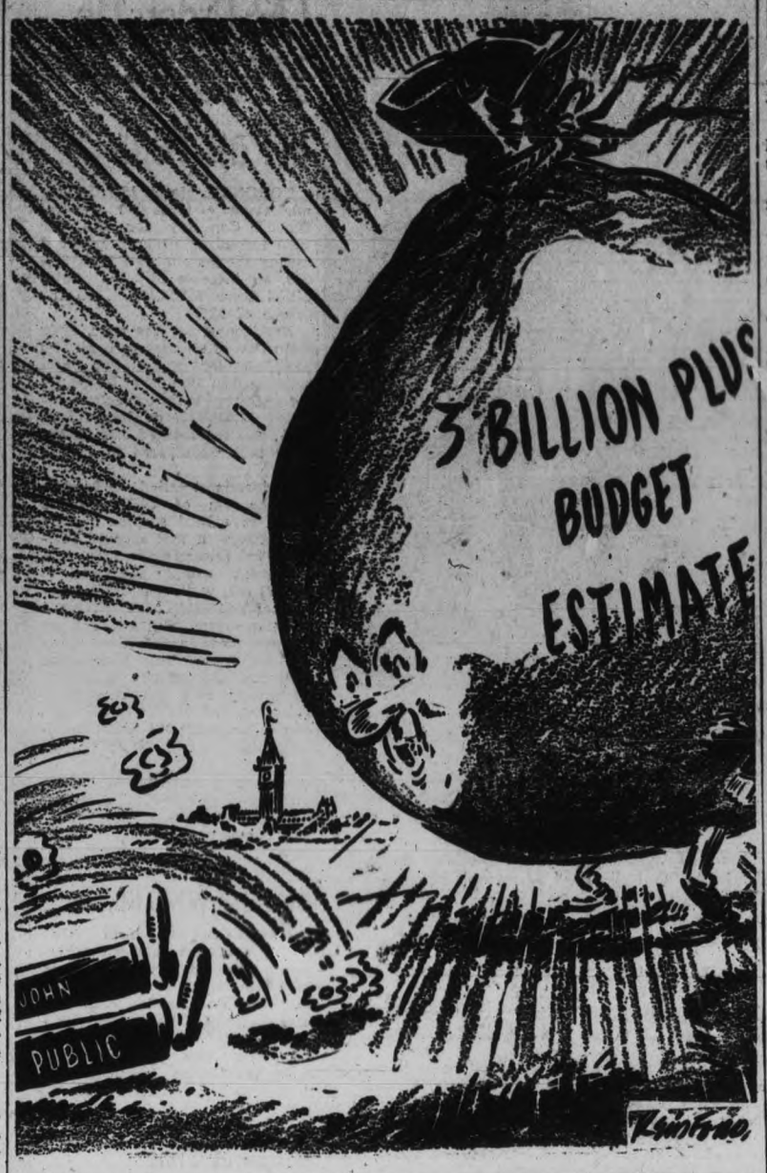
SIR: What is the Industrial Commission doing these days? There was a great noise about it when it was reformed a couple of years ago, but I haven't seen one new industry come to Peterborough since.

ANSWER: The Commission has bought a very fine site for big new industries at a very favourable price, and it handles numerous inquiries and has gone out reconnoitring for new plants. But it seems that Peterborough missed out on the post-war surge of new industries and that the reforming of the Industrial Commission came too late to get the cream. It may be, too, that cheaper labour and the convenience to ports and main rail lines make, say, a Montreal suburb more attractive than Peterborough. Further, Peterborough is overshadowed by the C.G.E. and so has the reputation of being an "electrical" town. The C.G.E. has now, I hear, fuller employment than in even its biggest war years, and may be putting up new buildings.

The Industrial Commissioners, who are not paid for their work, are H. L. Garner (chairman), H. I. Bradburn, Bruce Payne, the Mayor, and the chairman of the Manufacturers' Committee of the city council—this year, Alderman E. C. Braund.

Peterborough has had a salaried Industrial Commissioner at one time or another. In 1910, W. H. Duggan, of Montreal, was appointed Commissioner at the then very handsome salary of $4,000 a year. Half of this was paid by the Council, half by the Board of Trade, the predecessor of the Chamber of Council.



After one year of his being in office and with none of the astounding results which the Council and businessmen had hoped for, there was considerable dissatisfaction and people felt $4,000 was going down the drain.

I believe that Mr. Duggan was not re-hired.

✧ ✧ ✧

FOR THE RECORD: A tid-bit of recent history connecting Peterborough benefactress, Charlotte Jane Nicholls, who died in 1890, and Katherine Wallis, the sculptress, who, now ripe in years, is living in California, and has offered a collection of her work to her native Peterborough provided it will be housed adequately. In October, 1911, Katherine Wallis offered to do a life-sized statue of Mrs. Nicholls for $2,000. Miss Wallis knew Mrs. Nicholls personally. The Council chewed over the offer for a while (as it has chewed over Miss Wallis' offer of her work last year and this), and did not rise to the opportunity. Perhaps this is just as well. Miss Wallis has done beautiful cherubs and infants; Mrs. Nicholls face and form might not have responded so pleasantly to her chisel. There are several portraits of Mrs. Nicholls about town, one being in the Board room of the Y.M.C.A., to which she had made, in her lifetime, substantial gifts of money. I am happy to say that arrangements have been made for the reception of Miss Wallis' statuary.

A CHANCE FOR CANADIAN TALENT

Sir: I was greatly interested in your recent editorial concerning the Summer Theatre and the many letters that have been written in various aspects of this situation.

There remains however one point that seems to have been overlooked and it is one which is, I believe, important.

Until a few years ago it was next to impossible to sell any kind of Canadian creative talent in Canada. In fact, it was easier to sell it anywhere else. At the same time it was the fashion to vividly lament that the best talent went to the United States.

More recently that picture has changed, though the task is still not an easy one. If Peterborough is not to lose her position in the interests of Canadian theatre some solution to the present problem will have to be found. Can it be that the objections of so few are to prevent a project that was not only giving Canadian talent a chance, but at the same time providing enjoyment for so many people in the community?

Yours sincerely,
MEREDITH MILLER.

MANY WILL BE DISAPPOINTED

Sir: There is little to be said that hasn't already been said by other Summer Theatre lovers, but I think it is our duty to air our grievances.

It seems unbelievable that in a city the size of ours, one man has so much influence.

Surely some compromise can be made so that we, who look forward to the Summer Theatre will not be disappointed.

Yours truly,
MRS. BETTY BALL.

THE COUNCIL'S RESPONSIBILITY

Sir: Mr. Sills' letter to you in Tuesday's paper puts the onus of responsibility in the vexed problem of the use of Queen Mary auditorium directly where it should be—in the hands of the City Council. As long as successive councils shirk the responsibilities of providing a civic auditorium, they cannot allow one of the only two available halls in the city to be closed to the citizens.

This was pointed out five years ago to the council, long before the Summer Theatre was dreamed of. Twenty-eight organizations of this city with an amity and singleness of purpose rare in municipal affairs presented a brief to the council in which the necessity of providing an auditorium in the proposed City Hall was stressed. The council gave the committee, at which I happened to be chairman, a polite hearing, but to all intents and purposes buried the brief along with its other defunct projects. The City Hall is in process of construction and there is certainly no auditorium in it. This city needs the Queen Mary auditorium, not just for the Summer Theatre, but for many other organizations and purposes. If an injunction closes it to the Summer Theatre, it will surely close it to these other uses as well, and we, the citizens and owners of the auditorium will be the poorer. We will, in a sense, have been denied access to our own property, for the day has long since passed when a school was considered to be of value only to children for five hours of the day. They are very properly considered today as community centres where the adults who pay for them can go for study or recreation in their leisure hours.

To lose the Summer Theatre will be to lose one of the pleasanter amenities of a civilized community which has advanced beyond its bush-clearing days. It has enhanced the prestige of this city and made Peterborough the envy of less fortunate localities. To deny it proper quarters will be most unfortunate. Mr. Sadlier's objections to the Collegiate auditorium are legitimate, as anyone knows who has ever sat in it during a summer evening.

We are not annoyed by the patrons of the Summer Theatre who go past our house or park their cars on our street. On the contrary, we have enjoyed seeing the school in our neighbourhood used to bring to so many people the pleasure and recreation which a live theatre affords.

Yours very truly,
FERN A. RAHMEL.

MATTER OF CHOICE

A woman went into a store and asked: "Have you any wallpaper?"

"Yes," the man replied.

"Well," she asked, "can I put it on myself?"

"Yes," the storekeeper said, "but it would look better on a wall."

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Ho, every one that thirsteth, come ye to the waters, and he that hath no money; come ye, buy, and eat; yea, come, buy wine and milk without money and without price. Wherefore do ye spend money for that which is not bread? and your labour for that which satisfieth not? hearken diligently unto me, and eat ye that which is good, and let your soul delight itself in fatness. (Isa. 55: 1, 2.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Moreover, brethren, we do you to wit of the grace of God bestowed on the churches of Macedonia; how that in a great trial of affliction the abundance of their joy and their deep poverty abounded unto the riches of their liberality....

Therefore, as ye abound in every thing, in faith, and utterance, and knowledge, and in all diligence, and in your love to us, see that ye abound in this grace also....For as ye know the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, that, though he was rich, yet for your sakes he became poor, that ye through his poverty might be rich. And herein I give my advice: for this is expedient for you, who have begun before, not only to do, but also to be forward a year ago.

Now therefore perform the doing of it; that as there was a readiness to will, so there may be a performance also out of that which ye have. For if there be first a willing mind, it is accepted according to that a man hath, and not according to that he hath not.

For I mean not that other men be eased, and ye burdened: but by an equality, that now at this time your abundance may be a supply for their want, that their abundance also may be a supply for your want: that there may be equality: as it is written, He that had gathered much had nothing over; and he that had gathered little had no lack. (II Cor. 8: 1, 2, 7, 9-15.)

✧ ✧ ✧

And God is able to make all grace abound toward you; that ye, always having all sufficiency in all things, may abound to every good work. (II Cor. 9: 8.)

Leftist Litany

(Washington Post)

It has become almost a cliche nowadays to assert that Communism is not so much a political theory as a religion, possessed, like other great religions, of an infallible revelation, a sacred scriptures, a vast missionary apparatus and an even greater zeal than most religions for detecting and punishing all deviations from orthodoxy.

What is less frequently recognized is that one of the things that distinguishes orthodox, or Stalinist, Communism, from sectarian forms such as Trotskyism or Titoism is its highly developed liturgies. Trotskyism and Titoism seem to be the puritanical phases of Communism, devoted to the pure worship of dialectical materialism as disclosed in the Marxist scriptures, without any ritualistic innovations.

What put this in our minds was a news item citing some anonymous statistician on some anonymous Yugoslavian newspaper who, it seems, has been amusing himself by tabulating the frequency with which certain methods of alluding to Comrade Stalin occur in such publications as "Pravda" and "Izvestia".

These allusions show that if Stalin does not now actually occupy the status of divinity in the Stalinist form of worship, he does have a place well above that of mere prophets such as St. Marx and St. Engels or mere martyrs like St. Kirov. We hope our readers will acquit us of any blasphemous intention, if we show how easily these allusions could be arranged into a litany.

V. Great Leader of Entire Mankind.
R. Miserere nobis.
V. Great Chief of All the Workers.
R. Miserere nobis.
V. Protagonist of Our Victories.
R. Miserere nobis.
V. Faithful Fighter for the Cause of Peace.
R. Miserere nobis.
V. Dear and Beloved Leader.
R. Miserere nobis.

And so on.

We have attached the response, "Miserere nobis" (Have mercy on us) instead of "Ora pro nobis" (Pray for us) to the invocations because it seems more appropriate not only to Stalin's semi-divine status but to everything we hear about the character of life in the Soviet theocracy. But, on second thought, it seems to us that the one appeal has just as much chance of being answered as the other.

NOW WHAT

The wife of a sportsman prohibited her husband from backing horses, but he continued to gamble secretly.

One evening an old friend, unaware of the prohibition, dropped in and said to the punter: "Well, did you have any luck with Millicent yesterday?"

Instantly the wife shot her husband an ugly look and went out of the room.

"You've torn it," groaned the husband. "My wife thinks I don't bet now. You'll have to square this with her."

In a few moments, when the wife returned, the friend said, breezily, "I say, Mrs. Brown, I'm awfully sorry if I misled you just now. Millicent isn't a horse, you know, she's a barmaid."

Rev. R. D. Duncanson Is New Moderator of Presbytery

The Presbytery of Peterborough of the Presbyterian Church in Canada met on Tuesday in St. Paul's Church for an all day session. The Rev. R. D. Duncanson, of Norwood and Havelock, was elected Moderator for the year's term in succession to the Rev. Charles G. Boyd of Peterborough. Clergy of Campbellford, Cobourg, Bowmanville, Pt. Hope, Colborne, Warkworth, Peterborough and Millbrook were also present. Rev. W. Harold Heustin, recently inducted minister of South Monaghan and Millbrook, was welcomed. Catechists, Mr. Greene of Keene and Mr. McComb of Janetville were on hand. New elders appointed to Presbytery, to take office following the General Assembly in June, are Melville Lathangue of Ballyfuff, Ephriam Hircock of Cobourg, William Hitchins of Havelock, William G. Warner of Hastings and James Stewart of South Monaghan.

Nominates Col. Logan-Vencta

The Presbytery nominated Hon. Col. the Rev. John Logan-Vencta, OBE, ED, minister of St. Giles Presbyterian Church, Ottawa, for the moderatorship of the General Assembly which will meet in Ottawa the first Wednesday in June. Col. Logan-Vencta has had a notable career in both world wars. He was taken prisoner in World War I while serving in a Scottish regiment. In World War II he served as a chaplain, and was chief chaplain (P) overseas with service in Montgomery's Eighth Army. He is a graduate of Knox College, Toronto. His name is receiving considerable support throughout the Church for this highest honor in the gift of Canadian Presbyterians.

A move was taken by the Presbytery to open this office, and also moderatorship of Synods and Presbyteries to elders of the Church. For several hundreds of years in Presbyterian practice the law of the Church has been that ministers only may occupy a moderator's chair. Some years ago Presbyterians in the United States changed their Assembly law to permit this, and the Presbytery of Peterborough now initiates a similar move. A majority of the presbyteries in Canada must approve this change before it may be acted on, and the earliest date would be the Assembly of 1953. The move was taken by ministers of this Presbytery to prepare the way to nominate an elder of this ecclesiastical area for the honor.

T. S. Wood Commended

T. S. Wood of Buckhorn, elder of the Presbyterian Church, and several times a member of the Presbytery, was commended in a formal, unanimous motion of the Court. Mr. Wood has recently figured in the press for an act of heroism in a water accident and for his refusal of an award from a brewery concern for the bravery. The clerk, Rev. Louis H. Fowler of Port Hope, was instructed to write Mr. Wood in recognition of his deed and "in hearty and unanimous commendation for his attitude and action in the matter of the award."

Stipends Increase

The Presbytery reviewed congregation statistics and noted with satisfaction generous increase of stipend given to several of its clergy by their congregations. Steps were taken to maintain services in all mission fields. The Buckhorn field will receive summer student supply, and Keene and Westwood, and Janetville, Nestleton and Ballyduff will be manned by catechists for the full year. All congregations receiving aid from the Mission Board of the Church will be officially visited by committees of Presbytery to inquire into their life and work.

Commissioners

The Presbytery whose quota for commissioners to the General Assembly in June is two ministers and two elders, elected the Rev. A. E. Toombs of Campbellford and Mr. James Dutton of Peterborough as commissioners to Ottawa. Two others will be appointed later, according to the date of induction of ministers and rotation of congregations for the honor. Mr. Toombs will sit as a member of the important Committee to Strike Standing Committees which nominated the national executives of the Canadian Church. Mr. Dutton, a chairman of the national Board of Administration, will present his report to Assembly. His electionu as a commissioner will give him the right to take part in all sessions of Assembly and to represent his presbytery.

Build Bridges Over Chasms Of Loneliness

While building bridges over rivers, oceans and continents by airplanes, ships and telephones, people should also build bridges over the chasms of loneliness, misunderstanding and hate, the Rev. William Johnston of Toronto said Thursday. A Kiwanian, Mr. Johnston was the guest speaker at the weekly Kiwanis Club luncheon.

Mr. Johnston said that people have seen many bridges built through trains, telephones, planes and ships so that the continents are linked by a great network of bridges. Never before has there been so much building of bridges.

Lonely People in World

Besides these he recommended that a bridge be built over the chasm of loneliness which can be found in children, strangers and elderly people, the later group being the loneliest of all. Kiwanians, he added, can build this bridge of mutual concern by sharing the enjoyments of their life with the lonely.

Mr. Johnston said there were many lonely people in the world and that one didn't have to be alone to be lonely but could be lonely also in crowds.

The speaker then explained how a Toronto Kiwanis Club bridged loneliness during the Christmas season for elderly people. They provided the people with a Christmas party instead of the usual children's party.

The speaker recommended that a bridge of understanding be built over the chasm of misunderstanding. He explained that this modern age has been divided into little camps such as black and white people, protestants and catholics, conservatives and liberals. The nations of the world, he added, are divided and even small countries have been split by misunderstanding.

His third bridge was love, the "most constructive force in the world." This bridge would span hate, the most destructive force in the world, prejudice and jealousy.

The Kiwanis Club celebrating St. Patrick's Day, Mr. Johnston, an Irishman, took the club through Ireland, "the most wonderful, most beautiful island in the world," by recalling his recent trip home.

Charles Huffman introduced the speaker who was thanked by Harold Rehill.

Congratulations to B. Harrison and his rink. They won the Colts competition and the H. J. Sims Trophy at the Granite Club, Toronto, yesterday. This competition is province-wide, and is limited to curlers who have curled not more than seven years. This is the eighth year, and it is the first time it has ever been won by a local rink. The rink is: W. Westram, F. Allison, R. Whalon, and B. Harrison skip.

Visitors Better

Four rinks from Bobcaygeon, Toronto, Victoria, Hamilton, and Perth qualified for the final round Friday, while only two local rinks reached the payoff station. It has been a strenuous week and no doubt all will be happy when it is over tonight.. The final stages are being played today. The rinks which qualified were:

Nylons Capture Win At Opening

KINGSTON, March 16—Kingston's new gift to hockey—and other indoor sports—the palatial community memorial centre, takes its place among the most serviceable and alluring on the continent. This fact was brought home to the 3,200 spectators who witnessed Wednesday night's OHA Senior "B" group playoff as Nylons defeated Belleville 12-4.

Jack Roxburgh, president of the Ontario Hockey Association, addresed the gathering and threw in the first puck.

The man who leads the OHA was astonished and delighted when he inspected the centre and found it to be one of the finest and most elaborate in Ontario.

The Belleville Redmen were the lone rebels in a history-making setting. They arrived so late that the start of the hostilities was delayed for almost half an hour.

Nylons assembled 26 scoring points in establishing marked supremacy. McKeown collected two goals and three assists while his line mates, Joyce and Aitken, each had four points.

Second game of the series will be staged in Belleville tomorrow night and the third here next Monday.

IIHF To Drop Oslo Olympics

PARIS, March 16 (Reuters)—The International Ice Hockey Federation Thursday voted 7-6 to stay out of the 1952 winter Olympics at Oslo, Norway, unless the International Olympic Committee changes its rules—but left the door open for a possible reconciliation.

After three hours' discussion of the long-standing quarrel over certification of competitors, which has raged for years between the IIHF and the IOC, delegates passed a motion which said:

"The IIHF regrets that the majority of the International Olympic Committee . . . has prevented the IIHF from participating in Olympic competition."

The IIHF postponed taking a final decision on participation in next year's games until May when the IOC holds its annual congress in Vienna.

It will then seek to have the IOC allow it to retain the right to say who can and who can't play in the IIHF annual world tournament in the years when that tournament is played as part of the Olympics.

Walter Mulbry May Take Over Chandler Job

By JACK HAND.

SARASOTA, Fla., March 16 — (AP).—Walter Mulbry is in line to take over the duties of baseball commissioner temporarily if and when Happy Chandler resigns.

The four-man executive council quietly set up that move on Monday night at Miami Beach when it refused to accept the resignation of Mulbry as secretary-treasurer of baseball, a $30,000-a-year job.

"The executive committee is backing Mulbry to the limit to carry on until the commissioner resigns," said Will Harridge, American League president Thursday. "Then we will set up the machinery for him to act in the commissioner's capacity until a new one is elected. He probably would have complete charge of all player disputes."

Harridge spoke as a member of the council which met secretly some four hours after Chandler was refused a new term by the club owners. Other members are Ford Frick, National League president; Warren Giles, president of the Cincinnati Reds and Tom Yawkey, president of the Boston Red Sox.

The Mulbry-Chandler situation broke into the open Thursday after weeks of "off the record" treatment of the break between the commissioner and his old sidekick of the political wars. No reasons for the break were given.

Giles, acting at Chandler's request, reportedly charged Mulbry with "disloyalty" at the closed meeting.

Informed of Harridge's announcement at his Kentucky home, Chandler said, "a lot that is in there is news to me. I have nothing to say."

Local Cagers Face Acid Playoff Tests

This weekend's basketball activities will see the climax of PCVS' 1951 season as three teams enter the COSSA tournaments in Toronto. Other games, one in Bowmanville, two at the YWCA, and one at the YMCA, may see the elimination of three teams in basketball playdowns, city, collegiate, and Ontario.

All the PCVS teams will be meeting the stiffest opposition in the opening games of the one-day tournament, the winners of the Niagara Falls district. The boys' games will be at Hart House, University of Toronto, and the girls' games at the Ontario College of Education gym.

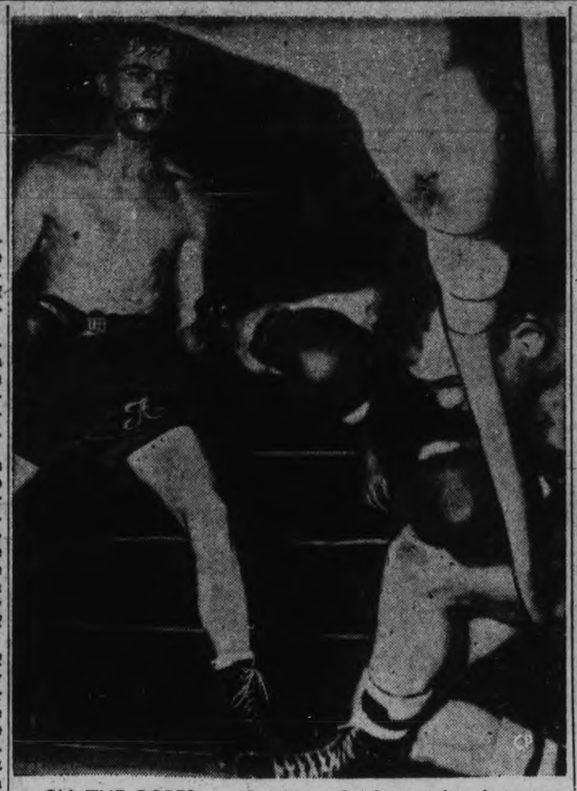
The Garnet and Grey seniors will be after the school's second COSSA basketball championship when they meet Niagara Falls Collegiate in the opening senior game at 3 p.m. Last year Belleville, the champions, edged out Niagara Falls and sank PCVS in the final after the Garnet and Grey edged Owen Sound in the semi-final. If PCVS defeats Niagara, they will play in the final game in the evening against the winner of the Bay of Quinte and Georgian Bay series.

The PCVS juniors will open the boys' tournament at 1 p.m. against Stamford. Last year PCVS clipped Orillia in a low-scoring semi-final, only to lose decisively to Niagara Falls in the final. They also will play the winner of the Bay of Quinte-Georgian Bay game if they turn back Stamford.

Girls In, Too

Miss Eva Scott's undefeated PCVS junior girls' team will also open against the Niagara Falls' winner, and the girls so far have turned back attempts by Bowmanville, Port Hope, Cobourg and Lindsay to ride into the final games. The junior final will be the opening game in the evening.

PCVS bantams will be defending their lakeshore championship, won last year, in Bowmanville today at 4 p.m. Zolton Temesey's quintet edged Lindsay in the semi-finals this week. The return game of the lakeshore championship series will be at PCVS on Wednesday. It is a two-game points-to-count series.



Coach Gord McIntyre's Marines have a seven-point deficit to overcome Saturday night at the YMCA in their return of the two-game Ontario Intermediate B semi-final series with Toronto's Church of the Messiah. Toronto won the first game a week ago 57-50 at Ryerson Tech.

Tonight at the YWCA, Nurses and Lindsay Merchants meet in the girls' city league quarter-finals, the second of the two-game series, the Nurses leading by a few points. CGE lasses meet Black's in the other quarter-final series having but a one-point lead.

Mercantile Bowling

Madge Mycroft rolled 249 to lead lasses in singles this week in the Mercantile Bowling League while Theresa Crowley's 608 was high three. Foster Ronco led men in singles with 327 and Frank Worsencroft was tops in three-somes with 699. Austin Jewellers showed the way in pinnage with 2751 and Lift Lock's 1013 single game was high. Austin's blanked Loblaw's, while Lift Lock and Prudential split evenly, and 3-1 victories were marked by Bond's over Braund's No. 2, Utilities against A & P, and by City Hall over Braund's No. 1.

Mrs. M. Behan had a neat triple of 603 and Bessie Smith hit 586. Men's good threesomes included: F. Ronco 692, Art Turner 658, Jack Gimblett 635, George Gimblett 621, Bob Willshaw 622 and Don Penrose with 613.

ON THE ROPES — Canadian featherweight champion Frank Almond waits to finish game challenger Oliver Breton of Toronto as the pair met in a title bout at Vancouver. Breton took the count of nine after hitting the deck in the eighth round. The bout was stopped a few seconds later on a technical knockout.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

From 300 to 400 young gaffers toting gutted-sticks gallop around daily and nightly at two boxes here each summer. That's the Peterborough Minor Lacrosse Association, running from peewees up to junior—in fact we won a junior OLA title last year. Harry Whipper, St. Catharines student at McGill, will be head coach for the PMLA-ers this season, but many local managers and coaches are needed to look after the various minor clubs. These and others interested in the setup should take in the annual re-organization meeting at 21 Manning Ave. at eight p.m. Monday. Election of officers, reports, plans, and so forth.

* * * * * *

A word on the basketeers. Two girls' games tonight in the YW, starting at eight, Black's vs. CGE, and Nurses vs. Lindsay, return tussles of their quarter-finals. PCVS bantam boys open lakeshore finals in Bowmanville. On the morrow, three Collegiate crews are in COSSA semi-finals, and mayhap finals, up Toronto way, the junior girls' and boys' teams and the senior PCI-ers. They meet Niagara Falls, the junior lads going against Stamford in the aft. At eight Saturday night in the "Y" here, Marines wind up their provincial intermediate "B" semi-finals 'gainst Church of Messiah, Toronto, that team having a seven-point lead from the first playoff.

This Is The Big One

All puck paths lead toward Civic Arena tonight when Owen Sound Mercurys and the Petes resume their series at 8.30 of the clock. Third of their best-of-seven Allan Cup playdown serial, with the northerners having won the first two games. Coach Drake Jopling's squad have to get digging in there this eve, or they've had it. A loss would be about fatal as it would be too much to expect to have Petes drop the first three and win the next four. No, this is the one they've got to take, ere hitting up toward Georgian Bay on Saturday, a fifth if necessary being there Monday. No doubt the arena will be jammed to the rafters tonight.

* * * * * *

While Mercurys are a fast, experienced crew of senior "A" pucksters, they can be beaten—and darned near were in overtime here in that thriller Wednesday. But every one of the Petes must give all he has every minute he's on the ice. That extra step and extra bit of hustle is the difference against strong opposition in playoffs. Streamlined hockey is assured since the Sounders will be trying hard to clean up this series and proceed along the Allan Cup playdown path, whilst the Petes will be fighting for survival on home ice and before a large, sympathetic crowd. Come on, gang, let's see you really fight for the whole 60 minutes this time and grab a win! This is it. Don't let the senior season end here this week.

Bees Play The Links

OHA junior "B" group finals resume at the arena Saturday e'en at 8.30, Oshawa Bees playing the local Oddfellows. Each has taken a win on home ice and this is the third of their best-in-seven sawoffs. Bun Kingdon's IOOF-ers won by one goal in the opener here, and the Bees buzzed to a victory by two markers in the Motor City —but one was scored with the goalie taken off the ice in the dying seconds of the scrap. Doris, West, Douglas, Morrow and Wyatt are supplying the playoff punch to date, with Brian Robinson, Floyd and Armstrong not far behind, but they've all got to hustle as the Bees rubbed out Belleville in three straight and are hot at the moment. The tilt rates a hefty gallery.

* * * * * *

Quite a few customers on deck at the arena last gloaming to see the OMHA midget "A" semi-final (two-game) series open. They saw a fine fray with St. Catharines Masons yanking out a 4-3 win o'er the Marines, ably handled by Al Watkins and Ed Woodcock. Bud McDougall got the first local tally from Gary Kearns and Jerry Frizzelle, and then Kearns counted two more, Murray Byrnes aiding on one. They made it a real battle and stand an even chance of overcoming that one-goal deficit in the return tilt at St. Kitts either Tuesday or Thursday of next week. Winner takes on Stratford for the provincial crown. This is our last of three OMHA teams in semi-finals, the bantams and juves losing out recently.

PLYMTREE, Devon. England (CP).—Five days a week a truck travels eight miles to a nearby school with a lunch for one pupil. The others eat at home. The solitary lunch costs the pupil five pence (seven cents) a day, while the education committee pays 12s 6d. ($1.85).

St. Kitts Edge Marines In First Fray

St. Catharines Masons edged Outboard Marine midgets 4-3 last night at Civic Arena in the first of a home-and-home semi-final OMHA hockey series. The winner will advance in finals against Stratford and the return fixture is slated for St. Kitts either next Tuesday or Thursday.

Last night's close, clean, exciting struggle was witnessed by a large crowd of enthusiastic fans who cheered as the boys of both clubs played it wide open all the way.

Opens Scoring

Nipper Nash scored the only goal of the first chapter as he combined nicely with Rick Norton and Ches Worchel to beat Delanaye, but Bud McDougall equalized for the Woodcock, Watkins crew from Gary Kearns and Jerry Frizzelle on a nice play early in the second. Kearns put Marines one up slightly over a minute later on a fine combination with Murray Byrnes, who starred throughout, but Masons came back to pot two later in the frame as play steamed back and forth with little to choose between the teams. Elmer Vasco and Chuck Stewart were the marksmen. Gary Kearns tied the score near the three-quarter mark in the mid-session as he swished a dandy 20-footer past Day following a ganging attack and wild scramble.

Play continued at a terrific clip in the final period with the visitors getting the only marker of the stanza on a drive that eluded Delahaye though he partially stopped it through a maze of players early in the play. Marines fought hard to the end, but were unable to find anew their scoring ways. It was a thrilling contest all the way as close and hard fought as the score indicates. There were nine penalties, six going to Vic Teal's visitors.

Bob Delahaye played a fine game in the home net, as did Day in the opposite twine cage. Though Byrnes stood out, every Marine tried very hard and the Masons also gave all with Worchall, Norton, Stewart, Nash and Vasco very effective.

St. Catharines — Goal, Day; defence, Hines, Hope; centre, Norton; wings, Worchal, Nash; alternates, Plata, Stewart, Selekian, Bowdne, Greer, Thompson, Vasco, Redmond, Lukasik.

Marines—Goal, Delahaye; defence, McGillen, Byrnes; centre, Frizzelle; wings, McDougall, Kearns; alternates, McCormick, Ball, Corbett, Holden, Strickland, McGrath, Turner.

Referees — Perry McIntosh, Ralph Wakelin.

Black Hawks Win

NORWOOD, March 16—(ENS)—The Norwood Peewee League staged their final playoff game in the arena on Wednesday before a few parents.

Even though the ice was soft the Black Hawks came through with a 3-2 win over the Maple Leafs. Rusaw put in the lone goal for the Leafs in the first period. Rusaw again scored in the second with Burtt from Hannon tallying for the Hawks. In the third, Smith from Hannon tied the score 2-2. Scott came in with the tie-breaker a minute later, making it 3-2.

Maple Leafs: Goal, K. Thompson; defence, L. Gordon, B. Hannivan; centre, D. Rusaw; wings, W. Smith, N. Telford; alternates, D. McManus.

Black Hawks: Goal, M. Ranson; defence, M. Hannon, D. Smith; centre, G. Millett; wings, C. Burtt, H. Scott; alternates, W. Ranson, P. Hinds, D. Johnson, B. Bongard, F. Morgan, R. Hamblin.

Referees, Arthur Spring and Ross Aldred.

After the game (the Black Hawks being the winners of this year's series) the goalie, Murray Ranson, was presented with the champion's cup on behalf of the Black Hawk team by John Petersen, a TVL player. The runner-up cup was presented to the goalie of the Maple Leafs, Kenneth Thompson by John Petersen.

HONOLULU, March 16 (AP)—Ford Konno, Hawaii high school senior, swam 220 yards freestyle in two minutes, 6.6 seconds on Thursday night to break his own American record of 2:06.8 set here last week. The world record of 2:05.5 is held by Australia's John Marshall.

Burt Harrison's Rink Gets Colts' Curling Competition

A scoring splurge that lasted three ends—the sixth, seventh and eighth—enabled the Peterborough rink skipped by Burt Harrison to win the eighth annual OCA Colts' competition for the Harvey J. Sims trophy at the Granite Club last night. Peterborough defeated Toronto, skipped by Bill Graham 10-8.

The losers, who were highly rated by local followers of the game, started out strongly and led 3-0, after three ends and 6-1 after five. But the Petes came through with a three on the sixth and a single on the seventh to cut the margin to one shot. They forged to the front with another three on the eighth and from there on matched their opponents, each scoring two singles in the last four ends.

Graham cut the margin to one shot with his single on the eleventh and was counting one when Harrison played his last rock. He made a cold draw to the button for shot, and a two-shot victory.

It was the first time either club has been represented in the final of the Colts.

Hamilton Vics, with Borden Davidson as skip and Brian Timmis providing weight as vice-skip, won the Dunlop Trophy by defeating George Bates of Orillia, 10-6. In this final, the losers also got away to a good start, leading 4-1 after three ends but the Vics evened the count on the fifth and steadily increased the margin.

In the morning round Graham eliminated A. Youngblood of Fergus 14-5, and in the afternoon turned back J. Nelson Brown of Detroit Club, 16-11, by means of an early lead. Brown had previously turned back Oscar Bigford of Brockville in a meeting of the most widely-separated rinks in the event, 12-9.

This game was not decided until the last stone. Brown was two up coming home but Bigford was counting four when the Detroit skip played his last rock. It was a perfect draw on tricky ice and gave him a winning margin of three.

In the bottom half of the draw, Harrison accounted for George Bates of Orillia, 13-11 and then advanced at the expense of R. F. Tolmie of Kitchener Granites, 18-6, in the afternoon. In the morning, Tolmie eliminated B. Davidson of Hamilton Vics, 13-6.

Leafs Wallop U.S. Team 16-2

PARIS, March 16 (CP). —Lethbridge Maple Leafs today hit the first phase of the two-game test that will decide whether they retain for Canada the world hockey championship.

The Canadians meet Switzerland (at 3:45 p.m. EST) now trailing the Leafs by one point on an equal number of games. After that they take on Sweden, one point ahead of them with one more game played.

If a tie should result, Canada's huge edge in goals scored would be a decisive factor.

The Leafs are confident they can retain the crown won by Edmonton Mercurys last year. Coach Dick Gray said Thursday before Canada dumped the United States 16-2:

"We'll just go on taking each game as it comes. But I think we'll win tonight and tomorrow night and the next night."

Thee blue-jerseyed Swedes trimmed Finland Thursday 11-3 without exertion and in the other Group A game Norway scored three goals in the final period to overcome Britain 4-3.

In Group B, Italy virtually clinched the minor championship by thrashing Yugoslavia 6-1. France white-washed Belgium 10-0 in the other encounter.

City Loop Results

Phil Pryde rolled a single of 340 to lead in the City Bowling League this week, and Alf Mattucci hit a three of 796 for tops. The McGillis team smashed out a high team total of 3610, and Shockey's 1310 was best for single games among teams. Shockey's blanked Clapper's and McGillis took Moore's 6-0, a similar brush being used by Esquires on Sunocos. Other wins were 4-2 affairs by Cavanagh's, Dunn's and Fashion-Craft over Bond's, Swartz and Campbell & Best in that order. Good single games were rolled by Stan Murduff with 333, Mike Caccavella 326, Roy Suddards 325, Alf Mattucci 323, Tic Caccavella 323 and Eldon Downer 322.

Watson And Layton In Rematch For Championship

It's Whipper Billy Watson and Lord Athol Layton in a rematch for the British Empire Title at the Brock Arena next Tuesday. This week's bout between this pair went a full hour without a decision being reached. Both contestants agreed to the rematch, and the Whip will put his title on the line.

Fans were unanimous in declaring this week's bout the best match ever staged at the Brock Arena. Layton figures he had an edge on the Whip and will take the title next Tuesday. True, the Whipper was plenty groggy at the finish but claims he will use a different plan of attack to offset Layton's punishing judo. It will be a mat classic, and will draw another capacity crowd.

Sonny Kurgis is given a tough job in the semi-final, meeting up with huge Wee Willie Davis. Kurgis is very popular here.

Bill Stack of Bowmanville will make his first appearance here this year, taking on Tommy O'Toole in the opener.

Carl Tamblyn's Goals Give Cambray 6-5 Win

LINDSAY, March 16 — Carl Tamblyn scored two goals in the last 25 seconds of play to give Cambray Cardinals a 6-5 win over Glen Williams in the opening game of the ORHA Intermediate "B" finals.

Centreman Ingles turned the hat trick as the Western Ontario team took a 5-2 lead in the first two periods, but the Cards came back with Lloyd Tamblyn scoring half of the four-goal third period output and brother Carl sinking the tying and winning goals.

Wings Blank Bruins 4-0 As Toronto Edges Hawks

By MEL SUFFRIN,
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

Detroit Red Wings appear determined to see that their goaltender, rookie Terry Sawchuk, wins the Vezina Trophy and the accompanying $2,000 in prize money this season.

The whole team gave Terry such airtight protection Thursday night that he had to stop only 10 shots in Detroit's 4-0 victory over Boston Bruins. It was Sawchuk's second shutout in a row.

The Vezina Trophy goes to the goaltender for the team with the fewest goals against it. With 130 against him, Sawhcuk now has a lead of five on the Toronto Maple Leafs' goalie combination of Al Rollins and Turk Broda. Rollins let three go by in Chicago Thursday night as Toronto beat the Black Hawks 5-3.

In the other National Hockey League game, Montreal Canadiens vaulted into third place ahead of Boston and New York Rangers, defeating the New Yorkers 5-3 in Montreal.

A crowd of 11,179 was in Olympia Stadium in Detroit to watch Sawchuk score his 10th shutout of the season. He shared the spotlight with Gordie Howe, the league's top scorer, who added his 37th and 38th goals of the campaign.

At Montreal, another rookie, Bernie (Boom-Boom) Geoffrion, was the star. He scored two goals and assisted on another as Canadiens maintained their hot pace, taking a single point lead over New York and Boston in the race for the third and fourth playoff spots.

A hefty crowd of 14,631 was on hand as Don Raleigh, Reg Sinclair and Ed Slowinski scored for New York. Besides Geoffrion, Bert Olmstead, Butch Bouchard and Paul Meger tallied for Canadiens.

The Chicago game meant nothing to either Toronto or Chicago as far as the standings are concerned. Chicago can't get out of the cellar and Leafs are assured of second place.

However, the Hawks made a show of it, taking a 2-1 lead in the first period on goals by Bill Mosienko and Fred Hucul, while Bill Barilko was scoring for Toronto.

Jim Conacher made it 3-1 in the middle period and then Harry Watson, Ted Kennedy and Max Bentley tallied for Toronto. Watson got his second goal to wind up the scoring in the third period.

PAINTED PUCKS — Here are two painted pucks with varied color schemes submitted to Pres. Campbell of the National Hockey League. The one on the left was striped vertically on the outside in yellow. In motion, however, it shows no color contrast. The one on the right, devised by a League official, is rimmed and centered in yellow, and has excellent visibility when in motion. It may become the official puck.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

A brain specialist said Thursday he agreed with the late Willie McGeehan, a noted sports writer, who said "boxing is the manly art of modified murder."

"Boxing," said Dr. Philip J. Vogel, "is really not a sport. I wouldn't want my son to box."

Dr. Vogel who heads the neurosurgical department of the College of Medical Evangelists explained at a medical convention the physical hazards this way:

If the direct force of a blow carries through the lower part of the brain—which includes the brain stem and the mid-brain—hemorrhage in that area can cause death. A punch to the jaw can produce such a force.

The Florida State Racing Commission will hold an open hearing March 23 to determine whether it should continue 20-minute embargo on transmission of race results from the State's tracks.

The commission ruling, which took effect Feb. 12, forbids transmission of any results until 20 minutes after the official outcome is posted at the track.

The rule was imposed at the request of Richard Ervin, Florida Attorney General, who expressed belief it would help curb unlawful off-the-track bookmaking.

Jockey Jim Molony, scheduled to ride Arctic Gold, United States-owned 8-1 favorite, in the Grand National Steeplechase next month, cracked his collarbone in a fall at the Fontwell Park track Thursday. He went down with his mount at a water jump in the first race.

Molony said he could not tell whether he would be able to handle Arctic Gold, property of Jock Whitney, until he had seen a doctor.

The United States Justice Department Thursday moved to deport Salvatore Sollazzo, 47-year-old alleged fixer of college basketball games in the New York City area.

The department announced that a warrant of arrest, calling for Sollazzo's deportation to his native Italy, was served on him late Thursday in the New York City jail where he is held on a state indictment charging him with the bribery of 11 prominent cage players.

At Los Angeles, Dave Greenburg, west coast scout for Montreal Alouettes of the Interprovincial Rugby Football Union, said Thursday he is certain that Herman Wedemeyer, former St. Mary's College ace, and Bob Celeri, former California, will play next season with the Canadian club.

London promoter Jack Solomons asked Sugar Ray Robinson's manager by cable Thursday to state his terms for a welterweight bout in England against Eddie Thomas of Wales.

Robinson is still recognized by the British Boxing Board of Control as the world welterweight champion. But the National Boxing Association has named Johnny Bratton as Robinson's successor as welter king.

Transportation Troubles Hit Prairies Most Heavily

OTTAWA, Marcht 16 (CP). — Transportation disadvantages bear most heavily on the provinces away from the centre of Canada, the Royal Commission on Transportation found in its report tabled Thursday in the Commons.

The commission said freight-rate increases do not have anywhere near the effect in Ontario and Quebec that they do in the outlying provinces. It listed major disadvantages of the non-central provinces, including:

Maritimes

1. Dependence on the central Canadian market and the relatively-long haul from the Maritimes to this area.

2. Specialization in the production of primary products, which implies heavy dependence on sources of supply and markets outside the Maritimes.

The commission was non-committal in dealing with claims that the Canadian tariff policy has worked to the disadvantage of the Maritimes by limiting markets abroad and increasing the cost of imported supplies.

As to the argument by some Maritime spokesmen that the tariff has tended to concentrate industry in central Canada, the commission said one of the tendencies of industry is to seek the centre of the community, even where there is no tariff protection. That gave a transportation disadvantage.

Newfoundland

1. The island suffers because of its insular position, distance from markets and supply sources, and the time needed for economic changes resulting from its absorption into Canada.

2. Its tranportation facilities are considerably below the standards of other provinces.

Prairie Provinces

1. Traffic originating on the prairies is more subject to the long-haul problem than any other in Canada.

2. The maturing economies of the prairie provinces have become "restive" under a freight-rate structure too closely adapted to an area of primary production. There is friction between the traditional rate structure and the drive for industrial development and economic diversification.

3. The commission's observations concerning the effect of tariff policy apply with great force to the prairies.

British Columbia

1. Like the Maritimes and the prairies, British Columbia is located far from its chief external markets, but the effect of distance is moderated by the availability of water transportation to overseas markets.

2. British Columbia gets its chief capital and consumer goods from other parts of Canada.

3. B.C. is subject to "the usual vulnerability of a Canadian primary producer selling in foreign markets and buying in a protected market."

Ontario-Quebec

Dealing with the two central provinces, the commission said they enjoy the advantages of a great variety of resources and cheap water transportation as well as extensive truck transportation.

While the tariff undoubtedly contributed to the economic development of this area, it would be in any case probably have become the most populous and most industrialized region of the country.

General

Speaking generally, the commission said the main cause of complaint from the outlying provinces was that they suffer disadvantages because of long freight hauls.

It expressed the hope there would be relief through measures it proposed—including equalization of freight rates across the country, the limitation of freight-rate increases on long-haul traffic and a federal subsidy to help pay the cost of operating the rail "bridge" between east and west in northern Ontario.

Ruled Competent

SANTA MONICA, Calif., March 16 (AP).—A Superior Court jury Thursday decided that Truman B. Leonard, 99, retired Alberta wheat grower, is competent to handle his own affairs. He petitioned for dismissal of a guardianship obtained April 12, 1950, by his daughter, Mrs. Marie L. Homes of Dewitt, Mich. A psychiatrist testified then that Leonard suffered from senility. He valued his estate at $40,000 and said he was born on a farm near Chatham.

Man From India Finds Canada Stimulating Spot

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Ian Stephens, editor of the Statesman of Calcutta and New Delhi, has published in an attractively-illustrated booklet his impressions of Canada.

Mr. Stephens, a Briton who has spent 20 years in India, gathered his impressions on a visit to Canada last summer as a member of the Indian delegation to the Commonwealth Press Conference.

The greater part of his visit was some 1,400 miles of travel through Ontario and Quebec, and he calls his booklet "A Novice In Canada." Despite the limitations on his travels, he studied our situation carefully, and his views make stimulating reading for Canadians whether or not they agree with him completely.

They made stimulating reading in India and Pakistan, too, when originally published there as newspaper articles judging by the large number of letters to the editor which they brought forth.

For the most part they make pleasant reading for Canadians. For instance:

"Canada is delightful. It does good to body and mind. Canadians are kind. They are natural, unrestrained. Canada gives a tonic sense of living as a free, naturally-expanding economy."

Social Structure

Our social structure seems to be caught by the following:

"In general, Canadians of all classes (or degrees of wealth), when at work, work hard, and show zest for it—as do Americans. To visitors, this is perhaps most conspicuous in the hotel trade. Service of a personal nature is considered a job like any other, to be done efficiently and fast—not demeaning drudgery to be got through in take-it-or-leave-it style, as nowadays in Britain, in Australia perhaps always, and to some extent in New Zealand."

Mr. Stephens came to Canada "very open to the supposition that her natural destiny might be eventual fusion with the United States." His pre-arrival study had shown him a "freak nation . . . no broader than from London to Paris, but as long as from London to Karachi." He asked:

"Can a country so outlandishly shaped be truly a nation? Will it last?"

By the time he left he had decided:

"Canada . . . is truly a nation, cohesive and durable—and unlikely, within any foreseeable future, to become merged with the United States . . . As an independent member of an evolving Atlantic community, she has a distinctive and necessary function to fulfill . . . On a new continent, a wonderful new type of national entity has been born."

Approve Plan Single Ballot

PARIS, March 16 —(AP)— A single ballot system of voting in France's next general elections—possibly in June—was approved Thursday by the lower house of parliament. The vote in the national assembly was 318 to 282.

This issue has divided parties in the middle-road crisis.

Details of the system remain to be worked out, but the legislature appeared to have gone a long way toward solving one of the bitterest issues before it.

A few weeks ago the assembly turned down the very proposal it approved today.

The favorable vote was made possible by a switch of Premier Henri Queuille's Radical Socialist Party (Moderates), which previously had held out for a two-ballot system.

The party apparently decided it was compensated by having one of its leaders holding two major offices—that of premier and interior minister.

Mission Band Hears Talk on Rice-Planting

SPRINGVILLE, March 16 —(ENS).—The monthly meeting of Springville Mission Band was held Saturday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Johnston.

Twelve members were present and their leader, Mrs. Clifford Johnston. Carolyn Whitfield read the scripture and little Nancy Johnston, four, sang a solo, "You Go To Your Church And I'll Go To Mine." A story of rice-planting in Japan was told by the leader, and the group made a poster showing some homes and a church in Japan and the people on the way to worship.

The refreshment committee was Gail Lillico and Neal Cathcart.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Ball and Mr. and Mrs. Manson Cathcart have returned from a motor trip to Florida.

112 Attend Euchre At Community Hall

Minifie, Arthur Parker, Miss Eva Willis, Ray Eagleson, Bailieboro, Miss Annie Moffatt, Mrs. Cephas Brisbin, Cobourg.

The Rev. R. D. Duncanson introduced Mrs. Frank Potts, director of the play, who spoke a few words of introduction.

The cast was as follows: Fred Halliday, Ray Parr; Carol, Doris Hoard; Joan, Isobel Hume; Granny Halliday, Queenie Anderson; Professor Chipper, Harold Snarr; Terry Donovan, Gerald Heagle; Mrs. Lovejoy, Mildred Heagle; Wanda, Reta Parr; Sonya, Betty Thompson; Winks, Alex. TWO CHIMNEYS RISING LIKE MONUMENTS to disaster mark the smoldering ruin of a Mont Rolland country home, high over the Father Labelle Highway in the background, where two children and a young woman perished in the early morning flames that swept the place recently. Workers search for the bodies through the smoke. The stairway at extreme right is the only scrap of wood left standing following the sudden fire.

Irish All Over World Take Stage On St. Patrick's Day

By HARRY ECCLES
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

All the other breeds of men can take a back seat Saturday when the sons of the Ould Sod celebrate the Feast of St. Patrick.

There will be bands playing and thousands parading, celebrations and festivities and millions wearing a sprig of green to mark the great day. It is 1,490 years now since the Patron Saint of Ireland died, and his memory grows ever brighter as the historic legends get their annual refurbishing.

St. Patrick brought Christianity to Ireland so long ago that even the day of his death was the subject of argument. March 17 was generally accepted as a compromise between the dates of March 8 and 9, A.D. 461, which an old Irish priest simply added together to get the great 17th.

Historians agree he was born in 389 in Wales and was carried off to Ireland as a slave boy. He escaped to France some years later and returned to Ireland as a missionary. He founded probably 365 churches and baptized 12,000 persons with his own hands.

There's just as much mystery about the shamrock itself as there is about St .Patrick. But it was St. Patrick who made the shamrock immortal. When a Druid priest at Tara challenged the mystery of the Holy Trinity St. Patrick picked up a shamrock to show that three could combine in one—that one could be three.

Genuine Shamrock

Saturday's celebrants won't look at the shamrock too closely, but like everything else Irish there is an argument attached o it. Eminent botanists who have made a thorough study of the matter have been unable to point to any one definite species of plant and say this is the genuine shamrock.

At least they have narrowed the field down to three specimens, all of which have their supporters. They are the true wood sorrel, the white clover, and the watercress. The wood sorrel sounds most genuine because of early descriptions of its form and habitat, and the fact that its leaves were eaten. (And still are in some places).

Anyway there will be no quibbling over scientific facts when the legions gather at various centres to mark the day in style. One of Canada's biggest celebrations is at Montreal, while New York has a parade that may run to 75,000 or 80,000 participants. In cities, towns and villages all over the land fitting celebrations will be held.

And the celebrations on this side will rival the festivities in the Old Land itself, a "sovereign, independent democratic state" since the Republic of Ireland Act came into force at Dublin in 1949 —on St. Patrick's Day, of course.

Says 3 Senators Should Resign

OTTAWA, March 16 (CP). — Senator Ralph Horner (PC-Saskatchewan) said in the Senate on Thursday that three of his colleagues ought to resign from the positions they hold in political organizations—including Senator Gordon Fogo, president of the National Liberal Federation. The core criticism of the Senate which was well founded was that "some of our members are active in politics and continue to hold important offices in political organizations," Senator Horner said during a debate on Senate reform.

He named Senator Fogo, Senator Wesley Stambaugh (L-Alberta), president and organizer of the Liberal Party in Alberta and Senator George Burchill (L-New Brunswick), president of the Liberal Association of New Brunswick.

"To my mind," said Senator Horner, "it detracts from the dignity and honor of this body when Senators travel about the country and work and use their prestige to advance the interests of any political party."

Mother, 4 Children Get $26,436 Damages

The jury at the trial held that Dyck, driver of the car which struck Stewart, was 35 per cent negligent. Duncan, driver of another automobile which had forced Dyck to turn suddenly, was found 65 per cent negligent.

Alberta Against Imposition Of Price Controls Again

By The Canadian Press.

Premier E. C. Manning of Alberta Thursday expressed opposition to reimposition of price controls in Canada. He said the basic solution to the country's economic problems is maximum production of the goods the people need.

He said maximum production has not been accomplished because of "unnecessary and unwarranted interference by the government of Canada in business" and the Dominion's taxation system "which has been the greatest deterrent to production."

Saskachewan's Attorney-General J. W. Corman said Thursday the Saskatchewan Law Society mounted an "insidious" attack on the CCF during the provincial general election in 1948.

He spoke in the Legislature on a Bill which would abolish a committee on which two benchers of the Law Society have had a voice in the selection of King's Counsel.

A resolution calling for compulsory government automobile insurance was defeated Thursday in the Manitoba Legislature by a vote of 41-8.

Outline Pension Plan

A Federal-Provincial pension scheme which would bring increased benefits to the aged and at the same time save the province about $130,000 yearly was outlined in the Newfoundland Legislature Thursday by Welfare Minister Herble I. Pottle.

He said the province approved a plan for pensions of $40 monthly to persons over 70 and $40 monthly payment for persons between 65-69 to be financed on a 50-50 basis by Federal and Provincial governments.

He said the plan would be cheaper than the present scheme whereby the Federal government pays three-quarters of the old-age pension for persons 70 and older.

The Nova Scotia Legislature killed by a vote of 23-7 a CCF resolution, supported by the Progressive Conservative Opposition, asking for price controls.

Some form of forestry legislation for Prince Edward Island was being considered, Minister of Natural Resources and Industry Eugene Cullen said in the PEI Legislature Thursday. Consideration was being given, he said, to control of outside interests coming to the province and buying up land.

Blacklist Plan Shocks Teachers

TORONTO, March 16—(CP)—Nora Hodgins, secretary-treasurer of the Ontario Teachers' Federation, said in a statement Thursday the Federation was shocked by the suggestion that schools in the province blacklist teachers who participate or threaten to participate in mass resignations.

The suggestion was made by Fred B. Pense of Kingston, president of the Ontario Urban and Rural School Trustees Association, at the organization's meeting in Guelph.

"If it is good for the Teachers' Federation to blacklist Boards (of Education), the same principle should apply to teachers," Mr. Pense said.

Miss Hodgins' statement said:

"We are shocked at the idea that trustees should wish to prevent teachers from leaving their positions in an effort to better themselves. Only in those states dominated by totalitarian philosophy is the right of the individual to change his job denied."

Declare Cabinet Shake-Up Needed Over Wheat Pact

OTTAWA, March 16 (CP).—A new wave of opposition criticism, spiced with hints there should be a cabinet shake-up, was directed at the government Thursday as the Commons continued debate on settlement of the former Anglo-Canadian wheat agreement.

In the wake of a statement by Prime Minister St. Laurent that there is no dissension in the cabinet over the settlement, opposition leaders described what they termed were diverging cabinet viewpoints.

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, said every statement made by Agriculture Minister Gardiner in the debate on the settlement was in "clear defiance of the facts." Mr. Gardiner's views differed from those of Trade Minister Howe.

Mr. Drew noted that in the ordinary course a minister who dissented with the cabinet either reconciled his views or resigned.

M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, said Mr. Gardiner had deliberately misled the House and the Canadian people. He believed that anyone who did that could no longer have the confidence of his fellow-members of the cabinet of the House, or of the country.

Defeat CCF motion

The debate was interrupted long enough for members to defeat by a vote of 168 to 24 a CCF motion calling for a payment of 25 cents a bushel. Support for the motion came from the CCF and Social Credit parties, from Douglas Harkness (PC-Calgary East), John Decore (L-Vegreville), and F. H. Helme (L-Prince Albert).

J. A. Ross (PC-Souris) said he would have voted for it, too, but he was paired with Agriculture Minister Gardiner, now in western Canada on government business.

Members gave third and final reading to a bill extending the life of the foreign-exchange control board for another two years. The measure now goes to the Senate.

Mr. St. Laurent tabled the 200,000-word report of the Royal Commission which studied Canada's transportation systems. He said legislation based on some recommendations of the commission undoubtedly will be introduced at this session.

Will Co-operate

External Affairs Minister Pearson said Canada has been assured that the United States still desires to co-operate in implementation of the Commonwealth Colombo plan to build up south and southeast Asia.

In the wheat debate, Mr. Drew said Mr. Gardiner had stated that the U.K. had refused to fill obligations under the contract. Mr. Howe said he deplored any suggestion that Britain had not "played fair" with Canada.

Mr. St. Laurent said it was obvious that in any government under a parliamentary system all members "do not necessarily always have the same thoughts or use the same expressions." They obviously did not have the same views.

"On the facts, we are agreed; on the policy, we are agreed; on the recommendation we are going to make to parliament, we are agreed," he said. That recommendation is for payment of the $65,000,000 to western farmers.

Mr. Coldwell said documents exchanged between Britain and Canada showed that settlement of the contract was "signed, sealed and delivered" May 30 last, months before Mr. Gardiner's assertion last week that Britain had "refused" to pay a further settlement.

4 Men Hurt, 2 Cars Meet Headon

All Are Knocked Out By Force of Impact Cause Not Yet Known

Four men are in Civic Hospital with injuries sustained late Thursday afternoon when two cars met in a headon collision on Highway 28, five miles south of Peterborough.

All four are reported to be in satisfactory condition today. They are:

J. A. Armour, 69, 730 Park St. south, a broken nose and wrist.

Herbert Cunningham, 68, 198 Montgomery St., severe bruises and a possible rib injury.

Dr. Plato Micklochin, 40, Toronto, severe cuts on the head as well as other head injuries.

Edmund T. Parkin, 38, also of Toronto, head injuries.

Dr. Micklochin was the most seriously hurt. His head was embedded in the windshield when he was thrown forward by the crash. An engineer, he was accompanying Parkin who was making a weekly check on the progress of the Prince of Wales addition.

Edmund Parkin is one of the firm of J. B. Parkin Associates, architects for the Peterborough Board of Education.

Returning to Toronto

The two were returning to Toronto when they collided with the northbound car driven by Cunningham. The accident occurred at the "five-mile turn" opposite Berry's service station. Cause of the collision is not yet known. All four men were knocked out by the force of the impact and their memories today are still hazy about details.

One explanation advanced is that the Cunningham car was about to turn into the service station which is on the west side of the highway.

Howard Berry, proprietor of the service station, heard the crash but did not see the actual collision. The cars ended up side by side on the highway with both front ends smashed to the extent of $900.

"I noticed the man in the southbound car (Dr. Micklochin) was unconscious with his head stuck in the windshield of the car," said Berry. "I pulled his head out of the glass and settled him back on the seat."

Both Unconscious

He then went to the Cunningham car to see if he could be of assistance but both Cunningham and Armour were unconscious and apparently less seriously injured than Dr. Micklochin who was bleeding badly from the cuts.

Berry then used some paper handkerchiefs to help stanch the flow of blood.

The men were taken to hospital by ambulance.

Armour is caretaker of the county garage and Cunningham is a road foreman. At the time of the accident they were driving to Sherbrooke St. (outside the city limits) where they were to put up "stop" signs along the highway.

Provincial Constable L. H. Stinson investigated.

A CANADIAN NEWSPAPER MAN, H. L. Garner of Peterborough, was elected this week president of the Air Cadet League of Canada for 1951. An active member of the League since it was founded ten years ago, Mr. Garner served for some time as chairman of the Ontario Provincial Committee, and, more recently, as a member of the national executive committee of the League. M. Banker Bates (left), retiring president, congratulates Mr. Garner on his election while Air Marshal W. A. Curtis, Chief of Air Staff, looks on.

Union Formed By Employees Civic Hospital

Bargaining between the Civic hospital's board of governors and the organized hospital employees has not yet begun, but the first steps were taken Thursday night at the board's meeting.

The employees claim a majority as members of the National Civil, Utility and Electrical Workers. They have submitted their proposals to the board.

Thursday night, it was decided by the board to refer these proposals to the executive committee for study and preparation of counter-proposals.

The question was discussed of the board passing a bylaw to declare itself outside the control of the Ontario Labor Relations Board. Legal opinions given the board and its members varied.

Still Have To Bargain

"I don't think it's a question of whether we are inside or outside the Labor Relations Board's jurisdiction," said Chairman John R. Marshall. "We will still have to bargain with the employees."

The motion to refer the employees' proposals to the executive commitee was made by Ald. Hugh Waddell and seconded by T. T. Rodger.

It was pointed out by Mr. Marshall that the employees had not asked for certification by the ORLB. "They are willing to bargain without certification," he said.

Archdeacon Reports

Easter Weather Variable

Archdeacon W. P. Robertson includes in his Easter announcements to parishioners of St. John's Church a chatty summary of Easter weather in recent years that is of general interest.

He quotes his weather notes from his service records. They tend to emphasize the variability of the weather at Eastertime, both in March and April.

"Do you remember last Easter (1950)? It was on April 9th, alleged to be the ideal date for a fixed Easter. My note: "Should have changed with Christmas; frost and snow".

1949—Palm Sunday, April 10th. "A perfect Spring day"; but Easter, 17th, "Snow".

1948—Good Friday, March 26th, "Perfect Spring" but Easter, 28th, "A white world".

1947—March 23rd was Passion Sunday. It was the day that Archbishop Owen dedicated the East Window. So mild that clergy and choir went out-of-doors to make a procession up the centre. But, on the 26th came a blizzard over all Ontario. Record low barometer, 27.5. No trains, no mail.

In 1946 Easter was April 21st. "Ideal Weather" and in 1945 Easter was April 1st also noted as "Ideal". In this year March gave temperatures as high as 76.

So now we know how dependable is this mild March! What will Easter, March 25th, Lady Day, Old New Year's Day, First day of Spring . . . what will it be? "Wait and See".

Fast Work Aids Car Recovery

A car stolen in Toronto Thursday morning about 10 o'clock was recovered in Peterborough about noon and an arrest made at 2:25 p.m.

Lorne Cromie, 23, 492 Elm St., was arrested and taken to Toronto on a charge of theft.

Cromie was spotted driving the car but before police could find him, the car had been parked on Aylmer St. near Simcoe.

Detective-Sergeant W. A. Clarke checked with Toronto police to find out whether the car had been stolen. When his suspicions were confirmed, he detailed Constable Louis Rodreque to watch the car.

After some time, he saw Cromie and three other youths come to the car. Constable Rodreque arrested all four of them.

After questioning, three were released and Toronto police asked that Cromie be held for them. He was taken to Toronto today.

Hold 2 Youths On Theft Counts

Two youths, Douglas Johnson, 17, 650 Armour Rd., and Kenneth Meeks, 18, were charged in police court today with theft of tires and rims and breaking, entry and theft.

Johnson was charged with stealing tires and rims from Nick Peconi, Lansdowne St., used car dealer, March 5. Meeks was charged with breaking into the service station of Hec Gray on Reid St. Feb. 18. Both were remanded on $500 bail until March 22.

Johnson and Meeks were arrested in Toronto Wednesday night and brought to Peterborough Thursday by Detective-Sergeant John Stevenson.

Ask Controls On Costs Of Production

Dairies Will Ask For Extension Of Proposed Controls

"Milk distributors have no objection to the action of the Ontario government in freezing the price of milk," said W. G. Ovens of Campbell's Dairy today.

"But, we do ask that the government extend their control action to the costs of production."

Mr. Ovens attended yesterday a meeting of representative distributors in Toronto.

"The decision of the government was a surprise to all of us. For example in Essex county the distributors had agreed to an increase of 38 cents to the dairy farmer going into effect today. And the retail price of milk was going up from 21 to 22 cents a quart. Those advances were abruptly stopped, and the retail price in Windsor remains at 21 cents a quart. Producers continue to get $4.25 a hundred pounds of milk instead of something over $4.60.

Average cost here is $4.22¼ per cwt. and the consumer price is 19 cents a quart."

Mr. Ovens said the constituents of cost to the distributor would have to be taken into account by the government. Such things as the cost of dairy equipment, wages, fuel, and so on must be frozen at the same time as the price of milk.

"Feeling of the distributors was that this was strong action by the government, and all that we ask is that control be applied to our costs of production."

Eyebrows Raise At Old Clothes On Officeworkers

There were some raised eyebrows at CGE today as the officeworkers, members of Local 599, IUE-CIO, walked in dressed as though for a hard-time party.

Girls wore slacks and sweaters and the men came in old pants and sweaters, sports shirts, old dress shirts without ties, and other throwaway garments.

The whole thing was a gimmick to persuade the company that they couldn't afford to dress smartly on their present pay. Uh-huh, you guessed it. They want more money.

Meeting In Toronto

The negotiating committee — presumably better dressed than their brothers and sisters in Peterborough—is meeting today in Toronto with company officials.

At the membership meeting Wednesday night the office workers decided that they would work no more overtime until a settlement is reached; and they also hit on the idea of the hard-times parade.

They previously rejected a nine per cent salary increase offered by the company.

$104,652 Owing Civic Hospital

"Sometime in the future," a collection agent employed by the Civic Hospital will probably be necessary, T. T. Rodger predicted at the Board of Governors' meeting Thursday night.

Mr. Rodger pointed to his statement of accounts receivable which showed $104,652.31 owing the hospital. Collected from patients in February was $43,937.61.

"It would be more profitable for us to have a collection agent of our own," he said. The 25 per cent commission charged by collection agencies was a bit heavy, Mr. Rodger thought.

"If we did hire our own man," he said, "he would probably be available for other tasks."

Preserve Famous Oak

HORSHAM, Sussex, England (CP).—The famous oak tree in West Grinstead Park, near here, under which Alexander Pope is said to have written his poem, "Rape of the Lock," is to be preserved under an order issued by the ministry of local government and planning.

If It Is Not Betting House It Could Be Gaming House

Keeping a common gaming house and keeping a common betting, although under the same section of the criminal code, were not the same offence or charge, Magistrate W. R. Philp K. C., ruled in police court today.

As a result he would not allow a plea of autre fois acquit entered on behalf of Charles Griffin, manager of a lunch counter on King St. T. J. Carley K.C. entered the plea on the grounds that both charges were nothing more nor less than a charge of keeping a disorderly house. Since Griffin had been acquitted of keeping a common betting house—that is a disorderly house—he could not be tried on a charge of keeping a common gaming house, which was also a disorderly house.

Griffin was one of those charged as a result of a provincial police anti-gambling squad raid on several establishments Jan. 13.

Magistrate Philp ruled that the subject matter of the two charges was "separate and distinct."

Griffin will now have to appear on the gaming house charge in police court Monday. The charge was laid in connection with a pin ball machine.

FEWER HOGS GRADED

The Canadian packing industry graded in February 10,273 fewer hogs than a year ago. The total was 366,853. In the west, Alberta and Saskatchewan were down 6,409 hogs and Manitoba and British Columbia were up 495.

OFF TO POOR START IN KINGSTON

When officially opening the new Kingston Memorial Centre on Wednesday night, President Jack Roxburgh of the Ontario Hockey Association startled the crowd of 3,200 — there to see Belleville and Kingston in a senior hockey playoff—by opening his address with these words: "Citizens of the city of Peterborough." It drew a hearty laugh.

Drama Festival Proposed Late In April

Peterborough and district's drama festival will take place April 19-21, it was decided at a meeting of the festival executives and representatives of play groups of city and district held Thursday evening in the committee room of the city buildings. The Board of Education is to be approached to rent the Queen Mary auditorium for the Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings, and a Saturday matinee.

Representatives of various theatre groups in the city and three persons from Port Hope and three from Oshawa Little Theatre attended the meeting which was held under the chairmanship of Peter McCombe.

The festival is to be conducted on the same non-competitive principles as the festival last year, when ten groups presented 15 one-act plays. A committee consisting of Mr. McCombe, chairman of the Festival; W. A. Brown, business manager, and T. J. Allen, secretary, was appointed to secure an adjudicator. The adjudicator last year was Professor Arnold Edinborough, of Queen's University.

An innovation this year will be to issue subscription tickets to give admission to all performances, at a price of $1.50. Single tickets for evening performances will be priced the same as last year at 75 cents. The Saturday matinee admission for juveniles and adults will be 25 cents.

Much concern was expressed by the Festival executive and the representatives from out-of-town points lest the Summer Theatre be excluded from the Queen Mary auditorium. On a motion of A. J. Noftall and Miss Eleanor Carroll, Mr. McCombe and Mr. Brown were delegated to speak for the Peterborough and District Drama Festival on this matter.

It was felt that any impairment of the professional Summer Theatre in Peterborough would be a diminution of even the amateur Drama Festival activities which are entirely non-commercial. Mr. Brown urged that the Festival executive and theatre group representatives concern themselves actively with the Summer Theatre's wish to rent the Queen Mary auditorium again this year.

Entries for the Festival must be made by March 29 at the office of the Recreational Director, Alex Sinclair.

Rev. Wm. Moorhead Called To Port Dover

REV. WILLIAM MOORHEAD

Rev. William Moorhead, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Moorhead, 621 George St., and a recent graduate of Knox College and the Chicago Seminary, has received a call from the Knox Presbyterian Congregation at Fort Dover. The call still has to be moderated by the Hamilton Presbytery but Mr. Moorhead has intimated that he would accept.

At the pre-communion service held in St. Paul's Church Thursday night, Mr. Moorhead preached. Twenty-nine members joined the church. Following the service a social hour was held in the Guild Room when the new members met the members of the session and other members of the congregation.

Tommy Hughes Is Winner Of Round (?) In Effort To Get Him Off Property

City Fails To Obtain Warrant Directing Sheriff To Take Possession of Hughes Property

Tommy Hughes, auto wrecker, will have to March 21 before vacating his house and 19 acres of expropriated land on Monaghan Road south. Judge S. L. Smoke Thursday turned down an application by the city for a warrant to direct the sheriff to take immediate possession of the property. W. F. Huycke, KC, city solicitor, asked the judge for the order because of the incident last Friday afternoon. He read the affidavit of Walter Deacon, civil engineer with the Franki Compressed Pile Co., who said Hughes deliberately rammed his truck into a "percussion test machine," used for drilling test holes in the soil.

Damage to the drilling machine, used for determining the type of soil and the depth of the water table was between $400-$500. This information was necessary before the architect, hired by the Board of Education could draw up plans for a new collegiate there.

Mr. Huycke read an affidavit from Deacon in which he told of an argument with Hughes who first drove up in a car ordering them off the property. Later Hughes re-appeared in a truck, and at a considerable rate of speed, bore down on the engineer and three workmen who were drilling.

The foreman jumped aside when it appeared he was going to be run down, and at the last moment Hughes swerved his truck southeast of the drill. Then, according to Deacon, Hughes backed up the truck into the machinery, almost completely wrecking it.

Woman In Truck

Mr. Huycke pointed out that Deacon observed a woman riding in the cab of the truck with Hughes. She threw her hands across her face as the truck neared the work party. And Mr. Huycke suggested this was because she feared that the foreman was going to be run down.

The city had expropriated the land and the men had a perfect right to be on it, continued Mr. Huycke.

"It is intolerable in a matter of this sort where large sums of public money are involved to have this sort of thing going on. All requirements have been met. It is intolerable for a man to drive around in a motor truck and try to run people down, though it may have been all right a couple of hundred years ago."

It was this "resistance and forcible opposition" on the part of Hughes to workmen legally on the expropriated property that made him ask the judge for an order to have Hughes forcibly dispossessed, Mr. Huycke said.

Filed Letter

John W. Corkery, appearing for W. J. Arthur Fair, solicitor for Hughes, filed a letter from Mr. Huycke to Mr. Fair, dated the same day as the incident.

The letter said in part:

"I have the letter of the 7th instant in which you state that Mr. Hughes will vacate the property on or before March 21. I have discussed the matter with Mayor Swanston and he is willing to wait up to this date.

"As I have already mentioned, the Board of Education is very anxious to obtain possession at an early date so we will expect to have peaceable possession at that time."

Says Letter An Agreement

Mr. Corkery argued that this was clearly an agreement between the two parties to allow Mr. Hughes until the 21st. He also said that Hughes had no way of knowing the workmen were acting for the city and might have appeared as trespassers to him.

Mr. Huycke said that in his letter "possession" specifically meant possession of the house. He mailed the letter before news of the "drilling" incident reached him.

Judge Smoke, however, ruled that he was bound by the exact wording of the letter, and by it the city "had waived even the right to enter." And he refused to make an order at the present time.

Mr. Huycke and T. J. Carley, KC, solicitor for the Board of Education, agreed that not much reliance could be put on Hughes' word despite the undertaking of Mr. Fair.

Homewood Ave., from Albertus Ave. to the westerly limit of lot 20, estimated cost $680; charge to corporation $320, to be paid for at $70.37 a year for five years.

Steele Ave., 28 feet, from Cameron St. to Riverside Drive, $1,632; charge to corporation $784.80, at the annual charge of $172.59 for five years.

County Farm Notes

By HARRY THEOBALD

Cheese Industry Folds Up at Warsaw After 65 Years . . . Poultry Sessions at Y.M.C.A., March 20, Morning and Afternoon . . Warble Fly Inspectors' Meeting Thursday, March 29 . . . Beef Bull Sale, at C.N.E., March 21.

After 60 years of making cheese, farmers in the Warsaw area of Dummer township are going out of the business entirely this season. Neighboring Warminster plant closed its doors a year ago, and the patrons of the Warsaw factory are now preparing to sell their equipment.

That leaves in Peterborough county as remnants of a once dominant branch of the dairy industry: Pine Grove factory, northeast of Lakefield; Killarney north of Norwood; Daisy D, west of Norwood; Trent Bridge; probably Selwyn; and there is also the Silverwood factory at Indian River.

"Our farmers have always been more interested in beef cattle," said Fred Crowe yesterday, "but they milked their Shorthorn cows as well as the dairy breeds. They will be switching more than ever this season to beef.

The Warsaw company of producers was organized in 1895, but it had operated privately a few years previously. It is closing this season because of the shortage of milk. The low price of cheese last year was discouraging to everybody. Probably any surplus milk here this year will look for an outlet in the fluid milk market of the growing city of Peterborough."

George Elliott's Retrospect

George Elliott of Norwood, for years county director on the Ontario Cheese Producers' Association, recalled his own experience of years ago when he used to collect 3,000 to 4,000 pounds of milk from seven to eight producers in a circuit of three miles. "And, two trips on Mondays."

"Some stands would have 800 to 1,000 pounds of milk to be picked up," Mr. Elliott said. "Today, you'd drive 40 to 50 miles by truck to collect the same quantity of milk, approximately 4,000 pounds. There is obviously something wrong with the industry when you have to go that far.

"Scarcity of labor and heavily increased costs, with the attractive wages paid in cities like Peterborough, are factors in this change. The average age of occupant farmers today is 60 years.

"The lone farmer at that age is not worrying any more about volume of production. He is just doing what he can, and trying to look after himself. That is apparently what everybody else is doing."

Cheap Labor—Cheap Food

The days of cheap labor, and consequently cheap food, are ended and possibly for a long time, Mr. Elliott said.

"Children on the farm used to be a big help as they grew up. Most of them today head for the city. The hired man has just about vanished completely. Two men on a farm, the owner and helper, used to be able to do nearly as much as three individuals. Farmers will understand that.

"If the urban economy has attracted most of that farm help, and it has, and the attraction has been largely in wages, then the consumer cannot expect to have it both ways, big wages and cheap food.

"That, briefly, is the story, as I see it."

In Spite of Machines

Even mechanization of agriculture cannot substantially intervene in that transformation, Mr. Elliott said. It has helped, but it has been forced upon the lone farmer to enable him to stay in business as best he can.

"No one regrets the decline in the Ontario Cheddar cheese industry more than I do," Mr. Elliott remarked. "It is a great food, and I think it is now being appreciated more than it has been for many years. The British export market was the standby for our farming for a long time, but the prices of the last few years took the heart out of a lot of our factory patrons."

PROF. CAVERS AT BRIGHTON

The average Canadian ate more eggs than ever before, Prof. Ross Cavers, head of the poultry department of OAC, told the Northumberland poultry producers at Brighton last week. Only thirty members attended. Ralph Banbury, agricultural representative in Northumberland, comments that it takes tough times to bring out the eggmen. A year ago when eggs were about two cents each, the annual meeting was crowded.

Prof. Cavers said there was a 15 per cent excess of chickens in 1949, and farmers had become rusty in their thinking under the controls of previous years.

His graphs showed high production in Canada during March, April and May, and low volume in the three fall months. "It was lucky that hatching took some of the eggs in the spring period, but the most important factor is the year behind us proving that storage eggs, well kept, cannot be told by the housewife from new laid ones. The storage of eggs at the floor of 38 cents did much to keep the market supplied, and our people well fed.

In previous years, 25 per cent of our eggs had been exported and none had been stored since 1941. Exports to the United States have been substantial, and the fact that our production is about 8 per cent lower now than last year makes a satisfactory picture if everybody keeps on doing a good sound business with the numbers they can now handle."

Prof. Cavers said that storage eggs had kept the spread between producer and consumer to around 13 cents a dozen, but that before storage was done sometimes a dozen eggs cost the buyer 26 cents more than the farmer received. He saw little change in feed prices as the Board was controlling marketing, and the vast amount of cheap feed in western Canada would be spread over the years at about present prices.

In the sphere of experimental work an interesting point was given out to the effect that chicks did better on old litter that was dry than on clean new material. This was apparently because birds received immunity by picking up small amounts of germs and did well, while month old birds raised in batteries died quickly when put on the same litter.

Northumberland officers for this year were elected as follows: President, Cecil Archer, Brighton, RR 2; vice-president, Will Newman of Norham; secretary, James Bird, Codrington; directors, Blake Smale, Baltimore, RR 1; Will Hircock, Cobourg; K. Hoecke, Campbellford; J. H. Kaiser, Colborne, RR 2; C. G. Knox, Norham.

12,000 AT LONDON FAIR

Ten bushels of registered Abegweit, a new variety of oats, brought top price of $77.50 at the Middlesex Seed Fair in London, Ont., last week. The first prize 10-bushel lot of Larain oats was bought for $70 by Middlesex Seed Co. Total attendance was 12,000, sale of seed grain amounted to $15,000, and more than 600 entries were counted.

Higher prices for dairy products due to the lack of increase in milk production were forecast by J. M. Bain of the dairy branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

"Exceedingly bright" prospects for the egg and poultry industries this year were predicted by E. R. Hooey, federal poultry products inspector for the London area. Potatoes were described "as one of the few products still on speaking terms with the dollar bill" by J. J. Johnston, district fruit and vegetable inspector for the Canadian Department of Agriculture.

BEEF BULL SALE

Entries from 147 of the best beef herds in the province are listed for the show and sale March 20-21 at the CNE, Toronto.

Livestock Commissioner W. P. Watson advises farmers they should try to attend on both days. This sale offers 286 animals. Judges will place them in three groups. The first will consist of bulls considered suitable as sires in purebred herds. The second includes bulls rated desirable for use in commercial beef herds and the third will include any animals entered which are not considered desirable and hence are culled.

Mr. Watson says the combination of financial assistance offered by the Ontario Department of Agriculture and the high salvage value of old or undesirable bulls when sold for beef makes it possible to obtain a really good bull for a low cost.

SIX BROTHERS SHOWMEN

Grand Champion livestock showman at the OAC Royal, the student body's famed show, was R. J. Stewart, RR 4, Bolton. His father is a breeder of pure bred Ayrshire cattle, and the son is attending OAC on the Morrow judging scholarship which is given at the Royal Winter Fair for the best all round junior farmer judging in Ontario. He has five brothers, all of whom have shown at the Royal Winter Fair, Toronto.

WANT HIGHER PREMIUM

Retention of rail grading was the subject of one of the resolutions passed by the Ontario Hog Producers' Association at their convention last week. It was believed that live grading as sought by western farmers would lead to lowering the standards the industry has established.

The association is also proposing an increase in premium on Grade "A" hogs to encourage production o ftop quality carcasses. A differential of $3 per cwt, should be provided over Grade "B," according to this proposal.

It was also suggested that carload lots be reduced from 16,000 to 12,000 lbs. "to make the market journey more comfortable"; that import of live hogs from the USA be prohibited because of prevalence of hog cholera in some sections of that country.

AUSTRALIA'S GOLDEN FLEECE

Government officials estimate that Australian wool will earn about $300 million in the current fiscal year, or three times the 1949-50 figure of $120 million.

Estimated to produce approximately $248 million for the 12 months ending June 30, 1951, the Australian Government's 20 per cent tax on the income derived from sales of wool during December 1950, the first month of the tax, is reported to have realized approximately $967,000.

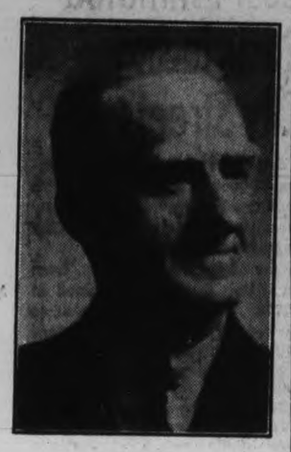
WESTWOOD FORUM



"Salary is not everything" was the opinion of Westwood Farm Forum discussing the Rural School teacher topic broadcast Monday night. The members met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Post.

It was considered that salary of the rural school teacher was comparable with urban schedules, and if the school buildings and equipment are adequate, and the social life of the community satisfactory, many teachers prefer to teach in country schools.

"We would not expect our teacher to take part in community affairs more than any other responsible persons do, but we would encourage her, as well as other newcomers, by inviting them to take part and welcoming them."

"This Forum suggests that even one-teacher schools should have at least two rooms—one for regular classroom work, the other for such things as hobbies, manual training, etc. This would be particularly valuable where there are visiting manual training and music teachers."

Next Monday's meeting will be at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eric Pulfer.

New President

F. A. EASON

An Otonabee Township farmer was elected president of the Farmers Union Mutual Fire Insurance Company at a meeting called for that purpose in the head office, Lindsay. Frederick Alexander Eason, of R.R. No. 1, Keene, was elected president to succeed the late Bruce McNevin.

Mr. Eason is very well known in the company, having been a director since March 25th, 1927. A graduate of the Ontario Agriculture College, Guelph, Mr. Eason operates the farm on which he was born in Otonabee Township. He is a former reeve of that township. He is an organizer, commissioner and secretary of the Otonabee Municipal Telephone System. He is also president of the Keene Co-operative Shippers Limited. This co-operative was one of the pioneers of the rail grade shipping of livestock in Ontario

Besides Mr. and Mrs. Eason at their farm home is one son. Another son was killed overseas with the R.C.A.F. in World War II.

GRAND CHAMPION in the class for showmanship of horses at the OAC Royal was Mr. A. G. Anderson of South Monaghan, son of the late Alfred Anderson and Mrs. Anderson. The family home is on the Middle Line between Centreville and Bailieboro. The "Royal" is an elaborate show planned and staged by the student body. It was formally opened last week by the Hon. T. L. Kennedy, Minister of Agriculture. Mr. Anderson is taking the two-year associate course. Its members made almost a clean sweep of the livestock showmanship prizes. The exception was with sheep.

THIS PUREBRED HOLSTEIN, Calamity Fayne Piebe, bred and owned by James A. Farm Extension Service Forum Subject March 19

Farm Radio Forum turns its attention Monday March 19 to the extension services which have been set up to assist in promoting the basic industry of farming. They include federal and provincial departments of agriculture, agricultural colleges, university extension departments, the extension agencies and interest of commercial firms, farm magazines, National Film Board, one of the newest branches.

The Forum Guide this week quotes H. R. Hare, who has spoken to local farm groups, from his book "Farm Business Management." "The best farmer is something of a machinist, blacksmith, electrician, carpenter, geologist, engineer, architect, psychologist, accountant, business man, veterinarian, chemist, laborer, bacteriologist" and so on.

In its general scope, this extension work in Peterborough or Lethbridge, for example, endeavors to present to farmers the newest information pertaining to their affairs from research laboratories, experimental stations, and also from the findings of practical farmers. Even new legislation is included.

This service was conceived around 1907 by a man in Texas, and about the same time in Ontario by Dr. C. C. James who was minister of agriculture in 1912. This province was early in the field, and the results of the whole network of enterprise have long been apparent in the status of the farmers of Ontario in their industry and in all the aspects of their citizenship.

Initial Skepticism

Time has raised up a generation of farmers to whom the academics of their industry are fully accepted, in contrast with the attitude of their grandsires, most of whom looked upon their place in the community through a blurred perspective Largely because they underestimated their own importance in the nation, they were frankly skeptical of such a new fangled institution as the Ontario Agricultural College, its professors and the young men they took under their wings as students That change in recognition of values was slow in getting under way, but present day farmers and their sons regard the whole scheme of extension for them as an efficent and practical partnership. There are still indifferent exceptions, but their number steadily declines.

The local office of the extension branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture reports approximately 6,000 callers in a year, 3,000 letters sent out, and around 4,000 telephone calls. Several thousand bulletins are mailed and the number of circular letters is in the neighborhood of 18,000.

An important affiliate in the Ontario extension service is the Crop Improvement Association, represented by branches in nearly all the counties. The work of some of the commodity groups reaches into the field of extension. Agricultural fairs should not be excluded from that company. In fact hundreds of farmers assist in the broad program of experiment and co-operation that is known in today's agriculture as extension.

Warble Fly Meeting

Briefing of the warble fly control campaigners will take place at a meeting in the office of F. C. Paterson, Thursday March 29 at 1.30 p.m.

Reeves and members of the councils of the townships that have decided to give battle to this pest are being invited with their clerks and anybody else wishing to attend.

Speakers will be R. H. Graham and Ed Starr of the Ontario Livestock branch, and Prof. J. W. Baker of OAC who will describe the life history of the warble fly.

Inspectors who have been appointed in the Peterborough area will be ready to take the field after this conference. It will be followed about 3.30 p.m. by a spraying demonstration on a farm near the city that has not yet been selected.

7 Million Yearly Subsidy Suggested By Commission To Ease N. Ontario Costs

OTTAWA, March 16. (CP) — A subsidy estimated at $7,000,000 a year was recommended Thursday by the Royal Commission on Transportation to help meet the cost of the railway "bridge" between east and west across sparsely-settled Northern Ontario. It was the only new cash aid to transportation proposed by the Commission, which rejected all requests made to it for other new subsidies or for enlargement of existing assistance of this kind.

The east-west subsidy proposal was made to the Commission originally by the United Farmers of Alberta Co-Operative, Ltd., which declared it was justified on the ground Canada is a country of two areas of civilization separated by a relative "economic desert" along the northern rail line.

The Commission suggested the subsidy could be used to lessen the burden of freight rates for the west.

It was not proposd specifically that rates over the 550-mile bridge would be slashed by $7,000,000 a year, but the money would go into the railways' general revenues as part of a general plan for equalizing the impact of rates in east and west. The rates now are higher in the west.

The commission said the Northern Ontario east-west link is a long stretch of territory which originates little revenue traffic. The report said that the cost of maintaining this portion of the trans-continental system should be charged to the treasury.

Would Relieve Railways

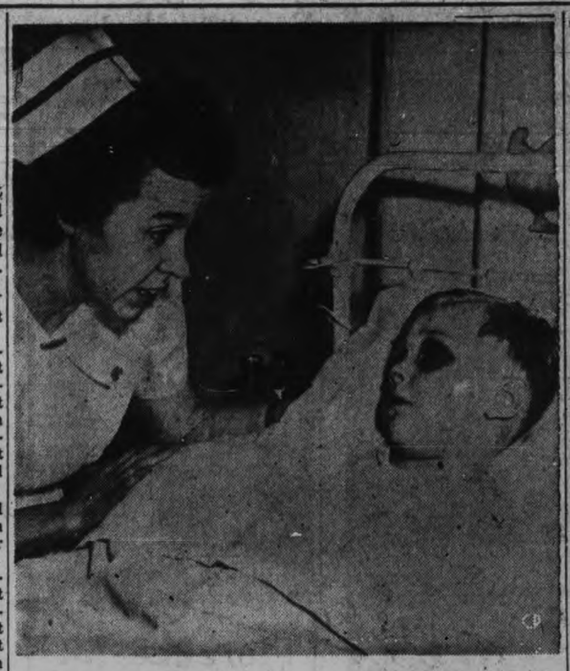
This, said the commission, would relieve the railways of a liability for which they have to recoup themselves by means of relatively high freight charges on through traffic crossing over the "bridge" between east and west.

Basis of the subsidy, as outlined by the commission, would be the maintenance costs—that is, the expenses of keeping up the lines rather than operating trains—of the Canadian National Railways and Canadian Pacific Railway in the region north of Lake Superior.

Major subsidy proposal to be rejected by the commission was that of the Saskatchewan government, which had advocated two forms of government assistance to hold down the impact of freight rates regionally.

One called for an extension to the Prairies of the principle of the Maritime Freight Rates Act of 1927, under which the treasury pays for 20-per-cent reductions in the freight charges on some Maritime rail movements.

Cost About 40 Million



Saskatchewan's proposal would have cost an estimated $40,000,000 a year compared with about $9,000,000 in the Maritimes.

The second Saskatchewan request was for a system of "deficit subsidies," under which the rate-regulating board of transport commissioners would have been empowered to recommend subsidies instead of higher freight rates if the railways were faced with inadequate revenues.

Of the first proposal, the Royal Commission said Saskatchewan had failed to make out a case for it.

Dealing with the "deficit subsidy," the commission said it would create an "intolerable relationship" between the Transport Board and the government. It would weaken the board's position and create pressure on the government to prevent increases in rates.

The commission also looked into the federal government's subsidy on the movement of feed grains to farmers but made no recommendation on it, calling it a direct subsidy to industry rather than a transportation matter. Some organizations had asked it to recommend that the subsidy, now decided upon from year to year by the government, be placed on a permanent basis.

HELP FROM BOSTON—Three-year-old Cary Lynn Brown is encouraged by nurse Vivian Lien of Moose Jaw hospital after he was given an emergency injection of fibrinogen, flown from Boston. Cary is suffering from a condition which prevetns the blood from clotting and bleeding can not be controlled. Doctors feared internal bleeding might be fatal. The youngster was said to be "slightly improved" after the injection of the blood clotting agent. He entered hospital with tonsilitis and the blackening of his eyes was one of the first signs of the blood ondition.

Legislature Has Hot Session

TORONTO, March 16 (CP). — The longest session this year of the Ontario Legislature was marked by frayed tempers as wrangling continued in study of the estimates for the Department of Education.

The House rose at 1.50 a.m. after almost 10 hours of deliberation. Most of the time was devoted to consideration of estimates. The Legislature approved $5,747,000 in proposed Municipal Affairs Department expenditures by 10.30 a.m. Then they went on to consider estimates for education.

Premier Frost accused the CCF of "obstruction." In reply, CCF leader, E. B. Jolliffe insisted on the right of the opposition to question in detail every item of the estimates of the important department.

When the sitting finally ended, only $5,176,100 of the $63,271,000 in education estimates had been passed.

Stands On Rights

Mr. Frost had suggested the House could clean up the education estimates if it wanted to, but Mr. Joliffe insisted that members should be able to ask all the questions they wanted on such an important subject as education spending.

Mr. Jolliffe accused the government of always bringing up education estimates late in a night sitting and then attempting to rush them through.

At one point, the opposition had more members in the House than the Progressive Conservatives and Mr. Joliffe snatched the opportunity to move adjournment.

However, the government whip rounded up enough members to give the Conservatives a majority before a vote could be reached on the motion, and it was dropped.

Budget Inaccurate

A. A. MacLeod (Lab.-Prog., Toronto Bellwoods) charged that the budget presented by Premier Frost last week showed "gross inaccuracy in budget forecasts amounting to irresponsibility, and financial legerdemain to meet the political expediencies of the moment."

The Communist member said that since 1948, the Premier's budgets had shown a difference of $67,500,000 between forecast and actual surpluses. Total forecast surpluses totalled $24,500,000 while actual surpluses were $91,750,000."

Mr. McLeod forecast a surplus of between $25,000,000 and $30,000,000 in the 1951-52 fiscal year, as against the Premier's forecast of $7,750,000.

He urged that budgets be approved by the provincial auditor before presentation to the House so that "we could be satisfied that we are dealing with a reliable financial statement and not the propaganda of the party in power."

Small Child Injured Running Between Cars

Four-year-old Richard Keating, was struck and knocked down by a car as he ran between two other moving cars into the path of William Frank Hopkins, 492 King George St., driving north on Park St. Thursday afternoon.

The youngster was taken to the Clinic and examined by Dr. Robert E. Pow before he was released. He had cuts on his head and on his left ear.

Hopkins said as he was driving north near Braidwood on Park St., there were three cars travelling toward him in the opposite direction.

He saw the youngster run from the west curb between two of the cars and in front of his car. He was struck by the right headlight. The boy got up and was taken immediately to the Clinic.

The child is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Keating, 496 Brioux Ave. Constable Douglas Stark investigated.

Strike Almost Over

BARCELONA, Spain, March 16 (AP). — Catalonia's three-day general strike against high living costs appeared about over today. The biggest of several scattered groups still away from their jobs Thursday night were 2,000 workers in the textile centre of Manresa. During the violence two persons were killed, many were injured and more than 200 demonstrators were arrested.

Times Editor Dies

NEW YORK, March 16 (AP).—William Arthur Macdonald, 82, night editorial page editor of The New York Times, died Thursday. He had been active in his work until last summer, when he became ill. In 1929 Macdonald won a Bookman prize for the best story of the year, his account of the funeral of Negro actress Florence Mills.

Jolliffe Raps School Program

TORONTO, March 16 (CP). — CCF leader Jolliffe Thursday night criticized in the Legislature a CBC school program which he said gave a sketch of Premier Frost and mentioned the provincial budget presented last week.

"I know a vote-catcher when I hear a vote-catcher," said Mr. Jolliffe.

The opposition leader said health grants and the proposed provision of free school books were among the budget items mentioned on the 15-minute program broadcast over an Ontario network Thursday morning.

The question was raised during consideration of education department estimates. A total of $5,176,100 of the department's total $63,271,000 estimates were passed in a sitting that lasted until 1:50 a.m.

The program, Mr. Jolliffe said, was prepared in collaboration by the CBC and the department of education. He said he had been unable to get copies of the text of the program from either the CBC or the department.

Education Minister Porter replied that the school broadcasts had been presenting a series on important men. "Apparently there was a demand to hear about this great man."

"The Prime Minister is not improper subject matter for a radio script," Mr. Jolliffe replied, "but when that is done the script should be handled with care."

Mr. Frost said he had not heard about the broadcast until Mr. Jolliffe raised the question. He promised to provide a copy of the script.

Little Tricks Will Brighten Your Wardrobe For Spring

PARIS, March 15 —(Reuters)— With the first ray of sunshine, every woman in Paris looks for some new touch to freshen her winter wardrobe. The famous fashion houses have numerous suggestions to help her in her search.

Pierre Balmain takes a chiffon handkerchief, sews a posy on one corner and tucks it between the button fastening of a suit. Or a dickie, covered with chiffon flowers, is used to fill the decollete.

For the girl who prefers fresh flowers, a spray pin is built with a metal ring through which a real flower may be slipped.

Dior's jewelry has an antique look. Daintily worked bow-knot brooches or cut-out initial pins in rhinestones are worn on lapel, shoulders, hips or pockets. Turquoise and mock diamonds are combined to form double strand chokers, earrings or bracelets—but the settings all have an heirloom quality.

A long plaid scarf is tied round the sleeve, just above the elbow of a black silk dress. The streamers float down to the knee introducing a gay touch.

An umbrella with a walking cane handle and a slit to hold gloves is practical.

Jacques Griffe uses bees as the theme of his collection. They are interpreted in topaze or turquoise and rest on the ear, sting lapels, or perch on a large diamond flower pin. Another feature in this house is steel jewelry for sport clothes. Novelties include steel buttons and steel tubing inserted on kid belts.

Piquet introduces a fresh touch to a slim, lined wool dress by tucking a well-starched, white hem-stitched handkerchief into the belt. The white touch is repeated many times with Eton collars closed with a self-fabric flower or on suits with wide lapels covered in white pique.

In Madame Schiaparelli's collection large round buttons have dainty flowers on a dark basis, under transparent plastic. These buttons are found closing a suit in graduated sizes.

Colors are daringly mixed. Peacock blue, olive green and shocking pink or sunshine yellow go with orange.

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, March 16 (AP) Gloria Swanson, Bette Davis, Jose Ferrer and "All About Eve" are winners of this year's Award awards.

What—you don't know what an award award is? It's simple. It's the award that goes to those getting the most awards. In this award-happy town, that's quite a distinction.

The awards for film performance came from far and near with these total results:

Bette Davis ("All About Eve") and Gloria Swanson ("Sunset Blvd.") tied for honors in the female division, with four awards apiece. Also, they tied for a fifth award with Judy Holliday ("Born Yesterday"). That was the Associated Press poll of Hollywood correspondents.

Miss Holliday had another award of her own, and single honors were also scored by Betty Hutton ("Annie Get Your Gun") and Eleanor Parker ("Caged.")

Had Scant Head

Jose Ferrer ("Cyrano de Bergerac") had a scant lead in the scattered male division; he boasted three awards. He was followed by two apiece for James Stewart ("Harvey"), Alec Guinness ("Kind Hearts and Coronets") and Gregory Peck ("12 O'Clock High"). One apiece went to Sam Jaffe ("Asphalt Jungle") and John Wayne ("Sands of Iwo Jima").

"All About Eve" was a runaway winner for best picture award, snagging seven. "Sunset Blvd." followed with three, "Battleground" one and "Born Yesterday" one.

All the awards are outcrops of the big, main sweepstakes—the Academy Awards, which are still supreme. They are always the last to arrive and this year the date is March 29.

15 Mill Tax Rate For Asphodel

NORWOOD, March 16 (ENS) Asphodel Township's 1951 tax rate has been set at 15 mills, two mills above the 1950 rate of 13 mills. This was set at the March meeting of the Township Council.

Seven mills are required for roads, seven for municipal purposes, and one mill for relief.

At the meeting, Bruce Warr of Westwood was appointed inspector for warble fly treatment in the township. The township has bought a sprayer for the treatment and for weed control. Cattle spraying is expected to start early in April.

flat on one's face

"Know-how" is a popular phrase in these times — the western nations' industrial know-how is said to be their greatest hope. But it is not enough to know how to do a job. Doing it is what counts. Between knowing and doing there are usually a surprising number of opportunities for falling flat on one's face.

The textile industry in Canada, of which Dominion Textile is a part, has been practising for over a century to avoid falling flat on its face. While learning its job and doing it, the industry has become the largest employer of manufacturing labor in Canada and the payer of the largest manufacturing wage bill.

Fitting Children For Life Should Start In Infancy

A MOTHER writes: "I have three small children. What shall I teach them?" Well, after you have taught them to fear God, keep the Commandments and wash behind their ears, the next most important thing to teach them is good manners, which are the open sesame to all the doors in life through which they will want to pass. Good manners will carry one farther than looks or money or talent. They are a letter of credit that the world honors at sight. They form our first impression of every individual we meet and attract or repulse us. By a stranger's manners we make a snap judgment of his breeding, birth, background, social status, education, character, disposition and the kind of mother he or she has.

Dorothy Dix

Of course, sometimes we are wrong. Manners are not invariably an idex to the soul. There are rough diamonds who possess all of the major and minor virtues, but a hurrying world hasn't the time to polish them up, so they get passed by, and unless they have the most phenomenal brilliance, their worth is never recognized.

Start In Infancy

So begin in the cradle teaching your children good manners. Teach them how to eat, how to enter a room, how to speak, what to say and how to say it, how to pull out a lady's chair, how to help an old woman get in and out of a car. It is trouble to make Johnny use the right fork when he wents to pig it. You have to tell Sam a million times not to speak with his mouth full; not to wear his hat in the house; not to neglect a thousand little courteous observances. It takes line upon line and precept upon precept and being everlastingly on the job to teach children good manners.

A famous psychologist once estimated that it requires five years' hard work to teach children good manners, but in the end great is the mother's reward. She has given her children the greatest charm they can possibly possess and she has laid the foundations of their success.

Next, teach your children how to get along with other people. On our ability to smooth the fur of our fellow creatures the right way and make ourselves persona grata to them depends our happiness in life. Popularity isn't the reward of vanity. It is what makes us or breaks us. People will do things for us because they like us that they wouldn't do for us to save our lives. And, if they dislike us, they will pull us down every time we get a foothold on the ladder of success.

Most mothers are by way of thinking that if a child has a cantankerous disposition there is nothing that can be done about it. It is just too bad that Johnny always quarrels with the other children and every game he is in breaks up in a row. And Mother sighs instead of getting busy and making Johnny play fair and give and take, and not assume the right to run the whole show.

Don't Raise a Misfit

I have known any number of competent men and women who could never hold a good job because they could not get along with the other employees. I have known many professional people whose careers were wrecked because they were always saying or doing something to offend their best clients. And we all know that at the bottom of every unhappy marriage is the wife or husband who has never learned the art of getting along with people.

Then teach your children how to take it. Life isn't easy for any of us. Every job is hard and discouraging, but those who have the courage to stand up and fight and who come up smiling after every rebuff of fortune always win out in the end. It is the whiners and the complainers and those who throw up their hands and quit when the sledding gets difficult who are failures.

Teach them to finish what they start. Make the baby finish its bottle. Make the toddler complete his block house. Teach your children a pride in doing good work and never lying down on their jobs. You can't down the man and woman who have patience and grit enough to stick to the thing they have undertaken. The failures are those who flit from one thing to another and do nothing well.

Teach your children these things and you will have fitted them for life.

Debutantes Adopt Old-Time Styles

LONDON —(CP)— Debutantes facing their first social season this year are setting their own dress fashion.

With a disapproving eye on the slim skirts shown at recent fashion displays, they have adopted the crinoline of the 1800s—with all the ribbons, frills and lace worn by their great-great-grandmothers.

Materials also follow the trend of 100 years ago. There are muslins, shot taffetas, embroidered organdies and satins. Trimmings will be yards of pleated and twisted ribbon, insertion lace and embroidered scalloping.

Head-dresses also follow the vogue of a century ago—a small diamond tiara with ostrich feathers curling over the ears.

Dressed Up Fish Dishes Make Hit With Family

By KAY REX

OTTAWA, March 16 —(CP)— "Friday—fish" may have a familiar ring to those observing Lent.

But it need not spell boredom. With a bit of initiative and imagination the homemaker can transform the weekly fish dinner into something the family will look forward to.

In fact she may even find herself being asked for fish when it isn't Friday. And eventually she may discover that the more fish she uses the more she's doing herself and family a triple service, because:

1. Seafoods have all kinds of nutritional value, supplying calcium, phosphorus, iron, iodine and vitamins.

2. The better known seafood—such as salmon—usually is an economical buy and several cents a pound below the current price of beef.

3. Every time the housewife buys a piece of salt cod, a pound of salmon, she's doing her bit toward helping Canada's fisheries.

Speaking of salmon, here's a recipe using canned salmon which makes a good supper fish these blustery March days.

Salmon Souffle

Ingredients: 1½ pound canned salmon; three tablespoons margarine; four tablespoons flour; one-half teaspoon salt; one-half teaspoon celery salt; one-half teaspoon paprika; one cup milk; one tablespoon finely grated onion; one tablespoon lemon juice; four eggs (separated); one-quarter teaspoon cream of Tartar.

Drain and flake salmon to measure one cup. Melt fat. Stir in flour, salt, celery salt and paprika.

Gradually add milk and cook, stirring constantly, until mixture is medium thick. Remove from heat and add onion and lemon juice.

Beat egg yolks with rotary beater and add to mixture. Fold in salmon.

Beat egg whites until foamy. Add cream of Tartar and continue beating until stiff but not dry. Fold into salmon mixture.

Pour into 1½ quart casserole and place in pan of hot water; bake at 350 degrees Fahrenheit from 50 to 55 minutes. Serve immediately.

Fast Dessert

If you're looking for a hurry-up dessert, try this lemon pudding some time. It's an easy-to-make a trifle as you can find anywhere.

Cream one cup sugar, one tablespoon butter, two tablespoons flour, juice and rind of one lemon, one cup milk, two egg yolks.

Before putting in buttered baking dish fold in the two egg whites. (Beaten).

Bake in a pan of water one half hour. The pudding comes out with a sponge top and custard filling.

Says Facts Not Opinions Needed To Help Youngsters

Guidance as a phase of education was the topic of the address given by Mr. J. Howard Moebus, director of career planning at PCVS, at the YWCA, Thursday afternoon. Mr. Moebus was guest speaker at the Local Council of Women's meeting.

"Our work is with young people in school, helping them to grow up into mature adults; to get the most out of school and to participate in the activities offered," stated the speaker.

He outlined the two phases that students pass through during their attendance at the Collegiate—youth and adolescence. In the first stage, students are still completely dependent on parents and teachers for decisions and opinions. However, at 15 a breaking-away from this dependence begins. Behavior becomes somewhat inconsistent. At times they wish to be treated as adults, but often will not accept adult responsibility and still lean on their parents and teachers.

"Our job is to provide not dictation, but accurate and up-to-date information for these young people when they have problems," Mr. Moebus stated. "Not opinions, but facts."

The speaker continued by explaining the various types of guidance that his department in the Collegiate offered to the students. The first is occupational information, which includes facts about various occupations. Intricate reports of the progress of the students are also carefully studied to measure abilities and aptitudes.

Problems within the school itself are also studied such as inability to get along with teachers. Many of these problems are met by talking the situation over with the student and helping him to meet a decision in his own mind after the facts have been presented to him.

"Our department has a private counselling office and has nothing to do with the discipline of the school," Mr. Moebus concluded. "It is the service centre of the school and we want young people to make use of that service."

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. E. Chambers and thanked by Mrs. Harold Rehill.

Mrs. W. D. Morton was in charge of the meeting in place of President Mrs. W. C. Steinkrauss who was ill.

Plans were discussed for the annual spring tea to be held April 12. A motion was passed that the executive be in charge of the tea.

A donation of $10 was voted to be given to the Grenfell Mission in Labrador.

The regent of the Municipal Chapter, Mrs. G. Hall, asked all members to attend the annual meeting of the Municipal Chapter, March 28. The next meeting will be held April 11.

Mrs. E. Edmondson New Group Head

The Baby Band Mothers of Trinity United Church held their Easter meeting in the church parlors Wednesday. Fluffy bunnies, tiny chicks and African violets and daffodils decorated the room.

The program was in charge of Mrs. R. G. Kemp's group with Mrs. Kemp presiding. Mrs. D. Miller read the scripture and Mrs. K. Kemp led in prayer. Miss Jones, of the Salvation Army, sang a solo accompanied by Mrs. C. Smith, of the Salvation Army. Mrs. Fraser, a new member, was welcomed and introduced by the president, Mrs. Eric Edmonson, who presided for the remainder of the meeting. Mrs. Arnold Noftail showed a very attractive book display from the Women's Missionary Society's Library and discussed the books. Tickets were given out for the annual blossom time tea to be held May 2. Reports on recent presbyterial meetings were given by Mrs. Russell Philp, Mrs. Bill Taylor and Mrs. Art Legon.

Mrs. W. Parnall, Salvation Army, was guest speaker. She gave an encouraging talk to the mothers, using as her theme the scripture verse "Take this child away and nurse it for me and I will give thee thy wage." She was thanked by Mrs. J. Lillico.

Mrs. K. R. Kemp was accompanist for the remainder of the meeting. Refreshments were served to approximately 50 members by the group in charge.

Mrs. J. N. Wood Conference Head

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Tea Biscuit Recipe Proves Popular With Many Cooks

QUESTION: Reluctant to ask you again for your very special prize-winning tea biscuit recipe. I am aware it was published recently but unfortunately missed it.

I am referring to the one with cream of tartar being used.

Enjoy your articles very much; find them helpful and interesting. Keep them coming. T. M. S.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I'll keep on with this until every reader of my column that wants it has clipped it. I like it that well and certainly hope the young cooks are quick enough to realize what a prize it is. It is not my recipe—just my find—so I do not hesitate to boast about it.

Biscuits Supreme

Two cups unsifted flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon cream of tartar, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons sugar, one-half cup shortening (best quality) (or butter or margarine for special occasions), 2/3 cup milk. Sift all of the dry ingredients together, then cut or rub the shortening into them. Add all of the milk at once and stir until just mixed. Pat and roll out on lightly floured board to one-half inch thickness. Cut out with floured biscuit cutter. Bake on ungreased pan at 450 deg. Fahr. for about 10 minutes.

✧ ✧ ✧

QUESTION: I think your column is wonderful. I love to bake nice things to eat and my family and neighbors love to eat. So I am always so thankful for any new tried and true recipes.

I am having wonderful luck making the brown bread by the recipe from your column.

I use————Whole Wheat Vitamin B flour. Also if I am short of milk sometimes I use potato water for the liquid. The only time I boil potatoes is when I want the potato water for bread. All the rest of the time I steam them and all vegetables the waterless method.

Now, I know you are simply swamped with orders for recipes, but sometime soon when you can would you please either print in the paper or send me a recipe for the other kind of butterhorns. Not the kind made from bun dough but the kind that are flaky, something like they were made from some kind of pastry. I have never seen this recipe anywhere and we just love those kind. Thank you. Mrs. P. F.

ANSWER: I think the Butterhorns you are referring to are made with Danish pastry—and while this is made with yeast it does give the effect when baked, of being a flaky pastry.

Try these anyway—they are delicious, and may be made up in endless variations. Anyone who loves cooking like you do will be glad to know how to make Danish pastry.

✧ ✧ ✧

Danish Pastry

One-half cup scalded milk, 2 tablespoons soft butter, ¼ cup sugar, 2 beaten eggs, ½ teaspoon vanilla, rind of ½ lemon, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 yeast cake or 1 envelope granulated yeast, 1 cup sifted cake flour, 2¼ cups sifted bread flour, ½ cup cold butter or margarine of butter and margarine mixed. Pour hot milk over the 2 tablespoons butter and ¼ cup sugar. Add beaten eggs, vanilla, salt and lemon rind. When lukewarm add the yeast mixed with the sugar. Stir and let stand 10 minutes. Stir until yeast is dissolved. Gradually add flours which are sifted together, to form a soft dough. Turn out on floured board and knead for 5 minutes. Place in greased bowl, brush with melted fat, cover tightly and let rise until doubled. Turn out on board, knead again about one-half minute then let rise until doubled.

Divide ½ cup cold butter into 2 parts. Roll twice-risen dough into rectangle 6x12 inches. Distribute one-half of the cold butter over 2/3 of dough in small pieces. Fold unbuttered dough over half of buttered dough, and fold remaining buttered third over this. Seal edges, place on platter, cover tightly, chill 1 hour. Roll out to rectangle 8x14 inches. Distribute remaining butter over exactly as above; fold and roll exactly as above. Chill.

To Shape the Horns: Cut one-third of dough off and roll thin to 8x14 rectangle. Brush with melted butter. Cut into 4 wedge-shaped pieces. On each place spoonful of mixture (enough for 4) as follows, at largest end: Mix ½ cup sieved cottage cheese with 1 teaspoon lemon rind, ½ teaspoon vanilla, 2 teaspoons flour, 2 tablespoons sugar and one-half of an egg yolk. Mix very well. Roll up each "horn." Brush top with melted butter. Place on ungreased baking sheet with open end down and let rise until very light—at room temperature about 2 hours. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for about 18 minutes. Remove from baking sheet, cool. Frost with plain icing if desired.

If these are not the rolls you mean please let me know.

London Gets Paris Styles At Good Price

By MURIEL NARRAWAY

LONDON —(CP)— Many of Britain's wage-earning women, smartening their wardrobes for this year's Festival of Britain, will be wearing model clothes designed and labelled by such French houses as Jacques Fath, Paquin, Piquet, Carven and Desses.

For instance, any typist or shop-girl might go to work in a multi-colored printed cotton dress having slim skirt, fly-panel front, neat shirt collar and short cap-sleeves with diagonal buttoning accentuating a raglan shoulder-line.

The buttons, completely business-like, hide a well-disguised bolero that can be removed, leaving a collared halter neck and back bare to the waist.

Designed at a cost of 50 guineas ($157.50), this dress will be sold on Britain's home market this summer for £6 16s 6d. ($20.45).

Cost Cut

Day and cocktail dresses, suits and coats, each designed individually by one of the five famous French designers at an original cost of anything from 37 to 79 guineas, will be reproduced at a third less of the original cost.

The difference in price is made possible by an affiliation between leading French designers and a British departmental-store partnership. Under the plan original French designs, not included in the couture fashion collections, make their debut on the racks of British stores, at prices acceptable to the average pocket.

Carefully Copied

Produced by the Couturiers Associes, these clothes are so minutely copied even fashion press and buyers find it hard to tell copy from original—unless they get a close-up of materials and finish.

At a recent fashion show, the first since the star of the association last October, designs displayed all the Paris chic—with none of the fantasy. The line is basically good and fundamentally plain. Interest lies in the French flair for smartly-draped scarves, neatly-placed bows, draped handkerchiefs and smart sashes.

Severely-cut wool business dresses in black and navy are transformed completely by addition of colored, stiff silk scarf-stoles and cheeky April ties.

Speaking on the success of the new venture, Marcel Dhorme, formerly of the Chambre Syndicale de la Haute Couture, and one of the moving spirits in the association, said: "Our aim is simple. We want to bring French couture prices within the range of the average woman."

Referring to the simplicity of design in the recent showing, Dhorme added: "The couturiers are artists but at the same time business men. Eccentric clothes make their publicity, but their everyday livelihood is in the simple little Parisian dress or suit, becoming and easy to wear."

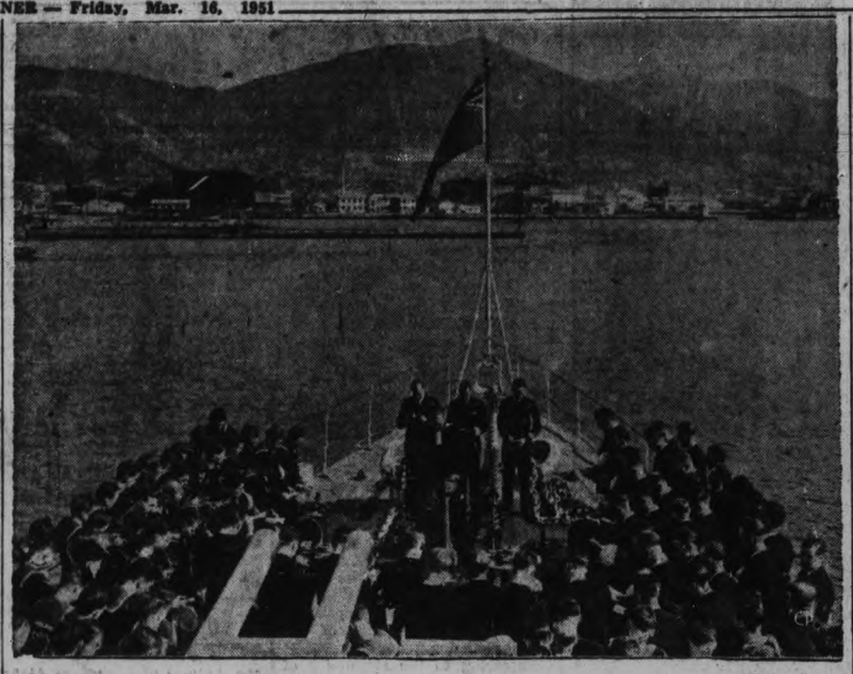
Reject Pleas For Railway Amalgamation



OTTAWA, March 16 (CP). — Railway amalgamation in any form was rejected in the report of the Royal Commission on Transportation tabled in the Commons Thursday.

The Commission said it found "no reason whatever to recommend either unification, amalgamation or public ownership of all the railways."

Chief demand for amalgamation had come from the government of Prince Edward Island, which told the commission during its inquiry that public ownership of the railways would be the best means of solving Canada's transportation problems.

The Socialist CCF government of Saskatchewan did not go this far but suggested the commission undertake a study of amalgamation with a view to learning whether it would be beneficial.

The commission said the reasons advanced against unification by the Duff Royal Commission on Railways in 1932 are just as cogent today. One of the main reasons given by that body was that the establishment of a monopoly of such magnitude would place in the hands of those responsible for its administration powers that would, if not properly exercised, prejudice the interests of the country.

DIVINE SERVICE— Assembled on the forecastle, the crew of H.M.C.S. Athabaskan participates in church service as the ship lies at anchor in a Japanese port. Conducting the service is Chaplain Horatio Todd of Ottawa and Halifax. Three officers in centre background are: Cmdr. R. P. Welland of Victoria, commanding officer of Athabaskan, left; Capt. J. V. Brock of Winnipeg and Vancouver, commander of Canadian destroyers in Far East; and Cmdr. T. S. R. Peacock of Quebec City, the Athabaskan's executive officer.

Propose Wide Changes In Canada's Rail-Freight Rate Structure

OTTAWA, March 16 — (AP)— Widespread changes in Canada's railway freight-rate structure were proposed in the report of the Royal Commission on Transportation tabled in parliament Thursday.

The changes are aimed primarily at ironing out inequalities and "discriminations" against various sections of the country, which largely prompted the 1948 provincial government demands for creation of the commission.

Major recommendation on rates was for a country-wide plan of "equalization," designed to set up a scale of basic freight charges as nearly uniform as practicable for all areas.

This was a primary demand of the four Western provinces, which have been contending for years that the general scale of their rates has been above that of Ontario and Quebec and that this hit them particularly hard because most of their rail traffic has to be hauled over long distances.

The equalization proposals require some legislation. The commission also recommended that they be worked out in stages by the railways and the Board of Transport Commissioners, the federal agency regulating the railways.

Certain Exemptions

An additional part of the equalization plan was that long-haul traffic and shipments of basic commodities be exempted from the full effects of any general rate increases.

This was a demand of the Maritimes and the West, which had urged that general percentage increases on this type of traffic be tempered by the imposition of certain limitations as is done in the United States.

The effect would be that when a general increase was awarded the railways, the board might order it to be limited to a maximum of so many dollars and cents per ton on the type of traffic to be partly exempted.

The railways had opposed this policy before the commission, but the report said it was incorrect for the railways to assume that all freight could bear an equal burden of increase under all conditions.

Across-the-board percentage increases, the commission said, disturb established relationships between various forms of traffic and aggravate disadvantages of those who ship and receive freight over long distances.

Up To Railways

The commission said the remedy was in the hands of the railways themselves, which should study traffic conditions and, when they are looking for more revenue, present the board with varying percentage increases or dollars-and-cents increases as might be best suited to different forms of traffic.

If the railways did not do this, it was the duty of the board to see that they did.

(In the series of post-war cases, the railways asked for and got general percentage increases of 21 and 20 per cent. Only exceptions were coal and coke, which were on a cents-per-ton basis. An application for a general five-per-cent increase now is before the board.)

The commission marked up another win for the provincial governments in turning down a proposal by the Canadian Pacific Railway for legislation for a new rate-making set-up based on the financial structure of the CPR.

CPR Suggestion

The company asked that its rail property investment be used as the basis for rates, with the board setting them at such levels as would give the company a spcified rate of yield on its investment. This "rate-base, rate-of-return" method is used for some public utilities.

Under the existing method, the CPR is used by the board as the "yardstick" line for rates but these are made on the basis for the company's periodic financial requirements under a formula devised by the board.

Turning down the CPR proposal, the Royal Commission said it would be impossible to set up a statutory "floor" on rates based on a return to the CPR. Further, it would be unfair to "fetter" the board by such statute.

The CPR also sought a recommendation that parliament should take away the right of appealing to cabinet from decisions of the board, but the commission turned that down.

It proposed a recommendation concerning appeals to the Supreme Court of Canada from board judgments. This would have a Supreme Sourt judge—rather than the board itself — determine whether an appeal involves a question of law on which a case could be carried to the court.

MP's Walk Out On Long Session

LONDON, March 16 (AP)—For the second time in two days Labor Party members marched out of the House of Commons today, protesting Conservative all-night sniping tactics aimed at catching Labor off base in a surprise vote.

But the Labor members marched back when the Tories, during their absence, stirred up a hot debate embroiling the speaker, Douglas Clifton Brown.

A Conservative member pounced on Clifton Brown after he made an error in announcing the vote on a minor bit of legislation on civil aviation. He charged Brown was not maintaining the strict independence required by his office.

Labor retains power by a slim majority and fears a sudden vote on a major issue might catch it with a minority showing. That would bring on a general election.

Thursday night 100 Labor members demanded the closing of the bar in the House after 10 p.m. to make all-night sessions less attractive.

Permits Withheld

HONG KONG, March 16 (AP) — The British freighter Hangyang arrived from the Communist Chinese mainland today without 12 to 15 western missionaries who had planned to make the trip. Passengers said Red officials had withheld exit permits.

GIFT FROM NETHERLANDS—Gen. H. D. G. Crerar, who commanded the Canadian Army during the liberation of Holland during the last war, unveiling the painting "The Two Water Mills," by the 17th century artist Meindert Hobbema, at a ceremony in the Hall of Fame of the Parliament Buildings. The Netherlands ambassador to Canada, A. H. J. Lovink, right, said he hoped the masterpiece will continue to hang in the Hall for centuries as a tangible symbol of the lasting friendship between Canada and Holland.

Handcraft Shown At WI Meeting

HAVELOCK, March 16 (ENS)—A handicraft display was a feature of the Thursday meeting of the Belmont Women's Institute at the home of Mrs. Randal Vansickle. Those whose exhibits were judged to be best were: first, Mrs. Clarence King; second, Mrs. Ketchen; third, Mrs. W. Cornell. These ladies will enter their exhibits at the handicraft display at the district annual meeting in Lakefield on May 29. Judges were Mesdames R. Robinson, D. Kirk and W. M. Platt.

Mrs. Clarence King, leader of the Belmont Girls' Club, exhibited two costume slips made by members of that organization and which will be displayed on Achievement Day to be held in Peterborough.

The Belmont Branch went on record as favoring a fund sponsored by the Women's Institute to be used for making awards for special acts of bravery similar to one now sponsored by a large brewery.

A donation of $5 was made to the cancer fund.

Mrs. W. Peters suggested that a copy of all reports sent to district annual meeting be kept on file for discussions and to have a more detailed account of the activities. This was adopted.

Mrs. G. Gawley and Mrs. R. Vansickle were conveners for the program which commenced with the former giving a report of a meeting she attended in Toronto.

Mrs. A. Robinson gave a demonstration in the making of artificial flowers. Mrs. W. Anderson moved a vote of thanks to Mrs. Robinson. Mrs. G. Wright sang a solo with Mrs. D. Kirk as accompanist; Mrs. George Newton gave a short reading "In the heart of a bulb is a promise of spring." Two solos were sung by Mrs. W. Peters and Mrs. Platt at the piano. Lunch was served.

Want No Change In Rail Labor

OTTAWA, March 16 (CP). — The Royal Commission on Transportation Thursday recommended no change in the way the railways and their employees negotiate differences.

In its report tabled in parliament, that was the commission's reply to some scattered suggestions that closer supervision might be kept over wage increases to rail workers.

The question was given a chapter in the report, obviously prompted by the 1950 rail strike and subsequent wage settlement that has sent the railways to the Board of Transport Commissioners in search of a new freight-rate increase.

The commission said it would be a "grave mistake" to have the board—which regulates the railways—take part in the fixing of wages. If it had to deal with this "extraneous" question, it would be impossible for the board to perform adequately its duty of fixing just and reasonable freight rates.

Condition Unchanged

MOOSE JAW, Sask., March 16 (CP).—The condition of Gary Lynn Borwn was reported "about the same" at Providence Hospital Thursday. The three-year-old boy had been in danger of bleeding to death internally because his blood wouldn't clot. A supply of clot-forming chemical was flown from Boston last week.

Wanted Talk About Family So Woman Visited Doctor

TORONTO, March 16—(CP)—Mrs. Olga Neporany Thursday swore that she had never misbehaved with Dr. Peter Kir of Peterborough, who is accused of stealing her love.

Her husband, Josephat Neporany, is suing Dr. Kir, formerly of Toronto and Windsor, for alienation of her affections.

Defence counsel Sydney Harris asked Mrs. Neporany why she visited Dr. Kir in his room on Toronto's Richmond Street.

"I wanted to talk to him about my family in the old country," Mrs. Neporany replied.

"Did you do anything else besides talk to him?" she was asked.

"No," she replied.

Mr. Harris then asked her whether she wished to be questioned along lines which might tend to show her guilty of adultery. She agreed.

"Did you and Dr. Kir have sexual relations on Richmond Street?"

"No."

"Did you have sexual relations with Dr. Kir anywhere?"

"No."

"At any time?"

"No."

In reply to further questioning, Mrs. Neporany said she was living with her husband and her husband's brother when her twin daughters were born.

Husband Very Cruel

"How did you get along with your husband at this time?" "He was very cruel to me. He beat me up."

Mrs. Neporany stated her husband told her the twins did not belong to him.

"Who was the father of the twin girls?" "Josephat Neporany."

How did you and your husband get along as regards his brother?" Witness remained silent for some time.

"Don't you wish to answer that?" "I don't wish to."

Mrs. Neporany said after she left home on April 22, 1949, she went back again for one week in June of that year.

"Why did you go back?" "The doctor (Dr. Kir) told me to go back."

"Why did you leave after one week?" "Because I didn't want to live with both men."

"What do you mean by that?" Witness did not reply.

"Why did you go to Windsor?" "I was scared to stay in Toronto because my husband beat me up."

"Did you see Dr. Kir in Windsor?"

"Yes."

Mr. Justice Wells: "Why Windsor?" "I don't know why."

Earlier, while Dr. Kir was being cross-examined by Peter White, appearing for Neporany the doctor was asked how he knew when Mrs. Neporany arrived in Windsor, and stated he went to the station daily because he had friends arriving from Europe.

"Do you suggest that you met Olga Neporany accidentally?" "Yes."

Mr. White then handed to Kir what was later identified by another witness as a registration card of the British American hotel in Windsor. Kir admitted staying on one occasion at the hotel.

No Woman With Him

"Did you have a woman with you?" "No."

"Are you prepared to swear there was no woman with you on the 25th of August at the British American hotel?" "Yes."

"I want you to be very sure." "Yes."

"Then why does it say 'Dr. Kir and wife?'" "There was no woman with me."

The judge interrupted to ask Kir why when he was living at 1540 Ellesmere St., Windsor, he had to sleep at the hotel.

"Because I was in town late at night and didn't want to wake the people at Ellesmere," Dr. Kir said.

"I suggest to you that Olga and you were living as man and wife together every night," Mr. White continued. "No".

"Who was paying for Olga's meals?" "I was. She had not a cent. She had no clothes."

The case took a surprising turn when Mr. White introduced the transcript of evidence given under oath by Olga Neporany at a hearing in 1950 before Mr. Justice Gale, of a suit brought by her against her husband for non-support.

Mr. White read a number of questions and answers contained in the transcript and Mrs. Neporany denied having made many of the answers attributed to her. She denied having said she lived with Dr. Kir in Windsor for three weeks or that she admitted at that time she was in love with Dr. Kir.

"I notice you are not wearing a wedding ring, Mrs Neporany." Mr. White said. "When did you stop wearing it?" "My husband took away everything."

Mrs. Neporany was then shown the hotel registration card.

"When you were living at the Drake Hotel, did you do Dr. Kir's laundry?" "Once or twice."

"Why were there two dirty pillow slips?" "I always sleep on two pillows."

"I put it to you, Mrs. Neporany, that you and Dr. Kir were living together as man and wife both at Drake House and at 1027 Oulette Ave." "No."

Mrs. Katrine Deriwriz testified that Dr. Kir came to live at her rooming house, 1540 Ellesmere St. Windsor, Aug. 15, 1949. He slept there every night, she said.

Reginald Keegan, assistant to the proprietor of the British American Hotel in Windsor, identified the card previously shown to both Dr. Kir and Mrs. Neporany as one of the hotel's registration cards. He identified Kir as the man who signed the card.

"Was this person alone?" Mr. White asked. "No, he was with a lady."

"Can you identify her?" "Not as definitely as I can identify him."

It is expected the case will go to the jury today.

Oil Conference

WASHINGTON, March 16 — (AP).—George McGee, assistant Secretary of State, is due in Teheran Saturday for conferences with Ambassador Henry F. Grady on the situation arising out of the Iranian parliament's decision for nationalization of the country's oil resources. The McGee-Grady talks undoubtedly will greatly influence the development of American policy in this issue. Officials hope that whatever step Iran takes will not deny Iranian oil to the markets of the west and will not play into Russia's hands.

Approve Draft Bill

WASHINGTON, March 16 — (AP).—The House of Representatives armed services committee by a 32-to-3 vote Thursday approved a bill for drafting youths at 18½ years and setting up universal military training later. Chairman Carl Vinson (Dem.Ga.) said he will ask the House rules committee to set the bill for House consideration April 3. The committee refused to limit the size of the United States' military force.
